INTRODUCTION

After nearly fourteen years of research and preparation it is timely to halt the growth of this history and to get it into published form to the end that the many members of the family who have been interested in its development may get some pleasure in perusing it. The work is not complete and it is doubtful if any genealogy of this scope could ever be called finished. There are many avenues of search that might be followed further, but whether sufficient new knowledge to warrant the effort could be gleaned is problematical. Certainly such further study would involve both extensive travel and time. Since the passage of this latter might well jeopardize getting the work into published form at all, it has seemed more desirable to stop the search at this point. The writer hopes that some other person, or persons, may in future time pick up and follow some of the unfinished ends.

Throughout all the period of preparation there has been kept constantly in mind the two classes of readers who may have the interest to use this history. First, there are members of the family, those descended from Henry Merrow of Reading or affiliated by marriage. Secondly, there are those students of genealogy who may be working on the histories of other families, or attempting to develop pedigrees.

To aid the former this history has been divided into chapters. By selecting appropriate divisions it will be quite easy for each family member to learn about his own background without attempting to read the whole book. In many of the chapters some historical matter depicting the life, customs, and events of the times has been introduced to provide a background for better understanding of the lives of the family members of the period involved. Much more effort has been put on developing the records of the female side of the line than is frequently the case in genealogical publications.

To aid students of genealogy care has been taken to trace, wherever possible, each family member at least one generation into other families. In this way connections can be made for those seeking to pursue pedigrees, or to trace the course of those who married into this family.

Appreciation is due the very many members of the family, both by descent and marriage, who have aided greatly in gathering and supplying information. Acknowledgement, too, is made of the splendid help which came from numerous persons, not of the family at all, who have been interested in local history in many places or of genealogical matters in general and who have generously given their effort and information. Grateful thanks are given to those people in the historical and genealogical libraries and in the records offices in many States for their helpful cooperation. To name all these people here would make a very long list indeed and mar the brevity of this foreword. Their names are to be found in the record of sources for each chapter, listed in the Appendix.

Apology is made for the errors that will have crept in to rest, who knows where, in the many pages that follow. These mistakes will have come by reason of conflict of dates and spelling among authorities and reporters, by way of incorrect information supplied in good faith to the writer, and by way of the many times it has been necessary in the course of preparation to copy and recopy the subject matter.

Chapter I

THE NAME MERROW

The origin of the name, in the opinion of the writer, is a matter of speculation in which one person's opinion is worth exactly as much as another's. Someone, sometime, somewhere may find a solution to the mystery of its origin, but the writer of this family history has known of no way within the scope of his research possibilities to find its source. How much of a mystery is the name's beginning will be apparent when one reflects upon the history of the first bearer of the name in America and upon the illiteracy of his time.

Perusal of the first few pages of Chapter II will bring the reader figuratively with the original American Merrow from the Highlands of Scotland, where Gaelic was spoken and English not generally understood, to New England where the scribes knew English but not Gaelic. Subsequent pages of that chapter and other chapters trace the history of his descendents down to the mid-twentieth century, but add nothing to the clarification of the name's beginning.

That the first Merrow here could not sign his name is an important factor in speculating about the name's development. Since he could not sign his name, it is reasonable to suppose that he could not spell it for others. As a matter of conjecture, could it be that the English-speaking clerks applied to the name he gave them the equivalent in English spelling as it sounded to them and as their backgrounds of experience suggested? How common it was for men in the mid-seventeenth century, as well as for a considerable time later, to be unable to write is clear from a report by Dr. A. Warren Stearns: "Tradition, as well as a good deal of evidence, tends to show that the early settlers of New England, while in the main of the middle class of England at that time, had a generous sprinkling of university trained men. The task of digging a living from the soil, hewing lumber from the forests, and getting substance from the ocean, took the best physical effort of the ever-increasing population.... Relatively few people could read and write.... As late as the American Revolution many companies of soldiers from New England had no one who could write, beyond making his mark.

During the years the writer was engaged in research for this history the possibility that the name might be found today in Scotland was an intriguing thought. It was so found. There were two people named Merrow then living near Glasgow, where they were born. Both were persons of education and so situated they would undoubtedly have heard of other people by the same name in Scotland had they existed in any number. Both these people were known descendents of Henry Merrow of Reading by way of an American Merrow who migrated from America to Scotland and settled in Glasgow. From them it was learned significantly that they had never encountered the name in all their lives anywhere in Scotland. It seems likely if this were an established Scottish name in 1650 there would be at least some people of the name there now, or who had been there in the intervening centuries. That the name had not been found lends support to the theory that Merrow is not a Scottish name, but a corruption of one.

Late in the years of search into the family history the Scots Ancestry Research Society of Edinburgh became interested in the question of the origin of the name Merrow. This society stated that the name was not Scottish, but did suggest it might have been a corruption of another name, such as Marr (often spelled Marre) or Merrie, saying further, "Merrie, or Merry, is a Scottish name found almost exclusively in Ayrshire or Lanarkshire. The origin of the name is not now known, but its local character suggests an origin from some Ayrshire place-name, now obsolete. 'Professor Black in his 'Surnames of Scotland' lists the following instances of the appearance of the surname Merry in Scottish records-'Thomas Mirrie was bailie of Ayr, 1607, Elizabeth Mirrie is recorded there, 1656, and William Mirrie was "execut in ye grass-mercat fir murder in 1682. John Mirrie was writer in Edinburgh, 1686, and Mr. Thomas Mirrey was schoolmaster at Wandel, 1712.' "

The original records of the town meetings of Reading included the name Merrow many times. It was spelled Merrow in every case. Close study of the first half a hundred deeds in which Merrow individuals appeared either as grantors or as grantees revealed a diversity of spelling. The very first deed showed the name as "Marrow" and the first court record had the spelling "Merre". Other spellings were Morrow, Merow, Merry, Merrey, Mery, and Merrow. The double "r" was usually to be found, however the name varied otherwise from the form Merrow. Elsewhere than in the deeds early spellings were Mero, Marow, Mearow, Meary, Meroe, Merowe, and Merrows. Confusion with the name Merrill, so common in the twentieth century and found by the middle of the nineteenth, was not revealed at all in the early years, even though the name Merrill was to be found in earliest times in close proximity to the Merrow family in New England.

The names Mero and Merry were troublesome ones both in searching old original records and in the records of later years, especially in Maine. While individuals clearly of the Merrow family were sometimes called Merry, it definitely does not follw that all of the name Merry are of the family Merrow. Only one branch of the family whose name in modern times is Merry has been traced to Henry Merrow of Reading. That is the branch which centered in Edgecomb, Me. In very early records in Boston there was encountered the name Merow, which at first looked like another form of the family name. The Merow name was also spelled Mero. This inference was completely erroneous and none of that name have been found to be of the family Merrow. Numerous people of the Mero name appeared in records in Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New York State, and particularly in Maine.

As literacy increased in the early days of this country the spelling of the name Merrow became fixed in that manner. Of all descendents of Henry Merrow only two groups diverged from that form. These were the Merry group of Edgecomb, Me., and the Marrow group, also of Maine. Pronunciation of the name Merrow as used by long departed members of the family can never be recalled. Today most members of the family pronounce the name with the accent on the first syllable. So far as known only one branch accented on the last syllable, this branch being centered in Lancaster, N.H. Purely as a matter of speculation, can it be that this branch is now using a pronunciation like the original usage more than is the usage of the rest of the family? Note that accenting the last syllable of a two-syllable name is an English custom, while Americans customarily accent the first syllable.

That the origin of the family might have been English has suggested itself to quite a number of the family who had performed little search. Their though has come about because they discovered Merrow in England. Merrow is the name of a parish in the Hundred of Woking, County of Surrey. A "Hundred" is the name of a division in each county there. Merrow is about thirty miles southeast of London in the direction of Winchester. About

Merrow in England, Mr. Howard Baugh, historian in Farnham in Surrey, wrote the writer in 1941 as follows: "Merrow is an eccliastical parish situated on the road from Guilford to Leatherhead about two miles east from Guilford station. Under the Surrey Review Order of 1933 it was incorporated in the Borough of Guildford. The Church of St. John the Evangelist there is a building in the Norman later style. It was rebuilt in 1842 and the register dates back to 1536. Population of Merrow in 1931 was 1690 and the area is 1629 acres. The village takes its name from Moor-row, i.e. the cottages on the moor. Another form is Morrow."

"The sumame Merrow has several origins:

1. From the village of Merrow, i.e. a man living there and moving to another place would be known as John of Merrow, or in earlier days as John de Merrow.
2. The sumame Merrow appeared in two forms in the Yorkshire Poll Tax Rolls of 1379; Willemus de Moreawe and Johannes Merowe.
3. Biberius Mero, a nickname meaning a drinker of wine.
4. From the Gailic McMurrock, a sea commander."

Merrow also appears in English literature in the form of a poem by Rudyard Kipling called "Merrow Down".

HENRY MERROW OF READING

1. HENRY MERROW, 1625-1685, born in Scotland in 1625. He came to America as a Scotch prisoner of war in 1650 or 1651, landing in Boston.

SCOTCH PRISONERS DEPORTED TO NEW ENGLAND

Col. Charles Edward Banks delivered an address before the March 1927 meeting of the Massachusetts Historical Society on "Scotch Prisoners Deported to New England". This address showed exhaustive research and excerpts from it are of great importance in showing the background of the pioneer American Merrow and also the seeming futility of trying to trace his forebears in the British Isles. Col. Banks said:

"As an aftermath of the Civil War in England we are indebted for between three and four hundred Scotch prisoners of war, captured at the battles of Dunbar and Worcester, whom (Cromwell) transported to New England as slaves."

"Having defeated the Royalists in England and beheaded the King in 1649, Cromwell proceeded to the conquest of Ireland, where his fanatical 'croppies' spent the following Summer in turning that country into a bloody shambles. Defended or defenseless towns were laid low and his butcheries spared neither the armed or unarmed. The pious Puritanical leader, feeling he had wiped out the hated Catholics for a generation at least, was aroused by a new challenge in his ruthless progress. The Scottish Parliament had proclaimed the youthful Prince Charles, then a fugitive at the Hague, as their King.... This situation created a new menace to the Commonwealth and to Cromwell. With his veterans from Ireland as a nucleus the eager and insatiable 'Noll' gathered an army of about sixteen thousand, of which a third were mounted troops.... He marched his army to Dunbar, a town on the east coast of Scotland, just south of the Firth of Forth.... (General Leslie's) Scottish troops outnumbered Cromwell's army, but they were the undisciplined clansmen of the Highland chieftains unused to war in its scientific aspect.... These 'braw laddies' showed their preference for (the leadership) of the brave Charles over the capped and gowned committee of argumentative Covenanters, who were busy purging the force of 'unbelievers' until they had eliminated all, or most, of the trained soldiers. Then, satisfied that they had an army of approved saints, they demanded that the King retire from the front and leave the direction of the campaign to them.... (They) finally had a 'revalation' in prayer that the Lord of Hosts would deliver Agog (Cromwell) unto their Hands (and) ordered Leslie to attack....from the heights of Lammermoor."

"(Cromwell's) disciplined troops soon showed their superiority over the untrained, but brave, clansmen. Leslie's army was routed and pursued.... with great slaughter. The chief resistance....was made by a regiment of Highlanders who fought with great desperation as they had learned from the conquest of Ireland that Cromwell would put prisoners to the sword and thrust hot irons through women's breasts. Three thousand Scots fell in this disaster, fighting hopelessly to the last. Ten thousand were taken prisoners. About half of the latter were so exhausted by their flight and disabled by wounds that they were released.... The people of Scotland long remembered this debacle as the 'Race of Dunbar'...." The date of this battle was 3 September 1650.

"The able-bodied prisoners, five thousand in numbers, were marched down to Durham and Newcastle-on-Tyne. The Cathedral at Durham was converted into a prison and there these unfortunate Highlanders were destined to spend an indefinite period as captives of war. Their disposition was a problem both from a sanitary and a political standpoint.... Transportation of convicts beyond the seas was an accepted policy of long standing.... The American Colonies were in need of laborers.... On September 19, 1650, the Council sent an order to Sir Arthur Haselrigge, in charge of prisoners, to deliver to Samuel Clarke, for transportation to Virginia, nine hundred of the Scotchmen and one hundred and fifty more for New England, the latter under the charge of Joshua Foote and John Becx of London, who were interested as managers of the iron works at Lynn, (Mass.) A month later Haselrigge was ordered to send twenty-three hundred of these men, Highlanders excepted, to the southern and western parts of Ireland...."

"Sir Arthur wrote to Parliament that 'The prisoners being put into a large wall'd Garden, they eat up raw Cabbages, Leaves and Roots....Which Cabbage (they having fasted, as they themselves said, near eight days) poisoned their Bodies.... Officers who marched with them to Berwick, were necessitated to kill about 30, fearing the loss of all, for they fell down in great Numbers, and said they were not able to march, and they brought them far in the Night, so that doubtless many ran away.... I sent them first to Durham.... I also sent them a daily Supply of Bread from Newcastle, and an Allowance equal to what had been given former Prisoners; but their Bodies being infected, the Flux increased among them.... Cooks were provided, and they had Pottage made with Oatmeal, Beef and Cabbage, a full quart at a meal for every prisoner. They also had coals daily brought them, as many as 100 fires both Night and Day, and Straw to lie upon.... They were unruly, sluttish, and nasty. Those that were sick....had a very good Mutton Broth, and sometimes Veal Broth, and Beef and Mutton boiled together; and old Women....to look to them.... There was also a Physician to let them blood, and dress such as were wounded, and give them Physic...."

" 'Notwithstanding all this many of them died,....some were kill'd by themselves, for they were exceeding cruel one towards another. If any man was perceived to have any Money, it was two to one he was kill'd before Morning, and robb'd; and if any had good Cloaths, he that wanted, if he was able, would strangle the other and put on his Cloaths....' "

" 'The Disease of the Flux still increasing among them, I (arranged to secure for them) Milk which is boiled, some with Water, some with Bean Flower, the Physicians holding it exceeding good for the Recovery of their Health.' "

"Note the death of sixteen hundred men, taken prisoner in a fanatical religious war, within a period of fifty-eight days.... These were men picked by Cromwell as sound and able to travel.... It is a revolting picture of savage cruelty, supplemented by ignorance of elementary hygiene...."

"Three days after the receipt of this letter the Council ordered Sir Arthur Haselrigge 'to deliver 150 Scotch prisoners to Augustine Walker, Master of the (ship) Unity to be transported to New England.... The prisoners were sent to London by water....and (were) well and sound and free from wounds' .... (This ship sailed 11 Nov 1650.) With this human cargo numbering one hundred and fifty souls, sixty of them destined for the Saugus iron bogs, the Unity buffeted the tempestuous, wintry seas of the Atlantic, and as it usually took six weeks to cross in favorable seasons she could not have made Boston harbor before the end of December. No list of these passengers exists.... They suffered from scurvy on the voyage, but how many died is not known. The prisoners remaining after the sixty sent to Lynn, were sold to purchasers willing to pay the price, and were distributed to numerous towns in Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Maine. The prevailing quotation was between twenty and thirty pounds for each man....as payment for their transportation. As the cost of an Atlantic passage at that time was about five pounds it will be seen that the Unity cleared about £1500 on this transaction for her owners."

"As far as known this was the first experience of New England people in this kind of human traffic, and it is apparent that Rev. John Cotton felt the need of making some....sort of plea... in a letter to Cromwell 28 July 1651 (about) this camouflaged peonage, though why he should suppose that Oliver had any qualms about it is a puzzle. He wrote:

" 'The Scots, whom God delivered into your hands at Dunbarre, and whereof sundry were sent hither, we have been desirous (if we could) to make their yoke easy. Such as were sick of the scurvy or other disease have not wanted physick and chyrurgery. They have not been sold for slaves to perpetuall servitude, but for 6 to 7 to 8 years, as we do our owne; and he that bought most of them (I heare) buildeth houses for them, for every 4 an house, layeth some acres of ground thereto, which he giveth them as their owne, requiring 3 days in the weeke to work for him (by turnes) and 4 dayes for themselves, and promiseth, as soone as they can repay him the money he layeth out for them, he will set them at liberty.' "

"(Some of the Scots were deported) to Berwick, formerly a part of Kittery, Maine, where a parish was called Unity Parish, doubtless from the prisoners who were sent there to work in the saw mills of that place, having come to America in the ship of that name... A few years later another lot appeared in the adjoining town of York. The place where they settled and were given house-lots was called 'Scotland', a name it retains to this day. Most of these had been bought by their masters in Dover and Exeter, New Hampshire, and came to York when their time expired."

"After the Battle of Dunbar there was a year of military jockeying for position... A year to a day (afterward) the young King and his partisans... elected to cross swords with Cromwell at Worcester. The same results ensued...."

"More prisoners were at hand for Cromwell to transport to the Colonies. Within two days of the battle the Council at London ordered that all the officers...and every tenth private soldier should be put on trial for rebellion.. (and should) pay the supreme penalty... Further consideration was given to the disposition of these captives and they were finally brought to London... As a result of various proposals an unknown number, perhaps three hundred... were selected for transportation to New England... Becx of the iron works was again interested in this transaction...and the ship John and Sarah was chartered to bring them to Boston... They were consigned to Thomas Kemble ...of Charlestown, a merchant who owned lands in Maine, was a dealer in lumber and interested in saw mills at Durham and Newmarket, New Hampshire ... Captain Greene (of the John and Sarah) probably left the Downes 8 December and with the usual lapse of time necessary to make the voyage in the months of November and December arrived in February certainly before 24 February... He landed two hundred and seventy-two of those taken on board at London, and it cannot be supposed that there were no deaths on the voyage. The usual toll of scurvy must have taken at least ten percent of the total number."

"...All the documents in the transaction, together with a list of names of those prisoners, were recorded in the Suffolk Deeds... This last is not to be accepted as a true record of their correct names. It offers....many puzzles left by the scribe in his attempts to spell out clan names of Gaelic origin, spoken in a dialect that defied reproduction in English. Most of these Scotchmen were unable to write, knew little English and as a result their names have undergone curious transformations... A family on Block Island bearing the name of Tosh were once possessors of the fine old Highland name of MacIntosh. The typical Highland cognomen—Angus—was written Anguish, which might be considered a true description of the mental state of the clerk after struggling with the rolling b-r-r-r of these clansmen."

"This second consignment of human freight found a wide distribution among the towns of Massachusetts and the adjacent provinces, as the story of the first consignment had whetted the envy of those that had failed to procure cheap labor from this new kind of auction block. It had the sanction of John Cotton and that was enough to deaden the New England conscience. They were sold, as before, to planters and mill-owners throughout the colonies in this section."

"(Dover) and the neighboring town of Durham had a number of Scotch prisoners...Exeter also profited... Some...found their way to Block Island...some had worked at Lynn and others at the Branch works at Braintree... It is known that Boston, Charlestown, Cambridge, Dedham, Concord, Hingham, Ipswich, Reading, and Salem became the homes of numbers of them, while there is much probability that a few went to Taunton to work in the iron bogs in that town. A few are known to have gone to Connecticutt, and as far away as New Jersey..."

"It was a good sturdy stock that lent its sterling qualities to the native New England strain, and they rendered good account of themselves in the Indian, French and Revolution Wars... Descended from these men were many distinguished Americans, such as the designer of the frigate Constitution, Oliver Wendell Holmes, and Gov. Frank S. Black of New York."

"They were at first looked down upon as aliens and classed in the public records with negroes and Indians. A Scotch prisoner of New England in 1660 was the analogue of a European alien in 1860."

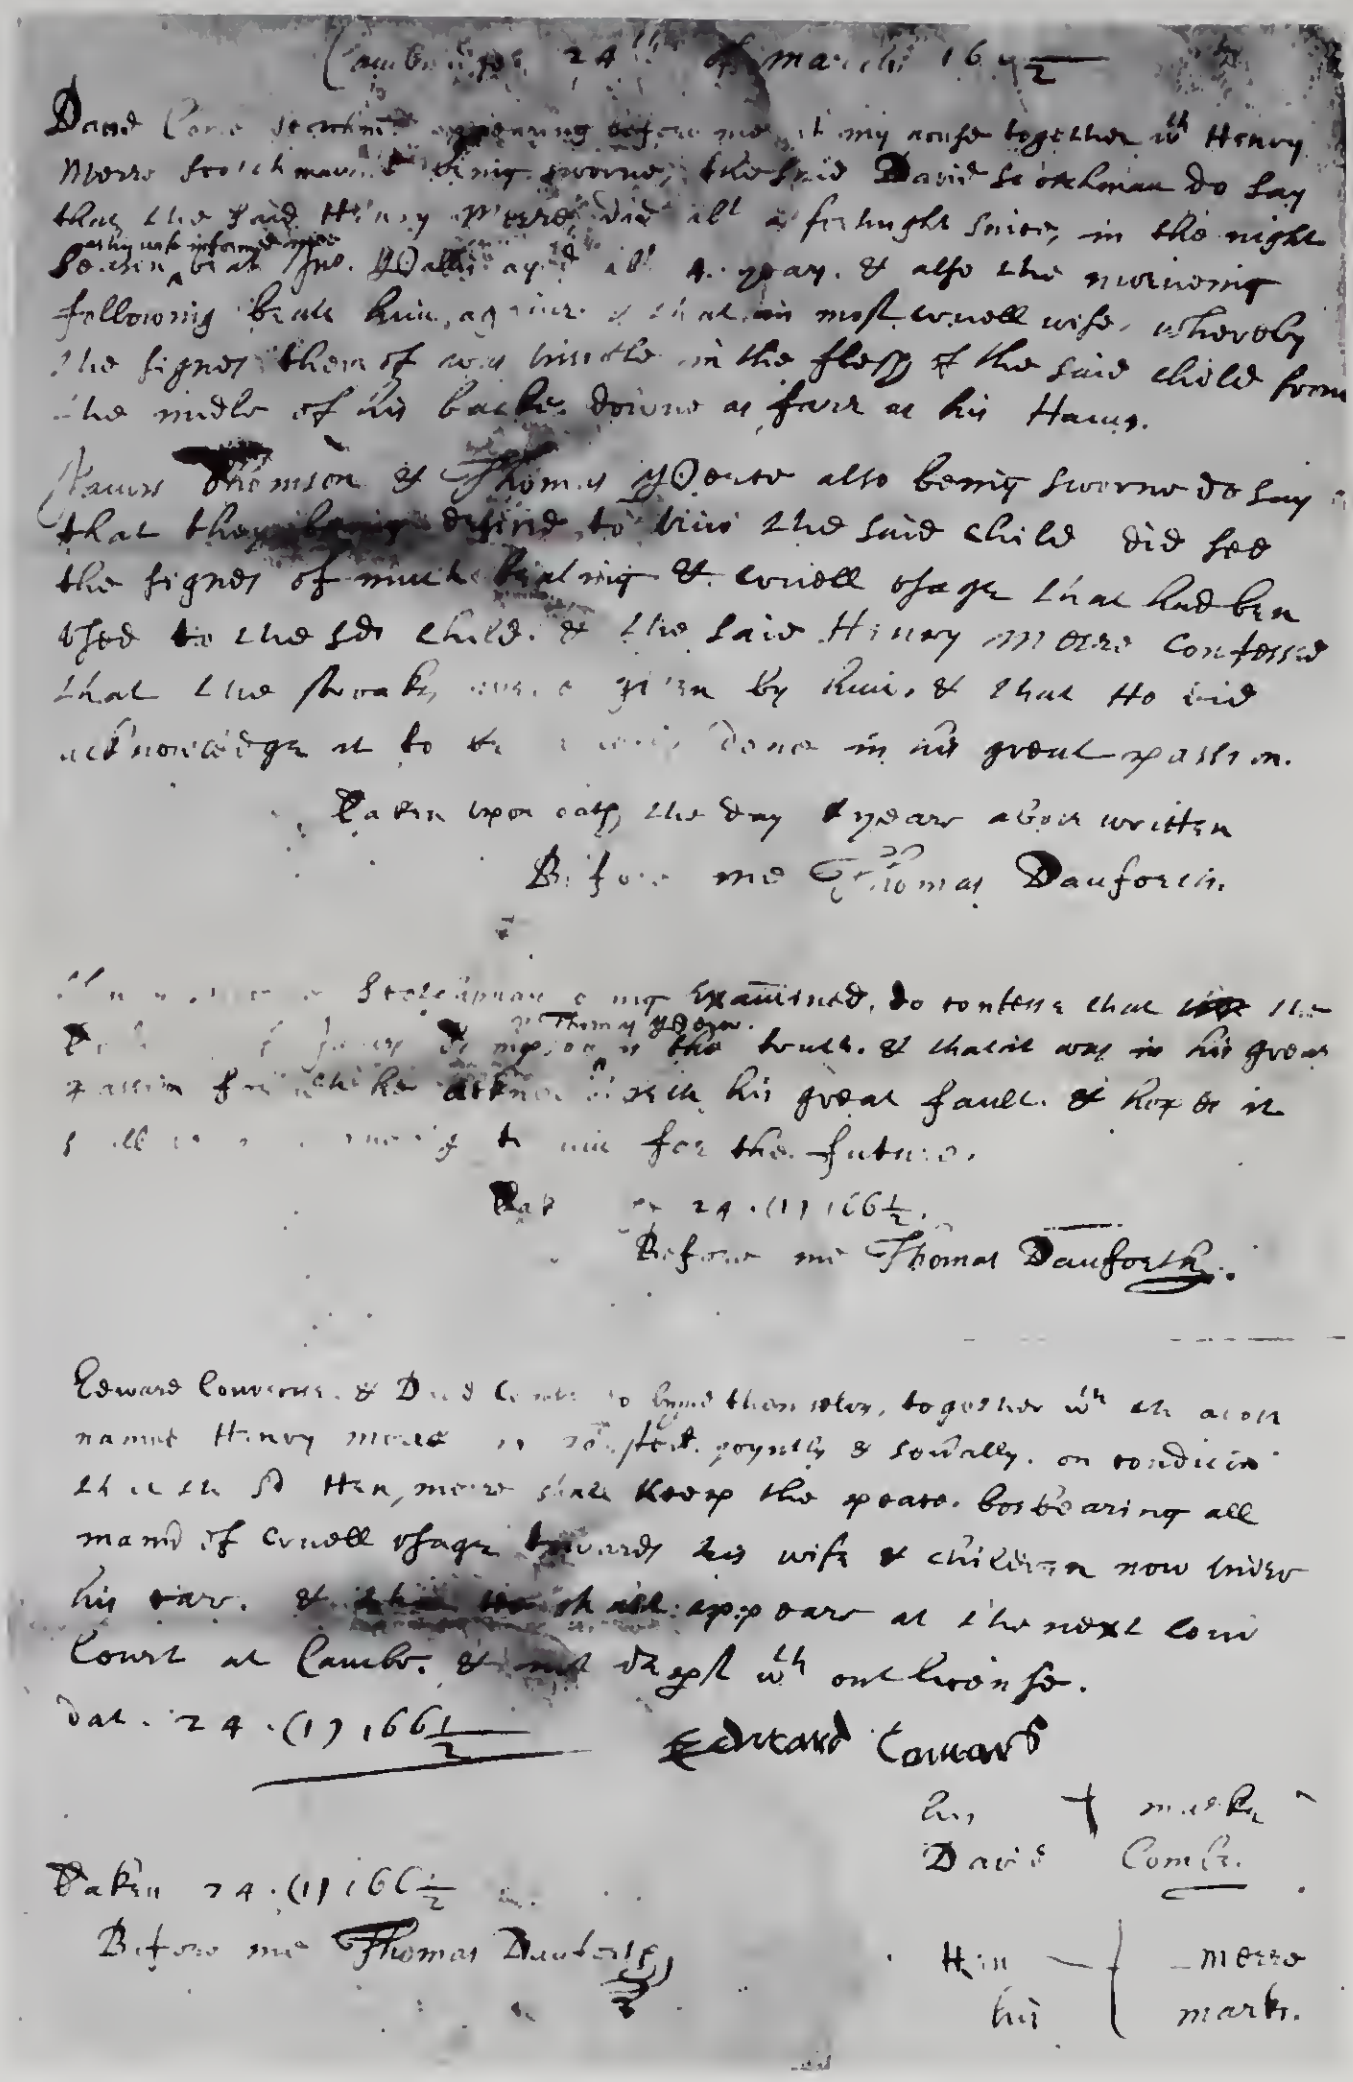
That Henry Merrow was one of these Scotch prisoners is based on considerable circumstantial evidence. That he was Scotch is shown by a court record, a photostat copy of which is included in this record. That he was a prisoner of war was stated in Stackpole-Meserve's History of Durham, N.H. This work has eight pages of detailed history of Scotch prisoners who settled there and further said: "Another son of a Scotchman was Dr. Samuel Merrow, born at Reading, Mass....son of Henry Merrow...(who) was probably one of the Scotchmen sent to Boston in 1651." Whether Henry came on the Unity or the John and Sarah is not known. The latter had a passenger list. No Merrow was listed thereon but there were three prisoners on this list whose names were either unknown or were undecipherable. No passenger list of the Unity is known to exist.

HENRY MERROW MARRIES

None of these prisoners was allowed to marry until he had earned his freedom. Henry Merrow must have earned his before 1661 because on 19 December of that year he married in Woburn, Mass., a young woman named Jane Wallis. Henry was described as "of Redding". Buchnam in his manuscript "Reading Families" said Jane was Irish. Stackpole-Meserve in their Durham history said: "Some (Scotch prisoners ultimately) married Irish maids who had been kidnapped and brought over as house servants and to swell the population of the colonies." Jane was a widow with a young son. About her and her first husband Wyman in "Charlestown Estates" said: "Nicholas Wallis, Scotchman, arrived in the John and Sarah, 1652; (was) servant to Mr. Long, 1655;

Scotch-Boardman House

Built in 1651 to house Scotch prisoners of war brought to this country to work the iron bogs of the Saugus Iron Works in Saugus, Massachusetts, where America's first iron was made. Henry Merrow, one of those prisoners, may have lived there, but no records have been preserved to identify those who actually were lodged in this house.



Above is a facsimile reproduction of the oldest existing family document. It is of interest because of the homely character of the incident depicted. It is of value because it represents documentary proof tending to confirm a circumstantial and colorful story of the origin of the family in this country. To facilitate reading this document a "translation" is given below.

(and) married Jane Lindes in 1655 by order of the Court. Nicholas Wallis was hailed into court by Madame Frances Hopkins of Woburn for frequenting her house where Jane was a servant. Date of this action was 6th mo. 28th day 1655. Nicholas and Jane had one son, John Wallis, born 1657 and who drowned in 1670, age 13. The name Wallis was spelled in various records as Wallis, Wallas, and Walley.

Concerning son John Wallis and husband Henry Merrow the Middlesex County (Mass.) Court records have something to say (see facsimile). "Henry Merre, Scotchman, being bound to this Court to Answer for his cruel beating of John Wallis his wife's child about 4 years old" was bound over to the next Court and gave security to keep the peace. To Henry's credit it must be said that he confessed his error which he said was done in his great passion and for which he felt shame. One of his sureties was Edward Converse, a leading man of Woburn at the time. Never again, records reveal, was Henry in trouble with the law. Henry and Jane apparently overcame this marital storm for they continued to live together and had many children. To add to the confusion of ancient records the Middlesex Probate Court in file No. 23656 has a document which says "administration was granted Hen. Marrow in right of his wife upon the estate of James Wallas" on 17 June 1679, which undoubtedly meant John Wallis, Jane's son.

HENRY MERROW BUILT READING'S FIRST HOUSE

Many towns gave grants of land to these prisoners when they were freed. None was given to him, but by dint of thrift and hard work he gradually acquired a considerable farm as his many purchases of land indicate. That he built the first house in what is now Reading seems to be conclusively proven by searches of original records by two historians. One of these, Mr. L. P. Howard, an authority on Reading's old houses, wrote: "We can be reasonably sure that the first homestead of which there is any record in the limits of the present town of Reading was that of Henry Merrow." The other, Mr. William E. Eaton, in his manuscript history and review of Reading documents, said: "About 1666, more than twenty-five years after the first settlements (in that section of Reading now Wakefield) was the earliest any dwellings were erected in what is now Reading. In the 1667 list of house owners in the town the only name mentioned at 'Wood End', the early name of the Third Parish, was that of Henry Merrow, yet he was taxed in 1666.... It is believed that Henry Merrow's house was the first in what is now Reading."

In 1664, according to Middlesex County records, Henry Merrow bought of George Davis of Reading for £7:5s eleven acres bordering on the West Street of today, bounded north on the common land; northeast on the town highway; southeast by land of Jeremiah Fitch; and southwest by the common lands. (Middlesex Deeds, Book 6, p353). He bought 30 October 1664 from William and Martha Eaton five acres for £10:10s. From Jeremiah Fitch 15 May 1667 he bought 10 acres of upland for £8:12s:6d. This adjoined his first purchase, that from George Davis. Other purchases were 10 acres from Samuel Dunton for £8·3 December 1678 and 30 acres 30 December 1680 from Francis Smythe for £20.

In 1666 his lands were augmented by a town order "that the Great Swamp and all other Swamps that are wett and fitt to make meadow shall all be (divided) quantity and quality considered, to every man according to each ones proportion." Division was made in proportion to the "minister rates" as of February 1666. Henry had paid £1:1s:9d, having been 31st out of a total of 57 "rate" payers. He again shared by a town order of the following year, which order specified that "all the privilages of land, timber, and commons shall belong to the present houses, now erected, and to no other that shall be erected hereafter". Henry's house was one of the fifty-nine already erected in the whole town.

Much local historical research has been done concerning this house and its site. C. Nelson Bishop, editor of the Reading Chronical, and his wife, Eleanor C. Bishop, developed an article which was published in the Tercentenary Number of the Chronicle 17 March 1944. They said: "The land on the town had to change hands a few times before anybody settled on it but there is every indication that the first settlements in the town that is now called Reading were along what was termed in those days a 'highway'. Today we know it as County Road..."

"Henry Merrow is said to have built the first house in this section and possibly the first house in the present Reading. He chose a likely spot for his dwelling, the location being near the settlement in Woburn whence he came as soon as his house was built. This somewhat high and breezy location presented at that time, as it does now, fertile stretches for farm land and orchards, wet areas where one could reap meadow grass, ample sources for water supply, plenty of timber, and field stones for housing and fencing."

"The first owners in this section received their lands from the town in what was known as the second division of town rights. In 1652, the town ordered 'That the Lottes that was to be laid out on the Woburn line, is to be laid out on the Playne, and are to begin at the end next to Birchen Playne, and if the Playne will not be enough for all, the rest is to be laid out in the Pine Playne at Dirty Breech Meadow and to begin at the hither end next to the town.' From various land descriptions we are led to place Birchen Playne in that flat, low area that follows the Boston & Maine Railroad tracks up from Wakefield, crossing Main Street, taking in the neighborhood known as Mudville and stretching toward the Wilmington end of town, taking in a good part of the area between the railroad tracks and Summer Avenue."

"The town records show that some thirty-three proprietors were given land in 1650 and that among them were Francis Smith, Samuel Dunton, Jeremiah Fitch, George Davis and William Eaton. From these five men Henry Merrow bought his first land... And so we can find (him) well situated, with his homestead b etween two range roads which at that time were known as highways. Today they survive as County Road and West Street. His house stood, according to former historians, about seventy rods west of the present junction of West and Woburn Streets. Traces of a cellar hole could be found there some years ago but it couldn't be found now since the Westcroft development (houses) extends over those acres...."

This house passed out of the hands of the Merrow family in 1742. By this time the highway to the east had become prominent and the one on the west a mere bridle path. On this east highway there came into being about 1748 a house, which is now owned by Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Winchester, at 232 West Street. It was then "a small house with a large end chimney. Perhaps it had a lean-to on the back and possibly the rear room is not exactly a part of the original structure... The part which today includes the dining room presents a fine example of early American building. The beams are all exposed to view... We suggest that the kitchen is even earlier than the dining room and was once part of the old Merrow house that stood off in the field... for it is apparently of older construction."

ANCIENT REDDING

Redding, as the older records spelled the name, began to be settled twenty-two years before Henry Merrow and Jane Wallis were married. Until 1639 it had remained almost in its primeval solitude. A few Indian lodges afforded its only evidence of human denizens. This section was first called Lynn Village, being an inland place to which the population of Lynn could spread, and the earliest houses were in that section now called Wakefield. By Henry's time a church had been established; a military company formed to guard aginst Indian attacks; a law passed to fine young men who addressed young women without the consent of the latters' parents; two women hung in Salem for witchcraft; three married women fined for scolding and one man for swearing; Baptists had been prosecuted; and one settler appointed to sell liquor to the Indians. Redding was then described as located "in the center of the country by a great pond side, and not far from Woburn; it hath two mills, a saw mill and a corn mill, and is well stocked with cattell". There had also been an earthquake. Every large landowner had a slave. "Prince Merrow" was the name of a colored slave who seems to have gone into the army as a substitute. King Philip's War was on and later the French and Indian Wars.

Henry was diligent in the homely community affairs. At the Town Meeting of 1 February 1676 he was "chosen to look to the yokeing and ringing of the Swine at Wood End".... "Whereas much damage and hurt is done every year by reason of Hogs not being timely yoked; and if timely, not sufficiently: It is therefore ordered That every man shall well and sufficiently yoke his hogs by the 20th of March next with a good sufficient yoke, the bar under the neck to be as long as every Hog or Pig is high, and the stick that goeth from the lower bar to be six inches above his neck." At the Town Meeting of February 1680 "Goodman Merrow and Nathaniel Parker were chosen surveyors of the fences at Wood End."

THE FREEMAN'S OATH

Henry Merrow took the Freeman's Oath in Boston 23 May 1677. To quote the New England Historical and Genealogical Register, Vol. III: "Before a member of society could exercise the right of suffrage, or hold public office, he must be made a 'freeman' by the general or quarterly court. To become such he was required to produce evidence that he was a respectable member of some Congregational Church. This regulation was so modified by Royal Order in 1664, as to allow individuals to be made Freemen who could obtain certificates of their being correct in doctrine and conduct from clergymen acquainted with them."... "The 'Freeman's Oath' was the first paper printed in New England. It was printed at Cambridge, Mass., by Stephen Daye in 1639."

DEATH OF HENRY MERROW

Henry Merrow died 5 November 1685 at the age of 60 years. In December of that year administration was granted to "Jane Merrow, Relict of Henry Merrow, late of Redding, deceased". His estate was considerable, considering his background, and consisted mainly of lands in Reading. It was appraised at £322 with debts of only £5. In 1686, Jane was assessed by the town, as were all property owners, to pay £10 to the Indians in tardy fulfillment of a land purchase contract for the site of Reading. Widow Merrow paid 1s 8d, being forty-first out of ninety-one assessed. Widow Jane had a large family and perhaps six of her children were under sixteen and consequently not able to support themselves. The eldest son, Daniel, seems to have been her mainstay for he remained and conducted the homestead farm, not marrying until all his brothers and sisters were grown up.

A FAMILY QUARREL LAID BARE

Concerning the division of the property there was dissention for nearly a decade. Widow Jane and all her children, except Henry, Jr., agreed among themselves and 6 April 1686 petitioned the court for distribution, as follows:

Jane to have one-half the homestead and stock as long as she remains Henry's widow "and whiles she so Remaines to have the hole Use and Liberty of the now dweling house."

"Daniel shall Pay unto our mother Janne marow Twenty Pounds for her Use Dewering her Life and....shee shall have the Liberty to wille the sd Twenty Pounds too such of her children as carey it most dutyfull to herr same to be payed by our brother Daniell Marow after our mothrs Deceses unto them."

"brother Daniell merow shall have...the other half of our fathers whomestad."

"Jo^{n} merow shall have that tenn acrs of land...bought of Sam^{ll} Dunton and ten acrs of Wett Swamp and half the ceder swampe."

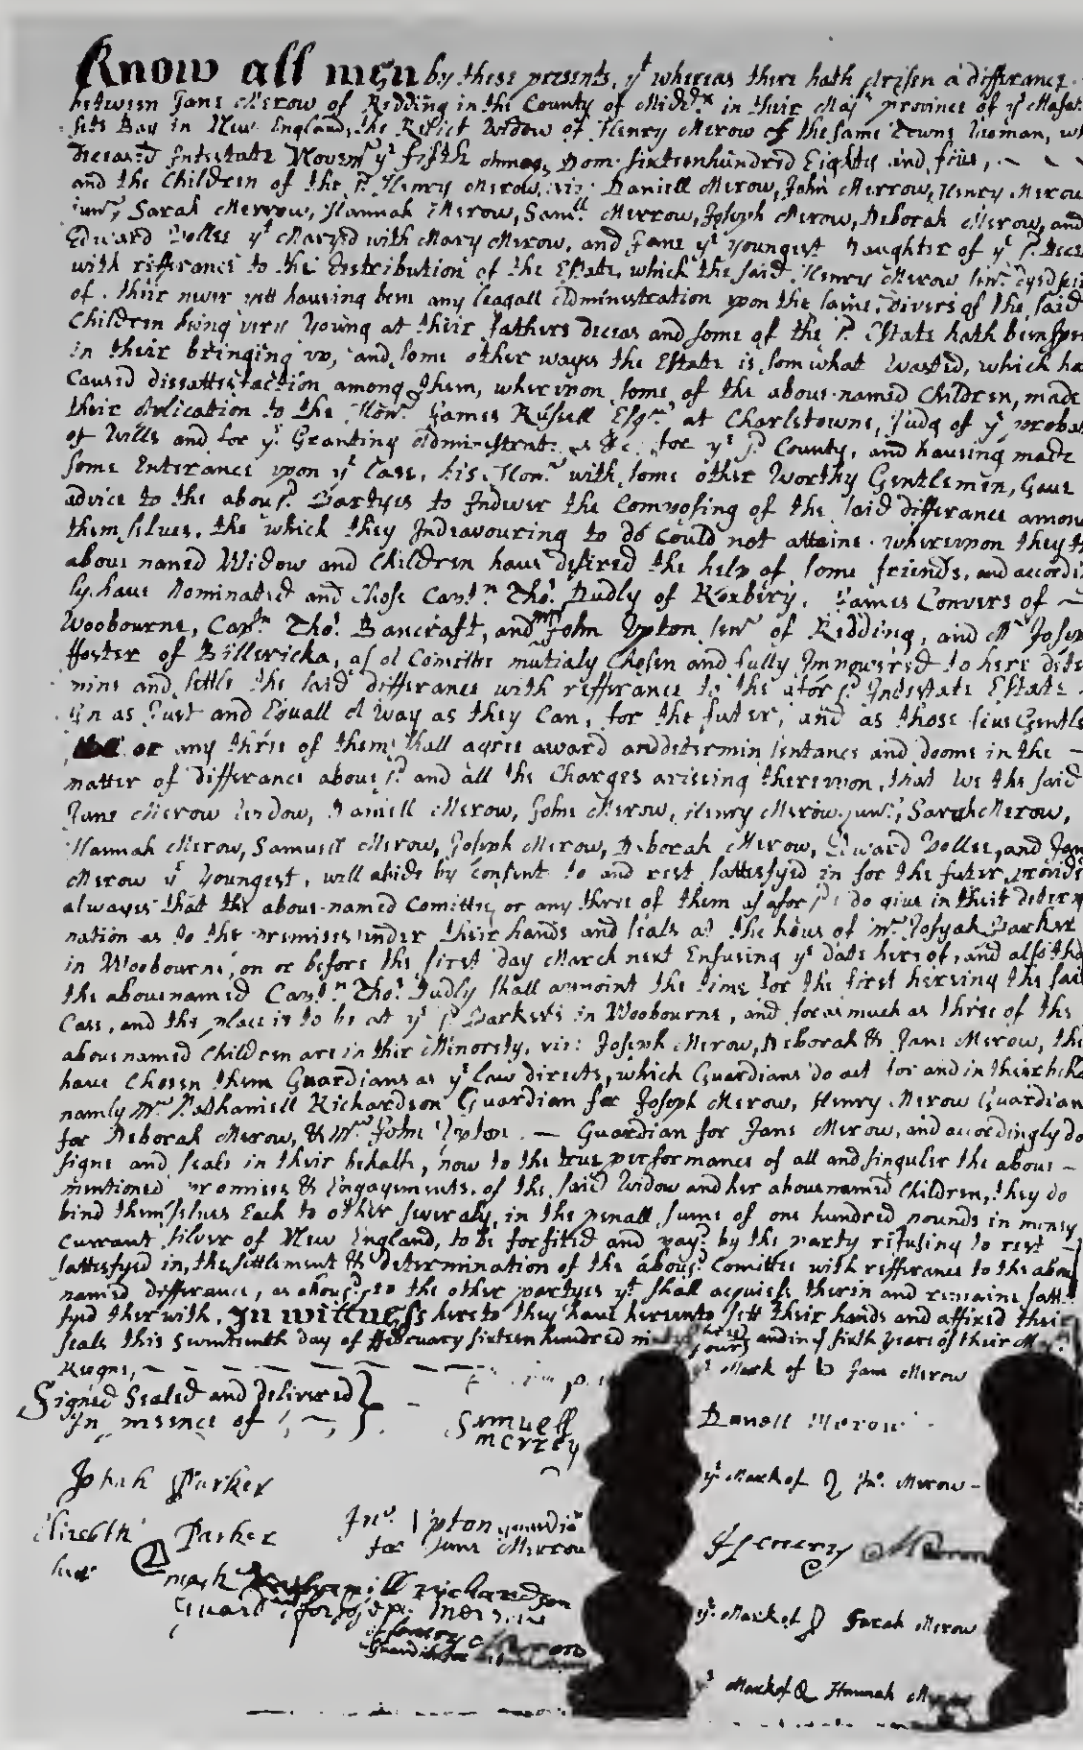
"henry marow shall have but five shillings wch was as much as my husband did offten say he should heve by Reason of some actes of stobrnesses of his to his father."

"Samuell and Joseph marow shall have that Thirty acres of Upland y^{t} my husb^{d} Bought of francis smith & five acres of medow and to have three fiftes of my husbands Town Rights. My five daughters nemly Sarah hannah dabrah & Janne marow shall have Ten pounds apeices peyed to them at eighteen year old or att mariage."

On the same day the other side of the case was presented. Henry marow, meaning Henry Merrow, Jr., prayed the Court that inasmuch as "my mother with my brethren and sisters are about to make an agreement among themselves to despose of the estate which my father dyed seized of, to themselves...and to exclude me as if I were not their brother, when as they know y^{t} my father Intended to give me the greatest portion in his Estate: Now they aledge that I haveing falen by eniquity and put my father to charge and he Intended to cutt me off as to my right in his estate... I haveing suffered the law for my crime, and being ashamed absconded for Awhile, and god took away my Hounoured father in the mean time, now it is too much for my brothers and sisters to punish me againe... I humbly pray y^{t} your honours would...make division of the Estate yourselves according to law."

The court appointed a committee and nothing was done for five years when Henry, Jr., who had apparently won over some junior members of the family, for himself, and as co-guardian for Joseph, Mary, Sarah, and Hannah prayed the court that he be appointed a joint administrator with his mother. The court appointed Daniel. Trouble again boiled over in 1793 when Widow Jane appealed to the court: "That Henry Merrow haveing in a private way gotten two of her Children down to y^{e} Court and there gott allowance of theire Choice of Guardians, viz^{t} himselfe & Nathan Richardson which is like to be ye Ruine of her Estate y^{t} is as yet undivided and the said Henry haveing had his full portion of his fathers Estate"... She objected "to her son Henry, who und^{r} that denomination, or Colour of Guardian to one of ye Children, Comes into y^{e} Estate and makes cfroy (?) thereof at a sad rate:... he comes in and Cutts his brothers Wood and Timber while he is now in y^{e} Country Service and knows nothing of it and none of us his relations can hinder his so doing w^{ch} is unrightenously done." Peace settled down in 1694 when all members of the family signed a "treaty" of peace and arbitration which resulted in a settlement. The facsimile reproduction of this document is of great interest because of the signatures thereon of all the living second generation of the family or of their guardians.

That Widow Jane died before or very early in 1701 would seem probable from a controversy then arising between Samuel and Daniel over a lease of half the homestead.



An exact "translation" of this family document follows below:

An entirely different theory as to the origin of Henry Merrow was advanced by Cutter in his "Genealogy of Middlesex County". According to this genealogist Henry Merrow was a son of Walter Merry, a Boston shipwright who was made a Freeman in 1633/4 and who was drowned in 1656. Cutter presented no evidence nor quoted any authorities in support of his statement. He admitted the first tangible record of Henry Merrow was his Woburn marriage record. He probably never encountered the court document calling Henry "Scotchman". Certainly, he could not have weighed it in evidence. Considering also that nine separate documents in the files of Suffolk County, Mass., Supreme Court say that "Walter Merry (was the) only son and heir of Walter Merry, shipwright", it would seem as if this theory may be wholly dismissed.

2. DANIEL[2] MERROW, 1662-1740, (Henry[1]), born in Reading, Mass., 14 Sept. 1662. "Daniel Merrow being summoned to appear before the Selectmen he did then promise from that time forward to obey all his father's lawful commands and also Goodman Merrow did also promise that he would from time to time give an account to the selectmen how his son Daniel did perform the same when he should require it." Both Henry and Daniel made their marks to this notation in the Reading Town Records 26 Nov 1684. The reason for this discipline was not apparent. Though Daniel was then twenty two years old he was bound to his father's commands, which, however, were not to affect him long as his father died the following November. After his father died Daniel seems to have been the mainstay of the family in support of his mother and several of his brothers and sisters on the family farm. In 1688 he was recorded as having contributed £ 2 to the erection of a meeting house.

"In 1690, New England resolved to attack Canada." So wrote Mr. L. P. Howard in "Reading Men in Early Colonial Wars". He said further that "Sir William Phipps with a fleet carrying two thousand men sailed up the St. Lawrence; but the great delay before arriving at Quebec made the attempt a total failure. The chapel of Notre Dame des Victoires in the Lower City, under the great fortress towering far above, still remains to commemorate this victory over the 'Yankee Knight'."

"Several Reading men were in this expedition. Capt. Ephriam Savage in command of one of the vessels was wounded. When Sir William attempted to land soldiers at St. Charles in order to divert Frontenac from the main attack in front of the city, the general in charge reported Oct.7 'we attempted to land soldiers but a storm prevented and Capt. Savage's vessel went ashore; the tide fell and left them dry; the enemy came upon them but they manfully defended themselves,... and at the tides coming in they floated and all got off in safety.' Among the men in the Lower Middlesex Regiment under Maj. Nath'l Wade...were Dr. James Stimpson, who died on his return, and Daniel Merrow, surgeon's mate, wounded."

This war in 1690 was sometimes called King William's War. A committee of the General Court of Massachusetts awarded 11 June 1691 allowances to those wounded in the expedition. One award was: "Dan^{ll} Merow of Reding to Canada wounded we judge y^{t} publique ought to allow him 40^{d} for Cure &c." Later, in 1696, he was again in armed service. This time, it was with his brothers Henry and Samuel in the privateer Salem Galley in Salem and Marblehead harbors.

Daniel Merrow fell heir to perhaps half of his father's homestead which he farmed and on which he lived throughout his life. He sold seven acres of swamp to John Poole of Lynn, Mass., 30 Dec. 1701. He acquired some land as a result of a controversy with his brother Samuel. "Sam'll Gookin, Sheriff of Middlesex County, delivered to Daniel Merrow, Plaintiff, in a suit to recover £ 7:11:8 and two shillings more for the interest from Samuel Merrow, both of Reading, about Eleven acres... Appraised at 28 shillings an acre." This was in 1702 and 13 Feb of that year Daniel sold this land to John Nichols, Jr., dish turner. He again sold 5 May 1702 to John Poole, this time seven acres in Pine Swamp. 13 Oct. 1702 he sold to David Roberts of Woburn and Andrew Beard, husbandman, of Charlestown, five acres of "Henry Merrow's homestead".

He had married Elizabeth Stimpson before March 1696. She was a daughter of Dr. James and Mary (Leffingwell) Stimpson. Dr. James was a compatriot of Daniel Merrow on the Quebec expedition.

Once again, Daniel and Samuel Merrow were engaged in a property controversy with the outcome similar to the previous incident. Daniel secured judgement 18 Sept 1710 against his brother "for the sum of Seven pounds, Eleven Shill's money Debt and Damage and one pound Thirteen Shillings and Sixpence Cost of Suit." The Court commanded Sheriff Samuel Gookin to seize and turn over to Daniel property to the amount of "nine pounds four shillings and sixpence in y^{e} whole with Two Shillings more for this writt." Shortly, Samuel's land was appraised and nine acres turned over to Daniel 29 Nov. 1710. Of great interest is a deed from Daniel 19 Oct. 1706 wherein he turned over to his brother Henry, for "Love of his brother" his rights in thirty-five acres of his father's estate.

Care of the indigent in old New England towns was by means of placing them in the homes of the more fortunate or the more thrifty. Method of such placement was bidding, the town accepting the lowest bid and paying that sum to the successful bidder. The recipient of the sum and of the indigent expected to recoup the difference between this sum and the estimated cost of upkeep by way of labor done by the indigent. Daniel Merrow gave a receipt 18 Feb. 1717/8 to the Selectmen which read, 'I reckned with the Selectmen & Receved in full for my keeping Zachariah Pike."

Daniel and his brother John transferred 17 June 1731 to John Townsend, Jr., upland in Reading "containing by measure twenty-four acres and an half and twenty-nine poles". Significance of this deed was that in every one of the thirteen or more instances that the name appeared in was consistently in the form Merrow. The penman wrote with a beautiful hand, signifying that the deed was written by a man of better than average education. Since neither of these two brothers, or their wives, could sign their names, all making their marks, they probably could help none at all in the spelling of the name. Thus, fixation of the name Merrow in the form used today must have been aided greatly by others than those of the family.

Daniel sold his lands and the original homestead to his son Ebenezer in 1734 for £ 310. Daniel died in Reading January 1739/40. Widow Elizabeth moved to Boston where she died in 1745. Her will, made 4 Sept 1745 and proved in October of that year, read: "I give and bequeath to my son Timothy Marrow and unto my daughter Elizabeth Moor all my Real Estate of house and Land lying in the North End of Boston aforesaid which I purchased of Issac White... Also I give unto my Daughter Elizabeth all the rest of my Moveables... And I give unto my son Daniel Marrow Fifty shillings...and I give and bequeath unto my son Ebenezer Marrow the sum of Twelve shillings and Six pence... I give and bequeath unto my daughter Ann Cotoney Twenty five shillings... I...give unto my granddaughter Abigail Prisbarry the sum of Twelve shillings six pence."

i. Elizabeth[3], b. 10 March 1707 in Reading. An Elizabeth Merrow was admitted to full communion in the First Church in Reading 14 March 1728. As Elizabeth Moor she was administratrix of her mother's estate in Boston in 1745 and presumably she lived there. On the evidence of the will of her brother, Capt Ebenezer Marrow, she had died before 1767 and she had had children.

vi. Ann, b. 4 July 1724. She was called Ann Coteney in her mother's will in 1745. On the evidence of the will of her brother Ebenezer she had married, probably had had children, and had died before 1767.

3. JOHN MERROW, 1663-1735, (Henry[1]), was born in Reading, Mass., in 1663. His wife's name was Deliverance and they lived in the West Parish section of Reading near his brother Daniel. He was a farmer. To a deed in which he sold eight acres of land for £ 8 sterling to Nathaniel Goodwin, bricklayer, both John and Deliverance made their marks. This land was not in the West Parish section, but was in the "First Division Lots" in present Wakefield. He sold 8 Nov. 1695 land to Thomas Bancroft, husbandman, for four pounds "current money". At the Town Meeting of 4 Mar 1700 he was elected hog constable; 5 Mar. 1711 elected Field Driver; and 3 Mar. 1718 elected Fence Viewer.

When he was fifty-four he deeded, 16 Feb. 1716/7, to his son John, then age twenty-nine, "One half of my house & land in Redding that I now live on; that is, one-half of the Pasture and mowing land & arable & other land in sd Dwelling place where I now dwell as that place is butted & bounded with half of the Barn, not saying which half & also my meadow by Jos. Eaton that joins to Mr. Pierpont's meadow...not to be disposed of as long as I live." In 1720 he sold to his son John seven acres of meadow.

Deliverance Merrow had been recorded as a member of the First Church in Reading in full communion 3 Jan. 1721.

John Merrow made a will 10 Jan. 1729/30 which read, in part: "I give to my well beloved Wife Deliverance Merrow my best Cow and two of my pigs and all my indoor movables or Houshold Stuff and all my Corn and provision that I shall leave att my decease and my will is and hereby I do ordain that my Executor shall Render and pay unto my Wife yearly and from year to year during her Life after my decease sixteen bushels of indian corn & four bushels of Rey & so much of it ground as she shall need for her use and two bushels of malt and one bushels of beans & a bushel and an half of turnaps & four bushels of appels and two barrels of Cyder and one hundred and Eighty weight of Porke and six by weight of beefe and seven cords of wood brought and Laid by her doore and a cow kept both Summer and winter as he keeps his own...furthermore tis my will that my Executor pay yearly during her Life five pounds of money or bills of credit and he shall carry her to and from meeting and else where as she shall have occasion and shall be able to ride: I also give to my wife the East End of my house throughout dureing her Life and the use of my well & garden...and liberty of keepeing a pige or swine att the doore dureing her life." John Merrow died in Reading 23 Nov, 1735 and was buried in an unmarked grave in Reading Cemetery. Widow Deliverance did not live to receive the attention directed by her husband in his will to their son, Lieut. John, who was the executor. She died in Reading 10 Sept. 1733.

5. SARAH[2] (MERROW) PINDER, c.1668-c.1724, (Henry[1]), was born in Reading, Mass., about 1667 or 1668. Married John Pinder of Oyster River (Durham), N.H., sometime after 1694 as she was single and living in Reading in that year. She was by the evidence of Durham records the wife of John Pinder in 1701-1705. She was probably John Pinder's second wife inasmuch as "He and his wife were among those called witches by Naomi Daniels in 1685", the authority for the quoted statement being the Genealogical Dictionary of Maine and New Hampshire by Noyes, Libby and Davis. John Pinder had a son, Benjamin Pinder, born about 1688.

John Pinder was a brickmaker and bricklayer who had bought land from John and Ruth York 14 Oct. 1680, his "land beginning at the little point in Clift Cove adjoinging to Thomas Morris and so over the neck to a pine tree by the path going to Lubberland". "Here lived the Pinder family for several generations." "Lubberland seems to have been a name given given first to the region between the Lamphrey River and Goddard's Creek and to have been applied gradually to all the adjoining land along the north shore of the Great Bay." This information about the Pinder family and about Lubberland was learned from Stackpole's History of Durham, which also is the authority for the following information about the area.

Lubberland had been the scene of a devastating Indian raid in 1694 with sixteen houses, including three garrison houses, burned, forty-nine or more persons killed, and twenty more known captives. Sarah was not at Oyster River at the time of this massacre. But after her marriage and removal there she knew Indian raids for "the Indians seemed to have a special spite against the inhabitants of Oyster River, or their attacks there were so little opposed that they returned often for spoils." There were two raids there from 1701 to 1709. Other raids were recorded as late as 1724.

Thomas Morris in his will, made in 1701, left an iron "cittle to Sarah Pinder sener". Sarah was the first of the Merrow family to locate in Oyster River, being followed there within a few years by her sisters Deborah and Hannah and by her brother Samuel. She had died before 1724 for John Pinder had married Elizabeth, widow of Ezekiel Pitman, before that year. John Pinder was born about 1648 or 1649 and was 73 years old in 1721. He made a will 12 June 1724, proved 31 Mar. 1742.

Children of John Pinder, how many being by Sarah not known:

i. Benjamin Pinder, b. about 1688; was age 15 or 16 in Mar 1704/5. His wife was Martha in 1736. He was living in 1754; six children.

ii. Elizabeth Pinder; given 15 shillings by Thomas Morris in his will in 1701; m. William Durgin; d. 24 Oct. 1721.

iii. Temperance Pinder; m. Ichabod Follett as his 1st wife; bp. with her daughter Abigail 16 July 1721.
iv. Sarah Pinder; m. Benjamin York.
v. Abigail Pinder; was about 8 years old in 1704; not married in 1724.

6. HANNAH[2] (MERROW) JENKINS, 1669-c.1743, (Henry[1]), was born in Reading, Mass., 5 March 1669. She was single and living in Reading in 1694, so it was sometime after that year that she married Joseph Jenkins. He may have been the son of the first Stephen Jenkins in Oyster River (now Durham), N.H. His mother was either Stephen's first wife, Elizabeth Pitman, or Stephen's second wife, Ann. Joseph and Hannah Jenkins lived in the Oyster River section of what was then Dover. There he had grants of land in 1694, 1699 and 1701. In 1695 he signed a petition as a resident of Oyster River. Hannah was living in 1704 but had died before 1743, for on 27 April of that year, Joseph Jenkins married, 2nd, Tabitha Weymouth. The latter was named in his will, made 20 Aug. 1754 and proved 12 Nov. 1755. According to Stackpole in History of Durham "this Jenkins family belonged to the Society of Friends". Noyes, Libby, and Davis in Genealogical Dictionary of Maine and New Hampshire Tabitha Jenkins "was long a preacher among the Friends and died of old age 18 Feb. 1777".

Children of Joseph and Hannah, b. probably in Oyster River:
i. Joseph Jenkins, Jr.; unmarried; d. 26 Dec 1730. He with his brother William and his sister Sarah were living with their aunt and uncle, Daniel and Deborah (Merrow) Meserve in Oyster River in 1727. Joseph, Jr.'s, five brothers and sisters sold his Rochester, N.H., grant in 1732.
ii. William Jenkins; m. Phebe Hoag of Hampton, N.H. Their eight children were born 1743-1756.
iii. John Jenkins; left a widow Hannah in 1754. Their daughter, Sarah, m. Simon Randall 2 Nov. 1749.
iv. Sarah Jenkins; m. Jeremiah Davis.
v. Jemima Jenkins; m. Joseph Hoag 23 Dec. 1736. They went to Duchess County, N.Y. Their son, Elisha Hoag, m. 10 Mar. 1767, Elizabeth Hoag, dau. of Stephen and Ann (Hunt) Hoag. Elisha and Elizabeth Hoag had two children, a daughter and a son Elisha. The elder Elisha was killed in a saw mill accident and the son Elisha was brought up by his mother's brother, Jonathan Hoag of South Easton, Washington County, N.Y. This son, Elisha Hoag, m. Ruth Thome, dau. of Daniel Thome. They had four children: (1) Mary, m. a Mr. Ives; (2) Ruth, who m. Alexander Slocum; (3) Ann, who m. Elisha Gilford; and (4) a son who m. Elizabeth Slocum. Lena S. Thomes, a great granddaughter of Alexander and Ruth Slocum, lived 1953 in Ithaca, N.Y., and descendents of Elisha and Ann Gilford lived then in Easton.
vi. Keziah Jenkins; m. David Hoag 11 Dec 1734.

8. MARY[2] (MERROW) (POLLEY) WOOLLETT, 1673-1719 (?), (Henry[1]), was born in Reading, Mass. , 22 april 1573. She owned the covenant as Mary Merrow in Reading's first church in 1693. She was named as the wife of Edward Polley 16 Feb 1694 in the settlement of her father's estate, thus placing the date of her marriage as late as 1693 or early in 1694. Edward Polley's name appeared in Reading records variously as Polley, Pollee, Polle, Poley, and Polly.

Since their three oldest children were recorded in Reading birth records it is evident they were living there through 1699. However, Edward Polley appeared in records of Portsmouth, N.H., in 1698, though he may have of course preceded his wife there. He was a tailor and inn-keeper when he bought in Portsmouth in 1705. He was of Woburn, Mass., and a weaver 4 Jan 1706/7 when he went surety for his brother-in-law, Henry Merrow, Jr., in Suffolk County court. In 1714, he was out of the country and his wife, Mary, by virtue of power of attorney, at first mortgaged and then sold his house for her support. This was in Portsmouth. "But she did not give a deed until she knew he was dead."

It is perhaps a possibility that the distinction of being the forerunner of the Merrow family in New Hampshire belongs to Mary rather than to her sister Sarah. Portsmouth was then a large and important port and Oyster River, which was near, was reached by a ferry from Portsmouth and Newington over Great Bay.

Mary married, second, Edmund Woollett in Portsmouth 1 Nov. 1716. He was born in Etham, County Kent, and was a shipwright in Portsmouth. Mary had died by 1719.

Children, by her first marriage:

i. Mary Polley, b. 10 Mar. 1695/6; m. a Mr. Harris.
ii. Elizabeth Polley, b. 3 Jan. 1697; m. John Gowell of Portsmouth 24 Nov. 1717.
iii. Edward Polley, Jr., b. 9 Sept 1699.
iv. Sarah Polley; m. Francis Merrill from Wenham, Mass., 19 Dec. 1728.
v. Joseph Polley.
vi. David Polley, bp. 30 Dec. 1711 in North Church, Portsmouth; mason; lived in Portsmouth in 1733.
vii. Jonathan Polley, bp. 30 Dec. 1711 in North Church, Portsmouth; a glazier; living in Portsmouth in 1733. He married Dorcas Richards there 4 May 1735. She was also of Portsmouth.

9. DEBORAH[2] (MERROW) MESERVE, 1667- , (Henry[1]), was born in Reading, Mass., 11 Oct. 1677. In 1693 she owned the covenant in Reading's first church. In 1694 she was single and living in Reading. In 1701 she was married but was then living or had been living in Oyster River (now Durham), N.H., probably at the home of her sister, Sarah Pinder, because Thomas Morris made a will 1 Dec. 1701 in which he mentioned "debro merrow" to the extent of fifteen shillings. The will was witnessed by Edward Polley and John and Sarah Pinder.

Some time after 1701 she married Daniel Meserve. He was the son of Clement and Elizabeth Meserve and was a Saco soldier in 1693 (York deeds 5:2:24). He bought at Oyster River (then Dover) in 1703. They lived on Mill Road, just west of Chesley's Mill. Both Daniel and Deborah Meserve were admitted to the Oyster River Church in Jan. 1720/1. Their four older children were baptized there 8 Jan. 1720/1, and their other children were baptized there 9 Feb. 1720/1. Daniel Meserve was a farmer. His will, made in Dover (Oyster River) 1 May 1747, was proved 30 June 1756. Since Deborah and children were named in 1747, it is clear she was then living. No record of her death has been found.

Children:

i. Daniel Meserve, Jr.; m. Abigail Ham; lived in Dover (Oyster River?); had six children, one of whom was Joseph.
ii. Elizabeth Meserve; m. Joseph Libby 29 Oct 1720. She was a widow in 1747.
iii. Mary Meserve; m. Joseph Meader.
iv. John Meserve; m. Sarah Clark 22 June 1740; had two children.
v. Lieut. Clement Meserve; an officer at Louisburg; m. Abigail (?) Ham; had three children. He was living in 1793.
vi. Ann Meserve; m. James Nute.
vii. Tamsen Meserve; m. Stephen Pinkham.

10. DANIEL[3] MERROW, 1709- , (Daniel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Reading, Mass., 21 April 1709. Beyond the fact that he was proven to have been born in Reading and that he was known to have ceased to appear in Reading records, probably indicating his removal from that place, most of his history is circumstantial. By the time of his father's death in 1740 his mother, brothers and sisters had removed, or soon did, from Reading. All were mentioned in subsequent records of Medford, Charlestown, or Boston, Mass. After leaving Reading his mother and his brothers were steadily known under the name of Marrow. Therefore, it would be logical to look for this Daniel in Boston and under the name of Marrow. Such a record turned up there that seemed to fit him as to place, form of name, and time.

Daniel Marrow married Anna Youngman in Boston 8 July 1738. Since this was a King's Chapel record it is possible they were married in this historic old Boston church. She was born in Roxbury, Mass., 28 Feb. 1717, daughter of Jonathan and Sarah Youngman. Her parents had removed to Framingham, Mass., in 1722.

Daniel Marrow, "mariner", testified in the Court of Assistants in Boston, Aug. 1748, concerning a horse belonging to Samuel Belknap. "Anna Marrow and child" were ordered "to depart this town in fourteen days or give security to the Selectmen of Boston to indemnify the said Town from all charge that may arise by their means". This was the usual method taken by the town authorities in those days to eliminate those likely to "come on the town", especially if they had come in from other towns. No evidence has been found to indicate they had come in from elsewhere, however. This suggests that Daniel Marrow was then dead, perhaps lost at sea, but the fact remains he was mentioned in the will of his brother, Captain Ebenezer Marrow, in 1767, and this throws doubt on the conclusion that Daniel had died on or before 1748.

Other than the records below of baptism of children in the Brattle Street Church in Boston, no records of Anna Merrow have been found.

Children:

20. i. Daniel[4] Marrow. Not positively identified as a son of these parents, but that relationship is highly probable. He may have been the unidentified child who was baptized 20 Sept. 1741, the parent or sponsor being Anna Merry. (See chapter, Daniel Marrow of Winthrop, Me.)

ii. Sarah Merrow, bp. 7 Oct. 1745. Not positively identified as a daughter of these parents. When baptized the parent or sponsor being Anna Merrow. Sarah's name was spelled Merrow.

11. CAPT. EBENEZER[3] MARROW, 1711-1768, alias Merrow, (Daniel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Reading, Mass., 21 July 1711. Married Sarah Welch in Boston, Mass., 14 Jan. 1730, his name in Boston marriage records reading Ebenezer Merry. They lived, first, in Charlestown, Mass., where he was a blacksmith. Wyman in "Charlestown Estates" said he was "Notified 3 Nov 1731 with his family; in a suit with P. Cade, Charlestown tavern keeper; in jail 1748".

Later, they lived in Reading in the original homestead of his grandfather, Henry Merrow. Capt. Ebenezer was the last occupant of this house, near which was his blacksmith shop. He purchased the property from his father and sold in 1739 half of it to his cousin, Lieut. John Merrow. In 1741, he sold the other half to Lieut. John, buying all of it back 7 Sept. 1742 and immediately transfering it to Samuel Bancroft. The house was torn down soon afterward. Capt. Ebenezer had a stormy time in Reading. He was suspended on 19 June 1738 from the First Church for lying and slandering Thomas Eaton. In 1740, however, the Church readmitted him and at the Town Meeting of that year he was elected Tithingman.

His military history began in 1746 when he was in Caleb Brooks' company made up of men from Charlestown and adjoining towns. This company was part of an expedition against Quebec to follow up the fall of Louisburg the preceding year. This expedition did not proceed, however. He was living in Medford at that time, probably, and certainly by 1749. On 22 Nov. 1749 he was attorney for Elias Girrot, "marriner", of Malden, Mass., in a petition to the General Court of Massachusetts regarding a suit over a considerable quantity of dried codfish. He was a signer in 1753, among others, of a petition for part of Charlestown, the northern and southern portions, to be separated therefrom and annexed to Medford. At that time he owned land and a house in the part of Charlestown in question, so he said, and he was a resident of Medford.

For the next few years his life was closely linked with the French and Indian Wars. War was declared against the French in 1756. A planned expedition against Louisburg did not go forward in 1757. Fort William Henry, located at the southern end of Lake George, opposed the French and Indians at Ticonderoga under General Montcalm. General Munro, commanding Fort William Henry was forced to surrender, doing so under guarantees from the French that the garrison would be protected from the Indians. Either the French officers were unwilling or were unable to take effective measures ot fulfill this guarantee and several hundred of the garrison were massacred by the Indians. This was the famous massacre of Fort William Henry. That Capt. Ebenezer may have been at Fort William Henry is suggested by Carey's History of Malden, p. 707, which said, "Joseph Jenkins, born at Malden in 1701, enlisted at the age of 56, 2 May 1756, in Company of Capt. Ebenezer Marrow; dying in the service at Fort William Henry, 27 Aug. 1757." "Capt. Ebenezer Marrow's Co., of Col. Jonathan Bagley's Regt. for the reduction of Canada" was in service at least "from 28 March to 19 November 1758--eight months and 13 days." This last quotation was from the Sprague Family of Malden.

By no means is it certain that Capt. Ebenezer Marrow was at Fort William Henry in view of the records concerning the "French Neutrals" found in the Massachusetts Archives. These were the Acadian French, immortalized by Longfellow in "Evangeline". Massachusetts Archives reveal action taken concerning them in the House of Representatives, General Court of Massachusetts Bay, 22 Dec. 1755. "Whereas divers of the Inhabitants and Families of Nova Scotia have been sent by the Governour and Council of the Province to this Government (Massachusetts Bay); and to prevent their suffering have been permitted to land, and a committee...have...disposed of them in divers Towns where they have been supported in great measure, it having been found impracticable for many of them to support themselves...the overseers of the Poor or the Selectmen of the several Towns are...directed, authorized, & impowered to employ, bind out or support said Inhabitants...in like manner as by how they would...were they the Inhabitants of this Province...the Selectmen shall keep an exact account of the charges...in order to ascertain the Sum advanced...for the Service and Safety of the Province of Nova Scotia.".

By 1757 Ebenezer seems to have been Dr. Ebenezer Marrow and to have been attending such of these French neutrals as were held at Malden. He signed a receipt 26 July 1757 for payment for "attendance and medicines administered to the French people". In the details of this receipt there was frequent mention of "potion of Physick", gallipot Syrup of Ginger", "powder of Senna", "Bottle of Drops", "salt Rheum". A receipt of 1 Aug. 1757 detailed his rates, "Visit, 8d; Visit & potion of Physick, 1s 8d; to bleeding John, 8d; a strengthening plaster for his back, 1a. "That he was still in attendance 2 Jan 1758 was shown by a bill to "the Province of Massachusetts Bay from the Town of Medford", in which he was described as Dr. Ebenezer Marrow and the selectmen certified his rates, and others, as reasonable.

A sale of a small piece of land in Medford to his friend, Samuel Bacon, revealed that Capt Ebenezer lived in Medford near the Craddock Bridge. His residence in Medford was confirmed by a deed, "Ebenezer Marrow of Medford ...gentleman for and in consideration of the good Service in attending me in my Long Sickness...do hereby give...unto Lydia Tufts Jun^{r} of Medford...one half of all the Lands in quality and quantity...that I received of Jonathan Waite of Nova Scotia the said Laying in the County of Essex in the Township of Lynn... 14 July 1768."

Sarah Marrow had died in Medford 3 April 1767 and Capt. Ebenezer died in Braintree, Mass., 3 Sept. 1768. Samuel Bacon, as executor, sold, 25 May 1769, land and half of Capt. Ebenezer's house and barn to Ebenezer Blanchard of Medford, distiller, for £48:13s:4d. The other half he sold to Watts Turner of Medford, perukemaker, for the same sum. This latter half was bounded as follows: "beginning at the front door of said House in the middle of the Entry & running Southerly on the County Road...Thence turning easterly & running to the middle of the back entry through the house to the Country Road." The last of Capt. Ebenezer's property, ten acres in Stoneham, Mass., was sold to J. Bucknam of that town for £12 10 Jan. 1771. Since Capt. Ebenezer's will mentioned no children, it is presumed he had none. His property was left to his brothers and sisters and to Samuel Bacon as residuary legatee.

12. TIMOTHY[3] MERROW, 1714-1761, (Daniel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Reading, Mass., 2 Feb. 1713/4. Married Mary Lenox in Boston, Mass., 21 July 1737, his name appearing in Boston records as Morro and Merroe. She was born in Boston 27 Aug 1713, daughter of James and Mary (Faulkner) Lenox, or Lenix. Her birth record there read Lenix.

Timothy Merrow was a cordwainer and they lived in the North End of Boston. In 1740 his life was troubled. On the night of 30 April in that year a crowd of forty or more persons "being unlawfully and riouteously assembled did then there with force and arms...assault terrify and abuse one Timothy Merrow in the peace of our sd Lord & King then being in his dwelling house situate at the North End of Boston...and the said defendents then and there with force and strong hand did rioutously and unlawfully beat down and demolish part of the sd Timothy Merrows dwelling house by throwing therein Stones of Great weight whereby they put the said Timothy Merrowe his wife & child & others that were therein in great fear and danger of their lives..." One David Jenkins was present and said it was "good enough for an informer". The ire of these rioters must have been great for some of them threatened "to have the heart's blood of the Complainant." All this story is contained in the Massachusetts Suffolk Superior Court records.

Boston must have been too uncomfortable for Timothy because later in 1740 he was described as "late of Boston but (now) of Reading." He returned to Boston, probably about the time his mother bought a dwelling house and land "lying on Lynn street at the northerly end of Boston" from Isaac White, gentleman, 13 Nov. 1742. Timothy lived near his mother, his house being on a passageway off Lynn Street. This he had purchased from Ruth Page, widow, of Medford in 1750 and of Marblehead in 1751. His purchase was in 1751. Ruth Page was his first cousin, daughter of Dr. Samuel Merrow.

Lynn Street is only a stone's throw in the direction of the Charles River from Salem Street where is located Christ Church, the "Olde North Church" of Longfellow's poem "The Ride of Paul Revere".

> "He said to his friend, 'If the British march
> By land or sea from the town to-night
> Hang a lantern aloft in the belfry arch
> Of the North Church tower as a signal light,-
> One, if by land, and two, if by sea;
> And I on the opposite shore will be,
> Ready to ride and spread the alarm
> Through every Middlesex village and farm,
> For the country folk to be up and to arm.' "

Neither Timothy or his mother were there to see these lights shining over their roofs, however. Widow Mary and their child or children may have seen them, since the date of Widow Mary's death has not been found.

Timothy Merrow was also a watchman; in 1747 he was fined 40s by the Selectmen of Boston for being found asleep in the north watch tower. In 1752, Timothy Marrow was excused from serving as a constable by a Boston Town Meeting.

"Mary Merrow, of Boston, widow of Timothy Merrow, cordwainer" was appointed administratrix of his estate 3 July 1761. Some items of her expense were:

"To cash paid for a Coffin	1:4:0
To cash paid Porters	1:2:0

Children:

No provable Boston birth record has been found. Several unidentified Merrow names in Boston records may have been of their child or children.

Widow Mary Merrow married, second, William Bates of Weymouth, Mass., in Boston 9 Nov. 1761. He was a widower with a large family, a cordwainer and yeoman. He died in Weymouth in 1785. She died in Milton, Mass., 30 Dec. 1799, age 87 years. Her will named Seth Baggs of Milton, grandson of William Bates, her executor and sole legatee. Boston records of this second marriage called her Mary Marrow, but the history of Weymouth named her Mary Merrow.

13. HENRY[3] MERROW, 1686-1761, (John[2], Henry[1]), was born in Reading, Mass., 4 March 1685/6. Married Abigail Parker in Reading 10 Oct 1710. She was born there in 1683, daughter of Thomas and Deborah Parker, and granddaughter of Deacon Thomas Parker who came from England in the ship Susan and Ellen and who was one of the earliest settlers of Reading.

This Henry Merrow was the last male descendent of the original Henry Merrow to live in Reading, that is the last to bear the name of Merrow. He was a farmer and in 1726 purchased several parcels of land and meadow in the Woodend section of town near his father. He was "hog constable" in 1718, fence viewer in 1717, and tithingman in 1727 and 1744. He was in declining health 1 Dec. 1760 when to the judge of probate was presented testimony "that ye Selectmen of Sd Reading are of the opinion that Mr. Henery Merrow of Sd Reading is now non compos: and not Capable of taking care of himself and family: and standeth in need of a gardian and we Do Recommend Mr. John Temple of Said Reading to be a Sutable person to be Gardian for Said Merrow." John Temple was appointed and, Henry Merrow's health further declining, the latter died in Reading 24 March 1761.

In 1753 he had made a will, excerpts from which read: "I give unto my Deer and Well beloved Wife Abigail Merrow the whole of my Estate...During her life ...I...give unto my Dauter Abigail Richardson...one half of my Real Estate During her natural life. She to come into (possession) at her mothers Deceas ...I...give...the other half of my Real Estate to my Dauter Ruth Merrow...she to come into posession at her mothers Deceas...and that in case my above sd Dauter Ruth Doth Dy Without heirs; descended from her own body:...said premises shall (go) to my Dauter Abigail and her children."

The estate, valued at £242:13s:10d was inventoried as follows:

John Temple was the executor and he sold land in 1764 to Jonathan Parker and in 1766 sold eight acres to Thomas Eaton (3rd) for £53 13s 4d. According to Lilley Eaton in his History of Reading Henry Merrow's land was on present Lowell Street, near the village. After the death of widow Abigail in Reading 15 March 1770 the remainder of the property was sold to Joshua Bancroft.

Children:

i. David[4], b. 11 Dec. 1711; bp. 13 July 1712; d. in Reading Sept 1746; probably never married.

21. ii. Abigail, b. 2 June 1713.

iii. Ruth, b. 25 June 1715; undoubtedly died early.

iv. Hepzibah, b. 1 April 1717; d. before 1753 since she was not mentioned in her father's will.

v. Ruth, b. 27 March 1721; not married 2 April 1771 when she made her mark on a deed conveying to Joshua Bancroft her portion of her father's real estate.

14. LIEUT. JOHN[3] MERROW, 1688-1745, (John[2], Henry[1]), was born in Reading, Mass., 2 March 1787/8. Married, 1st, Ann Converse, perhaps in Woburn, Mass. She was born in Woburn 3 Oct. 1687, daughter of Edward and Sarah (Stone) Converse. She was descended from Deacon Gregory Stone who came from England in 1635, settling first in Watertown, Mass., and later in Newtowne, now Cambridge, Mass. (Sarah[3], Deacon Samuel[2], Deacon Gregory[1] Stone). She was also a fourth generation descendent of Deacon Edward Converse (Anne[4], Edward[3], Lieut. James[2], Deacon Edward[1] Converse), the Puritan who came from England to Salem, Mass., in 1630 with Gov. John Winthrop and settled in Woburn, Mass., the site of his house being in present Winchester.

John Merrow was a farmer and lived in Reading near his father and older brother in the West Parish section. John and Ann were recorded 3 Jan. 1720/1 as being in full communion in Reading's First Church. He purchased 16 Jan. 1716/7 from John Nichols, turner, for £15:12:17 five and a half acres and 85 poles of land in West Parish. For £9 on 20 June 1722 he acquired from Richard Nicholls and Thomas Hodgman six acres adjoining the meadow of his father. From 1739 to 1742 he owned half the original Henry Merrow homestead and for a little over a year owned all of it. This he had acquired from Capt. Ebenezer Marrow and to him he deeded back all of it 7 Sept. 1742, signing his name to all papers. In the deed 7 Dec. 1743, in which he sold five acres to Jonathan Parker, John Merrow was described as "gentleman".

As Ensign John Merrow he was active in the affairs of the community, serving over a period of years on several special committees. He was elected in 1739, 1740, 1742, and 1743 to a committee "to see that the late law to prevent the killing of Deer out of season be duly observed." The Town Meeting of 4 March 1745 elected Lieut. John Merrow to the same duty. In 1740 he was grand juryman. Ann (Converse) Merrow died in Reading 7 Aug. 1721.

Children:

i. Ann[4], b. 17 Feb. 1711; d. in Reading 8 May 1713.
22. ii. Dorothy, b. 6 Oct. 1712.
23. iii. Edward, b. 2 Dec. 1714.
iv. John, b. 8 Sept. 1719; d. 3 Nov. 1719.

Lieut. John Merrow married, 2nd, Rebecca Davis of Reading in Woburn 20 Jan. 1722. They had no children and she survived him only a month. Both died in Reading, the date of her death being 12 Oct. 1745.

No details of his military history have been discovered although his grave in Reading in 1945 carried a marker reading "Veteran of Colonial Wars". His well-marked grave is the oldest Merrow grave which can be positively identified today. His stone of mottled green and purple slate in a perfect state of preservation carries the easily read inscription "Here lies the body of Lieut. John Merrow, who departed this life Sep 9th Anno Dom[i] 1745 in y[e] 58th year of His Age". About his grave there is considerable space with no gravestones, but with two orderly arranged rows of field stones which seem to mark the last resting place of many who were probably of the Merrow family.

15. ABYGALL[3] (MERROW) (STRIKER) GRANT, 1690-1738, (John[2], Henry[1]), was born in Reading, Mass., 2 March 1689/90. As Abigail Merry she married Zachery Striker in Marblehead, Mass., 29 Nov. 1715. She was called Abygall Stricker in her father's will in 1730. She united with Marblehead's First Church in 1719. She and her husband lived in Marblehead where he was perhaps a carpenter for he was paid for work on Old Meeting House there 1725/6. He died, probably in Marblehead, before 1735.

His first wife was Mary (White) Pedrick, dau. of Thomas and Remember (Dixey) White. Mary (White) Pedrick's first husband was Joseph Pedrick. Henry Grant was a fisherman. Abygall Grant died in Marblehead in 1738 and was buried, probably, on Old Cemetery Hill as her death was recorded in First Church records.

16. MARY[3] (MERROW) BURROWS, 1694- , (John[2], Henry[1]), was born in Reading, Mass., 29 Aug. 1694. Married "Giles Burrows of Great Britain" in Reading in 1717. They lived in Marblehead, the name there being spelled variously as Burrows, Borroughs, Borroes, and Borrows. Mary Burroughs was listed as member of the First Church of Christ (Congregational) in Marblehead in 1725. A Mary Burroughs was listed in these church records as having removed to Salem but no date was mentioned. Since she was not named in her father's will in 1730 she had, presumably, died before that year. A Giles Burroughs was taxed in Marblehead in 1748 but whether this was father or son is not clear.

Children:

i. Benjamin Burrows, bp. 20 July 1721.
ii. Mary Burrows, bp. 30 July 1721; "singlewoman" in Marblehead 1759.
iii. Giles Burrows, bp. 17 Dec. 1721.

widow Ruth Borrows was adm. Capt. William Burrough's house was on Windmill Hill adjoining land of Batchelor and of Mary Burrows, perhaps his sister. His widow may have been the Ruth Burrows who m. Jacob Oakes in Marblehead 23 Sept. 1770.

17. SARAH[3] (MERROW) MEHONEY, 1696- , (John[2], Henry[1]), was born in Reading, Mass., 7 Oct. 1696; called Sarah Mahoney in her father's will in 1730. Married Cain Mehoney in Marblehead, Mass., 31 Dec. 1724. In Marblehead records she was called Meroe and Merow and his name was also spelled Mehonney. That they lived in Marblehead is evident from an Essex County, Mass., deed 20 Jan. 1731. "Elias Hammond of Marblehead...fisherman...sell... to Caine MaHoney of Marblehead...fisherman...Dwelling House & Garden... lying...att the Northerly End of Town of Marblehead bounded...Southeasterly on y[e] Little Harbour."

Cain Mehoney had died, probably in Marblehead, certainly before 1755 and his wife had died probably before that date. "Mary Mahoney & Elizabeth Mahoney both of Boston...spinsters two of the children & heirs of Cain Mahoney late of Marblehead...fisherman dec'd Intestate sell...to Ebenezer Stacy...of Marblehead merchant...two full undivided third part of all that...parcel of land situate in Marblehead...which pieces of land were late the Estate of our said Hon'd Father." 18. DANIEL[3] MERRY, 1696- , alias Merrow, (John[2], Henry[1]), was born in Reading, Mass., 7 Aug. 1698; called Daniel Merrow in his father's will in 1730. Married Judith Best in Boston 23 June 1720. They lived, first, in Reading where their first child was born and died. Here he was called Daniel Merrow, Jr., a title more correctly belonging to his cousin Daniel, born eleven years earlier. Daniel and his wife Judith moved to Marblehead, Mass., where their other children were born. Here this family went, usually, under the name Merry. Judith Merry, wife of Daniel, joined the First Church there in 1723 and Daniel "Murray" joined in 1727. Daniel Merrow was taxed there in 1748. Daniel Merry of Marblehead, fisherman, was defendent in court in Boston on a case of debt 30 March 1750.

Children:

19. ANNA[3] (MERROW) COOKE, , (John[2], Henry[1]), was born in Reading, Mass.; called Anna Cooke in her father's will in 1730. Married Augustine Cooke, probably in Marblehead, Mass. In Marblehead records he was also called Augustin Cook and she was called Hannah. They lived in Marblehead where he died in 1751. She was listed as a member of the First Church there in 1721 and he was admitted in 1722. They were probably buried on Old Burial Hill in Marblehead.

21. ABIGAIL[4] (MERROW) RICHARDSON, 1713-c.1765, (Henry[3], John[2], Henry[1]), was born in Reading, Mass., 2 June 1713. A second Reading record placed her birth in 1718, which is probably incorrect. Married Thomas Richardson of Billerica, Mass., in 1739. He was born there 5 June 1718, son of Jonathan and Hannah (French) Richardson and was a descendent of the Thomas Richardson who with his two brothers and four others founded Woburn, Mass., in 1641. Thomas and Abigail Richardson lived in Reading. Abigail died before 1765 as shown by a petition of William Ruck and others, which was granted by the General Court of Massachusetts Bay Colony 12 June 1765. This petition, in which the "others" were the children of "Abigail Richardson of Reading, deceased", was for the right to sell "Real Estate derived to them from their Grandfather Henry Merrow".

Children:
i. Abigail Richardson, b. 10 May 1740; d. young.
ii. Mary Richardson, b. 3 Feb. 1743; unmarried; lived in Salem, Mass. Her will of 11 Aug. 1789 made bequests to her brother Ebenezer Richardson and to his children Sarah, Lucy, Jonathan, and Ebenezer. It also carried bequests to her three sisters, Abigail, Hepzibah, and Beulah.

22. DOROTHY[4] (MERROW) FOSTER, 1712-1750, (Lieut. John[3], John[2], Henry[1]), was born in Reading, Mass., 6 Oct. 1712; also called Deborah. Admitted to full communion in First Church in Reading, in 1731. Married Jonathan Foster in Reading 23 Aug 1733. He was born there 19 Jan. 1712, son of Samuel and Sarah (Roberts) Foster and great-grandson of the John Foster who came from England and was in Salem, Mass., in 1657.

Jonathan Foster was a farmer and "lived in the west parish, near Ebenezer Emerson's place. The house in which he resided was built by one Stimpson, a fiddler, who came near being captured one night by Indians while sitting on a log fiddling. Samuel Foster, his father succeeded Stimpson and Jonathan Foster succeeded his father. He was a soldier in the French and Indian Wars of 1745-1759. He died in 1775 and was buried on the day of the battle of Concord", so said the Foster Genealogy. Dorothy (Merrow) Foster had died in Reading 23 Mar. 1750 and Jonathan had married again, his second wife being named Abigail. She survived him.

Children:

i. Ann Foster, b. 12 Aug. 1735; m. John Goodwin 1758.

vii. David Foster, b. 1745; m. Betsy Minot of Westford, Mass.; moved from Reading to Gardner, Mass., and was an early settler there. "He was in the Revolutionary War for nine months and was one of the last men who fled from the enemy at the Battle of Bunker Hill and assisted in carrying Gen. Joseph Warren from the battlefield that day." (Foster Genealogy). He died in 1815.
viii. Abraham Foster; lived in Reading.

23. EDWARD[4] MERROW, 1714-1758, (Lieut. John[3], John[2], Henry[1]), was born in Reading, Mass., 2 Dec. 1714. Married Mary Cowdrey in Reading 9 June 1737. She was born there in 1713, daughter of William and Tabitha (Boutwell) Cowdrey and great-granddaughter of Deacon William Cowdrey, an early settler and influential citizen of Reading. They lived on what is now High Street in Reading. Respected in the community, he was active in town affairs. Elected fence viewer at the town meeting of 7 May 1743. Elected Surveyor of Highways 1744, 1748, and 1749. Constable in 1751. He was a farmer.

In 1757, his only son Edward was in the army in one of the French and Indian Wars, where he "took the smallpox and died". Father Edward, on hearing of his son's sickness, hastened to his assistance but arrived too late, son Edward having died. He started home but his grief was so great at the loss of his only son that he returned to bring the body home with him. He caught the malignant disease himself and died in January 1758. His estate was valued at £198 and the expenses of Widow Mary, who was administratrix, included the following: "Paid to Mrs. Lewis for nursing the Deceased in the small pox 16s; for a coffin for the deceased 6s; Paid to John Boutel for digging the grave for the Deceasd 3s4d." For receipts she included "her sons wages that Died in the Armie at the Wistward £10:5:0". Rev. William Hobby, sixth minister of Reading's First Church and then minister, said of him, "My dear friend and excellent neighbor."

Widow Mary continued to live on High Street, the property ultimately being sold to Jonathan Foster, husband of Edward's sister Dorothy. Widow Mary was living as late as 1770.

Children:

i. Edward[5], b. 2 Nov. 1738; d. 1757, age 19y. " A petition of mary merrow of Reading Administratrix on the Estate of her late Husband Edward Merrow deceased Setting forth that her son Edward inlisted in his majesty's Service in the year 1757, marched under Command of Capt. Thomas Cheever, marched to Fort Edward, continued in the Service at said Fort till the beginning of November, at which time not being well, was dismissed as an Invalid, with much difficulty got to Albany, was there put into a Hospital where he continued untill the 14th of December and then dyed." (Acts and Resolves of Province of Massachusetts Bay 6 June 1761.)

ii. Mary bp. 18 Jan. 1741; d. Nov. 1753.

iii. Ann, b. 19 June 1743; m. Nathan Pearson in Reading 3 Sept. 1765 and they were living there in 1770 when he acquired, in right of his wife, two-thirds of her father's real estate. He was a farmer. Their son, Edward Pearson, was born in Reading, his record of birth reading "Edward Person". Was Ann the second wife of Nathan Pearson? There is such a possibility for a Nathan Pearson had married Mary Wilson in Reading some years prior to 1765. A Nathan Pearson married Rebecca Tay in Woburn some years after 1770. This Nathan Pearson bought land in Wilmington, Mass., in 1777, being then described as of Hampton, N.H. That he thereafter lived in Wilmington is apparent from grantor deeds which were signed also by his wife Rebecca.

iv. Esther, b. 22 Feb. 1749/50; living in Reading in 1769 when John Temple and Samuel Damon were appointed her guardians; living also in 1770 when her father's estate was settled.

v. Mary, b. 22 Nov. 1756. In 1768 John Temple and Samuel Damon were appointed her guardians. She was living in 1770.

24. ABIGAIL[4] (MERRY) NICHOLSON, 1722-3- , (Daniel[3] Merry, alias Merrow, John[2] Merrow, Henry[1]), was baptized in Marblehead, Mass., 3 March 1722/3. Married Josiah Nicholson, alias Nichols, in Marblehead 3 Dec. 1747. He was born there 1723/4. Son of Robert and Martha (Bartlett) Nicholson. They lived in Marblehead.

Children:

i. Martha Nicholson, bp. 26 Feb. 1748/9.
ii. Martha Nicholson, bp. 30 Sept. 1750.
iii. Abigail Nicholson, bp. 1 Oct. 1752.
iv. Josiah Nicholson, Jr., bp. 21 Oct. 1753.
v. Josiah Nicholson, Jr. bp. 14 Dec. 1755.
vi. Martha Nicholson, bp. 26 Feb. 1758.
vii. Robert Nicholson, bp. 15 Aug. 1762.

25. MARY[4] (MERRY) QUINER, 1724- , (Daniel[3] Merry, alias Merrow, John[2] Merrow, Henry[1]), was baptized in Marblehead, Mass., 2 Aug. 1724. Married Abram Quiner in Marblehead 13 Feb. 1743/4. In birth records of their children he was called Abraham Quiner. The name Quiner is of French origin, being spelled "Coignard" in French. Last name records in Marblehead also spelled the name Coonier. They lived in Marblehead. Administration was granted 31 Jan. 1763 to Mary Quiner on the estate of Abraham Quiner, her husband, late of Marblehead. John Merry was a surety.

Children, bp. in Marblehead:

i. John Quiner, bp. 1 April 1744.
ii. Mary Quiner, bp. 13 Mar. 1747/8.
iii. James Quiner, bp. Oct. 1749.
iv. Esther Quiner, bp. 29 July 1753; called "Easter" in baptismal record; m. John Green in Marblehead 4 Sept. 1773. He was, perhaps, bp. there 29 Oct. 1749, son of Alexander and Mary Green. Ester d. in Marblehead 24 Jan. 1807 and he was perhaps the John Green who d. there 20 Mar. 1828 of consumption, age 78y.

Children:

I. Alexander Green, bp. 4 Sept. 1791
II. Mary Green, bp. 29 Sept. 1793; d. 12 May 1816 of consumption.
III. Alexander Green, bp. 3 Sept. 1797; d. in Marblehead 4 Oct. 1814 of consumption, age 17y.
IV. William Green, bp. 1 June 1783.
V. Josiah Green, bp. 13 Aug. 1786.
VI. Esther Green, bp. 2 Nov. 1788.

It seems probable that Abram and Mary Quiner had another son, Abraham Quiner, who must have been born in Marblehead between 1745 and 1749. An Abraham Quiner married Elizabeth Downes in Marblehead 24 Sept. 1769. She died, wife of Abraham, in Beverly, Mass., 19 Nov. 1813, age 68y, which would place her birth in 1745.

This Abraham Quiner sailed in the "Rambler", an American Privateer in the Revolution. This vessel was captured by the British frigate "Sibys" and he was confined in mill prison. A copy of the warrant, dated 16 Feb. 1780, was in the possession of his grand-daughter, Joanna Quiner. A mahogany trunk, made by him while a prisoner in mill prison, is now owned by the Marblehead Historical Society.

Abraham and Elizabeth (Downes) Quiner had a son, Abraham Quiner, bp. in Marblehead 28 Oct. 1770. He m. Susannah Campbell of Gloucester, Mass., dau. of John and Susannah (Bishop) Campbell. She d. in 1843 and he d. in Beverly, Mass. 30 April 1844. They had thirteen children, of whom three sons were lost at sea. Their fourth child, Joanna Quiner, b. 27 Aug. 1796, d. in Lynn, Mass., 1868, and was a self-taught sculptress; never married. Another daughter was Mrs. Joseph P. Randall of Lynn.

26. SARAH[4] (MERRY) KITCHENS, 1726- , (Daniel[3] Merry, alias Merrow, John[2] Merrow, Henry[1]), was born in Marblehead, Mass., and baptized there 5 June 1726. Married Samuel Kittchins in Marblehead 18 Dec. 1753. He was baptized there 20 June 1725, son of Samuel and Hannah Kittchins. His mother may have been Hannah Noden, as the latter married a Samuel Hitchins in Marblehead 6 Dec. 1716 and the names Kitchins and Hitchins were frequently confused there. The name Kitchins was spelled variously there as Kittchins, Kitchins, and Kitchens. They lived in Marblehead and their children were born there.

Children:

i. Samuel Kitchens, bp. 21 Nov. 1756. He may have been the father of a Samuel Kitchin who was a survivor of the War of 1812-15, having served on the Brig "Grand Turk", J. Breed, Master. This Samuel gave his age in 1855 as 81 years, thus placing his birth in the year 1774.
   Samuel Kitchens, b. 1774, m., prob., Susannah Lovis in Marblehead 8 May 1800 and had children:
   I. Samuel Kitchens, bp 25 Oct. 1801.
   II. Susannah Kitchens, bp. 1 Jan. 1804; m. James Snow 4 Dec. 1823.
   Samuel Kitchens, b. 1774, was on the tax list in Marblehead in 1804. Since no children were born to them after 1804, he may have been the Samuel Kitchens who m. Mrs. Hannah George 30 Dec. 1806. She d. 14 Jan. 1807, widow of Samuel.
   Samuel Kitchin, Jr., bp. 1801, prob. M., Hannah Vickery Scores in Marblehead 2 Mar. 1824. She was bp. there 28 Sept 1824, dau. of Edward and Mary (Vickery) Scores. Samuel, Jr., joined the First Church there in 1829 and his wife in 1830. He d. on board schooner "William", record of 15 May 1831. He left no child "of age". Their children:
   (1) Hannah Kitchens, bp. 7 Mar. 1830; twin; m. Benjamin Day.
   (2) Mary Elizabeth Kitchens, bp. 7 Mar. 1830; twin; m. Nathaniel Stone, 1847.
   (3) Samuel Kitchens, bp. 1 July 1832, son of Samuel, "deceased".

ii. Sarah Kitchins, bp. 29 April 1759; m. James Adams, (int.) 10 July 1773 in Marblehead.

iii. Lucretia Kitchins, bp. 5 July 1761; m. Thomas Lovis in Marblehead 15 Aug. 1784. Children, b. there:
   I. Sarah Lovis, bp. 12 Dec. 1784.
   II. Thomas Lovis, bp. 24 June 1787.
   Lucretia (Kitchins) Lovis m., 2nd, Robert Pearson in Marblehead 11 Aug. 1789.

iv. Abigail Kitchins, bp. 27 Jan. 1764.

v. Richard Kitchins, bp. 27 Apr. 1766.

vi. Hannah Kitchins, bp. 3 July 1768.

27. JOHN[4] MERRY, 1727-1765, (Daniel[3] Merry, alias Merrow, John[2] Merrow, Henry[1]), was born in Marblehead, Mass., 31 Dec. 1727. Married Hannah Chapman in Marblehead 5 Feb 1750. She was baptized there 9 Aug. 1730, daughter of Stephen and Hannah (Roundey) Chapman. They lived in Marblehead, where probably he died in 1765. She died, probably there also, in 1772.

Samuel Collyer was appointed administrator of the estate of John Merry, late of Marblehead 22 April 1765. At the same time he was appointed guardian of Elizabeth Merry, daughter of John Merry, a minor under fourteen years. In the distribution of the estate 6 Oct. 1772, reference was made to Widow Hannah Merry, then deceased, and to Daughter Elizabeth, then the "only surviving child".

Children:

29. i. Elizabeth[5], bp. 30 Aug. 1752.
ii. John, bp. 3 Nov. 1754; d. before 1772 surely and before 1765 probably.
iii. Hannah, bp. 3 Sept. 1758; d. before 1772 surely and before 1765 probably.

28. WILLIAM[4] MERRY, 1731/2- , (Daniel[3] Merry, alias Merrow, John[2] Merrow, Henry[1]), was born in Marblehead, Mass., 12 March 1731/2. Married Elizabeth Hawkins in Marblehead 3 Oct. 1754. They lived in Marblehead.

Child:

i. William[5] Merry, bp. 7 Sept. 1755; nothing learned of his history.

29. ELIZABETH[5] (MERRY) BATCHELDER, 1752- , (John[4], Daniel[3] Merry, alias Merrow, John[2] Merrow, Henry[1]), was born in Marblehead, Mass., and baptized there 30 Aug. 1752. Married Joseph Batchelder in Marblehead 31 Dec. 1771 and they lived there. He was, perhaps, the Joseph Batchelder of Marblehead who was a private in Capt. John Selman's (8th) Company, Col. John Glover's Regiment; muster roll dated 1 Aug 1775; enl. 27 May 1775; served 2½ months 3 days; also company return dated Cambridge 9 Oct. 1775; also an order for bounty coat or its equivalent in money, dated Marblehead 3 Jan. 1776. Likewise, he may have been the Joseph Batchelder who was corporal in Capt. Lock's Co., Lt. Col. Bond's (later Gardner's) 37th Regt.; company return dated Prospect Hill 6 Oct. 1775; reported as having taken place of Thomas Cutter who was discharged 5 Oct. 1775.

ii. John Merry Batchelder, bp. 14 Mar. 1775.

DANIEL MARROW OF WINTHROP, MAINE

20. DANIEL[4] MARROW, 1741-1812, (Daniel[3] Marrow, alias Merrow, Daniel[2] Merrow, Henry[1]), was born, probably in Boston, Mass., between 1738 and 1740. His identity as a son of Daniel[3] has not been proven, but is highly probable. Perhaps bp. 20 Sept. 1741. "Doubtless descended from him (Henry Merrow) was the Daniel Marrow of Holliston (Mass.) who married 29 May 1759, Elizabeth, daughter of Samuel Harding of Medway. A tradition has floated down in the family that Daniel Marrow, when a boy, was playing in the street in Boston and was accosted by Samuel Harding, who offered to take him into the country with him and train him in farm work. The proposal was accepted and the boy some years later married the daughter of Harding. It is also said that Daniel Marrow was a soldier of the French and Indian Wars and the Revolution. He was once taken prisoner by Indians. They led him away, a brawny savage at each arm and a third grasping his coat. Coming to a narrow passage between a tree and a large rock Daniel suddenly dashed one against the tree and the other against the rock and tore himself from the grasp of the third and escaped. "---History of Winthrop, Me., by Everett S. Stackpole.

Daniel Marrow, then of Holliston, married Elizabeth Harding in Medway, Mass. She was born there 14 Feb. 1738, daughter of Samuel and Mary Harding. Daniel Marrow was "a member of the first military company in Medway that marched in the alarm of April 19th 1775 under command of Capt. Joshua Partridge in Col. John Smith's Regiment. This company was at Roxbury and Cambridge, Dorchester, Ticonderoga, Nantasket, New York, 'Jersey's', Warwick, North Kingston, Providence, Bristol, Little Compton, up to Dec. 27, 1777." The number of men in each expedition varied from 1 to 37, so it is not evident whether Daniel Marrow saw service beyond "April ye 20th 1775" when he was one of 37 men "That march[d] in the Alarm and staid at Roxbury 7 Days." That he was probably not in many of these expeditions is based upon the fact that in "an account of the Continental and State Services Done by the Inhabitance and Residence living within the Limits of the First Militia Company in the Town of Medway since April ye 19, 1775 to June 1777" his compensation was £2. There were only two men out of 136 with less compensation and the maximum payment was £28.

Marching orders for Roxbury may have read like this Medway order of 1777: "To the Military Officers and Select-men of the Town of Medway. You are Directed Emediately to Detach 3 Sub. 4 Ser. 4 Cor. and 47 Privates...from their Training Band and Alarm List. All of them to be able Bodyed Effective men on a Secret Expedition to be Ready to march on or Before the 25th Day of this Inst. September. Men to be completely Equiped with a good firelock and Bayonet thereto Cartridge Box Knapsack and Blanket. Man to continue in Service Thirty Days from the first Day of October Next unless sooner Discharged. Their Pay and Subsistence to be the same as the Continental Army. Also over and above to the non-Commissioned officers and Private Soldiers shall be paid 2s 3d pr mile Each, And Present their accounts to the Court for allowance and Payment... Any person who shall Be Detached as afores[d] who shall not in twenty-four after he is so Detached hire a man in his Room to the acceptance of the Officers that Detached him or shall Refuse to Equip himself or march when ordered to by his Commanding Officer shall be considered a Deserter and Punished Accordingle &c...."

---History of Medway by Jameson.

By the year 1779 Continental money was greatly depreciated as shown by the following "Regulation of Prices in the Town of Medway August y^{e} 24th 1779."

In April 1779 Daniel Marrow of Hopkinton, Mass., Innholder, was sued by Moses Richardson, Jun., of Medway, yeoman, for £30 damages "in a plea of trespass ...for that the said Moses sometime in the year of Our Lord, seventeen hundred and seventy at sd Medway was possessed of an iron spade steeld & it had a good Wooden handle & the same was of the value of eight pounds money...& afterwards the sd Moses casually lost it sometime in the beginning of the year 1778 the same spade by finding came into the hands of the said Daniel who well knew the same spade did of right belong to the pl^{t} but ye sd Daniel minding to defraud the plt...converted the same spade to his own use." (Suffolk County Court of Assistants record.)

Daniel Marrow sold his property in Medway 27 April 1778. Daniel Marrow of Hopkinton, Mass., bought 7 April 1779 from Henry Alline of Boston, clerk of the proprietors of Winthrop, Me., "Two lots of Land in Winthrop in the County of Lincoln...being lots number One and Two, containing two Hundred Acres each as delineated upon a Plan belonging to the Kennebec Proprietors dated June 11th 1766...for... Four Hundred and Ninety Pounds." ——Lincoln County deed. That he was living in Winthrop by the following year is shown by a Lincoln County court record in which Daniel Marrow of Winthrop was sued by Samuel Oakman of Pittston on a claim that Daniel had failed to pay a debt incurred 13 July 1780 for eighteen bushels of corn. Stackpole in his History of Winthrop said Daniel Marrow settled there in 1779. His land in Winthrop was in the southeast corner of the town and he built his house on it near the Monmouth line. A road was built to his house in 1780.

Of interest is his purchase of land in "a Place called Sandy River" because at that time a number of others of the family were then living in this valley, although this may have been unknown to Daniel Marrow for the reason that the only other male member of the other branch living there was known under the name Merry and the rest of that family were married daughters. Daniel Marrow bought 5 Sept. 1782 one hundred and fifty acres in Lot No 24 on the east side of the river. Recorded 20 May 1787. This land was sold to Supply Belcher of Farmington, Me., 17 March 1794, both Daniel and Elizabeth making their marks to this deed. Daniel Marrow was a farmer. He was moderator of the town meeting in Winthrop in 1782 and constable in 1786. He died in Winthrop 3 April 1812 and was buried there. (Me. D.A.R. death record). Elizabeth died there 12 Jan. 1827.

xi. Reuben, b. 14 May 1780 in Winthrop. Married Sally Stevens in 1801. They lived in Winthrop until 1811, when they moved to Wayne, Me. In the census of 1810 there showed one child in their family, but the census of 1820 listed none. There is a considerable possibility he was the Reuben Merrow who lived in Garland, Me., in 1830. In his family were then two females, both age 50-60; two males, one age 20-30 and the other age 5-10. Reuben himself was then age 50-60 years. No one named either Merrow or Marrow lived in Garland in 1850.

29. HANNAH[5] (MARROW) SPRAGUE, 1760-1839, (Daniel[4], Daniel[3] Marrow, alias Merrow, Daniel[2] Merrow, Henry[1]), was born in Medway, Mass., 4 Jan. 1760. Married Col. William Sprague, who was born in Mendon, Mass., 3 Mar. 1759, son of William and Margaret (Cheney) Sprague. He was a 5th generation descendent of William Sprague who came from England before 1629 and was settled in Hingham, Mass., by 1636. At the age of sixteen the William Sprague who was born in Mendon enlisted in the American Army in the Revolution. After serving about three years he was honorably discharged after being severely unjured in the hip. In 1779 he went to Greene, Me., then a wilderness, and settled on a small stream leading from the Hooper pond to Sabattus pond, which borders the town on the southeast. He occupied a log cabin until 1783 when he made brick and erected a substantial home. This house was standing in 1913 and had then always been owned by his descendents. His grist and saw mill was the first in the town. Sprague's Mills has always been one of the well-known locations in Greene.

31. DANIEL[5] MARROW, 1764-1847, (Daniel[4], Daniel[3] Marrow, alias Merrow, Daniel[2] Merrow, Henry[1]), was born in Medway, Mass., 5 May 1764. Married Hannah Chandler in Winthrop, Me., 20 Sept. 1786. She was born in New Ipswich, N.H., 19 Jan. 1768, daughter of John and Lydia (Taylor) Chandler. She was a 6th generation descendent of William Chandler who settled in Roxbury, Mass., in 1637. (John[5], William[4], William[3], Thomas[2], William[1]). They lived, first, in Winthrop where he lived near his father on Lot #3 in the town. This lot he bought in 1793 and sold in 1804 to John Phinney. Stackpole in his history of Winthrop said they moved from Winthrop in 1807, but this date seems early in view of the fact that he and his family were placed in Winthrop by the census of 1810 and as "Daniel Marrows" he served from Sept. 12 to Sept. 14, 1814 in Capt. E. Davenport's Co., Lt. Col. E. Sweet's Regt., which company was raised at Winthrop and served at Wiscasset, Me. He was a private. Daniel and Hannah Marrow moved to Berlin, Me., which was incorporated in 1826 and gave up its organization in 1846. He died there 3 July 1847, age 83y. She died in Phillips, Me., to which the territory formerly Berlin had been annexed, 27 June 1856. Both were buried on their farm in West Phillips.

Children:

i. Luther[6], b. 26 Aug. 1787. He married Betsey Brown in 1807. The marriage was probably in Winthrop and she was probably born there. She may have been a daughter of Unight and Rebecca (Arnold) Brown. Nothing more of their history has been found.

36. ii. Hannah, b. 28 Aug. 1788.

37. iii. Achsah, b. 17 Mar. 1790.

iv. Lewis, b. 19 Nov. 1791; d. 25 Dec. 1791.

38. v. Alice (or Elsy or Eloys), b. 20 Mar. 1793.

vi. Daniel, b. 24 Nov. 1794.

vii. Lois, b. 19 June 1796; m. Elisha Beedy in Berlin in 1814. He was a farmer and they lived in Berlin.

viii. David, b. 12 June 1798. William H. McKenney identified him as a brother of his grandmother, Rhoda (Marrow) Prescott, and said he lived in Phillips. Mr. McKenney believed David was married, but said he never heard of any children.

39. ix. Rhoda, b. 20 Mar. 1800.

x. Calvin; never married; lived in Phillips.

xi. Mary, b. July 1808; never married; lived in Phillips; d. there 5 Dec. 1893, age 85y 5mo. Identification of Calvin and Mary as children of Daniel[5] Marrow rests on information from William H. McKenney and Daniel F. Hoyt. Mr. McKenney said, "When I moved to West Phillips at the age of six, I saw these old people. Mary and Calvin lived together and never married. David was married and lived about a half mile from Mary and Calvin. So far as I know he didn't have any children. I always supposed they were brothers and sister of my grandmother, Rhoda Prescott." Mr. Hoyt confirmed the fact they never married and said he had heard his folks speak of Calvin, "who may have been a brother of Mary". Maine death records of Mary said she was dau. of David Marrow and Harriet Wheeler, which information is not correct.

Lydia Marrow may have been a daughter of Daniel and Hannah Marrow. She was married to Israel Dunham in Berlin, as published in Berlin records 27 April 1824. From the Dunham Genealogy by Mrs. Susan Cotton Tufts it appears Israel Dunham was a son of Joseph and Abigail (Bates) Dunham and that Israel and Lydia moved to Madrid, Me. This Dunham history was a manuscript found in the library of New England Genealogic Historical Society. At any rate Israel and Lydia were not in Phillips in the census of 1850 and Daniel F. Hoyt never heard of them there. He did know William, Sylvanus, Solomon, Augustus, Zebree, and Isaiah Dunham there, but did not know if they had any relationship to Israel and Lydia. Harold Worthley reported dates on their gravestones to have been: "Israel Dunham 1795-1843; Lydia Marrow 18-- ---."

45. LEWIS[6] MARROW, 1800- , (Samuel Harding[5], Daniel[4], Daniel[3], Marrow, alias Merrow, Daniel[2] Merrow, Henry[1]), was born in Winthrop, Me., 17 Sept. 1800. The name of his wife has not been discovered, but from census records it appears she was born between 1800 and 1810. That he was the Lewis Merrow who lived in Charleston, Me., in 1830 is highly probable.

Likewise, it seems most likely that he was the Lewis Marrow who lived there in 1840 and that he was the Lewis Marrow, hatter, who was there in 1850. In 1830 his age was 20 to 30; in 1840, 30 to 40; in 1850, 46 years. These ages, especially the last, wouldn't make his birth date coincide with that of 1800 given in History of Winthrop. However, no authority has been found to prove or disprove the accuracy of the 1800 date. No one named Merrow or Marrow lived in Charleston in 1820.

In 1830, the female in his household, age 20-30, would seem to have been his wife. She was age 30-40 in the 1840 census, but was not listed at all in 1850, thus suggesting she had died between 1840 and 1850. The younger people in his household in 1830 and 1840 were, presumably, his children. In 1850, only one, Luther, was living with him. Then in his household was Aurelia Lyford, age 40, born in Maine, probably a housekeeper. Also there was Calvin Clifford, age 6, also born in Maine. No record of the death of Lewis Marrow or his wife has been found.

Children:

i. _____ (a son b. 1820-1825.)
ii. _____ (a dau. b. 1820-1825.)
iii. _____ (a son, b. 1825-1830.)

55. iv. Luther, b. 1832.

There would seem to be some liklihood that one of the two unnamed sons above was SAMUEL MARROW, though there is no evidence to corroborate this opinion. This Samuel Marrow married Rachel Verrill in Charleston 12 Mar 1846. She was born in Bangor, Me. Their Charleston marriage record listed them both as residents of Charleston. From a study of the Charleston census records of 1860 and 1870 it would seem as if Samuel had died before that time and left several children. No record has been found to indicate what happened to Rachel. However, "Descendents of John Whitman" by Charles H. Farnam said a Rachel Marrow married Harrison Gray Otis as his second wife. This Harrison Gray Otis was b. 26 May 1825. It was further reported they moved from Sangerville, Me., to Charleston in 1865. The census of 1870 did not list them there. In addition this report said Rachel was dau. of Merrill Marrow. Since no evidence of there ever having been any person named Merrill Marrow has been found, the speculation is made that Rachel may have been the widow of Samuel Marrow.

Of their children, the following is offered as a probability, but not a certainty, except as noted:

I. Mary B., b. 1846. She was age 13 in 1870 and living in the family of Luther Marrow in East Corinth. This is a probable but not proven identification.

II. Ward S., b. 1850; age 20y in 1870 and living in family of H. C. Whitmore. Identification probable, but not proven.

III. Millard Filmore, b. 11 Oct. 1853. He was age 18y and living in 1870 in family of H.C. Whitmore in Charleston. From his Maine death record comes proof he was son of Samuel and Rachel. He married Ella Estelle Whitman, probably in Randolph, Me., 2 Nov 1884. She was born in Sangerville, or East Corinth, Me., dau. of Harrison G. and Ella M. (Bennett) Whitman. They lived in Dover or Gilford, Me., in 1888 and in Gardiner, Me., in 1898. He d. in Randolph 11 July 1932 and she d. there 4 Jan. 1939. Child, not saying there were no others:

(1) Ward S., b. about 1888 either in Dover or Gilford, m. Eugenia E. Bradstreet in Randolph, Me., 23 Jan. 1908. She was b. in Gardiner about 1886, dau. of Leslie W. and Clara (Kimball) Bradstreet. Lived in Randolph. Two children, one of whom was:

1. Gayland Whitman, b. 21 May 1913 in W. Gardiner. m. Lois Delia Allyn of Pittston, Me. She was b. in Dresden Me., about 1919, dau. of Edgar P. and Marion (Carey) Allyn. they were m. in Freeport, Me., 30 June 1934. Child: Norman Filmore, b. 2 Feb. 1935 in Randolph.

IV. Nellie M., b. 1854. She was age 16y in 1870 and living in family of H.C. Whitmore in Charleston. Presumably she was the same person as Ella Marrow, age 5y, who in 1860 lived in Charleston in family of Isaac Young.

Married Capt. Noah Jewett, probably in Winthrop, 31 Jan. 1863. He was born in Readfield, Me., 24 July 1835, son of John and Betsey (Barber) Jewett. He was an 8th generation descendent of Edward Jewett of Bradford, England, whose son, Deacon Maximilian Jewett, came from England in 1638 and founded the town of Rowley, Mass., in 1639. (*Capt. 55. LUTHER[7] MARROWS, 1832-1909. (Lewis[6] Marrow, Samuel Harding[5]. Daniel[3] Marrow, alias Merrow, Daniel[2] Merrow, Henry[1]), was born in Maine in 1832. His name was spelled Marrow in 1850 and 1860 census returns. He married Diana Bean in East Corinth, Me., 22 Nov. 1855, according to Corinth Marriage records. Note that he was then twenty-three years old. In 1860 they were living there and his age was twenty-seven, which tends to confirm his birth in or near 1832.

In 1850 the census taker had found him living in Charleston, Me., and his age was then eighteen, also placing his birth in 1832. He was living in the household of Lewis Marrow and the presumption is he was son of Lewis.

Diana (Bean) Marrows was born in Sutton, N.H., about 4 August 1825, daughter of Reuben and Mary (Smith) Bean. Luther and Diana Marrows lived in East Corinth where he was a blacksmith. She died there 4 Dec. 1908 and he died 30 May 1909. Both were buried there.

Children:

i. Mary B. Marrows, b. 1846. She was born in Maine and the census of 1860 gave her age as 13 years, thus placing her birth in or near 1846. Note this was nine years before Luther and Diana were married and that Luther was only fourteen years old in that year. While she was brought up in the household of Luther Marrows as a daughter, it seems quite improbable she was his natural daughter. Rather it seems more likely she was perhaps a niece and perhaps the daughter of Samuel and Rachel (Verrill) Marrow.

Mary B. Marrows was married and divorced. She married, 2nd, a man named Mower and they lived together only a short time. She died in July 1873 and was buried in East Corinth. She had a son who was brought up by Luther and Diana Marrows in their household under their name. He was:

I. Charles Luther Marrows, b. 9 July 1873 in Providence, R. I. He m., 1st, at the age of 21 years, Gertrude W. Southard of Bangor, Me. She was b. in Charleston 13 Jan. 1873, dau. of Merritt T. and Mary T. (Gregory) Southard. They had no children and she d. in Corinth, where they lived, 11 Mar. 1922.

He m., 2nd, in Corinth 11 Jan. 1923 Mrs. Maude Stevens Dexter, who was b. in Foxcroft, Me., 25 Nov. 1800, dau. of Lucius and Caroline (McInnis) Stevens. Charles Marrows was a carriage painter in early years and later had a garage and general store. They lived in Corinth and had no children. He d. in Concord, N.H., 26 Mar. 1945 and was buried in E. Corinth. She lived 1950 in Concord.

ii. Charley R. Marrows, b. 14 Aug. 1860; d. 31 Aug. 1862, age 2y 17da.

56. EDITH BELLE[8] (MARROW) HYDE, 1874- , (Deacon Samuel Harden[7], William Newton[6], Eben[5], Daniel[4], Daniel[3] Marrow, alias Merrow, Daniel[2] Merrow, Henry[1]), was born in Lewiston, Me., 14 May 1874. She graduated from Bates College in 1899 and was assistant teacher of Latin in New Hampton, N.H., Institute in 1899-1901. Married Rev. Alban Bernard Hyde in Auburn, Me., 26 June 1901. He was born in Banbury, Oxfordshire, England 20 June 1868, son of William and Emma (Tipping) Hyde. They lived in various places where he was pastor of Baptist churches. He was pastor of Free Baptist Church in Chepachet, R.I., 1901-1904; in Danville, N.H., 1904-1906; in Buffalo, N.Y., 1906-1911; in Bangor, Me., 1911-1916; and in Sabattus, Me., 1916-1920. He was pastor of Congregational Church in Peru, N.Y., 1920-1924; of Congregational Church in Auburn, Me., 1924-1939; and of Minot Center Congregational Church 1924-1943. He had graduated from Bates College in 1899 and from Yale Divinity School in 1901. He died in Lewiston, Me., 16 May 1944 and was buried in Herrick Cemetery there. She lived 1950 in Lewiston.

Children:

i. Donald Marrow Hyde, b. 10 June 1902 in Chepachet, R.I.; m. Elizabeth Caravan in March 1928; lived 1950 in Seattle, Wash. Child:
   I. Donald Marrow Hyde, Jr.

ii. Emma Mower Hyde, b. 18 Nov. 1904 in Danville; d. 12 Mar. 1905.

iii. Samuel Harden Hyde, b. 11 Aug 1907 in Buffalo; m. Lila Robinson 17 Aug. 1931 and they lived 1950 in Lewiston.
   I. Harold Bernard Hyde.
   II. Nancy Pamela Hyde.

iv. Edith Bertha Hyde, b. 8 Oct. 1912 in Bangor; m. Dr. Guy Howard Hutchins. He d. before 1950 and she lived then in Lewiston with her mother.

HENRY MERROW, JR., OF LYME, CONN.

4. HENRY[2] MERROW, 1664/6--after 1719, (Henry[1]); was born in Reading, Mass., about 1664 to 1666. He early showed a taste for wandering from the rest of the family in Reading, which got him into some difficulty. At the time of his father's death in 1685 he was not in Reading. As he himself stated in a probate court document 6 April 1886, he had "falen by enequety", which is more fully told in a record of Massachusetts Court of Assistants 15 Jan 1684: (Suffolk County court records, 1680-1692, Part II, p 205.) "Henry Merry of Reading prosecuted by Benjamin Lathrop of Barnstable for stealing from him Five pounds Seven Shillings in money at the Ordinary in Milton where sd Lathrop lodged one night upon his journey towards Boston in Decemb[r] ult[o]. being taken out of his breeches pocket whilst he was in bed, sd Merry being twice in y[e] same roome y[t] night whilst sd Lathrop was in bed, and haveing laid out a considerable sume of money since neer to that quantity which he can give no rational and satisfactory accompt where he had it; the Court judged sd Merry to be guilty....and sentenced him to pay unto the sd Benjamin Lathrop Sixteen Pounds and shilling in money being treble damages according to law, and to pay the fees of Court and prison standing committed untill this Sentence be performed. And the Court at ye same time ordered y[t] in case sd Merry (failed to pay) the aforesd sum within the space of fourteen days...then the sd Benjamin Lathrop....have liberty to make sale of sd Merry for his satisfaction in any of his Majesties Dominions, not exceeding four years time for his Service."

That he was not sold to the dominions would seem to be evident from the very fact that he was able to sign a Middlesex County Probate record early in 1686. Therefore, someone must have appeared and payed the fine and costs assessed against him. That this was probably his father would seem to be borne out by the settlement of the latter's estate that the heirs, except Henry Jr., agreed to in a petition to the court 6 April 1686. In this Henry Merrow, Jr., was cut off, the words being evidently those of his mother; "henry marow shall have but five shillings wch was as much as my husband did offten say he should have by Reason of some actes of stobreneses of his to his father." Henry, Jr., did not accede to this distribution and himself on the same day submitted a petition to the same court: "my mother with my brethren and sisters are about to make an agreement among themselves to despose of the estate which my father dyed seized of, to themselves...and to exclude me as if I were not their brother, when as they know y[t] my father Intended to give me the greatest portion in his Estate: Now they aledge that I have falen by enequity and put my father to charge and he Intended to cutt me off as to any right in his estate ....I haveing suffered the law for my crime, and being ashamed absconded for Awhile, and god took away my Honoured father in the mean time, now it is too much for my brothers and sisters to punish me againe....I humbly pray y[t] your honours would....make division of the Estate yourselves according to law."

The court appointed a committee and nothing was done for five years when Henry, Jr., who had apparently won over some junior members of the family, for himself and as co-guardian for his brother Joseph, and his sisters Mary, Sarah, and Hannah, prayed the court that he be appointed joint administrator with his mother. The court appointed his oldest brother, Daniel. Trouble over the estate boiled over in 1693 when Widow Jane appealed to the court: "That Henry Merrow haveing in a privat way gotten two of her Children down to y^{e} Court and there gott allowance of theire Choice of Guardians, viz^{t} himselfe & Nathan Richardson which is like to be ye Ruine of her Estate y^{t} is as yet undivided and the said Henry haveing had his full portion of his fathers Estate." She objected "to her son Henry, who und^{r} that denomination, or Colour of Guardian to one of ye Children, Comes into y^{e} Estate and makes cfroy (?) therof at a sad rate:....he comes in and Cutts his brothers Wood and Timber while he is now in y^{e} Country Service and knows nothing of it and none of us his relations can hinder his so doing w^{ch} is unrighteously done."

Peace settled down in 1694 when all members of the family signed a family treaty of peace and arbitration resulting in a final settlement. Henry, Jr., signed twice, once for himself and once as guardian for his sister Deborah. Significantly, Henry, Jr., signed his name and did not make his mark. He evidently had learned to write for to all documents he signed his name, whereas several but not all others of the family made their marks.

He married Miriam Brooks of Woburn, Mass., early in, or before, 1690/1 for on 12 Feb. 1690/1 they sold to Henry Sumers and Jacob Wyman, both of Woburn, for £12 5s "one parcel of land containing by estimation fifty-five acres....within the limits of Woburn....all which said parcell of Land, was given and bequeathed unto her y^{e} said Miriam by (her) grandfather Henry Brooks, late of Woburn." Their signatures read Merry, although all signatures to subsequent Middlesex County deeds were Merrow. Miriam Brooks was born in Woburn 16 Dec. 1673, daughter of Isaac and Mirium (Daniels) Brooks. Her grandfather, Henry Brooks was a freeman in Concord in 1639 and came to Woburn from Concord. In Woburn he was one of the first settlers.

Henry Merrow, Jr., served in the military expedition of 1690 against Canada, as did his brother Daniel, although his term of service seems to have been shorter. In August 1690 he was on the high seas in the ship America Merchant, Capt. Joseph Eldredge commanding. Isaac Brooks was in the same mess with Henry. These facts were all brought out in the trial of Henry, Jr., for the theft of a pistol from Nathaniel Eames, also on this expedition. Henry was acquitted, proving that Eames had turned over the pistol to him in payment for things Eames had taken from Henry's chest on the ship. Later, in 1696, he was again in armed service, this time with his brothers in the privateer Salem Galley. "Henry Marrow, Samuel Merry, and Daniel Marrow" had signed "Articles of agreement made and fully Conditioned upon ye Thirtieth Day of March 1696 between Richard Harris Comander of ye good ship called ye Salem Galley now riding at Anchor in ye Harbour of Salem....and ready to proceed on Such a Voiage or Expedition of Warr against ye French as ye Said Comander by Comission from ye Hon^{ble} William Stoughton, Lt. Governour is apointed or as the said Comander in his judgement shall resolve." The ship's company was to receive fourteen full shares "of any booty purchase or prizes found got taken or procured." Each man was to furnish his own arms and accoutrements. There is record of this ship having been at Marblehead. (Suffolk County, Mass., Court records).

On 10 March 1690 Henry acquired a farm in Reading for £20 from James Stimpson, "eldest son and heir of (Dr.) James Stimpson, late of Redding", securing "All his whole share, part, proportion, divided estate, right, title" to "the Housing, Lands, Tenements, gardens, orchards, grounds, meadow, marsh, arable, woodland....lying in and being in Reading or also where found in New England & other personal estate which ye said James Stimpson dyed, seized & possessed of at the time of his decease by force and virtue of ye last will & testament of said Stimpson (deceased)". To this James Stimpson made his mark. That Henry occupied this property for a short term of years is probable for his eldest daughter was born in Reading. Difficult to reconcile with the foregoing is a statement in Lilley Eaton's History of Reading that in 1691 "Gershom Davies, Henry Merrow, and Andrew Beard were warned out of town." This ceremony was performed at that time and for many years afterward in relation to newcomers who, in the opinion of the town government, were likely to need pecuniary assistance. Yet, in 1692, there was another land division in the town, based on the usual "minister rates". Henry, Jr., shared in this division, having paid a rate of 12s 3d, more than his brother John had paid.

That the life of the times was not all work and no play is apparent from a court case which began in 1693 and harassed Henry for a number of years. He was at the home of Josiah Parker on 8 Sept. 1693 together with Samuel Polly and Gershom Swon of Charlestown. They were spending the evening there indulging in a friendly game of Cross and Pile, simultaneously enlivening the hours with some strong liquid refreshment. It appears that Henry loaned Swon three shillings which the latter failed to repay. About midnight the party broke up and Josiah Parker's three guests started on their homeward ways. Gershom Swon evidently started alone, for Samuel Polly and Henry followed him. Enroute they caught up with him and Henry recaptured his loan by force, administering to Swon considerable of a beating by way of interest. The latter had Henry arrested for assault and robbery, claiming to have been robbed of five or six shillings. After many appearances in court over several years the outcome of what started to be a "friendly game" turned out to be a conviction against Henry. Cross and Pile would now be called Heads and Tails. It was a coin game the name of which was derived from old English coins which had a cross on one side.

By the following year Henry had moved to adjacent Woburn. He sold 26 Feb. 1693/4 the farm he had bought from James Stimpson to Henry Brooks of Reading, probably his brother-in-law, in exchange for the latter's property in Woburn plus a money consideration. This Woburn property included a "mansion house, barn, and fourteen acres, part orchard, part arable, part pasture, and part meadow" together with another parcel of thirty acres and woodland of twenty acres--sixty-four acres in all. A mortgage on this property, which he gave to James Converse 2d, was discharged 30 Mar. 1696. Johnson in his Abstract of Woburn Deeds placed this property within the bounds of present Stoneham.

On the evidence of old deeds Henry, Jr., was a tailor in Woburn. Since no record of his having had a shop has appeared, it is quite probable that he did his tailoring in the homes of his customers, then a common custom. In early colonial days manufacturing of cloth in all its different stages from the wool on the backs of the sheep to the finished garments was conducted at home. There were made all the family garments, not only for everyday wear but the go-to-meeting clothes of the men and even the suits the minister wore into the pulpit. Every house had cards and the great wheel and little wheel, reel and swifts and dye tub in the kitchen, and scarn, warping bars, and loom in chamber or garret. The women all understood the art of making cloth. After the cloth was made the tailor was sent for to make garments for the family. He came with his goose--"whipping the goose" they called his trade...and between his shears and the busily plied needles of the women the members of the family were in due time clothed. How proud the boys must have felt in their new jackets with brass buttons!

That his income was solely from tailoring is unlikely. He seems to have continued being something of a farmer, for in 1695 he sold a pair of oxen to Terrence Henley and in 1697 he purchased cows of John Pindar, his brother-in-law. In 1695 he also tried his hand at a new venture, that of innkeeper. He then bought a "house of public entertainment" in Woburn from Israel Read and petitioned the court for a transfer of Read's license to himself. The following February this venture involved him in trouble with the authorities for he was up for a second offense of selling strong drink without a license. In 1697 he secured from David Stimpson of Reading, another son of Dr. James Stimpson, by assignment, David's rights and shares in prize money due him in two Boston boats.

In 1695 he had sold to J. Vinton several "out lots" and also "15 acres of Bare Hill, formerly of John Long, bot by me of Henry Brooks". It was probably in 1698 that Henry, Jr., and his family moved away from Woburn for on 10 May of that year they transfered to John Fowle of Woburn for £48 their property in Woburn which was de scribed as: "One small Tenement containing by estimation about Twenty Rodd of ground; it contains also one dwelling house wth a kittchin near adjoining to y^{e} s^{d} Dwelling house and a barn with a little house on y^{e} backside, a garden platt and yard room for cattle with a privilege to set a small house or shop under y^{e} rocks, to ye Northward of ye well, two or three apple trees and a well wth a pump in it, and a little garden between ye kittchin & ye well".

That the controversy of a few years back over the settlement of his father's estate was not wholly dead may be gathered from an interesting deed of 19 Oct. 1706, in which the elder brother Daniel Merrow conveyed to Henry Merrow, Jr., property in Reading in which the sole consideration was "love of his brother". At this distance of time we can only speculate on the sincerity of that love when reflection is also given to the fact that brother Samuel was at that same time claiming this particular land as his own. Excerpts from this deed are: "Whereas by a Settlement of the estate of Henry Merrow of Reading, my father deeded the thirty acres of land adjoining to John Parker's Land and ye five acres of medow at the Hundred Acres is settled upon Samuell Merrow and Joseph Merrow and their heirs equally divided, and they obliged to pay their sister Jane Merrow ye sum of £13 at her arrival at the age of twenty one, or ye day of marriage, as by a settlement approved in Probate Court, Feb. 27 1693/4."

"And whereas Said Joseph Merrow by his last will and testament dated Sept. 11, 1694, did give to his Mother all the Rents of the land belonging to him during her natural life, and after the decease to his brother Henry, and by the sd will may more fully appear by virtue whereof the sd Henry Merrow has the good and undoubted right and title to the equal half of the thirty acres of land and medow above mentioned,-"

"Now know ye that I the said Daniel Merrow for divers good consideration, and love of ye family that I bear to the sd Henry Merrow, My Brother, and that he and his heirs may personally hold and live on ye land and medow, do quit claim him all my right.... "

The last record of Henry, Jr., in Massachusetts is of great value in placing his residence and more in disclosing his occupation. (Suffolk County Court record, file No. 162787.) On 4 Jan. 1706/7 "Henry Merry, now resident in Boston, marine mariner,....and Samuel Polley or Woburn ....weaver....for stealing, receiving, or concealing a silver tankard belonging to Edward Bromfield."

That he was in the same period a resident of Lyme, Conn., appears for "At a Court 7 Sept. 1706, Disborough Spencer, of Hartford, and Henry Merry, of Lyme, were complained of before this Court, by Joseph Gilbert, Grand Juryman, for that, on the 2d day of the instant September, they having a quarrel between themselves, did contrary to the peace of our Sovereign Lady the Queen and the laws of this Colony challenge each other to decide their quarrel with swords; and for that purpose, at the common Landing Place in Hartford, did take swords into their hands to fight." The foregoing quotation was from the Spencer Family in Goodwin Genealogical Notes by Nathaniel Goodwin. No documentary evidence has been found to prove that Henry Merry, or Merrow, of Lyme and Henry Merrow, Jr., of Reading and Woburn were one and the same man. By virtue of the very thorough study made of the family in all its branches for over ten years before this conclusion was accepted it seems certain beyond a reasonable doubt that the two men were identical. It is doubtful if more records of him or his family will be uncovered in Lyme, or in Southold, or in the Conn. State Library in Hartford, considering the exhaustive nature of the search.

The next record of Henry Merrow was made some three or more years lster when he was still living in Lyme and was still a mariner. Early in 1710-11 he figured in a receipt given in Southold, N.Y. This receipt was dated in Oysterponds, which is now Orient or Orient Point. It is in the town of Southold, the oldest town in New York State. It has always been from the earliest times New England in psychology and was at one time part of the New Haven Colony. The record follows:

"Oysterponds this 2^{d} of March $17\frac{10}{11}$"

"Then and there received of Mr. Edward Johnson shipwright y^{e} full and just sum of thirty shillings in money which is in full of all accompts. Bargains, Bills, Bonds, Debts, or other merchantdice whatsoever from the begining of the world to y^{e} day of y^{e} date hereof, I say received of me."

"Henry Marow"

Pr Benj: Youngs Town Cler.[2]

(From Southold Town Records, Vol II, by J. Wickham Chase.)

That he was a resident of Lyme in 1712 and perhaps in 1711 is further confirmed from Colonial Records of Connecticutt, Vol. 5, in which payment to him was authorized in 1712 for service previously rendered, probably in 1711. "At a meeting of the Governour and Council at Hartford February 21st 1711/12 ... Ordered that the treasurer do pay...for certain payments...to several persons in Major Burr's, Capt. Crane's and Capt. Ward's company...

To Serjt Merry of Lime £ 00s 10d."

"At a meeting of the Governour and Council in Hartford May 22d 1712... There being several souldiers of Col. Whiting's regiment in the late expedition against Canada whose debentures could not be made out with the rest, for the uncertainty of the time when they were discharged; and Commissary Woolcott having made return to this board of several of them, whose discharges have since been returned to him, and of what remains due unto them; Resolved, that order be given to the treasurer for their payment...as followeth:

To Henry Merry of Lyme £1 00s 00d."

That Henry Merrow was a mariner was shown by Joshua Hempstead of New London in his Diary. He wrote of coming from Southold to New London in the King's Sloop with Henry Merrow. He meant "coming" in the sense that Henry Merrow was master of the sloop. Another record in the town books of Lyme also attested to his being a mariner: "These may certifie y^{t} whereas Henry merrow and Jonathan penfield being bound from Road island to Saybrook in A small sloop Laden with Rum sugar and molases and sundery other goods and by stress of bad weather were forced on shore last night on ye eastern point in Lyme november ye 17th 1715. Test."

Jonathan penfield"

The last record concerning him is to be found in Early Connecticutt Probate Records by Charles William Manwaring. "Mr Henry Merrow of Lyme, in the County of New London and Colony of Connecticutt, seafareing man, personnaly appeare before me and made oath that he did see John Robinson signe the above written will...Lyme 28 Dec 1719...Pr Moses Noyes Justice Peace."

No record of Henry's death has been found. "Old Ms Merrowformerly of Lyme & Late of Sohold buried May 1, 1747; "died yesterday", wrote Joshua Hempstead in his Diary, thus indicating that Miriam Merrow lived to be over seventy years old. The presumption is that Henry had died earlier.

Children:[3]
i. Ruth[3], b. 5 April 1693 in Reading.
ii. Elizabeth, b. 21 Jan. 1694 in Woburn. New England Historical & Genealogical Register, Vol. 58, placed her birth 21 Jan. 1695, one year later than above.
iii. Elisha, b. 1700. While no documentary evidence of his paternity has been found, that he was a son of Henry and Miriam is a reasonable certainty. He m. Mary Nolin in Southold 14 June 1723 or 1722, the Salmon records of Southold not being clear as to which year. He d. in Southold 4 July 1724 and was buried in Southold Village, his g.s. reading 24y. No record of any children has been found. Mary (Nolin) Merrow m., 2nd, Joseph Applin in Southold 23 Sept. 1728.
56. iv. Jane.
57. v. Nathan.

56. JANE[3] (MERROW) LUTHER, , (Henry[2], Henry[1]), was born, probably in Boston, Mass., or Lyme, Conn. Her paternity has not been established by documentary evidence, but seems reasonably certain. Married Benjamin Luther in Southold, N.Y., 1 Nov. 1723 or 1722, Salmon Records of Southold not being clear as to which year. For the further record of this couple this history is indebted entirely to Leslie Leon Luther of Moravia, N.Y., who together with his wife, Bertha (Kind) Luther, were in 1945 publishers of "The Luther Family", a genealogical paper devoted to the interests of the descendents of Captain John Luther of the Massachusetts Bay Colony. Because of Mr. Luther's extensive and scholarly research into Luther family history his conclusions may be accepted as authoritative.

Benjamin Luther was born in Swansea, Mass., about 1700, son of Samuel and Sarah Luther. He was a great grandson of the immigrant Capt. John Luther. (Benjamin[4], Samuel[3], Samuel[2], Capt. John[1]). This Benjamin Luther has been shown to have had a wife named Jane, probably the Jane Merrow of the Southold marriage record. No record has been found to place the time and place of the deaths of either Benjamin and Jane Luther.

Children:
i. Nathan Luther, b. 24 Sept. 1726 in Swansea, Mass.; lived in East Haddam, Conn.; received bounty 28 Mar. 1781. His wife was Elizabeth and their probable children were:
I. Benjamin Luther, b. 1765; lived in Corinth, Vt.
II. Nathan Luther; m., prob., Sally Avery; lived in Vermont.
ii. Benjamin Luther; a probable son of Benjamin and Jane; d. in New London 8 Mar. 1763.

57. NATHAN[3] MERROW, . (Henry[2], Henry[1]), was born, perhaps, in Boston, Mass. His paternity has not been established by documentary evidence but is reasonably certain. Married Anna Curwin in Southold, N.Y., 6 Oct. 1724. She was born, perhaps, in Southold and was, undoubtedly, a descendent of Matthias Corwin, or Curwen, who settled in Ipswich, Mass., in 1633 and who in 1640 moved to Southold. They lived in Southold as the many references to their family in Salmon records of Southold would indicate. That he was a mariner is clearly evident by the many entries in Joshua Hempstead's Diary pertaining to him:

1730 Nov. 30	"Ledyard & Wife & child & Merrow came from Sohold today Lodged here" at New London, Conn.
1730/1 Jan.	"Wednesd 6.....John and Abigail (Hempstead) come home from Sohold with Merrow."
1731 Nov.	"Tuesd 23 fair I came home.....in Braddick's Boat. Nathan Merrow sent her to bring us. wee came from Griffings near one Clock. a fair SW wind. wee got home by daylight."

1739/40 Jan.	"Saturd. 19 Nathan Merrow came along in a Sloop from New York & Lay by us & I went on bord of him & so go up to Sohold by 11 at night & I lodged at Griffings."
	"Mond 21 fair in the aftern I went on bord Merrow & so to Sagg Harbour in the Eve & Lodged at Russells."
1746 June	"fryd 6.....a Boy Son of Nath Merrow Drownded in ye River (at New London) in the Range of ye ferry. Struck over with the Boom out of his fathers Boat & he was in the Boat. about 10 yrs of age."

Anna (Curwin) Merrow died in Southold 10 Feb 1745. She was probably buried there but no stone or cemetery record has been found.

Children (probably an incomplete record):

i. Anna[4], "Nathan Merows Daughter Annah" d. 7 Apr. 1730.
58. ii. Elisha, b. 1728.
iii. "Nathan Merows son" d. 23 Oct. 1733.
iv. "Nathan Merows Infant Daug." d. 21 Jan. 1737.
v. Son, b. about 1736; drowned at New London 6 June 1746.

58. ELISHA[4] MERROW, 1728-1817, (Nathan[3], Henry[2], Henry[1]), was born perhaps, in Southold, N.Y., in 1728. His paternity has not been established by documentary evidence, but that he was a son of Nathan is highly probable. That he was a tailor, at least in his earlier years, is shown by excerpts from Joshua Hempstead's Diary:

1748/9 Feb.	"Wed 8...Elisha Merrow & Ruth Shaply at work on my great coat" in New London. "Thursd 9...Merrowfinished at noon". "fryd 17...p(aid) Elish Merrow 20s in full." "Mond 20. fair ' moderate. I was with Joshua & Adam cutting & drawing wood of from the Island. Elisha Merrow helped Joshua cutt. Adam went with the Team. brot home 2 Load & drew 5 of from ye Island".
1749 June	"Thursd 8...Elisha Merrow finisht my jacket 2 days."
1749/50 Jan.	"Wednsd 31...Elisha Merrow finisht my Coat 3 days."

Elisha Merrow married Mary Munsell in Lyme 20 Oct. 1751, ceremony being performed by Elder Joshua Rogers. She was born there 7 Apr. 1729, daughter of John and Mary (Lester) Munsell. They lived, first, in Lyme and the first home he purchased there 28 Jan. 1755. He sold this 7 May 1761. "Samuel Gustin Jun[r] of Lyme in the County of New London for...Four Hundred and fifty pounds...payd by Elisha Merrow of sd Lyme....sell...to the sd Elisha Merrow...one Quarter of an acre of Land in sd Lyme with a Mansion House and a small Barn thereon." From Joseph Lee of Southold Elisha bought 14 June 1758 fourteen and a half acres in Lyme, probably located within the present town of East Lyme. This he sold to Jason Lee of Lyme 11 Feb. 1773. He bought 23 Jan. 1765 from Moses Dudley of Saybrook four acres with a Mansion House, Barn, and Shop, this site being probably in South Lyme. He was living there 18 Aug. 1777 when he sold it to Stephen Tinker of New London. Other land transactions were in various parts of Lyme. From John Marvin of Guilfour (Gilford) New Hampshire he bought fourteen acres at Boggy Hole, now in the Old Lyme section, 8 Jan. 1768. Later the same year, 21 June, he bought three pieces of land and a house from Jedediah Beckwith of Lyme, selling it back to Beckwith 27 Mar. 1770. This was in East Lyme. Forty seven acres of upland and salt marsh he bought, 24 May 1773 from Joseph Mather of Lyme, in old Lyme section.

Of particular interest is a sale made by Elisha 19 Sept. 1775 to Noah Miller, Jr., of "one certain shop or small House which I lately built which is standing on the Bank on the East side of Connecticutt River by the Town or Ferry wharf which is on the East side of the River". By 1788 they had moved to Middletown, Conn., for on 22 Jan. of that year Elisha and his wife, Mary, sold to Capt. James Huntley of Lyme their right in the estate of "our Honoured father Mr. John Munsell, late of Lyme". They again quitted their claim to an eight acre tract of this same estate to James Huntley 15 May 1797, but they were then of East Hartford, Conn.

The census of 1790 showed them living in Middletown. Where they had lived there is perhaps described in a grantor deed of their son-in-law, Jonathan Pratt, in 1792. The latter at that time sold land in Middletown "lying on the Mountain near the Black Pond Road to Meriden Bound[d] West on the Top of the Mountain North on Elisha Merrow land". Elisha Merrow of Middletown had bought 16 Nov. 1790 "land scituated in East Hartford in Quantity about one Acre and a Half...with a Mansion House, Barn, and out Houses thereon... bounded...North on Land of Deacon Joseph Makens". By 1791 they had moved to East Hartford for on 29 July of that year he sold land and buildings in Middletown and was then described as of East Hartford. However, he had been a property holder there as early as 1784 for 26 Oct. of that year he was voted an abatement in rates, as appeared in East Hartford Congregational Church records. He died in East Hartford 23 Oct. 1817, age 88y. Mary died there 10 Mar. 1818, age 88y. Both were buried in East Hartford.

Children:

59. i. Elisha[5], b. 21 June 1753. (See chapter: Elisha Merrow of Sempronius, N.Y.)

v. Elizabeth, b. 2 Sept. 1762; m. Jonathan Pratt in East Hartford 30 Jan. 1784. He was probably the Jonathan Pratt who was bp. there 29 Sept. 1754, son of Jonathan and Mary (Kilbourn) Pratt. He was a descendent of John Pratt who came from England to Newton, now Cambridge, Mass., about 1632 and who in 1636 was an early settler of Hartford. Jonathan Pratt served in the Revolution in Capt. Sheppard's Company in 1777, 30 Mar. to 19 May, at Peekskill, N.Y. Jonathan and Elizabeth Pratt were living in Meddletown as late as 1819, this being the date of a record there. Elizabeth, however, was "late of Middletown and now of East Hartford" 12 Feb. 1820 when her brother Nathan deeded to her land in Middletown he had bought from her husband i in 1814. This land was bounded by that of "Elisha Merrow".

63. vii. Abigail, b. 14 Feb. 1768.

60. JOHN[5] MERROW, 1755- , (Elisha[4], Nathan[3], Henry[2], Henry[1]), was born in Lyme, Conn., 21 July 1755. Married Hannah Mather in Lyme 4 June 1775, the ceremony being performed by Eleazer Mather, JP. She was born in Lyme 25 Dec. 1754, daughter of John and Marcy (Higgins) Mather. She was a 6th generation descendent of Rev. Richard Mather who came from England in 1635 and who settled in Dorchester, Mass., as minister of the newly formed church there. (John[5], Joseph[4], Richard[3], Timothy[2], Rev. Richard[1]). John Merrow was a seaman on the ship Oliver Cromwell in Capt. Coit's cruise Feb. 1777; also listed on this ship as "armourer; discharged".

It seems highly probable that a reference to "Mrs. Merrow" in the diary of Col. Nathan Hale's brother, Enoch Hale, as published in "Documentary Life of Nathan Hale" by George Dudley Seymour of New Haven, Conn., applied to this Hannah Merrow. "4 June Coventry 1777 pleasant. Brother Nn's things brot home yesterday aft(ernoon) attend conference Mrs. Merrow's Jn ride to Uncle Strong's & lodge Revd & Uncle Asa Strong there 3ms (miles)".

John and Hannah Merrow lived, first, in Lyme for their eldest child was born there. They may have lived for a time in East Hartford, Conn., for a John Merrow, probably this one, owned the covenant and was baptized in the First Congregational Church there 27 Jan. 1782. That they lived in Middletown, Conn., is apparent from the census record of 1790 which indicated he had a family in which there were four females, presumably wife Hannah and three daughters. Hannah Merrow also deposed that they lived in Middletown, her statement appearing in The American Mercury in Hartford in November 1801 and January 1802, "whereas Hannah Merrow of Middletown presented her petition to the Supreme Court at Haddam of the term the 2nd Tuesday of Dec stating that on the 4th day of June 1775 she was married to John Merrow then of Lyme New Haven County but afterwards of Middletown and that more than ten years since the said Merrow departed the State, deserted the petitioner, etc., filed petition for divorce this 11th of November 1801, said petition continued until Superior Court at Middletown last Tuesday of July next. Said John Merrow notified to appear (if he see this)".

John Merrow was not mentioned at the time of his father's death in 1817, so may have died before that year. Hannah married, 2nd, Abraham Warner of Middletown.

Children:

i. John Oliver[6], b. 26 Aug. 1775. He was of New Haven County, Conn., 23 Apr. 1823, when he sold his "undivided half of a wood lot lying in Middletown...containing sixty acres" to his brother Elisha M. Merrow and to Joseph G. Merrow. All that is positively known further about him is that he died 22 July 1830, age 55y, and was buried in Milford, Conn. The woman below, whose paternity has not been discovered, may or may not have been his daughter. The strongest evidence that she may have been is that she was buried in the same cemetery in Milford as John Oliver Merrow.

I. Sally F[7] b. about 1798; m. Joseph Franklin in Milford 7 Dec. 1819. She d. 12 Oct. 1830, age 28y. He m., 2nd, Amanda Hotchkiss, who was b. 16 Feb. 1862, age 73y.

He was born in Middletown Upper House, Conn., 3 July 1762, son of Aaron and Sarah (Olmstead) White. He was a 6th generation descendent of Elder John White who came from England in 1632 on the ship Lyon and was one of the original proprietors of Hartford in 1636, and who was later a settler of Hadley, Mass. (Aaron[3], Hugh[4], Ensign Daniel[3], Capt. Nathaniel[2], Elder John[1].)

Samuel White purchased all other interests in the Aaron White homestead and in 1814 sold out to John Hand, a Revolutionary soldier, and moved to Oneida County, N.Y., where he lived at Holland Patent in the town of Trenton. Henry Grew, probably in East Hartford, Conn., between 1811 and 1813. He was born in Birmingham, England, 25 Dec. 1781, son of John and Mary (Coltman) Grew. He had come to Boston, Mass., with his father in 1795 when the latter, a merchant, moved with his family from England to Boston. This was Rev. Henry Grew's third marriage. His first was to Susan Pitman of Providence, R.I., in 1802. She died in 1809 and they had three children: Susan Grew, Elisa Grew, and Julia Grew. His second marriage was to Harriet Johnson of Middletown, Conn., in 1810. They had one child: Henry Johnson Grew.

Rev. Henry Grew had lived in Providence. He became pastor of the Baptist church in Hartford in 1807, serving until 1811. He and his wife, Catherine or Kate, continued to live there until 1832/3 when they moved to Boston. In 1834 they moved to Philadelphia, Pa. He served as a delegate to the World's Anti-slavery Convention in London in 1840. Catherine Grew died in Philadelphia 2 July 1845 and Rev. Henry Grew died there 8 Aug 1862. 66. JOSEPH GILBERT[6] MERROW, 1780-1820, (John[5], Elisha[4], Nathan[3], Henry[2], Henry[1]), was born, probably in Middletown, Conn., about 1780. Married Betsey Price in Rocky Hill, Conn., 20 March 1805. She was born there 3 Oct.

1785, daughter of Capt. Jonathan and Jemima (Goodrich) Price. He was then of Middletown. They may have lived in Wethersfield, Conn., for he was of that place when he died. He died in Delaware 13 Sept. 1820, age 40y. She, perhaps, lived afterward in Hartford for she was called "widow Betsey Merrow" in the death notice of her daughter Elizabeth, who died in Hartford in 1837.

i. Joseph G.[7], b. 22 Aug. 1814. He was probably their son. He m. Julia A. Bailey of Middletown there 1 July 1838. He d. 21 Aug. 1844 and she m., 2nd, Charles Hulse 9 Dec. 1849. iii. John G., b. about 1819; guardian appointed for him in New Haven 4 Apr. 1837, he then being of New Haven and about 18 years old. There is no positive evidence to prove him son of Joseph and Betsey. He seems to have been of the right age and place to have been their son. He m., 1st, Julia A. Phillips of Hartford there 21 Apr. 1842. She d. there 22 Aug. 1843, age 19y. He m., 2nd, Lucy S. Gardner 11 April 1847, both being then of Hartford. This was a Rocky Hill marriage record. I. Joseph G.[8], b. 7 Dec. 1850 in Granby, Conn. In this Granby birth record, John G. was age 31y and Lucy was 20y. This Joseph may have been the Joseph Merrow, "age 3y", son of "J.B. Merrow", who d. in Waterbury, Conn., 21 Aug. 1855.

67. ELISHA M.[6] MERROW, , John[5], Elisha[4], Nathan[3], Henry[2], Henry[1]), was born, probably in Middletown, Conn. Married Sally Price, probably in Rocky Hill, Conn. She was born there 13 Mar. 1793, daughter of Capt. Jonathan and Jemima (Goodrich) Price. She was a sister of the Betsey Price who married his brother, Joseph Gilbert Merrow. About this marriage it was established by Capt. Charles Hyde Olmstead's "Twenty-four East Hartford Families" that Elisha M. Merrow married a Price woman. That Sally Price married a Merrow man was established by the genealogical records of Caroline Elizaberh (Merrow) Lewis. While there is no documentary proof that the two records pertain to identical persons, it is highly probable that such is the case. Elisha M. Merrow was of Wethersfield, Conn., when he sold land located in Middletown 26 Apr. 1823. He died, perhaps in Wethersfield, after 1823 and before 1830.

Children:

She died in New Haven, Conn., 30 Dec. 1875, age 82y 10mo and was buried there in Fair Haven Union Cemetery. Her death notice in a New Haven newspaper at that time spoke of her as Mrs. Dr. Sarah Huntley.

68. CAROLINE A.[7] (MERROW) HUNTLEY, 1816-1840, (Elisha M.[6], John[5], Elisha[4], Nathan[3], Henry[2], Henry[1]), was born in Rocky Hill, Conn., 7 June 1816; also called Caroline E. Married Otis Huntley in Hartford, Conn., 11 Oct. 1837. She was then of Wethersfield, Conn., and he of Ellington, Conn. He was a brother of the Henry Huntley who married her mother. 69. WILLIAM HENRY[7] MERROW, 1821-1894, (Elisha M.[6], John[5], Elisha[4], Nathan[3], Henry[2], Henry[1]), was born in Rocky Hill, Conn., 24 April 1821. He married, 1st, Mary Elizabeth Gould of East Granby, Conn., 1 June 1847, he being then of Hartford. She was born, probably in Granby, 31 May 1823, daughter of Gurdon Carlton and Catherine (Chapman) Gould. She was a sister of the Caroline Maria Gould who married his brother, Jacob Price Merrow. William Henry Merrow was a sea captain in 1857. The New Haven Journal & Courier of 29 Jan. of that year called him "Captain Merrow" of the schooner Daniel Trowbridge. This schooner, according to that newspaper, was held from going to sea because of the ice in Long Island Sound and was anchored at the edge of the ice near New Haven. His nephew, William Henry Huntley, sailed with him at one time and always later called him "Captain Merrow". William Henry and his wife, Mary Elizabeth, were divorced 21 Feb. 1862.

Child:
i. George T.[8], b. about 1848; d. 11 Sept. 1850, age 1y 9mo; buried in New Haven. This age does not place him correctly as son of any wife of Jacob P. It is assumed that the age at death was incorrectly stated in the record.

Jacob Price Merrow married, 2nd, Caroline M. Smith, perhaps in New Haven, 29 Nov. 1849. She was born there 16 Mar. 1825. They were living in New Haven in 1851 when his name was first listed there in the directory. He was a shirtmaker. She died there 19 Sept. 1861.

Chapter V

ELISHA MERROW OF SEMPRONIUS, N.Y.

59. ELISHA[5] MERROW, 1753-1830, (Elisha[4], Nathan[3], Henry[2], Henry[1]), was born in Lyme, Conn., 21 June 1753. An Elisha Merrow was in Lieut. Lay's Co., Conn. State troops, with service from 20 Oct 1775; 57 days; raised at Lyme. While this could have been the senior Elisha, it was more likely the son (Elisha[5]) who was at that time twenty-two years old.

He married Elizabeth Jerome in Lyme 6 Nov. 1777, the ceremony being performed by John Lay, 2d, Justice of the Peace. He spelled her name "Joram" in his records. They may have been living in Lyme in 1779 for their daughter Sally was baptized there 18 July 1779. They were living in Middletown, Conn., in 1790 and the census of that year indicated there were four females in the family. It seems they moved soon after that year, based on the family record that children were born in 1792 and 1796, probably in Green River, N.Y. That they moved again, to Sempronius, N.Y., is suggested by James A. Wright in his Sketches of Moravia. He reported that Elizabeth E. Merrow was an original member of the Congregational Church in Moravia 12 Mar. 1806. The census of 1810 placed Elisha and family there. He died 15 Jan. 1830 and she died 31 Aug. 1842.

Children:

i. Sarah[6], b. 25 Oct. 1777 in Lyme. This date of birth was computed from her age at death as given in the Bible of her brother, William Merrow. JuliaEstelle (Forbush) Treadwell reported her birth as 31 Oct. 1776. She was married twice, her first husband being Colton Drake and her second husband was named Woodhouse. She died 12 Dec. 1824, age 47y 1mo 17da.

74. ii. Mary, b. 15 June 1780.

iii. Fanny, b. 3 July 1782 (Lyme birth record). Married Gilbert Buckingham, perhaps in Aurora, N.Y. He was b. 27 Aug. 1798, son of William M. and Lydia (Kirtland) Buckingham. Rev. F.W. Chapman in The Buckingham Family said Gilbert Buckingham m., 1st, "Fanny Wilkinson, who died leaving no children. He married a second time and had six children." From this it would appear that Fanny had been previously married and was, perhaps, a widow.
Fanny and Gilbert Buckingham moved to Albany, Whiteside County, Ill., perhaps as early as 1837, for Bent's History of Whiteside County said, "As near as can now be learned the following persons settled in Van Buren and Albany as the places were called in 1837." Among the "following persons" were "Fanny and Gilbert Buckingham". He was one of the four men who registered a grant in Upper Albany on the Mississippi 20 Oct. 1839. Sometime in the Spring or Summer of that year he built a log cabin there. He was a lawyer and was Justice of Peace there in 1852, 1858, 1862, and 1864. He was postmaster in 1843, 1846, 1854, and 1857. Fanny d. 22 Dec. 1845, age 57y, her gravestone in Albany reading "Frances, wife of Gilbert Buckingham". Note this would place her birth in 1888, six years later than indicated by her birth record in Lyme. That there is no error in identity rests on a calendar bearing the name of Gilbert Buckingham which was in the possession of Fanny's niece, Eunice Roseltha (Merrow) Callison. The latter had told her descendents that it was a calendar bearing the name of her uncle.
Gilbert Buckingham's second wife was Emily Barrows. He d., probably in 1869, not in 1860 as Chapman said. By Emily Barrows he had six children: Alice J., b. 1847, d. 1871, wife of J.K. Withrow; Ellen, b. 1849; Lewis J., b. 1850/1, d. 1854, age 3y; George W., b. 1852, m. 1882, Martha Nixson; Don Pedro, b. 1857, m. 1881, Emma Barnes.

75. iv. Stephen Jerome, b. 10 Aug. 1784.

v. Betsey, b. 5 Feb. 1787; m. a Mr. Bennett. She d. 28 Feb. 1854, age 67y 23da. It seems likely this family lived in Aurora, N.Y. Tradition in this branch indicated a "relative" was Libby (Bennett) Darrow, who lived in Aurora and had no children. She was, perhaps, a daughter of Betsey Bennett. Found among the papers of her niece, Eunice Roseltha (Merrow)

Callison, was a memorandum of the names of George Bennett and Nelson Bennett of Aurora, N.Y., and in connection with the name of Betsey Bennett.

76. vi. Henry, b. 3 Oct. 1789.
77. vii. William, b. 15 May 1792.
78. viii. Joseph Munsell, b. 3 Feb. 1796.

74. MARY[6] (MERROW) MERRICK, 1780-1856, (Elisha[5], Elisha[4], Nathan[3], Henry[2], Henry[1]), was born, probably in Middletown, Conn., 15 June 1780; called Polly. There is a possibility she was born a year later on the same day for g.s. in Conneaut reads age 79y in 1856. She married Seth Merrick. Since their daughter Harriet was married in Sempronius, N.Y., in 1820 as has been reported, it is possible they were living there then. It also seems likely they lived later in Aurora or Wales, N.Y. Late in life they lived in Conneaut, O. Date of death of Seth Merrick has not been learned for inscription on his gravestone in Conneaut is illegible. Polly Merrick died 30 Sept. 1856 and was buried in Conneaut. In the family Bible of her brother, William Merrow, there was entered this date of death with the entry of her age as 76y 3mo 15da.

His wife was named Persis as a first name and they lived probably in Venice, N.Y., inasmuch as their daughter was born there. He died 2 July 1813. Nothing further learned of her history.

76. HENRY[6] MERROW, 1789-1867, (Elisha[5], Elisha[4], Nathan[3], Henry[2], Henry[1]), was born in Middletown, Conn., probably, 3 Oct. 1789. Census of 1850 indicated he was born in New York State, which statement probably is not accurate. He was a soldier of the war of 1812. From his declaration of 16 Mar. 1858 in connection with a pension claim it would appear that he was a private in Capt. Kennedy Cantyne's Co., Lt. Col. George Fleming's Regiment of N.Y. militia. He volunteered at Sempronius, Cayuga County, N.Y., 29 Aug. 1813, for three months, served two months and was discharged at Lewiston, N.Y., 1 Nov. 1813. In his pension declaration of 17 July 1854, he stated he served in a light artillery company and said he was sick some of the time he was in service.

Married. 1st, Maria Curtis, probably in or near Locke, Cayuga County, N.Y. She was his first cousin and was born in Durham, Conn., 16 June 1794, daughter of James and Sarah (Merrow) Curtis. They lived, first, probably in Moravia, Cayuga County, where he was a farmer. It seems likely they moved to Michigan in 1834 for Evart and Abbott in their History of Genesee County, p. 133, said that Sarah Merrow, who was their daughter, came to Flint, Mich., in that year. In 1844 Henry Merrow was taxed on 160 acres in Thetford, Genesee County. Maria had died before 1842, but no exact date has been found.

Children:

80. i. Sarah[7], b. 21 Dec. 1814.
81. ii. Maria Charity, b. 22 Mar. 1826.
82. iii. Bela Henry, b. 1828.

v. Frances, b. about 1833. The census of 1850 gave her age as 17 years. No further record found of her.

Henry Merrow married, 2nd, Mrs. Lucy Ann Lindsey in Flint, Mich., 17 Mar. 1842. She was born in New York State about 1809. The census of 1850 showed them living in Thetford, where he was a farmer. In this record his wife was called Nancy, he was called Henry W. Murrow, and among the children listed was Margaret Lindsey, probably a daughter of Lucy Ann by her former marriage. Another child was Elizabeth, born about 1837 in Pennsylvania. Since Margaret Lindsey was also born in Pennsylvania, it seems probable that Elizabeth was also a daughter of Lucy Ann by her former marriage.

Henry and Lucy Ann Merrow lived in Thetford, but the census records of 1860 and 1870 did not list them there. Henry died in Flint, Mich., 23 Jan. 1867 and was buried in Thetford Cemetery. "Mrs. Merrow", first name unknown, was owner of land, presumably a farm, in Thetford Township in 1873, as appears in a Genesee County atlas of that year. Adjoining her land to the west was that of N. Schlosser, 160 acres. Next but one to the east was A.H. Knickerbocker with 160 acres. At the south also was A. H. Knickerbocker with 120 acres. Lucy Ann married again, her third husband being a Mr. Miller. They lived in or near Flint. Margaret Lindsey, mentioned above, was Mrs. Margaret Butler of Flint 8 Dec. 1913 and she was in her 80th year when she made an affidavit to support a claim of Franklin Eugene Merrow, her half brother.

He was then a farmer. He was a corporal in 1862 and later a sergeant. Discharged at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., 16 Dec. 1865. He m. Frances Marion DeLong at Thetford 12 May 1867. She was born in Genesee County about 1848. In a declaration made by himself 17 Feb. 1908 in connection with a pension application, it appears they lived in Whitehall, Mich., from 1867 to 1869; elsewhere in Michigan until 1879; in Michigan City, Ind., to 1884; in Glade Water, Tex., until 1892; in Hughes Springs, Tex., until 1895; and in Jefferson, Tex., until 1908.

77. WILLIAM[6] MERROW, 1792-1878, (Elisha[5], Elisha[4], Nathan[3], Henry[2], Henry[1]); was born, probably in Green River, N.Y., 15 May 1792. Married, 1st, Lovina Taylor in Sempronius, Cayuga County, N.Y., 1 Mar. 1822. She was born 15 Nov 1801, daughter of Joseph and Sallay Taylor.

Where they lived at various times is not wholly clear. At one time he was a blacksmith and wheelwright in Moravia, N.Y. It would seem that they were living there in 1823 for Lovina was the recipient of an Episcopalian Prayer Book with the legend on the flyleaf "Lavina Merrow--Moravia August 30, 1923". That he was not there in 1831 is apparent from a letter written by his aunt, Sarah (Merrow) (Curtis) Camp, in that year. She was then living in Moravia and this letter read, in part; "Emilia Forbush made us a visit last month, enjoys good health, likewise the rest of our friends to the West...William Merrow came with her...He was much afflicted with Michigan fever." By Michigan fever was meant the urge to migrate there. That they were living in Aurora, N.Y., as early as 1831 is apparent from the fact that daughter Juliaette was born there in that year. They were still in Aurora 11 years later when son Guernsey was born there. The house in Aurora where several of their children were born was used as a boy's private school in 1928. Clara Anita Fair reported William Merrow had a large lumber mill in Aurora. Lovina died in South Wales, N.Y., 21 Feb. 1842 and was buried there:

Children:

i. Orson Henry[7], b. 28 Mar. 1823; d. 30 May 1824.

ii. Dorliska, b. 21 Apr. 1824; m. Samuel Avery, probably in Conneaut, O., before 1861. They went overland to California in that year and settled in Grass Valley, where he had a livery stable. Clara Anita Fair said: "When a small boy Samuel Avery came to Conneaut with his parents. He was born in Vermont in 1828. Evidently 'Aunt Dor' had left her father's home in N.Y. and was living with her brother, Orson Henry, in Conneaut." Samuel Avery d. in Grass Valley 26 July 1911, age 83y. Dorliska d. there 21 Feb. 1867. They had adopted a son who d. while a baby.

84. iii. Orson Henry, b. 6 Oct. 1825.

iv. Alfred Franklin, b. 11 Aug. 1828; lived many years in Unionville, Nev., where he was in the stock business and dealing in fancy horses. Losing his property there he went to Concord, Calif., to live there with his sister, Juliaette. After the latter moved to Oakland, Calif., he continued to live in Concord. He d. in Martines, Calif., 25 July 1901, age 72y 11mo 10da, and was buried there. Never married.

85. v. Juliaette, b. 13 Aug. 1831.
86. vi. William Corydon, b. 21 July 1834.
87. vii. Samuel Darwin, b. 14 July 1835.
88. viii. Eunice Roseltha, b. 13 Sept. 1838.
89. ix. Maria Eugenia, b. 23 Oct. 1840.
90. x. Guernsey Smith, b. 4 Feb. 1842.

William Merrow married, 2nd, Hannah Potter in New York State 12 Dec. 1844. She was born 29 Nov. 1815. In 1847 they seem to have been living either in Machias or Portville, N.Y. In 1848 they were in Machias. She died 23 June 1848. In 1861 William Merrow with his children, Dorliska and her husband, Corydon, Franklin, Juliaette, Roseltha, and Maria, left Machias for California to settle there. They traveled in a large carriage which he had made himself, and which was drawn by four horses. By 29 June 1861 they had reached Newton, Iowa, where a severe accident befell them. One horse had a broken leg and had to be killed. William received a permanent leg injury and had to be left behind in Newton. Two daughters, Roseltha and Maria, stayed with him and settled in Newton. The others continued to California. William made his home with Roseltha in his last years. He died in Reasnor, Iowa, 25 Sept. 1878, age 86y 4mo 10da, and was buried in Rushville, Iowa.

78. JOSEPH MUNSELL[6] MERROW, 1796-1859, (Elisha[5], Elisha[4], Nathan[3], Henry[2], Henry[1]); was born in Green River, N.Y., 3 Feb. 1796. Married, 1st, Charity Mather, who was born about 6 Dec 1805. They lived in Sempronius, N.Y., which in 1837 became Moravia. She died at the age of 24 years and 7 months and was buried in the old cemetery in Moravia. One report that she died 6 June 1830 seems to be incorrect.

He married, 2nd, Mindwell Newell in Moravia 7 April 1830. She was born in Union, N.Y., 16 Nov. 1804, daughter of Hart and Mindwell (Bartlett) Newell. She was of Moravia when married and was a 6th generation descendent of Thomas Newell who settled in Farmington, Conn., not long after 1640. (Hart[5], John[4], Capt. John[3], Samuel[2], Thomas[1]). They lived in Moravia where he owned a large farm. Late in life they moved into the village of Moravia. On 15 Jan. 1852 he was one of a committee of the First Congregational Church in Moravia "to visit members who attend dances, keep gaming devices, or tend bar in liquor taverns". He died in Moravia 9 Dec. 1859. Presumably, she lived for some years with her daughter in Binghampton, N.Y., for on 3 Aug. 1885 she was "taken back into" the Moravia church "by letter from the First Presbyterean Church of Binghampton". She died in Moravia 16 Feb. 1889. Both were buried in Indian Mound Cemetery there.

Married Isaac Vosburgh 5 April 1827. He was born in Albany, N.Y., 25 Dec. 1794, son of John and Elizabeth (Richmond) Vosburgh. Isaac and Calista lived in Moravia where he died 24 Oct. 1864. She died in Cortland, N.Y., 10 Nov 1890, age 83y.

About Calista the Moravia Republican said 21 Nov 1890: "She united with the Congregational Church of this village 4 Sept. 1831 and with the exception of a year or two remained a member until 1878, when she removed to Kansas for two years. Since her return her home she has been with Mrs. Hatfield in Cortland, N.Y., where she died 10 Nov. 1890. Funeral at the Congregational Church in this village." That she had come to Flint, Genesee County, Mich., in 1834 is on the authority of Evart and Abbott in History of Genesee County, p. 133, which work further said she married Henry Knickerbocker in Genesee Township, Mich., 10 Sept. 1840. (Genesee County marriage record). The ceremony was performed by Jeremy Hitchcock, JP. There were also two other boys and his brother, Charles, present in the office at the time. James asked his brother for the keys to a drawer in the office desk where the caps to the gun were kept. His brother gave them to him and then passed out of the office, but had not gone more than ten feet when he heard the discharge of a gun and rushed back to see the unfortunate boy fall. It seems that James had previously taken the gun from a cupboard in the corner of the office, and in passing a bed that was there in the corner of the office on his way to the drawer, the lock hit against the bed post and caused the gun to go off. The deceased was a most excellent and exemplary boy and was much respected among his acquaintances."--clipping from a Conneaut newspaper.

Chapter VI

NATHAN MERROW OF EAST HARTFORD, CONN.

61. NATHAN[5] MERROW, 1758-1825, (Elisha[4], Nathan[3], Henry[2], Henry[1]), was born in Lyme, Conn., 4 Mar. 1758. Married Lucy Makens, probably in East Hartford, Conn. That they were married befor 1783 is likely for "Nathan and wife Lucy owned the covenant Feb. 23, 1783." (Record of First Congregational Church in East Hartford.) She was born in East Hartford 13 Aug. 1759, daughter of Joseph and Mary Makens. Nathan and Lucy Merrow lived in East Hartford and he was a "maker of silver; domestic and ecclesiastical". (Practical Book of Early American Arts and Crafts by Harold Donaldson and Abbott McClure.) He was active in the affairs of the church and parish, being chosen collector 25 Oct. 1787, deacon in 1814, and moderator in 1819.

When Lucy (Makens) Merrow's father died he made provision in his will for the care of two colored persons in his household. Thus Lucy was evidently brought up with colored servants in her home. Joseph M. Merrow, colored, died in East Hartford Jan 1827, age 23y. It would seem probable that he was a servant, whether slave or free is not known, in the home of Lucy and Nathan Merrow. Excellent full length portraits of Nathan and Lucy have been preserved and in 1947 were owned by their great great grandson, Oliver Wolcott Merrow, and kept in his Merrow, Conn., home. Nathan died in East Hartford 28 Feb. 1825 and Lucy died there 7 Aug. 1826. Both were buried in East Hartford.

Children:

119. i. Joseph Makens[6], b. 27 Mar. 1784.
ii. Otis, b. 13 Nov. 1789; never married; d. 18 June 1874; buried in East Hartford.

119. JOSEPH MAKENS[6] MERROW, 1784-1845, (Nathan[5], Elisha[4], Nathan[3], Henry[2], Henry[1]), was born in East Hartford, Conn., 27 May 1784. Married Mary Woodbridge in East Hartford 2 Oct. 1810. She was born there 6 Aug. 1786, daughter of Deodatus and Esther (Welles) Woodbridge. She was a 7th generation descendent of Rev. John Woodbridge of Stanton, Wiltshire, England, whose son, Rev. John Woodbridge, came to New England in 1634, was a school teacher in Boston, Mass., and founder of the Woodbridge family in New England. (Deodatus[6], Russel[5], Samuel[4], Rev. Benjamin[3], Rev. John[2], Rev. John[1]).

They lived in East Hartford where he was a merchant and was active in the affairs of church and parish. He was clerk of the First Congregational Church in Hartford from 1831 until he moved to Mansfield, Conn., in 1835. He had bought, sometime before 1826, the powder mill in Mansfield which had been built in 1811 and which had supplied powder in the War of 1812 and had had one explosion. This enterprize ended with another explosion in 1830. He soon afterward commenced powder manufacture, this time in East Hartford. This enterprize not succeeding, he moved to Mansfield where he conceived a new business, that of knitting stockings on a small hand machine. His son, Joseph Battell Merrow, made a trip to Worcester, Mass., to gain a deeper insight into the intricacies of machine knitting, a business then in its infancy. Upon his return, father and son formed a partnership in 1838 under the name of J.M. Merrow and Son, which business continued under this style until Joseph Makens Merrow's death. This section of Mansfield, which had been unsettled plain before 1811, was the site of considerable agricultural activity of Joseph Makens Merrow. He died in Hartford 8 May 1845 and his wife Mary died in Mansfield 3 Feb. 1868. Both were buried in Manchester, Conn.

122. JOSEPH BATTELL[7] MERROW, 1819-1897, (Joseph Makens[6], Nathan[5], Elisha[4], Nathan[3], Henry[2], Henry[1]), was born in East Hartford, Conn., 12 June 1819. Married Harriet Millard in Manchester, Conn., 15 Sept. 1847. She was born there 24 Dec. 1821, daughter of Fanny (Lathrop) Millard. Name of her father is uncertain, but it may have been Solomon Millard who was Fanny's husband and hence father of Harriet.

Joseph Battell Merrow was a "manufacturer and machinist; one of the best known men in Tolland County. He was educated in the common schools and has followed manufacturing and mercantile pursuits. He moved from East Hartford to Mansfield, where he has since been engaged in the various branches of stockinet manufacture, carries a large mercantile business, has been postmaster and station agent at that point, as he says, pretty much ever since, the railway station and post-office being named for him. He is the oldest agent on the New London Northern in point of service. He is at present senior partner of the firm of J.B. Merrow & Sons, doing business at Merrow and Norwich. He has been selectman of the town of Mansfield and a justice of the peace for several years. In 1867, he represented the town in the lower house of the legislature and was in the senate in 1873. His first vote was cast for William Henry Harrison and he has been a Republican since the organization of the party." (Popular Biography of Connecticutt by J. A. Spaulding.)

After the death of his father, Joseph Battell Merrow carried on the knitting business in Merrow. He formed an association with his brother-in-law, John Owens Pitkin, and, subsequently, took into partnership Chauncey Gleason Keeney, another brother-in-law, and the latter's brother, Milton Keeney. Also in the partnership was Milo Millard, brother of his wife, Harriet (Millard) Merrow. The firm name was then Pitkin, Merrow & Co. Ladies hose were among the first articles manufactured, but shortly afterward the making of woolen underwear was commenced.

In 1857, a new company was formed with a slight change in shareholders and the company assumed the name of Merrow Manufacturing Company. At this time, a new project was introduced by the Keeney Brothers, that of manufacturing illuminating gas. This gas was conveyed to the factory, store, and boarding house of the Merrow Manufacturing Company. This was used until the introduction of kerosene oil, which, being cheaper, supplanted it. In February 1861, when the company was again doing an enormous business, the mill was burned to the ground. Little of the machinery was saved, but the company built again immediately. The new mill received immense orders for soldier's stockings during the Civil War. In 1863, J.B. Merrow and Milo Millard purchased the entire property and continued under the name of Merrow and Millard.

Previous to this change a new machine for the manufacture of undershirts had been introduced, knitting eight threads at once. The machine necessitated new buildings owing to the increase of capacity and increased demand. These buildings were then built and the company began to use upwards of one hundred thousand pounds of stock annually, manufacturing therefrom twenty-five thousand pairs of stockings, besides a large quantity of cardigan jackets. On the night of 2 Dec. 1870, the mills were again destroyed by fire, thus making two explosions and two fires at the site in less than half a century. In 1870, a new company was formed, it comprising Joseph Battell Merrow and his two sons. The manufacture of hosiery was resumed. (Adapted from History of Tolland County by J.R. Cole.)

In 1888 the knitting mills again burned and the business was moved to Norwich, Conn., where it was devoted entirely to the manufacture of crochet sewing machines. Their first overedging machine had been introduced in 1877. The company moved to Hartford in 1893. As The Merrow Machine Company it was incorporated in 1894, the two sons being the principal incorporators. In Hartford the company became a pioneer in the manufacture of sewing machines.

Joseph Battell Merrow died in Merrow, Mansfield, 25 July 1897 and his wife died there 12 Aug. 1921. Both were buried in Mansfield.

Children:

i. Joseph Millard[8], b. 24 June 1848; never married; lived in Hartford. He was president of The Merrow Machine Company, a position he held continuously from its founding in 1894 until his death. His brother was treasurer until his death in 1943, when their nephew, John Merrow Washburn, became treasurer and general manager.

The company, under the same family management throughout its history, achieved a place of prominence in the industrial sewing machine field. It specialized in high speed overseam, over-edge, and shell stitching machines, used for finishing all kinds of knitted and woven fabrics. Its sales were to industrial concerns and to exclusive distributors throughout the United States and foreign countries. One of its distributors was the Merrow Sales Corporation, president of which was John Griswold Gurley Merrow, son of George Woodbridge Merrow.

Joseph Millard Merrow's first patent was issued in 1877 and since that time he had received almost 100 patents. Overseam and crochet machines which he developed were distributed throughout the world. His considerable travels included more than a dozen trips to Europe, for stays of several months at a time, and to New Zealand, Australia, the South Sea Islands, North and South Africa, parts of South America, Hawaii, and Newfoundland. In his late years he went to the company factory daily and was active and mentally keen up to his death in Hartford 27 Mar. 1947. He was buried in Mansfield.

Chapter VII

DR. SAMUEL MERROW OF ROCHESTER, N. H.

7. DR. SAMUEL[2] MERROW, 1670-after 1744, (Henry[1]), was born in Reading, Mass., 9 Oct. 1670. After the death of his father, when Samuel was fifteen, he continued to live at the family homestead in Reading with his mother and younger brothers and sisters. Even after his marriage he continued to live there, which was a contributing factor to years of controversy with his older brother Daniel.

Although Dr. Samuel became a respected physician in New Hampshire later in life, in Reading he was a husbandman, or farmer. Judging by the many involved court records over many years he does not seem to have been a very good or a very thrifty farmer. His troubles with his neighbors and the courts had their roots in problems of property. It is evident that Samuel had a low score when it came to payment of his obligations. His first recorded trouble was with neighbor James Stimpson for whom Samuel cared for the latter's cattle and swine while Stimpson was away in Sudbury, Mass. James Stimpson on his return had Samuel arrested for stealing his rye and had him taken to jail in Cambridge. At the trial Stimpson admitted that he himself had disposed of the grain. This is the same James Stimpson who was concerned in the complaint of his widowed step-mother. "Patience, wife of (Dr.) James (Stimpson), being in a perishing condition, complained to the selectmen that her son-in-law, James Stimpson, takes noe care of her or the cattle." Nathaniel Goodwin warned the said James "to neither strip nor waste his father's estate." Goodwin's report indicated James and Samuel Merrow were suspected of "imbezzling the estate". (History of Reading, Lilley Eaton).

Another of his early troubles seems to have been with the tax collector. In 1692, the selectmen of Reading gave an order to John Parker, constable, as follows: "Whereas... Samuel Merrow (does) refuse or neglect to pay (his) proportion of the Rate Committed unto you, Therefore, this is in the Majesty's names to require you to make Distresse upon the goods...of Samuel Merrow for ...his proportion of the...Rate, which is ten shillings, and if the goods cannot be found...then you are to seize the body of...Samuell Merrow and commit (him) to the County Gaol there so to be kept without bail or mainprize until payment shall be made with all due charges."

Samuel Merrow married Mary Page about 16 Dec. 1695 for on that date "they removed to Reading" from Haverhill, Mass. She was born in Haverhill 7 Dec. 1669, daughter of Benjamin and Mary (Whittier) Page. On her mother's side, she was a granddaughter of Thomas Whittier, who had come from Southampton, England, as a youth in the ship "Confidence". Thomas Whittier settled, first, in Salisbury, Mass., removing to Haverhill soon. Mary (Page) Merrow was a second cousin, twice removed, from John Greenleaf Whittier, the poet. "I Samuel Merry who marryed to Mary Page Granddaughter to Thomas Whittier late of Haverhill Decd having received of my uncle John Whittier...", etc., receipted for Mary's full share of her grandfather's estate 5 Feb 1710/11. Mary Merrow owned the covenant at Reading's First Church in 1697.

Only a few months after his marriage Samuel was in the Colonial Armed forces for "Samuel Merry, Henry Marrow, and Daniel Marrow" signed "Articles of agreement made & fully Conditioned upon ye Thirtieth Day of March 1696 between Richard Harris Commander of ye good ship called ye Salem Galley now riding at Anchor in ye Harbour of Salem...and ready to proceed on Such a Voiage or Expedition of Warr against ye French as ye Said Comander by Comission from ye Hon[ble] William Stoughton, Lt. as the said Comander in his Judgement shall resolve." The ship's company was to receive fourteen full shares "of any booty purchase or prizes found taken or procured." Each man was to furnish his own arms and accoutrements. There is record of this ship having been at Marblehead. (Suffolk County, Mass., court records.)

Beginning in 1700 Samuel seemed to be in constant trouble with his brother Daniel. The two brothers lived in opposite ends of the family homestead in Reading. Daniel attached Samuel's property for £4, claiming the latter had failed to fulfill his part of an obligation dating from the previous year. Not until 1702 was the case settled when Sheriff Gookin turned over to Daniel some of Samuel's land. Even while this case was pending the two brothers were in another altercation. In February 1701, Daniel had leased half the homestead to Samuel until 31 Oct. of the same year in consideration of £2 10s and certain work of improvement to be done by Samuel. According to Daniel, Samuel was remiss. Witnesses testified that Daniel had been damaged by Samuel "not plowing up the grass in the orchard: and not mucking the said orchard and not making up twenty rod of New Pine Raile fence satisantly and not mending up sum old fence: all which the said Samuell Merow was obliged to doe by a leas that the said Samuell Merow received of Daniell Merow of one half the Place that said Samuell Merow was living on this sumer past...and is still in possession of it." He appealed the decision, which was favorable to Daniel, claiming this was the half which belonged to his mother and which she meant him to have. That Samuel was still on this property in 1706 was shown by witnesses who said he carried away fencing with "oxen and cart". (Middlesex County, Mass., court records.)

With John Furbush and John Carter Samuel awas hailed into court early in 1701 for obtaining a deed under false pretenses from the home of James Converse, Stephen Wesson being the complainant. Samuel was found guilty. His troubles in this year were added to by the church, for the following year the church record said that "Samuel Merrow having been guilty of fraudulent dealing and lyeing, the Church sent to him to come to them on May 3, but he came not. On May 17 the Church sent to him again, but he came not." It was voted by the Church "yt he be admonished for his sins. On July 26 he was sent for, came, and was admonished."

Late in 1702 Samuel's pocketbook must have been flatter than usual for John Richardson of Woburn complained that "himselfe and severall others of his Majesty's Leige people have lately been cheated, by a false Coine, namely pewter melted down and stamped into ye forme of Spanish Coine, and that Samuell Merow of Reading...hath been known to pass away, or Vend a Considerable quantity thereof, also it hath been said that ye sd Mearow hath lately been seen to make, or Coine som of it." Plenty of others appeared at the trial testifying to an experience similar to that of John Richardson. While the disposition of the case is not found in the Middlesex Court records, the evidence would seem to have been too strong for Samuel to have wiggled himself out.

But maybe he did. He leased the farm and stock of Roger Rose in Oyster River, New Hampshire, 16 Mar. 1702/3. Trouble again! He was in an argument with Mrs. Rose that was aired in court. How long he stayed at Oyster River in not known, but he was back in Reading by 1706 when he mortgaged some of his land to John Walker. For three years all was quiet in Reading, insofar as the records show, but in August 1709 he was involved in two controversies. First, he hailed Robert Cann, Jr., into court for giving false evidence against his nine-year old son, Benjamin. This evidence purported to show that Benjamin had crawled through a window and stolen some silk. Before witnesses an attempt was made to push Benjamin through the small window, but no one was able to compress his small body through the opening. Cann countercharged that Samuel "kicked (him) and called him a dog while a prisoner in the custody of the constable." Cann was "fined twenty shillings or to sit in the stocks three hours". In this year Samuel accused his brother Daniel of stealing his horse, a charge that Daniel successfully defended. Samuel in that year seemed to have difficulty in determining whose horse belonged to whom, for he was found guilty of stealing one from John Richardson, probably the John of the pewter coins.

In 1710, John Walker tried to get possession of the land Samuel had mortgaged to him, which mortgage had not been redeemed. That Samuel contrived to hang onto this land is shown by testimony in 1712 that he and his son, Joseph, were seen gathering apples on it with which apples he had made ten barrels of cider.

Samuel's last court problems in Massachusetts came in 1719, when he was charged with failure to attend public worship, and in 1720, when he went to collect a bill in Boston and was so tardy in leaving for the court session at Charlestown that he missed the ferry. As a result, the court, before which he was to appear, had adjourned after finding him guilty of contempt. During all these court proceedings, Samuel signed, whenever called upon to do so, usually as "Merrey", being the only one in the family then to use that spelling. To some documents he did sign his name as "Merrow". Text of all these papers, however, described him as "Merrow" or "Merow". To all these documents he signed his name, never affixing a mark.

Apparently, he had had enough of Massachusetts, because late in that year, or early in 1721, he removed with his family to Oyster River in New Hampshire, then a part of Dover and which later became the town of Durham. That he moved to Durham and not to some other place has had a widespread influence on a large segment of the Merrow family. It accounts for the fact that most of the family traces its origin to New Hampshire and Maine. How did Samuel happen to go to Oyster River? The answer can probably be found in the histories of his sisters. Mary, who went first to New Hampshire, had been the first married. She and her husband had moved to Portsmouth. Sarah had married John Pindar of Oyster River and moved there from Reading. Hannah had married an Oyster River man, Joseph Jenkins. Likewise, Deborah had found a husband there in Daniel Meserve.

At Oyster River Samuel appeared in a new guise. There he was a physician and such he remained throughout his New Hampshire history. Record of Dr. Samuel's first home in Oyster River is found in New Hampshire deeds: "We Timothy Moses & Grace Moses my wife of Dover in y^{e} Prov^{e} of N Hamsh^{e}... for twenty pounds current money of New England...pd by Sam^{ll} Merrey of Oyster River in the Town of Dover...Doctor...have sold to Sam^{ll} Merrey...a certain piece of land lying in Dover Township which was formerly fenced by Phillip Dully (or Duley) late Deceas^{d} of sd Dover containing (blank) acres... Butt^{d} and Bound^{d} as followeth viz: on y^{e} South wth ye land of Joseph Davis Esq. on ye East & y^{e} Noth wth ye land of Joseph Meder & on ye West wth ye highway all w^{ch} Buildings fences & fruit trees...this fourteenth day of february In ye Eight year of his Maj^{ts} Reign Georgius Recksus An^{o} Dom: 1721:2".

While Dr. Samuel was living in Oyster River new towns were being incorporated. "To be among the grantees of the new plantations was a privilege eagerly sought. The prospect of receiving, gratuitously, an ample tract of land, either a whole share...or even a fractional part of a right, was certainly alluring to those who had been so long confined to the limits of the old towns. That all who signed the petition, however, did not become grantees is certain. It is not so well known what qualifications were required for the proprietorship, or for what reason some were selected to receive whole shares, while others had to be content with a half, a third, or a quarter. Upon examination of the schedule, however, it can hardly escape the notice of anyone, that while the whole share proprietors include the Governor, Lieut. Governor, members of the council, and others whose consequence is indicated by such titles as Col., Lieut. Col., Capt., Lieut., and Ensign, the smaller proprietors had no such prefix to their names. Evidently, the poorer citizens, those who most needed the lands, were not the ones to receive them."

"Most of the inhabitants of Dover, with persons from Portsmouth, Newington, and Oyster River (Durham) joined in the petition for the township of Rochester ..." Charter was granted 10 May 1722. Dr. Samuel's name was not in the list of original proprietors. "One hundred and twenty-five lots, being one lot for each share, containing sixty acres each, were to be laid out in ranges from Salmon Falls River to Barrington line, beginning with land adjacent to Dover ... The drawing of lots began at the meeting-house in Cocheco upon the 13th day of December (1727), and was completed the following day at Oyster River, whither the meeting had adjourned... This division of home lots comprised all the land between Dover and Four Rod road which was laid out from Salmon Falls River to Barrington, and is the same road which crosses the common at the lower end of the village... Another year elapsed before any permanent settlement was made..." (McDuffie's History of Rochester.)

While Dr. Samuel was not an original proprietor, he quickly acquired an interest by purchase. "Thomas Harris of Dover, in y^{e} Prov^{e} of N Hampshire... Husbandman...in consideration of ten pounds...pd by Sam^{ll} Merry of ye Same Town... physician" sold to "Sam^{ll} Merry...one third part of one whole share of land in ye Township of Rochester...w^{ch} ye sd Harris bought of Will^{m} Norraway as by one Deed of Sale...July 23, 1729...it being ye one third part of one whole share w^{ch} Norraway had wth Samm^{ll} Willey and Edw Whitehouse." This deed was dated 16 Aug 1729. "Jn^{o} Noraway for...ye sum of ten pounds...pd by Sam^{ll} Merrow Sen^{r} of Dover...do...sell...unto...ye sd Sam^{ll} Merrow...such...interest...w^{ch} ye sd Jno. Noraway now hath...in...a third part of a whole division being ye seventy third lott laid out in partnership with Edw: Waterhouse & Sam^{ll} Willey...laid out according to ye Rule & Order of ye Proprietors..six day of Decem^{r} An^{o}. Dom: 1729." "We Jno Woodman & Jos^{ph} Jenkings of Dover...husbandmen & Jona Cushing of ye sd Town...clerk...for fourteen Pounds...pd by Sam^{ll} Mearey of ye sd Town...physician...have sold...unto him ye sd Sam^{ll} Meary...land situate...in ye Town of Rochester...containing sixty acres it being the Eighty Third Lot in ye first Division of Rochester...this 6th of July... 1730."

This deed from Jno. Woodman, Joseph Jenkings, and Jona Cushing is indicative of the land speculation going on at the time. The 83rd lot had been granted to Jos: Small, Zach: Small, and James Basford. Dr. Samuel was the third owner within a period of seven months. Joseph Jenkings was either his brother-in law, husband of his sister Hannah, or their son, Joseph Jenkins, Jr. A study of the map of Rochester, to be found opposite page 50 in McDuffie's History of Rochester, would seem to place both of these lots at the extreme southern end of present Rochester, near the Dover line. Lot 83 was nearer the line than lot 73. Lot 73 Dr. Samuel sold to his son Samuel, Jr., 21 July 1731. Lot 83 he sold to his son Benjamin 3 Feb. 1731/2. According to Eaton's History of Reading Dr. Samuel did not at once move to Rochester, but located there in 1733, "where his sons had gone". This statement is supported by evidence of his continued residence in Oyster River.

Some evidence of Dr. Samuel's activity in Oyster River is found in two attachments, the first by Dr. Samuel Merry against Axwel Roberts, shopkeeper, for £15 in 1727/8. The other, an attachment against Samuel Merry of Dover by Axwel Roberts of Portsmouth 7 Mar. 1727 to the "sum of ten pounds to pay for a young cow or heifer and calf, one and one half tons of hay, two bushels of Pease, four doz. of Indian corn, Ebenezer Garland's note, and a cow."

As Dr. Samuel was preparing to leave Oyster River for the frontier in Rochester, the following two deeds show him divesting himself of his property in Oyster River: "Samuel Merrey of Dover...in consideration...of Sixty Pounds...pd by Sam[ll] Smith...of Durham yeoman...do sell unto...ye sd Sam[ll] Smith...land lying in...Town of Durham containing eight acres w[ch] is Butt[d] and Bound[d] as follows: viz, on ye northeast side of ye highway y[t] leads from ye Kings Road to Coll. James Davis[s] begining at a stake standing on ye southeast side of my house & from thence on ye northeast two degrees east 36 rods by Davis fence the North half a point East 8 rods to ye sd Merrey's fence then runing as ye fence now stands round sd Sam[ll] Merrey land Between John Hollett & by sd Merrey to ye above sd highway to a stone there and from thence as ye way now is to ye stake where it first Began together with a dweling House & Orchard fencing." To this deed Samuel Merrey signed and Mary made her mark. The other deed read: read: "Samuel Merry of ye Town of Dover in ye Pro[c] of N- Hampsh[r]...for...five pounds...pd by Samuel Smith of ye Town of Durham, yeoman...do sell...unto Sam[ll] Smith...al my Right Title and Interest y[t] I have or Ever had to ye Comon Land in ye Town of Dover on ye West side of ye highway against my house y[t] I sold to Sam[ll] Smith where my Well is Dugg & Ston[d] as also my Well thereon... Oct[r] ye 7[th]...1733."

After his removal to Rochester he sold his last land holdings in Durham to his nephew, Daniel Meserve, Jr., of Dover. "I Sam[ll] Merry...for...twelve Pounds... have...sold...unto Dan[ll] Misharvey...five acres of Land Being y[e] first Division of Comon Land & now about to be Divid[d] it being N[o] 178 w[ch] I drew & will plainly Appear on Dover Record & Reference...this first day of July...1735." Of importance in later connection with a lot of land owned by his son, Benjamin, is the reference to a meeting of the Rochester Proprietors held in Dover 20 April 1730, at which it was "Voted that there be two hundred & forty acres of Land Laid out to each Whole Shair in s[d] Town as a second Divition."

Dr. Samuel and his sons seemed to thrive in the frontier locality of Rochester where he was the first resident doctor. (McDuffie's History of Rochester). The entire region was frontier and the inhabitants were almost helplessly exposed to all the horrors of Indian conflict. Five public garrisons, or forts, were built and many others constructed at private expense. Garrisons were built two stories in height, the lower story being of solid timber with strong window shutters fastened upon the inside. The upper story projected upon all sides so that water could be poured down to extinguish flames in case the house should be fired, while an enemy who came too near was exposed to certain death. Loopholes were provided large enough for a gun-barrel to be pointed through them and hollowed or bevelled on the inside to allow the gun to be aimed in different directions. The second story was built according to the fancy or ability of the owner. To these fortified houses the men, when driven from labor in the fields, retreated; here they left their women and children when they went abroad; and here they were compelled to pass much of their time in inactivity, while perhaps the cattle were being killed in the pastures nearby, and the crops remained unharvested or were destroyed by the Indian enemy. At Rochester an attack was made by Indians as late as 1749. Fears of Indian ravages were not finally dispelled until the surrender of Quebec to the English in 1759.

Some of the early settlers of Rochester were families of Scotch Presbytereans who had settled first in Londonderry, N.H., "having conceived an ardent and inextinguishable thirst for civil and religious liberty." They came from the north of Ireland where they had settled in the reign of James I. It is conceivable that Dr. Samuel may have settled, first, in Oyster River because of the residence there of former Scotch prisoners and, secondly, was attracted to Rochester partly by the common racial kinship of the settlers there.

The early Rochester residents had minister troubles, or, rather, the absence of a minister troubled them. Early in 1735, the inhabitants petitioned the General Assembly in this manner: "We, whose names are underwritten, doe once more humbly request the Legislative Power to passe an act whereby to Oblige the Proprietors of said Rochester to assist us, the Inhabitants, In supporting the Gospel in said Town of Rochester for the space of six of seven years Till tis Likely we may be able to doe it of ourselves..." The first signer was Benjamin Merrow. Samuel Merrow was also a signer. Again, on March y^{e} 1736/7, they pleaded. "That your petitioners have been settled here, some of them, seven years of thereabouts, that we are now increased to the Number of about Sixty Families, & are as yet destitute of a settled Ministry, & have no civil Order in the Town...and, also that, in Consideration of our low Circumstances and the Inconveniences and Charges such new Settlements are exposed to...(they) do hereby humbly & earnestly entreat your Excellency and your Honours to take their Case into your compassionate Consideration." This was signed by Samuel Merow and Samuell merrow, presumably Dr. Samuel and his youngest son, and also by Benjamin Merrow, his other Rochester son. They won their case.

The last record concerning wife Mary was when "Samuel Merrow and Mary Merrow of Rochester in the Province of New Hampshire...sold...to Jacob Ela (of Haverhill, Mass.)...Land...within the Cow commons...upon the Island in the Merrimack River and In the...Town of Haverhill and which are Devised to us...from our Grandfather (Thomas Whittier)...our whole interest being half an acre..." Samuel Merrow signed and Mary Merrow made her mark. "Ap^{l} y^{e} 20th 1738...before me at Amesbury (Mass.) Orlando Bagley Just of y^{e} Peace."

Dr. Samuel was living in 1744 and was in sufficiently good health and vigor at the age of 74 to make a journey to Portsmouth. "Samuel Merry of Rochester physician" was sued 18 Nov. 1744 by George Jaffrey of Portsmouth "for that whereas the said Samuel on the 12th day of Novem^{b} Instant at Portsmouth... being Indebted to the Pla^{t} in the Sum of two pounds Sixteen Shillings & fourpence ...then and there promised to pay."

Where Dr. Samuel and Mary lived in Rochester is not known. Since he had sold all of his land in Rochester to two of his sons and held none himself, it is possible they were living with one of these sons. The fact that none of son Benjamin's children were born before 1748 suggests that he may not have married until after the death of his mother or father, or both. It suggests, too, he may have been the son whom they lived with, or he with them. No gravestones exist to solve the puzzle of the dates of death of Dr. Samuel and Mary. They were probably buried on Meeting House Hill, or Haven's Hill, in Rochester. "This cemetery is situated near the crest of the hill, on the westerly side of the automobile road leading from Portsmouth to Conway, N.H., and about one and one-half miles southeast from Central Square in Rochester. The earliest settlers of the town are buried there, in the western part of the cemetery, some distance back from the main highway. The meeting house stood nearer the highway and its site is marked by a tablet... There are probably between four hundred and five hundred graves in this cemetery that have only nameless field stones to mark (their) last resting places." (George W. Chamberlain in New England Historical & Genealogical Register, Vol 80, p306.)

Dr. Samawell Merow, as some old records showed the name, was the ancestor of all the New Hampshire Merrows, all of the Maine Merrows, many of the Merry family in Maine, and of their descendents. From these two States these descendents have spread over all the northern part of the country, lightly into the South, and occasionally to foreign parts, such as Canada, Scotland, and Mexico.

Mary was living in 1777 for she signed a deed in that year.

v. Ruth, b. 14 Aug 1705 in Reading. She married John Dolliver (or Doliber) Sr., in Marblehead, Mass., 26 Mar. 1730. He was then 73 and she 23. He was born in Marblehead about 1657, son of Joseph and Margaret Doliber. He was a 4th generation descendent of Robert Doliber of Stokes Abbot, Dorset, England, and a third generation descendent of Samuel Doliber, who came from England to Marblehead in 1642.

"Indenture made 17 Nov. 1730 between John Doliber of Marblehead...shoreman...and Joseph Merrow of Marblehead...fisherman...For and in consideration of a marriage lately had and solemnized between afs Jn^{o} Doliber &Ruth his now wife & Sister of Joseph Merrow and for y^{e} Love and Affection which s^{d} Jn^{o} hath & beareth to y^{e} s^{d} Ruth his wife...the messuage where y^{e} s^{d} Jn^{o} now Dwells adjoying to y^{e} back-cove so call'd consisting of his Mansion House & other Buildings & ab't a Quarter of an Acre of Land Bounded southerly on Land of Joseph Doliber Northeasterly & Northerly on y^{e} Sea, Westerly and Southwesterly to ye sd Joseph Doliber's House & now in y^{e} Possession of Mary Burroughs & others..." (Essex County deeds) John Doliber agreed to the use of this property by himself and wife during their lives; by wife Ruth if he died first; by their children or child, if there were any, thereafter.

Earlier in that year, 23 May 1730, he had made a will: "I John Doliber of Marblehead...Shoreman being now aged and infirm but of sound mind and memory, do hereby make...my last Will...As to my Estate I give, bequeath and devise all of it Real as well as personal...to my dearly beloved Wife ...and I do appoint Ruth my said Wife sole Executrix." Witnesses testified 14 Oct 1734 as to the genuineness of John Doliber's signature to the above will and called him 'late of Marblehead". Widow Ruth Doliber filed 1 Nov 1734 an inventory of the estate valued at £1763:14:10.

She married, 2nd, Samuel Page of Medford, Mass., brickmaker, and they lived in Medford. He was probably the Samuel Page, Sr., who died there 31 Jan. 1749/50, age 57y. This Samuel Page had married, 1st, Susannah Lawrence of Charlestown, Mass., 20 May 1719 and in this marriage record he was called of "Carrolina". There had been a large number of children by Samuel Page's first marriage, but Medford records show none by his second marriage.

"Samuel Page of Medford...brickmaker...and Ruth Page his wife" sold to Thomas Peach of Marblehead..."One cows commonage in the Common Lands of Marblehead...which formerly belonged to John Doliber." 19 Aug. 1748. She was "Ruth Page, widow, of Medford" in 1750 and "Ruth Page, widow, or Marblehead" when she, first, purchased land and house on Lynn St., Boston, and then sold it to Timothy^{3} Merrow.

"I Mary Burroughs of Marblehead...singlewoman in consideration of Love and natural affection which I bear unto my Aunt Ruth Page of said Marblehead widow...and Ten Pounds which I have Rec'd...do...agree (to sell) my Dwelling House wherein I now live and which was conveyed to me by my said aunt with all the Garden adjoyning...belonging to the use of myself for Life and after my Deceas to the use of my said Aunt." 6 May 1750, recorded 10 Sept. 1755. "I Ruth Page of Marblehead...widow...for and in consideration of the Love, Good-Will, and affection which I have and do bear toward my living Niece Mary Borrows a young woman of the same Town... have given...unto the said Mary Borrows the house wherein I now Dwell... it being a Dubble House situate in the abovesaid Town...on a Hill called the Wind Mill Hill." To this she made her mark 30 June 1759. Witnesses Anna Grant and Hannah Tewksbury testified 26 Oct. 1759 to her signature and said she was then deceased.

It is most questionable if the relationship "niece" is to be taken in its literal meaning. Mary Burroughs was probably the daughter of Giles and Mary (Merrow) Burroughs and actually a first cousin, once removed, to Ruth Page.

When Ruth Merrow married John Doliber she was actually 24 and not 23. Her indentity as daughter of Dr. Samuel is most probable but has not been proven documentarily. There was no other Ruth Merrow in the family anywhere near her age and none other with a brother Joseph. That she was not a true aunt of Mary Burroughs is further supported by the fact that John^{2} Merrow in his will in 1729/30 did mention Mary Burroughs, his daughter and mother of the Mary mentioned in the above deeds, but did not mention either Ruth or Joseph, who were certainly then living. Thus, it is certain Ruth and Joseph were not sister and brother of the elder Mary Burroughs.

136. RACHEL[3] (MERROW) ODELL, 1707- , (Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Reading, Mass., 16 Aug. 1707. She was, probably, the Rachell Merry who married William Odell in Marblehead 6 Aug. 1733 and she may have been his second wife. They were living in Marblehead in 1734. She may have been the Rachel Odell, widow, who died at the almshouse in Salem, Mass., 10 Oct. 1790, age 84 years.

Chapter VIII

JOSEPH MERROW, OR MERRY, OF EDGECOMB, ME.

133. JOSEPH[3] MERROW, 1698- , (Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Reading, Mass., 1 Aug. 1698. He was a fisherman in Marblehead, Mass., 17 Nov. 1730, when he was concerned in an indenture made by his brother-in-law, John Dolliver, husband of his sister Ruth. No other document relating to this Joseph Merrow has been found. In Marblehead in that same year was located his brother Benjamin Merrow, who left also in that year to purchase land in the then frontier town of Rochester, N.H. There were located their father, Dr. Samuel Merrow, and their younger brother, Samuel Merrow. Their brother, Jonathan Merrow, was then settled in Somersworth Parish of Dover, N.H., not far from Rochester.

TRADITIONAL AND LEGENDARY

"About the year 1730 Joseph Merry came from Exeter, New Hampshire, to the Province of Maine and became a squatter on the banks of the Damariscotta River in the town now known as Edgecomb. Before leaving Exeter he married Hannah Stimpson. They commenced life together in this unsettled country and built a cabin near the house of the late Joseph Merry, his grandson. In the year 1768, Sept. 12, the King's commissioner surveyed the tract of land and made a plan of the same, which he subsequently deeded to the same Joseph Merry on the payment of £80 sterling. "--Memorandum in a diary written by Charles Glidden Merry, a direct descendent, in 1891.

Joseph Merry, born 1698, "bought land in Edgecomb, Me., in 1731, the deed and map of which are in the possession of his descendent, Rear Admiral (John Fairfield) Merry, who is the present owner of the old homestead. Joseph Merry settled there in 1756, removing thither from Dover. "--Excerpt from a biographical article about Admiral Merry in a work by Cutter called Genealogy of Middlesex County. Probably much of this article was inspired by Admiral Merry who was a brother of Charles Glidden Merry.

"My grandfather, William Haggett, often told of a family of Merrows that lived on what we called the 'Old Road' that was in our pasture. He said the whole family, consisting of the parents and several small children, were killed by an Indian that took them and dashed them to death against a big rock that I often went to see. "--Grace Mabel (Haggett) Darling, a direct descendent.

"My father used to tell of a family of Merrys being killed in Edgecomb by being dashed to death on a boulder," said Violet Alice (Merry) McIntyre, another direct descendent. Since Mrs. Darling and Mrs. McIntyre were, in 1944, unknown to each other, it is apparent this Indian legend has been transmitted substantially in the same form through different channels of descent. Whether this legend is reliable in fact is subject to much conjecture. Elizabeth Fullerton Reed said, "Old Mr. Ezekiel Ross of River Road, Newcastle, once took us out in the field on the hill and showed us the spot where in colonial days the Indians dashed out the brains of several children and their mother against a rock. It is possible the same tragedy happened in a branch of the Merry family. Yet, it is possible also that the story is another version of the one I refer to and which is related by Cushman in his history of Sheepscot and Newcastle. Perhaps, the event occurred in King George's War, 1744-1748.... The Ross field is just north of where Route 1 enters Newcastle Village and where the River Road through Edgecomb enters Route 1 and where Walter Phillips cow path began, 1675, going to Sheepscot."

HISTORICAL

Francis B. Greene in his excellent History of Boothbay is authority for the history of the peninsula of which Edgecomb is a part, the general matter of the following account being from his work and the quotations directly so.

Before 1730 there had been settlements on this peninsula. The Sheepscot settlement, which embraced all settlements on the Sheepscot River including what is now Edgecomb, had inhabitants as early as 1630. Because of the disastrous results of various Indian wars on exposed settlements in both New Hampshire and Maine settlers were forced out of many places, the territory between the Sheepscot and Damariscotta Rivers being absolutely without white population between 1690 and 1729. These early settlements are important to this narrative only insofar as they gave rise to many and conflicting land claims as did later the settlement under Dunbar. Colonel David Dunbar arrived in America sometime in 1729, commissioned as Governor of Sagadahoc Territory. "His plan included the laying out of four towns, two on each side of the Damariscotta. The tract situated between the Damariscotta and Muscongus Rivers he divided into Harrington and Walpole; the former included the southern and greater part of the present town of Bristol...while Walpole comprised the northern part of Bristol, all of Damariscotta and the western and southern part of Nobleboro. Between the Sheepscot and Damariscotta Rivers...two other towns were projected, Townsend and Newcastle."

"Dunbar...favored the grouping of settlers with small lots apportioned to each, so that they need not be widely scattered in case of trouble with the natives...At Townsend (later Boothbay) he laid out lots of twelve rods wide with sufficient depth to make two acres...The settlers cast lots for choice and were guaranteed a title if a house eighteen feet long was built and the two acres cleared within three years, and at that time a further tract, of forty acres in one lot and one hundred in another...should be given them in fee simple forever... On account of differences between the settlers and Dunbar on the lands north of Townsend...he threatened to expel them from their possessions. This means no other than the Newcastle settlement, which at that time reached to Townsend, Edgecomb not existing."

"Lots not immediately taken were granted to Montgomery and Campbell, two speculators, but with that action the record ends... Montgomery died and Campbell disposed to his interests to William Vaughn, who built...about 1740 ..at Damariscotta Mills... None of the deeds or leases given by Dunbar have survived to afford a copy to the present generation. It was supposed they were in the custody of William Vaughn, and as his house was consumed by fire shortly after building it is likely these documents were then all destroyed together."

The settlers under Dunbar were largely Scotch-Irish, that is people of pure Scotch blood who had been settled in the northern counties of Ireland. They had been coming to New England as early as 1718 and some of them were attracted to this Maine section by the proclamation Dunbar had sent broadcast over the settlements to the westward. "The colonists who came under him came on account of the misrepresentation and deceit he practised upon them and they endured privation and suffering...that their descendents can hardly imagine."

Conditions of life on this frontier were admirably told by pioneer Samuel McCobb in his deposition 23 Oct. 1772, when he was 64 years old. "The lands being naturally broken and poor, and more especially then, in their wild and uncultivated state,...and little of the necessaries of life were raised from the soil, their whole living depended on cutting firewood and carrying it to Boston and other towns more than one hundred and fifty miles from them; hence the settlers lived, from the first, exposed to the utmost extremities of Indigence and Distress, and at the same time in almost continual alarms from the Savages all around, till the year 1745, when the murders and depredations in their borders forced them from their Habitations to seek shelter in the westward, where they were scattered...for five years. In October, 1749, as soon as the news of Peace reached them, this deponent with many of his former neighbors ventured back to their Said Settlements where they had scarce finished the repairs of their wasted cottages and improvements, when in a year or thereabouts, the Indians tho' in a time of Peace fell on their neighborhood, burnt barns, killed many people, attacked the little garrison kept by the people, and carried away a number of men, women, and children into Captivity."

"By this the deponent and his neighbors were Obliged to flee to the little fortress they had raised for themselves where they lived and defended themselves as they might, not daring to look after their plantations, by which means the little provisions then growing for their support the next winter were chiefly destroyed whereby, when they returned to their places, little better than the Horrors of famine were in prospect; many were obliged to live by clams alone, which they dug out of the mud when the tides were down; thus they subsisted in general till the war with France broke out...their families lived in Continual Terror and Alarm from the Savages who ranged the Wilderness all around, till the late Peace was concluded, when their Settlement was increased much by new comers from the Western Parts. Thus happily rid of the French and Indians they were not long suffered to rest for three or four opposite setts of claimers, part claiming by Indian deeds Never approved according to Law, and part by pretended ancient occupation and other Pretexts never justified in Law, at divers times came among them demanding the possession of these said lands, or requiring a purchase of them. Those imposing on the Credulous Simplicity of some of the Inhabitants by fair promises, and terrifying others with Threats of Lawsuits for which the poor settlers were ill provided, so far prevailed that they generally were fain to contract with and buy their lands from one or another of them, and some of them all successively, and such as have not done so are still harassed by the said Claimers and threatened by each in his turn, with Law Suits, Ejectments, if not Imprisonment and Ruin, whilst those of whom they bought have never done anything to defend them from competing claimers, and all they have left them to become a prey to who comes next."

The various wars referred to by Samuel McCobb were the Spanish or "Five-Years' War which broke out in 1745 and ended in 1749. A period of so-called peace ensued until 1755 when war was again raging with the French and Indians and which was only terminated with the Fall of Quebec in 1759. With this the power of France in the New World was broken and the New England frontiers were never again to live in fear of Indian raids. Among the places where settlers had been killed by Indians in the Five-Year's War was Newcastle, which then included Edgecomb. Quebec's fall brought in new immigration to the peninsula, these new settlers being largely young married couples from the vicinity of Dover, New Hampshire. A section of Boothbay is even today known as "Dover" or "Dover Shore" from the fact that many of these new inhabitants settled there.

A brief analysis of the various land claims indicates those concerned the people of Edgecomb were the Brown, Drowne, Tappan, Noble, and Vaughn claims. The Brown claim was founded on a purchase by John Brown 15 July 1625 from the two Wawenoc Sagamores, Capt. John Somerset and Unnongoit for a consideration of fifty beaver skins. Newcastle was included in this claim. John Brown died about 1670 and left three children, one of whom was a daughter, Elizabeth, who married Richard Pierce of Marblehead. The Vaughn claims arose out of the Dunbar division, plus purchase by Vaughn of the interests of some other claimants. Elizabeth Freeman Reed, an authority on the history of this region, said, "Dunbar, as far as I know, deeded nothing in Edgecomb. Probably, all the North Boothbay and Edgecomb settlers were squatters, or took deeds from various claimants or from Kennebec Purchase Company... Tappan's land did not extend this far south."

Because of the general incompleteness of records of persons even in well-organized Massachusetts in the years involved and the almost complete absence of such records in frontier parts of New Hampshire and Maine, it is probable that documentary evidence of this Joseph Merrow will never be found. No evidence of any Merrows having lived in Exeter in that century has been discovered, but the family was certainly located in Dover then. It also seems clear now that the two brothers, Charles Glidden Merry and Rear Admiral John Fairfield Merry, in their memoranda of tradition had confused two men of the same name, Joseph. The younger did not settle in Edgecomb in 1730, the probable year of his birth. The elder did not marry Abigail Stimpson. Probably the two Josephs were father and son.

The probability that the elder Joseph did settle in Edgecomb is heightened when projected against the history of other members of the Merrow family. Dr. Samuel Merrow, his three other sons, and several of his daughters, all with strong roots in the soil, were of a pioneering mind and disposition. They represented the only contemporaneous branch of the family who were pioneers and their groping for the virgin lands of new settlements was all to the northward. It would seem likely that Dr. Samuel's eldest son would have been no exception to this family trend.

Legends often have some elements of truth at their foundations. If this Indian murder legend of Edgecomb likewise has truth at its base, then it would appear that Joseph Merrow did settle in Edgecomb about 1730 or 1731, that he was married, and that he had a considerable family. He had probably married before moving to Edgecomb and had probably moved there more or less directly from Marblehead. One or more of his children were probably born before they moved to Edgecomb. It seems probable that one or more of his children escaped this Indian raid. Since his children were "small" in this legend it seems likely that those who escaped were, first, well-grown boys who were probably away from home at the moment. There was, however, a Ruth Merrow, who was born in 1746 and who seems logically to have been a daughter of this Joseph. How she could have escaped is a matter of speculation. On this hypothesis this Indian depredation may well have taken place about 1746 when son Joseph would have been around sixteen.

The name of Joseph's wife is unknown and no complete record of his children can, or course, ever be reconstructed. By circumstantial evidence there may have been numbered among his family the following:

Children:
138. i. Joseph[4], b. about 1730.
139. ii. Timothy.
140. iii. Ruth, b. about 1746.

138. JOSEPH[4] MERROW (alias MERRY), 1730-1816, (Joseph[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born, perhaps in Marblehead, Mass., about 1730. Married Abigail Stimpson, who was born about 1733, daughter of James and Hannah (Nock) Stimpson. He was, probably, the Joseph Merrow who served in three different expeditions against Crown Point in 1756, 1757, and 1758. "For the expedition against Crown Point' of 1756 this Province (New Hampshire) raised a regiment of 700 men, under command of Col. Nathaniel Meserve of Portsmouth." In Capt. John Titcomb's Co., was Joseph Merrow from May 1 to Oct 13, 1756. "For the Crown Point Expedition of 1757 New Hampshire furnished a regiment of five hundred men under Col Nathaniel Meserve." In Capt. Titcomb's Co. was Joseph Merrow from March 6 To Nov. 1757. "In 1758 New Hampshire raised another regiment for 'the Crown Point Expedition'. This numbered eight hundred men and was commanded by Col. John Hart of Portsmouth. A portion of this regiment was ordered to join the expedition against Louisburg and the remainder did duty under Lieut. Col. Goffe on the western frontier." In Capt John Pickering's Co., was Joseph

Merrow from May 1 to Oct. 30, 1758. (Military History of State of New Hampshire, C. E. Potter, Vol. I)

That Joseph Merrow had married Abigail Stimpson early in 1754 or before is apparent from a Strafford County (N.H.) probate record. Thomas Nock died in Somersworth parish in Dover, where he had lived, in 1754. He left a will (made 29 April 1754, proved 29 May 1754) in which one bequest was: "I give and bequeath to My beloved Grandchildren, ye children of my beloved daughter Hannah Lately deceased namely Abigail ye Wife of Joseph Merrow...(one third of) thirty pounds of ye Old Tennor" payable four years after the death of Abigail's grandmother, wife of Thomas Nock.

A court record of 26 May 1753 would be of significance as to Joseph's residence at that time if it were entirely certain it applied to this Joseph. On this date "Joseph Marrow of Sumersworth husbandman" sued Doddefor Garland of Durham, N.H., for "140 Pounds worth of White Pound Bords to be delivered to Cocheco Landing". (New Hampshire Historical Society record.) There was, however, another Joseph Merrow then living. He was of Rochester, N.H., later of Lebanon, Me., and still later of Shapleigh, Me. This latter Joseph was the founder of a part of the family called in a later chapter, "Joseph Merrow of Hubbardston Plantations". Since he was then only fourteen years old it seems unlikely that he, a minor, would have been a party to a suit. However, this Joseph Merrow of Rochester did later, in 1760, have a court controversy with this same Dodifer Garland, when he was of Rochester and Garland was of Somersworth. Again in 1768, they sparred in court, Joseph Merrow being of Lebanon, Me., and Garland of Rochester. There is no record and no indication that the Joseph Merrow, later of Shapleigh, ever was of Somersworth. Returning to the Joseph Merrow who later lived in Edgecomb, it is more likely that he was the plaintiff in this 1753 action for he was then twenty three years old. If this identification is correct then it is known that he lived in Somersworth, then a part of Dover.

REMOVAL TO EDGECOMB

Though Cutter (Genealogy of Middlesex County) said that he settled in Edgecomb in 1756, the year 1759 would seem to be more nearly correct, inasmuch as he was in the army from New Hampshire as late as October 1758. The year 1759 would have coincided with the departure of many young couples from Dover to the Edgecomb-Boothbay area and it is most likely that Joseph and Abigail Merrow were among those settlers.

Another Dover, or Somersworth, man who settled in Edgecomb at or near this time was Nicholas Canada, or Kennedy. He is of special interest to this narrative because he was husband of Abigail Merrow. She was probably a cousin of Joseph Merrow and a daughter of his probable uncle, Jonathan Merrow of Somersworth. Nicholas Canada settled on the farm immediately north of Joseph Merrow in Edgecomb and in 1785 Joseph Merrow was administrator of Nicholas Canada's estate and purchased the latter's farm from the estate. It seems probable that the relationship of Joseph Merrow to the family of Jonathan Merrow of Somersworth was very close and, purely as a matter of speculation, it is possible he was brought up by this uncle after the death of his own parents about 1745. A full account of the history of Nicholas Canada and his wife, Abigail Merrow, will be found in a later chapter, called "Jonathan Merrow of Somersworth, N.H."

While the year of Joseph's arrival in Edgecomb is not certain, the fact that he was there before 1766 is proven by the following records from Massachusetts Archives: "Province of Massachusetts Bay. To his Excellency Francis Bernard Governor of the Hon^{ble} his Majesty^{s} Council and House of Representatives in General Court assembled March y^{e} 4th 1766. Petation of the Inhabitants of a Plantation called Freetown in the County of Lincoln. That Frankfort in the west side of Pownalborough in said County the place where the Courts... are nowheld is very near the western side of said County and that there are but two or three Houses near said Place in which People...can have lodging and Entertainment so that a great part of the People...are much distressed for necessaries and are obliged to lodge on a floor or in Barns or sit all Night by the fire during their whole stay at said court...we humbly pray...that what is now the eastern end of Pownalborough may be the shire Town of said County." (Massachusetts Archives record). Among the signers was "joseph merry". Nicholas Canada also signed, immediately below Joseph Merry. A petition to the General Court of Massachusetts for the incorporation of the Plantation of Freetown as a township was presented 4 Jan. 1774. "Joseph mery" signed this.

"Wiscasset...was formerly part of the ancient town of Pownalborough, which was incorporated 13 Feb. 1760... The southeastern part of Pownalborough retained the old name until 1802, when it was changed to Wiscasset, and Pownalborough, as the name of a Maine town, passed out of existence." "Edgecomb...was incorporated in 1774." (New England Genealogical & Historical Register, Vol 83.)

Lincoln County had been set apart from York County in 1761. A search of deeds both in York and Lincoln Counties failed to reveal any land purchase in Edgecomb by Joseph Merrow. That he owned land there is apparent from the fact that he was a grantor. His land was on the Damariscotta River about midway between the Boothbay and Newcastle borders. He owned also an island in the river, known today as Merry's Island.

He sold his entire farm to his two sons, Samuel and Jonathan. To Samuel, the elder, he sold parts of the southern half of his farm in 1791 and 1801. To Jonathan he sold a portion of his farm 24 Feb. 1795, recorded 8 June 1796. This was "one third part of the lot of land which the said Jonathan now lives on formerly owned by Nicholas Kennedy...the same being that part of said lot which was lately set off for the widow's dower...thereby selling to him the said Jonathan all...of said Widow's Dower."

Another deed is most interesting inasmuch as it shows transition of the name Merrow to Merrey all in one document. "Joseph Merrow of Edgecombe...yeoman ...in consideration of the sum of four hundred Dollars...paid by Jonathan Merrow of Edgecomb...yeoman...do...sell...to the said Jonathan...the one half of a certain tract of land, in quantity and quality, the same...being in Edgecomb, bounded as follows, viz, beginning at Damariscotta river at low water mark...to a brook adjoining Samuel Merrow's land"..."We the undersigned to hereby agree to divide the within lot of land & the South half of said farm is to belong to Samuel Merrey & the North half of said farm is to belong to Jonathan Merrey." 30 May 1805; recorded 28 May 1823. (Lincoln County deeds, Vol. 121, p75.)

The first census, in 1790, listed Joseph Merrow living in Edgecomb and in his family were two males over 16, one male under 16, and five females. In 1800 Joseph Merrow lived there, age over 45, and his family was reduced to one female, also over 45. In 1810, Joseph Marrow, over 45, lived there, but now his family comprised two females, one over 45 and the other 16 to 26.

In this recounting there can be noted the use of the different forms of the family name as Merrow, Merry, and Marrow. Just as they were used at different times in these pages so they were used almost interchangeably during his life. His grandfather, as well as his uncles, also used the same forms interchangeably. However, only the descendent of this Joseph Merrow have settled on the form Merry in modern usage.

Joseph Merrow, alias Merry, died in Edgecomb, probably 1 Sept. 1816, age 86y. Abigail died, probably there, 26 Jan 1812, age 79y. Both were buried in marked graves in the family burying ground on their farm.

Children:

i. James[5]. Cutter in Genealogy of Middlessex County said he was a son of Joseph Merry of Edgecomb, but "might have been a grandson". Cutter also said he served in the Revolution. With the known dates of Joseph Merry and some of his descendents it is now clear that no grandson could have attained sufficient age to have served in the Revolution. Therefore, it seems more probable he was a son.
"James Merry, Edgecomb, Private, Capt. Israel Davis's Co., Col. 139. TIMOTHY[4] MERROW, -1787, (Joseph[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]). A Timothy Merrow served from April 21 to Oct. 27, 1758, in Capt. Sommersbee Gilman's Company, Col. John Hart's Regiment in the New Hampshire troops raised for the Crown Point Expedition of 1758. Identity of this Timothy Merrow, both as a son of this Joseph Merrow and as having served in the Crown Point expedition, is hypothetical and not supported by proof. No documentary or legendary evidence has been found to prove a connection between him and any other member of the family. There was another Merrow family living in Edgecomb at the same time as that of Joseph Merrow. From the fact that a Timothy Merrow served in the army in 1758, as did Joseph[4] Merrow, would indicate that this Timothy was of the right age to have been the head of this other family. No record of any wife has been found. No record of any land having been owned by him has come to light.

This Timothy was undoubtedly the one who, as Timothy Marrow, was drowned with Samuel Marrow and Joseph Marrow, Jr., in the Damariscotta River 26 April 1787. Since the Samuel could not have been a son of Joseph[4] Merrow, the assumption is strong that he was a son of Timothy.

Children:

i. Samuel[5]; drowned 26 April 1787.

147. ii. Timothy, b. 1762.

140. RUTH[4] (MERROW) COLBY, 1746-1837, (Joseph[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]); was born, perhaps in what is now Edgecomb, Me., about 1746. Her identity as a daughter of this Joseph Merrow is hypothetical, no documentary proof of her relationship to him or to any other member of the family having been found. A tradition exists in the Lambert family that she helped disguise the boys and men who dumped the tea into Boston harbor at the time of the Boston Tea Party 16 Dec. 1773. No corroborating evidence has been found.

She married Abel Colby in Edgecomb 13 Feb. 1779 and both were then of Edgecomb. He was baptized in Wiscasset, Me., 25 Aug 1763, son of Ruggles and Abigail (Davis) Colby. That he was born earlier is probable from the fact that he was baptized together with four brothers and sisters. He was a 5th generation descendent of Anthony Colby who was in Salisbury and Amesbury, Mass., in 1640. (Ruggles[4], Samuel[3], Samuel[2], Anthony[1]). Abel Colby lived in Edgecomb when he enlisted in the Revolution 21 May 1775 and served 2 mos. 15 das. In his favor was an order for a bounty coat dated at Winter Hill 11 Nov 1775. He also served 2 mos. 25 das. beginning 31 May 1776 in defense of sea coast; served 6 mos. 5 das. to 5 Dec 1776 at Boothbay. He was a farmer and they moved to Middletown Plantation in Maine on the Sandy River and settled in the east part of the plantation. Middletown Plantation later became Strong and the section where they lived was later annexed to New Vineyard. They were there as early as 1789 for on March 30 of that year he signed a petition to the Massachusetts Committee for Sale of Eastern Lands for a tract of land. In 1791 he bought 100 acres from this committee for £6.

In 1790 they were one of the fourteen families then settled there and in their family, besides themselves, were one male under sixteen and three females, presumably all their children. Strong records, however, reveal the name of only one child.

About 1804 the name of Abel Colby ceased to appear in the town records of Strong. The presumption is that he died about that time for his wife seems to have returned to Edgecomb with daughter Sarah. Widow Colby moved to Strong again with that daughter when the latter moved there between 1810 and 1813. Ruth (Merrow) Colby died, probably in Strong, 13 April 1837, age 90y 6mo. She was buried in East Strong cemetery.

142. MARY[5] (MERROW) DODGE, 1765-1848, (Joseph[4], Joseph[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Edgecomb, Me., probably, in 1765. Her identity as a daughter of this Joseph is hypothetical and is not supported by documentary evidence. No direct proof has been found to establish her relationship to any other member of the family. She married Benjamin Dodge in Edgecomb 5 Dec. 1784, both being then of Edgecomb. He was born in 1764.

Benjamin Dodge was a yeoman in Edgecomb in 1787 when on March 19 of that year he was a grantor of a deed together with Joseph Merrow and Samuel Merrow. Benjamin and Mary Dodge moved to Middletown Plantation, later known as Strong, Me., before 1790, because in that year they were listed as one of the fourteen families there. In Strong she was known as Polly Dodge. In 1790 there were, besides themselves, in their family one male under sixteen and two females. Benjamin Dodge was a purchaser in 1791 for £6 from the Massachusetts Committee for Sale of Eastern Lands of 100 acres in Strong. He was a farmer and, like all early settlers, cleared the wild land for fields and pastures. He also had a small mill on a stream where he sawed lumber during a few weeks in the year. He was at an early date a class leader of the Methodist group, formed in 1794, before they erected a church in Strong in 1917. Benjamin Dodge preached before this group. He died in Carthage, Me. She died there 6 May 1848, age 83y, and both were buried there. Later, they together with their gravestones were removed to the cemetery on the farm of their son, Samuel Dodge, in Freeman, Me., though this farm is partly in Freeman and partly in Phillips.

143. DAVID[5] MERROW, (Joseph[4] Merrow, Joseph[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born, probably in Edgecomb, Me., by 1765 or earlier. "Thursday Feb. 21. 1799, went about 4 o'clock with Jona. Merrow to John Trasks and Married David Merrow to Jane Trask," so wrote Moses Davis, Justice of the Peace in Edgecomb in his Diary. David Merrow of Sandy River married Jane Trask of Newcastle, both in Maine, 21 March 1799, according to an Edgecomb marriage record.

No documentary evidence has been found to prove he was a son of this Joseph Merrow, of Merry. The Jonathan Merrow named was undoubtedly a son of this Joseph and was, probably, a brother of David. That David may have been a favorite brother of Jonathan may be inferred from the fact that the latter's eldest son was named David. It is interesting to note that at this time, in 1799, all references to this family in this record were under the name of Merrow. Soon afterward the transition to Merry took place in Edgecomb, but since David was quite removed from his relatives there the name of Merry was never applied to him or his descendents.

David Merrow lived for a brief time with his wife in the Sandy River area, probably, for 28 Nov 1800 "David Merrow of Curve or number three, yeoman" sold land to Timothy Merrow, presumed to have been his cousin. This land had been "set off to David Merrow". From this record it would seem as if David Merrow had left the Sandy River region and no further record of him appeared there. It seems probable they moved to Starks, Me., for in 1800 the census listed there a David Marrow and his wife, both age 26-45. They had one male child under ten.

Camden, Me., seemed to be where they were living when the 1810 census listed there a David Murrow and his wife, both age 45 years or older. In their family were a male, age 10 to 16; two females, age under 10; and two males, age under 10. The census of 1820 did not list them there and their subsequent history is unknown. When their children were next heard from, they had been in or had come from Nobleboro. Note that Nobleboro is near Newcastle, where John Trask lived and where David and Jane were married. Could it be that David had died and Jane had taken her family back to, or near, where she was brought up? In Newcastle in 1810 there was a John Trask and also a John Trask, Jr. However, neither the census of 1810 of 1820 listed anyone named Merrow in Newcastle or Nobleboro.

Note that in the family of their son, John T. Merrow, the name Jane appears. Note that John Merrow could well have been named for his grandfather, John Trask. Note that his middle initial "T" could well have stood for Trask.

Children:

148. i. John T.[6], b. about 14 June 1800.
149. ii. Mary E., b. about 5 Sept. 1805.
150. iii. William T., b. between 1800 and 1810.
iv. _____(son b. 1800-1810.)
v. _____(daughter b. 1800-1810.)

145. ABIGAIL[5] (MERROW) HOWLAND, (Joseph[4], Joseph[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born, probably, in Edgecomb, Me. Though no documentary evidence has been found to identify her as a daughter of Joseph Merrow, such relationship is highly probable.

"Tuesday April 13, 1790, went to Mr. Merrows & married Brigs Howland to Abigail Merrow." so wrote Moses Davis, Justice of Peace in Edgecomb, in his Diary. That Briggs Howland was of Bristol, Me., is evident from marriage intentions in Bristol records, "Mr. Breigs Houlland of Bristol and Abigail Merrey of Edgecomb Apr. 3 1790." Briggs Howland was, perhaps, born in Bristol, son of Capt. Zebulon Howland. No further record of their history has been found. Howland Genealogy by F. Howland said they had eight children, but did not identify them.

146. LYDIA[5] (MERROW) ELLSWORTH, (Joseph[4], Joseph[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born, probably, in Edgecomb, Me. Married Moses Ellsworth in Edgecomb 18 Dec. 1791. Both were then of Edgecomb. He was born, probably in Waldoborough or Bristol, Me., a 5th generation descendent of Jeremiah Ellsworth who was in Rowley, Mass., soon after 1650. (Moses[5], Joseph[4], Jeremiah[3], Jeremiah[2], Jeremaih[1]).

"Jeremiah Ellsworth, b. 26 Jan. 1745 and d. 14 Aug. 1814, was the first of the name to come to Maine. In the census of 1790 he was of Waldoborough and had a family of six boys and two girls. The boundary between the towns of Waldoborough and Bristol was not settled until years later and it is probable that the place where he lived is now a part of Bristol. Nearly twenty-five families from this neighborhood came to the middle section of Sandy River valley as first settlers. They had a lot of trouble over the ownership of the land at Bristol, there being three claimants to the ownership. The rights of these claims were under dispute for a period of nearly forty years before the matter was settled. Many of the actual settlers there, despairing of getting a clear title to their lands, moved to other places."

"Several of Joseph Ellsworth's children came to Strong before he did. Jeremiah and Moses Ellsworth were of Strong before 1800, and William and Joseph, Jr., before 1807. Joseph Ellsworth, Sr. 's, name does not appear in the Strong records until 1807 when the town voted to exempt him and Joseph Voter and another old man from paying a poll tax. It is probable that his wife died before he came to Strong as there is no evidence she ever lived there. I have been unable to learn her name. His last resting place is marked in the lot of his son, Jeremiah, in the old Sanborn Cemetery a few rods off the State road between Strong and Farmington. The following are the names of his children so far as is known to me:

i. Jeremiah, b. 25 Feb. 1767; d. 6 May 1855; m. Sarah Dodge 28 Feb. 1792.
ii. Moses; m. Lydia Merry.
iii. Anne; m. John Riezner 27 Mar. 1792.
iv. William, b. 1777; m. Hannah _____; d. 1 Apr. 1849.
v. Joseph, b. 25 June 1779; m. Margaret Barton 17 Nov. 1805. She was b. 13 Mar. 1786 and d. 30 Apr. 1850." ----------Leland Edwin Peary, The Strong historian and genealogist.

Moses Ellsworth was a signer of a petition 30 March 1789 for land "on the west side of the Sandy River", but he was not listed as one of the first fourteen families in Strong in 1790. New Vineyard and Strong Register said he located "on the east side of the river in the lower part of the town" about 1790. They lived only a few years in Strong "then moved over East, down near the coast". Census records reveal he had left Strong before 1800. He had not returned to Newcastle for the censuses of 1800 and 1810 did not list his family. Moses Ellsworth of Edgecomb, yeoman, bought one hundred acres of land in Newcastle, Me., 29 Aug. 1792 from Joseph Merrow of Edgecomb. To this deed, Joseph Merrow's sons, Jonathan and Samuel, were witnesses. Moses Ellsworth was buried in Freeman, Me.

147. TIMOTHY[5] MERRY, 1762-1846, (Timothy[4] Merrow, Joseph[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born, perhaps, in what is now Edgecomb, Me., about 1762. His identity as son of Timothy[4] is hypothetical and not substantiated with documentary proof. No direct evidence of his relationship to any member of the family has been discovered. "Thursday May 17 1787 in the Evening married Timothy Merrow and Elizabeth Merrow who came here for that purpose."--Diary of Moses Davis, Justice of the Peace, published in New England Historical and Genealogical Register, Vol. 83, p293. This diary also appears in Book I or II of Edgecomb Town Books, p263. On page 253 of this same Edgecomb Town Book there appears this entry, "Timothy Merry married Elizabeth Merry 14 April 1787."

Elizabeth Merrow, alias Merry, was probably a daughter of Joseph and Abigail (Stimpson) Merry. She was born about 1762, probably in what is now Edgecomb. A Timothy Merrow was a witness to a Lincoln County deed, 19 March 1787, given by Joseph Merrow, Samuel Merrow, and Benjamin Dodge, all yeomen of Edgecomb. This Timothy might, however, have been his father, the elder Timothy.

Timothy and Elizabeth Merry settled in the new habitation on the Sandy River in Maine, then known as Middletown Plantation and which later became Strong. That they were there before 1790 is shown by the census record of that year in which they were listed as having in their family one male under sixteen and another female, probably a daughter. The first settlement in Middletown Plantation was in 1784. In 1790, when there were fourteen families there, all settlers had come from towns along the Damariscotta River from Edgecomb to Nobleborough and from Pemaquid to Waldoborough. Timothy Merrow was a signer of a petition to the Committee for Sale of Eastern Lands, Commonwealth of Massachusetts, for a "tract of land on the east side of Sandy River", 30 March 1789. This Plantation was incorporated as Town of Strong 31 Jan. 1801. East Strong, where Timothy Merry lived, was annexed to New Vineyard in 1856. It was called Thomastown, or number two, 17 Jan. 1801, when Timothy Merrow of that place on Sandy River sold land in Curve, or Number Three, which he had bought the previous year from David Merrow. Timothy sold this to George Merrow of Newcastle in Lincoln County. (Kennebec County deed.) Timothy Marrow was listed in Thompton Town in the 1800 census. He and his wife were then age 26-45. They had one male child under 10, one female, 10 to 16, and one female under 10.

He was a farmer and appears to have lived in Strong except for the years 1815 to 1817 when his name appeared on the rolls of nearby Avon. According to census records there were in their family, besides themselves, in 1820, two females, age 16-26; in 1830, two females, 20-30 and one male 10-15; in 1840, one female, 20-30.

As some proof of relationship to others in the Merry family, Violet (Merry) McIntyre of Warren, Me., said "My father (Miles Hough Merry of Warren) often told of the Timothy Merry who settled in the Sandy River valley at the age of twenty-one. In fact, he went on his birthday, took up land there, and built a house. Grandfather, (Captain Samuel Merry of Warren) and father visited him there and found him comfortably situated for those days. Father never mentioned any other Merrys there." Timothy Merry died, probably in Strong, 18 April 1846, age 84y. Elizabeth died, also probably there, in April 1849, age 87y. Both were buried in East Strong Cemetery, their gravestones reading "Timothy Mary" and ElizabethMary".

Children:

151. i. Hannah[6], b. 1788.
ii. Betsey; m. Daniel Gordon of Freeman, Me., (pub.) 20 Mar 1836. About 1909 members of this family lived in Lanesville, Mass.
iii. Sally; m., as his 1st wife, Jarvis Frizzell of Strong 9 Dec. 1844 in Strong. She d. before 1858 and he m. Mary Ann Bigford 21 Feb. 1858. There were no children by either marriage.

148. JOHN T.[6] MERROW, 1800-1882, (David[5], Joseph[4] Merry, alias Merrow, Joseph[3] Merrow, Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Maine about 14 June 1800. There is no documentary proof to place him as a son of David, but the probability is strong. He married Sarah Jane McFadden, who was born about 11 May 1783. That she was called Sally is on the evidence of her gravestone. That she was called Jane is on the authority of the 1850 census.

There is a possibility that they may have lived, first, in Newcastle, Me., for in 1830 the census showed there a John Merrow, age 30-40y. In this family were a female, age 30-40y, probably his wife; another female of the same age, whose identity is unknown; a female, age 5-10y, probably daughter Jane; and last, a male under 5. This would seem to be incorrect for it omits the known daughter, Mary Ann, then under 5, and names a "male", whose identity is doubtful. That they were known to be living early in Windsor, Me., is on the evidence of the birth there of their daughters and on other records. Deeds placed them there from 1841 through 1851 and they may have been there both earlier and later. He was a cordwainer when he sold land in 1841, which land he had bought in 1835. He was a carpenter there in 1851 when he sold land there "on the west branch of the Sheepscot River". He had been a shoemaker in 1844. To all of these deeds wife Sarah signed.

The census of 1850 placed them in Windsor and he was a shipwright, age 50y, born in Maine. In his family were Jane Merrow, age 60y, born in Maine; Jane Merrow, age 27y; and Mary Merrow, age 21y. All were born in Maine. Sometime after 1851 they moved to Bath, Me., where he was the Bath city undertaker and "wore a tall silk hat", according to the memory of Mrs. Rose Parris, a nurse who took care of daughter Jane Merrow in her last sickness. He was superintendent of Parks and Cemeteries from 1865 to 1866. Sally Merrow died, probably in Bath, 11 April 1871, age 87y 11mo. John Merrow died, also probably in Bath, 14 Dec. 1882, age 83y 6mo. Both were buried there in Maple Grove Cemetery.

Children:

i. Jane M.[7], b. about 14 Aug. 1823; never married; lived in Bath where she d. 14 Aug. 1897, age 76y, and was buried in Maple Grove Cemetery there.

152. ii. Mary Ann, b. 29 June 1826.

149. MARY E.[6] (MERROW) McFADDEN, 1805-1889, (David[5], Joseph[4] Merry, alias Merrow, Joseph[3] Merrow, Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Camden, Me., about 5 September 1805. That she was born in Camden is on the authority of 1870 census. No evidence has been found to prove she was daughter of David, but the probability is very strong. She married Abner P. McFadden 15 Dec 1825, the marriage being probably in Nobleboro, Me., since record of it appeared in the Journal of Elder Phinehas Pillsbury of Nobleboro. Abner McFadden was born about 9 Nov. 1796, census of 1850 placing his birth in Damariscotta, Me. No information has been found to place exactly who was the father of Abner McFadden, but there may have been a connection with a Thomas McFadden. He may have been Abner's father or a close relative. This Thomas lived in 1790, just six years before Abner was born, in Bristol Town and he was head of a family. He may have lived in that part of Bristol which was set off to Nobleboro. Damariscotta adjoins Nobleboro. Note that Abner's eldest son was named Thomas.

Abner and Mary McFadden first lived in Nobleboro where five children were born. Here he was superintendent of Parks and Cemeteries from 1861 to 1870, except for the year 1865-1866. In that year the position was held by John T. Merrow, whose wife Sally may have been Abner's sister. This John T. Merrow is presumed to have been the brother of Abner's wife Mary. Abner McFadden died in Bath 9 Oct. 1875, age 78y 11mo. Mary died there 5 June 1889, age 83y 9mo. Both were buried there in Maple Grove Cemetery.

Children:

i. Abigail McFadden.

ii. Thomas McFadden, b. about 1830. His wife was Sarah M., who was b. in Boothbay, Me., about 1834. According to 1870 census they lived in Bath and he was a rigger.
   Children:
   I. Charles T. McFadden, b. about 1852; worked in 1870 in a Bath ice house.
   II. Frederic L. McFadden, b. about 1855.
   III. Flora McFadden, b. about 1857.
   IV. Celia A. McFadden, b. about 1859.

iii. Harriet McFadden.

iv. Samuel McFadden, b. about 1833. In 1870 his wife was Frances, b. in Maine, and they lived in Bath, where he was a carpenter.
   Children:
   I. Annie McFadden, b. about 1857.
   II. Fannie, b. about 1863.
   III. Isadore McFadden, b. about 1868.

v. John M. McFadden.

vi. Mary Elizabeth McFadden.

vii. Margaret Ann McFadden.

viii. Sarah Ann McFadden.

ix. Abner William McFadden.

150. WILLIAM T.[6] MERROW, (David[5], Joseph[4] Merry, alias Merrow, Joseph[3]

Merrow, Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Camden, Me., according to information in the Mass. birth record of his son. Married Elizabeth Marriott in Bath, Me., 25 Nov. 1844. She was born in England and was, perhaps, a daughter of John and Judith Marriott. William and Elizabeth Merrow were living in Charlestown, Mass., in 1850 when a son was born there. William Merrow was a carpenter. That he was a joiner appeared in the 1895 marriage record of the son. The death record of this same son indicated that his father, William, was of Bath.

Children:

i. Unnamed child who d. 10 Nov. 1846 and was buried in Maple Grove Cemetery in Bath.

ii. William Albert[7], b. 19 Mar. 1850. He m., 1st, Henrietta Jones in Bath 18 Mar. 1880. No further record of her has been found, but he married, 2nd, Annie L. Blaisdell in Bath 13 Dec. 1895. She was b. in Boston, Mass., about 1853, dau. of John and Harriet (Graves) Blaisdell. William Albert Merrow was a cigar maker, according to his death record. He d. in Bath at the City Alms House 31 Jan. 1915, age 64y 10mo 12da, and was buried in Maple Grove Cemetery. That he was then a widower, according to Maine death record, would indicate that Annie (Blaisdell) Merrow had d. previously.

151. HANNAH[6] (MERRY) WILLIAMS, 1788-1862, (Timothy[5], Timothy[4] Merrow, Joseph[4], Joseph[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Edgecomb or Strong, Me., in 1788. Married Stephen Williams in Avon, Me., 4 Feb. 1815, marriage being performed by Samuel Williams. Stephen Williams was born in 1792, son of Samuel Williams, Sr. Stephen and Hannah lived, probably, in Avon which was early called Sandy River Upper Township. From there they moved to East Strong. He was a farmer and minister. In East Strong he served as minister of the church that was built in 1817 on the west side of the cemetery. Later, this church was rebuilt on the north side of the road from the cemetery. He died in Strong 16 Mar. 1878, age 86y. She died there 5 Oct. 1862, age 74y. Both were buried in East Strong cemetery. There is no record in Strong or Avon of their children, but those named below were probably theirs.

Children:

i. Eliza J. Williams, b. about 11 Dec. 1815; m. John B. Babbitt of Boston, Mass., in Strong 22 Dec. 1839. He d. 23 May 1862, age 47y 6mo. She d. 11 Aug. 1880, age 64y 8mo. Both were buried in East Strong.

152. MARY ANN[7] (MERROW) STORER, 1826-1901, (John T.[6], David[5], Joseph[4], Joseph[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Maine about 29 June 1826. Married William Storer (or Story) in Boston, Mass., 7 Aug. 1850. Their Mass. marriage record read Storey, their gravestones are marked Story, but neighbors of their descendents knew them as Storer. William Storer was born in St. John, N.B., about 20 Jan. 1815, son of William Storer. William Storer, Jr., and his wife Mary Ann, lived in Bath where he was a stair builder. He died there 20 Nov. 1897, age 82y 10mo. She died there 29 Apr. 1901, age 74y 10mo. Both were buried in Maple Grove Cemetery in Bath.

SAMUEL MERRY OF EDGECOMB, ME.

141. SAMUEL[5] MERRY, 1761-1825, (Joseph[4] Merry, alias Merrow, Joseph[3] Merrow, Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born, probably in Edgecomb, Me., 17 March 1761. As Samuel Merrowhe served in the Revolution, this service being in Capt. Archibald McAllister's Comapny, Colonel Samuel McCobb's Regiment, which in 1779 was stationed along the Penobscot River. As Samuel Merrow also he married Lydia Moore in Edgecomb 31 Aug. 1781. She was born, probably in Wiscasset, Me., 29 April 1764, daughter of John and Sarah Moore. In Edgecomb Town records they were both described as of Edgecomb andhis name was spelled Merrow.

They lived in Edgecomb where he was a farmer. His lands were the southern part of the farm that had been his father's. On page 314 of Book 8, the oldest record book in Edgecomb, are listed their dates of birth and those of their children. It is of interest to note that the name form for themselves and all their children in this record was Merrow. However, since the grave records of all are in the form "Merry", the record in this genealogical history proceeds henceforward under the Merry form. Census records of 1790, 1800, and 1810 all continued the form Merrow.

Lincoln County probate record: John Moore of Pownalborough (Wiscasset): his estate; "Consent of Stephen and Mary Sever, John and Sarah Cunningham, Samuel Merrow, and Sarah Day, heirs, for division of real estate 20 April 1786." Sarah Day seems to have been the widow of John Moore, married again. Samuel Merry died, probably in Edgecomb, 26 March 1825, age 64y. Lydia died, probably there also, 28 Sept. 1848, age 84y. Both were buried in the cemetery on the original Merry farm in Edgecomb. Gravestones were in the name of Merry.

153. i. Sally, b. 1 Oct. 1782.
154. ii. Lydia, b. 29 June 1784.
iii. Hannah, b. 23 Sept. 1786; d. 8 Feb. 1801.
155. iv. Polly, b. 28 Dec. 1788.
156. v. Joseph, "Jr.", b. 15 April 1791.
157. vi. Abigail, b. 28 May 1793.
vii. Betsy, b. 22 Oct. 1795; d. 30 Jan. 1803.
158. viii. Samuel, "Jr.", b. 27 Jan. 1798.
ix. Joshua, b. 13 July 1800; was First Officer of Brig Betsey; murdered 25 Dec. 1824, age 24y. Details of this history were told by Daniel Collins, second mate, after his return to Wiscasset, from which port the Betsey had sailed for Matanzas late in November 1824. "The Brig was cast away on one of the Doubleheaded Shot keys about the 21st of December when the officers and crew, seven in number, took the long boat and steered for the Island of Cuba, and the next day made one of the Keys about 20 Leagues to windward, at which place they found two fishing huts and five men, with whom the Captain made an agreement to be brought with himself and crew to Matanzas. The night previous to their departure, which was two days after their landing, one of the fishermen was absent the whole night. When they were on the point of shoving off, they were boarded and taken possession of by a boat having ten men on board, armed with muskets, blunderbusses, and cutlasses, which the fishermen told them when first seen was the King's launch, who soon after tied the Captain and crew of the Betsey, put them into the peroques of the fishermen and taking them into a little lagoon about half a mile from the huts, where they left their boats, taking with them no other arms than cutlasses, they deliberately commenced an indiscriminate murder by cutting off the head of Captain Hilton, which seemed to be the signal for dispatching the others."
"They seized Captain Hilton by the hair, bent his head and shoulders over the gunwhale, and I could distinctly hear them chopping the bone of his neck. They then wrung his neck, separated the head from the body by a slight draw of the sword, and let it drop into the water. There was a dying shriek, a convulsive struggle, and all I could discern was the arms dangling over the side of the canoe and the ragged stump pouring out blood like a torrent. There was an imploring look in the innocent and youthful face of Mr. Merry that would have appealed to the heart of anyone but a pirate. As he rose on his knees, in the posture of a penitent supplicating for mercy even on the verge of eternity, he was prostrated with a blow of the cutlass, his bowels gushing out of the wound. They then pierced him through the breast in several places with a long pointed knife, and cut his throat from ear to ear."

"The informant was knocked overboard by a blow and finding that he had broken the cord with which he was tied ran through the water (about knee deep) and swamps, followed by two of the murderers, but fortunately effected his escape, after witnessing the murder of his comrades with the exception of one, who had also broken his cord and was trying to escape, but presumes he was overtaken being very closely pursued by two or three. The informant on the sixth day got to an estate called Santa Clara on the Rio Palme, where he received some nourishment and rest and continued his route to Matanzas where he arrived last evening, presented himself to Captain Holmes of the American ship Shamrock belonging to the same owners (Mr. A. Wood of Wiscasset)." (Our Navy and the West Indian Pirates by Gardner W. Allen, pub. in Essex Institute Historical Collections, Vol. 65, p177.

159. x. John, b. 9 April 1803.
xi. Stimpson, b. 6 April 1806; d. 25 Feb. 1822; bur. in Edgecomb.
160. xii. Maria, b. 7 July 1808.
161. xiii. Thomas, b. 30 Oct. 1811.

153. SALLY[6] (MERROW) WILLIAMS, 1782- , (Samuel[5] Merry, alias Merrow, Joseph[4] Merry, alias Merrow, Joseph[3] Merrow, Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Edgecomb, Me., 1 Oct. 1782. "Wednesday Jany 1, 1806, went to Sam'l Merrows & married James Williams to Sally Merrow". This record was from the Diary of Moses Davis, Justice of Peace. Edgecomb records of that date said both were of Edgecomb. James Williams may have been a son of Henry and Susannah (Knight) Williams. Henry Williams, mariner, of Boothbay had bought a farm on the Damariscotta River in Edgecomb in 1785. James and Sally Williams were living in Edgecomb in Nov. 1806 as evidenced by the birth there of their son. That she was living in 1825 is indicated by the fact she was mentioned in her father's will of that year. According to entry in Samuel Merry's Bible, Sally died on 8 Jan. either in 1843 or 1873.

i. John Merrow Williams, b. 4 Nov 1806.

154. LYDIA[6] (MERROW) (RIGGS) LANDERKAIN, 1784- , (Samuel[5] Merry, alias Merrow, Joseph[4] Merry, alias Merry, Joseph[3] Merrow, Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Edgecomb, Me., 29 June 1784. Married Samuel Riggs in Edgecomb 23 Oct. 1802. That she was the Lydia Merry who married Samuel Riggs is circumstantial and not proven documentarily. She was the only Lydia of the right age and place to have married Samuel Riggs. Samuel Riggs was born 25 Sept. 1783. When Lydia's father died in 1825 he had included her in his will, but named her only as his daughter Lydia, not giving her married name. In Samuel Merry's Bible there was an entry in connection with family dates of the death of a Lydia Landerkain. An Edgecomb marriage record said Lydia Riggs of Edgecomb married Daniel Landerkin of Boothbay 2 Sept. 1831. It seems likely that Samuel Riggs had died and his widow Lydia had married a second time. Lydia died 10 May 1880, age 95y 11mo 10da. This Bible entry places her birth as 30 May 1784, not quite the same as the Edgecomb birth record above. Presumably the birth record is the more accurate.

Children:
i. Rebecca Riggs, b. 10 Sept. 1807; m. a Mr. Ritchisson.
ii. Mary Merry Riggs, b. 1 Mar. 1810.
iii. Jackson Riggs, b. 29 Apr. 1815.

155. POLLY[6] (MERROW) DUNTON, 1788- , (Samuel[5] Merry, alias Merrow, Joseph[4] Merry, alias Merrow, Joseph[3] Merrow, Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Edgecomb, Me., 28 Dec. 1788. When she married Benjamin Dunton in Edgecomb 29 Oct. 1814, the town book described them both as being of Edgecomb. They probably lived in New Sharon or Mercer, Me., for they had a daughter born in Mercer in 1830 and he was of New Sharon in 1833 when he sold his Edgecomb land. He died in Aug. 1853 and she died 8 May 1876.

Children: (only two identified):

i. Sarah Jane Dunton, b. 22 May 1830 in Mercer; m. Zebedee Cushman Perry, who was b. in Oxford, Me., 5 May 1824.

ii. Lydia Margaret Dunton, b. 16 Nov. 1833; m. Thomas Erskine in Roxbury 1 Jan. 1856. He was born, probably in Whitefield, Me., 2 Jan. 1820, son of Joseph and Rhoda (House) Erskine. He was a 4th generation descendent of Alexander Erskine who came from the north of Ireland and settled in Bristol, Me., a few years after 1746. (Joseph[3], Alexander[2], Alexander[1]). Thomas and Lydia Erskine lived in Roxbury and he was a teamster. He d. 17 Aug. 1891.
   Children:
   I. Willie, b. 2 May 1858; d. 21 May 1868.
   II. Everett, b. 26 Aug. 1859.

156. JOSEPH[6] MERRY, 1791-1866, (Samuel[5] Merry, alias Merrow, Joseph[4] Merry, alias Merrow, Joseph[3] Merrow, Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Edgecomb, Me., 15 April 1791. "Joseph Merrow, Private; service at Edgecomb in Capt. S.G. Wilson's Co., Lt. Col. E. Cutter's Regiment; June 30-July 5, 1814; Sept. 10-28, 1814. (Mass. Militia Men, War of 1812-1814.) Married Sarah Haggett in Edgecomb 31 May 1815, town record calling her Sally Haggett. She was born there about 29 April 1793, daughter of Benjamin and Martha (Dodge) Haggett. Joseph and Sally Merry lived in Edgecomb where he was justice of the peace in 1832. It was probably he and not his grandfather who was the Joseph Merry, clerk of Free Will Baptist Church in Edgecomb in 1814. Descendents have said he gathered rocks for ballast for local vessels and also caught alewives. He died in Edgecomb 2 Nov. 1866, age 75y 6mo. Sally died there 29 Aug. 1874, age 81y 4mo. Both were buried on the original Joseph Merry farm in Edgecomb.

   William Turnbull was a farmer and they lived in Edgecomb near the original Joseph Merry house. He d. in Edgecomb 18 Apr. 1898. Both were buried there. No children.

They had no children, but adopted:
   I. George Washington[7], b. 25 July 1860; non compos mentis; never married; d. 17 Mar. 1936; buried in Edgecomb.

Married Amos Haggett in Edgecomb 4 Nov. 1812. He was born, probably there, about 6 July 1788, son of Benjamin and Martha (Dodge) Haggett. He was a brother of the Sally Haggett who had married Abigail's brother, Joseph Merry. Amos Haggett was a sixth generation descendent of the Benjamin Haggett who was in Salem, Mass., in 1642 and in Wenham, Mass., in 1678. Amos and Abigail Haggett lived in Edgecomb and he was a farmer. He died there 6 Nov. 1863, age 73y 4mo. She died there 3 April 1859, age 66y. Both were buried in old Edgecomb cemetery.

158. CAPT. SAMUEL[6] MERRY, 1798-1871, (Samuel[5] Merry, alias Merrow, Joseph[4] Merry, alias Merrow, Joseph[3] Merrow, Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Edgecomb, Me., 27 Jan. 1798. His birth record showed his name as Merrow. Edgecomb Town record said "Samuel Merry, Jr., married Elizabeth Huff 10 Dec. 1818, both of Edgecomb. They lived, first, in Edgecomb. About him his granddaughter, Violet Alice (Merry) McIntyre, said, "Capt. Samuel Merry went on coasting vessels and visited all the principal ports on the Atlantic coast from Pictou, N.S., to New Orleans. He also visited Cuban ports. All this was in his early life while he lived in Edgecomb. My father (Miles Hough Merry) went with him on many trips. Once they were together in Havana, Cuba, where after landing their cargo, they loaded for Savanah, Ga. After leaving port they discovered they were being followed by pirates. A storm was rising and only the gale saved their lives. Twice the pirates tried to board but the vessel was rolling too much and the pirates had to abandon their attempt."

Capt. Samuel Merry and his family moved to Warren, Me., about 1843 and 1844. He was here a lumber mill man and they lived near Hilt's Mills. He died in Warren 27 Sept. 1871. His wife died there also and both were buried there.

Children:

162. i. Miles Hough[7], b. 24 May 1819.
163. ii. Eliza M., b. 1822.
iii. Alberti; never married; lived with parents in Warren. After their death he lived with his sister in Washington, Me., where he died in July 1875.

159. CAPTAIN JOHN[6] MERRY, 1803-1877, (Samuel[5] Merry, alias Merrow, Joseph[4] Merry, alias Merrow, Joseph[3] Merrow, Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Edgecomb, Me., 9 Apr. 1803. His birth record in Edgecomb read Merrow.

Married Sarah Ann Glidden, probably in Nobleboro, Me., 10 Sept. 1826. She was born there 12 Aug. 1805, daughter of Col. Nathaniel Glidden. They lived in Edgecomb. First, they lived together with his brother Thomas and the latter's family in the house that had been their father's. This house was near the Damariscotta River. About 1830 they moved to a new house which he built on another part of the original Joseph Merry farm. This house was owned in 1944 by his grandson, Ralph Elwyn Merry. Capt. John Merry built ships, probably schooners. He was captain of a ship and sailed to Boston and elsewhere along the coast. In 1850, he was a spar maker. He was in the Maine legislature. He died in 1877 and his wife died in Edgecomb 13 Jan. 1874, age 68y. They were buried in a cemetery on the River Road in Edgecomb.

v. Mary Webster, b. 23 March 1837; m. Lyman Warren Wheeler in Boston, Mass., 17 June 1858. He was from Swampscott, Mass.; b. there 7 Apr. 1835, son of James and Adeline B. Wheeler. Lyman and Mary Wheeler lived in Boston. He was a teacher of singing who had gone to Europe in 1862 and had studied there "for three years with Garcia, San Giovanni, Henry Deacon and others. On his return to Boston, he became at once the most prominent vocal teacher in the city. In 1867, he was chosen professor in the New England Conservatory of Music and held that position for a quarter of a century."
"In 1897, owing to the ill health of Mrs. Wheeler, he gave up active business and and took up residence in Texas. The climate restored her health and they were arranging to return to Boston to resume the delightful position in musical circles and society which had always been theirs in that city. A temporary sojourn was made at Columbus, Ohio, and it was there that the fatal attack came (1 Jan 1900)...The remains rest at beautiful Mt. Auburn Cemetery, Cambridge, Mass.) (from a newspaper clipping a collateral descendent of Mary Webster (Merry) Wheeler had preserved.)
Of Lyman Warren Wheeler, Mabelle Maynard (Dadmun) Bunker, his grandniece, said, "When he went abroad to study, Aunt Mary went into the bakeshop and worked for my grandfather Maynard and lived with him. On her husband's return he brought her a beautiful antique cross of gold and black enamel set with a diamond and a circle of pearls, bought with a gift of money he had received for singing for Queen Victoria. Jenny Lind sang at the same audience and they sang a duet together. He had a beautiful tenor voice and did solo work with the Handel and Hayden Society of which his sister's husband, George F. Daniels, was president for ten years.
Mary Webster (Merry) Wheeler died in Cambridge 18 Apr. 1909 and was buried in Mt. Auburn cemetery there. No children.

vi. John Fairfield, b. 5 Mar. 1839. He went to sea in the merchant service at the age of seventeen. His advance was rapid and, when only twenty-two years old, he became first officer of the ship Edgar P. Stringer of New York. He himself in later years referred to his first trip around the world as having been on "an old wind-jammer". This ship foundered in the South Atlantic but the crew was saved. He was afterward first mate on the "Wandering Jew", one of the fastest ships at that time afloat. He went to the island of the Southern Pacific for a cargo, rounding Cape Horn in an Antarctic hail storm and returned after thirteen months by way of the Cape of Good Hope, skirting the African continent.
In 1862, when the cruise ended in Boston, the Civil War was on. "He was appointed Ensign in the U.S. Navy October 18th 1862 and ordered to the U.S. frigate Macedonian, which was captured by Commodore Decatur in the U.S. Constitution in the War of 1812. December 2d, 1862, he received orders to join the U.S. gunboat Morse, attached to the North Atlantic Blockade Squadron, Rear Admiral Lee Commanding; reported for duty on the 7th of the same month. Was on duty about Fortress Monroe until the Spring of 1863, when the Morse, Lt. Comdr. C. A. Babcock, was ordered to the York River as the senior ship. There he was under fire for the first time. The U.S. mail boat Swan was steaming up the river York. When nearly to West Point he was fired upon by a rebel masked battery that had been thrown up the night before. The Morse was lying some three miles distant, at anchor, and the captain was on shore. Ensign Merry being the ex-officer, or 1st Lieutenant, the command devolved on him. He immediately caused the cable to be slipped, and steamed towards the battery, at the same time opening fire with long range shells. But nearing the enemy he used five second fuse, and continued the fire as rapidly as possible. After expending about two hundred rounds, the enemy beat a retreat. Captain Babcock came on board in a tugboat during the action and gave orders to him to go ashore, after the fight was over, and set fire to the houses near the battery, the inhabitants being in the rear in the woods. This was done, and he returned to the ship, which was so disabled that it was necessary to take it to the Norfolk Navy Yard for repairs." (Winslow Family).

John Merry married, 1st, Nancy Jane Winslow in Boston 11 Aug 1863. She was born in Nobleboro 2 Sept 1840, daughter of Harvey and Eunice (Hall) Winslow. She was an 8th generation descendent of Kenelm Winslow who came from England to Plymouth, Mass., in 1629 and who removed from there to Green's Harbor, now Marshfield, Mass., about 1641.

"After several engagements on the York with the enemy, (the Morse) was ordered to Washington for the protection of that city at the time the battle of Gettysburg was fought. When Lee retreated the Morse went back to the James River and was present at the bombardment and capture of Fort Powhatten. This fight was a bloodless one on their side, the rebels retiring as they advanced to assault. The works having been levelled, and a reconaissance made at the river in force, they returned to Fortress Monroe; there again on the York River and at the 'White House Landing' when the battle of Cold Harbor was fought. Soon after, had a very severe engagement for five hours with the rebel Gens. Wade Hampton's and Fitz Hugh Lee's artillery, the Morse being much injured. They however, succeeded in keeping the rebels in check until General Sheridan arrived, when he put the enemy to flight."

"After having served on board the Morse for about twenty-two months, clearing rivers of torpedoes, doing picket duty, etc., Lieut. Merry was taken sick with fever, and sent by the surgeon to the Norfolk Hospital. Two months later, having recovered, he was appointed to the U.S. steamer Osceola, Capt. Clitz, U.S.N., attached to Admiral David D. Porter's fleet, which was rendezvoused at Hampton Roads for a premeditated attack on Fort Fisher. The Osceola cruised in search of blockade runners until December 1864, when the fleet arrived off the Cape Fear River and on Christmas Day attacked the Fort, bombarding it for three days. The Osceola was hulled several times, once by a ten inch shot, twenty-seven inches below the water line entering the starboard boiler and scalding seven men, two of them fatally. In a short time the ship was in a sinking condition, the shot hole being so far from the water's edge that it was difficult to repair. This was, however, done, and all the ammunition having been destroyed, fresh powder and shell was procured from the store ships, so that the Osceola was ready for the next day's fight."

"It is well known that the first attempt at Fort Fisher was a failure. On the thirteenth of January, 1865, the fort was again attacked by the fleet, the army landing with the assistance of the navy. On the 16th of January 1865 a naval brigade was landed from the fleet to cooperate with the army in assaulting the fort, and Lieut. Merry commanded the company from the Osceola. At 3 P.M. the assault was made, the naval force being repulsed with great loss. He was wounded twice; the first time severely in his right thigh, the bullet passing through the fleshy part; the second time one passed through his left thigh, breaking the bone; was also slightly wounded in his right leg below the knee. His clothes bore marks of the enemy's missiles in nine different places, and his sword scabbard was cut off. For gallantry in this fight he was promoted to the grade of Master. He was taken to the Norfolk Hospital for treatment, where for four weeks he daily expected the amputation of his left leg would be necessary. After remaining two months, he was transferred to his home, but was forced to use crutches about one year. When sufficiently recovered he was ordered to ordnance duty at the Navy Yard, N.Y., where he remained about six months, when he was appointed to the Ohio Receiving Ship at Boston."

"March 12, 1868, he received a commission in the regular Navy and, in October following, orders to report to Rear Admiral S.C. Rowan for duty in the U.S. Asiatic Squadron. He remained in China and Japan for more than three years, taking part in the Corean Expedition under Rear Admiral Rodgers." In this squadron he served, first, on the steamer Ashuelot and, later, on the Delaware. While in Japan, he was one of the first five or six men of other than Japanese birth ever to see the Mikado. "He was ordered home on the Idaho. This vessel was dismasted in a typhoon which was encountered soon after leaving port, and had to be towed into Yokahama,"

"After his return from China, Feb 27 1872, he was ordered to duty at the Navy Yard. Portsmouth, N.H., and February 5, 1873, to the Juniata, fitting for sea at Boston; June 16th, 1873, was detached from the Juniata on account of ill-health and lameness resulting from his wounds. October

"His commission of Lieutenant, which he received in China, bears date of March 20th 1870."
He commanded the receiving-ship "Relief in 1875-7; was on the Gettysburg, 1877-9, for special duty as executive officer for the survey work on government timber lands in Florida". This was examining the naval woodland reserves which were set apart at the time of the Louisiana purchase to provide southern pine and live oak timber for wooden battleships....I rode 3200 miles in one winter on horseback, camping much of the time. The result of the expedition was the turning over to homesteaders of about a half a million acres of fine land, most of which is under cultivation now, I presume. We reserved much of the swamp land and river bank timber land for the government and every 17th section for school purposes." -- Admiral Merry in an interview with H. Lyman Armes, Boston Herald, 26 Dec 1914.
Later he had charge of fitting out the Proteus, the vessel which carried Greeley party to the North. About this time he was promoted to the rank of Lieutenant Commander and was given command of the Tallapoosa, which he commanded for three years 1881-4. In 1884, he commanded the sloop of of war Marion and was stationed in the Asiatic Squadron 1884-7. 1889 to November, 1892, he commanded the receiving-ship Wabash at the Boston Navy Yard. In February 1892 he was given special leave from duty and put in command of the Massachusetts naval training ship Enterprize. Commissioned Commander May 9, 1893. Attended Naval War College, June 1896; Navy Yard, Washington, October 1896. April 1897 he was given command of the gunboat Machias, Stationed with the Asiatic Squadron in Japanese waters. At the outbreak of the Spanish-American war he was assigned to blockade work in Cuban waters. In May 1899 he was made commandant of the United States naval station at Hawaii, where he served for three years. He was promoted to Captain 29 June 1899.
He was afterward assigned to the survey of the island of Guam for the purpose of locating the naval station there. He was retired from active service with the rank of rear-admiral 5 March 1902.
Having been divorced from his first wife, he married Etta Cora (Shaw) Reynolds at Somerville, Mass., 30 Nov. 1904. She was born there 16 June 1861, daughter of Lyman A. and Lydia (Oliver) Shaw. After a six-months tour of the principal cities of Europe and of China and Japan they lived in Somerville. He died at the Naval Hospital in Washington, D.C., 30 May 1916, while he was stopping in Washington on his way home with his wife after they had spent the winter in Honolulu. Those were in the halcyon days of shipbuilding and he wasn't long in finding a job in one of the shipyards. He showed remarkable aptitude for the business and at 22 struck out for himself as a master builder and for many years was employed in the well-known firm of Goss, Sawyer & Packard. He later worked for William Rogers, then entered the Sewell shipyard where he built most of their large fleet of wooden vessels. With the advent of steel shipbuilding he retired from there and went to the yard of Percy & Small where he was employed more than 20 years and (up to 1914) built practically all the giant sailing craft for which this firm has long been noted. He was an expert workman, had a keen eye for quickly distinguishing the good from poor material and was considered without a peer in the State."

"Mr. Merry had 175 vessels to his credit and during his long career had won a wide acquaintance among ship owners, commanders, and seafaring men in general. He believed in shipping and frequently took more than one 64th in the vessels he built and they usually yielded him handsome profits, too."

"He retired from active work five years ago to devote his time to his ever increasing personal affairs. He had become an extensive owner in real estate and with the demand for houses that followed the boom in shipbuilding Mr. Merry was kept busy with his numerous properties."

"Mr. Merry was a fond lover of horse flesh and in his younger days owned many fast steppers. He liked to drive and it was not infrequent that he handled the reins over his own choice bits of horse flesh when he put them on the race track, although he more often had them driven by professionals... With the advent of the automobile and his increasing years, Mr. Merry gradually gave up his horses to interest himself in the new invention. His first purchase was an old type Stanley steamer and from that time on he owned several cars. "--Bath Times, 1 Dec. 1919. Attended schools in Brooklyn and Kingston, N.Y., and afterwards went to business college in New York. He became associated with Henry M. Flagler and in his employ was connected with the latter's Florida hotels. He went from one executive position to another. About 1925 he became president and general manager of the Mayflower Hotel in Washington, D.C. He had been previously proprietor of Hotel Lenox in Boston, Mass. He married, 1st, Elizabeth Woodward Fitzhugh in Brooklyn, N.Y., April 1901. She was born there 1 Feb. 1875, daughter of Edward Jackson and Eugenia (Armstead) Fitzhugh.

From Washington, Henry Merry went to El Reno, Okla, where he became warden of the Southwestern Reformatory for men. The Portland, Me., Sunday Telegram of March 1935 said of this effort of his: "He has attracted wide attention throughout the country because of his methods of humanizing prisoners... Although Mr. Merry's ideas in regard to prison reform are called new, they are in reality but an application of old methods. At the time he was appointed warden, a large sum of money was placed in his control for the purpose of buying machinery to operate the thousand acre farm connected with the prison."

"Instead of purchasing tractors and swift-moving machinery, Mr. Merry did the very unexpected by buying oxen, carts, and hay racks and farm implements. He wanted his men to have material to occupy their full time and develop the soul and mind. He felt that a yoke of oxen would have a more helpful influence than a motor. He was right. The prisoners take a real interest in the animals. There are twelve yoke of oxen on the farm and the men regard it a favor to be allowed to care for them. It is interesting that several of the men who are now driving oxen are serving time for stealing automobiles."

"Another feature that Mr. Merry introduced was a hand loom. He purchased this instead of weaving machinery. The prisoners constructed other looms from this and enjoy hand weaving... The former Maine man figured that time meant nothing to the inmates except the outlook of a dreary stretch. The looms and the farm occupy their time and give them a new angle on life. The warden plans to introduce a flock of sheep for obtaining wool and also will plant cotton. Hand work will prepare the wool and cotton fibers for the looms and after weaving will be made into various kinds of cloth. This Maine man is getting results and there is little liklihood of any outbreak among the men."

Henry and Elizabeth Merry had one daughter:

Elizabeth Fitzhugh[10], b. 8 July 1903 in Cape Elizabeth, Me.; graduated Warren Country School in Warrenton, Va.; Miss Sayward's School in Overbrook, Pa.; Connecticutt College for Women in New London. Chapter X

JONATHAN MERRY OF EDGECOMB, ME.

144. JONATHAN[5] MERRY, 1770-1852, (Joseph[4] Merry, alias Merrow, Joseph[3] Merrow, Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Edgecomb, Me., about 1770. Married Mary Jackson in Edgecomb 25 Aug 1791. She was born in 1767, probably in Edgecomb. Both were of this place when married and the Edgecomb marriage record read Merrow. They lived in Edgecomb and he was a farmer.

Book I, page 306, or Edgecomb Town Records lists the name of Jonathan Merrow and "Polly his wife". Below their names are listed their children, all under the surname Merrow. That this listing was made in 1810 or later is apparent because the name of their child born in that year was included. So, as late as 1810, they were known under the style Merrow. As to Polly, the inference is that his wife, Mary Jackson, was also called Polly, inasmuch as "Mary, wife of Jonathan Merry", did not die until thirty-eight years after this date. Polly died, probably in Edgecomb, 21 April 1848, age 81 years. Jonathan died, probably in Edgecomb, 13 July 1852, age 82 years. He had been living in 1850 in Edgecomb with his son Dependent. Jonathan and Mary were buried in Edgecomb on the original Joseph Merry farm.

Children:

193. i. David[6], b. 26 Jan. 1792. (See chapter "David Merry of Boothbay").
ii. James, b. 28 Mar. 1794. "James Merrow of Edgecomb died in this town on the 21st day of June 1814, age 20 years."--Wiscasset record.
194. iii. John, b. 5 Dec. 1796. (See chapter "John Merry of Boothbay").
iv. Polly, b. 14 Feb. 1799. She was probably the Polly Merry who married Robert Greenough in Edgecomb 5 July 1822. She was then of Edgecomb and he was of Wiscasset, Me. That they lived for a time in Wiscasset is probable for 5 Mar. 1828 William Merry of Edgecomb bought from Robert and Mary Greenough of Wiscasset land and buildings in Wiscasset.
195. v. William, b. 3 Oct. 1801.
196. vi. Hiram, b. 24 Sept. 1803.
197. vii. Samuel, b. 10 Sept. 1805.
198. viii. Dependent, b. 2 May 1808.
199. ix. Hannah, b. 26 May 1810.
200. x. Rosalinda, b. about 14 Dec. 1815.

195. WILLIAM[6] MERRY, 1801-1873, (Jonathan[5] Merry, alias Merrow, Joseph[4] Merry, alias Merrow, Joseph[3] Merrow, Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Edgecomb, Me., 3 Oct. 1801. His name was spelled Merrow in the Edgecomb record of his birth. "William Merry of Edgecomb married Sally Cochren of Newcastle Jan. 10, 1832.--(Edgecomb marriage record). This marriage was probably in Edgecomb and she was known as Sarah Cochrane to her descendents. She was born about 8 June 1789. They lived in Edgecomb and he died 6 Oct. 1873. She died 8 Nov. 1870, age 81y 5mo. Both were buried in South Newcastle, Me.

Only child:

201. i. Bradford[7], b. 1834.

196. HIRAM[6] MERRY, 1803-1851, (Jonathan[5], Joseph[4] Merry, alias Merrow, Joseph[3] Merrow, Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Edgecomb, Me., 24 Sept. 1803. His birth record in Edgecomb read Merrow. He married Elizabeth Trask in Edgecomb 27 March 1823 (pub. 6 Mar. 1823). She was called Betsy and was born, probably in Edgecomb, about 1799. They lived in Edgecomb, where according to the 1850 census he was a fisherman. His great grandson, Felix McKinley Merry, reported he was a blacksmith. He died, probably in Edgecomb, 14 June 1851, age 48y, and was buried there on the original Joseph Merry farm. She was living in Edgecomb in 1860.

Children:

i. Sophia[7], b. July 1823; "burnt to death by cloths taking fire" in Belfast, Me., 23 Oct. 1825, age 2y 3mo, so recorded the History of Belfast, Me. While she has not been positively identified as daughter of Hiram, the probability is strong, especially in view of fact that Hiram's next child was born there.

ii. Jonathan Chandler, b. 13 June 1826 in Belfast; m. Emeline Whitney in Gloucester, Mass., 9 Nov. 1851 (Mass. marriage record). She was b. in Newcastle, Me., 9 Mar. 1833, dau. of Eliab T. and Lydia (Williams) Whitney. She was a sister of the Sarah Jane Whitney who m. his brother, Capt. David Alonzo Merry, and of the Williams Whitney who m. his sister, Rosalinda Harlow Whitney. Jonathan Chandler Merry was a seafaring man until he was thirty six years old, being captain of several different ships and having visited many foreign ports. On a voyage to Ireland he brought to America survivors of the Irish potato famine. Some of these settled in Benedicta, Me., and he used to see them after he moved to Sherman. His grand nephew Chauncey Chandler Merry, had in 1952 the spyglass and marlin spike he used at sea. Jonathan Chandler Merry retired from the sea after the loss of his brother David and in 1862 moved to Sherman, Me. He settled on lot No. 151 about two miles north of the village. His deed, dated 4 Feb. 1864, reads: "State deed. Consideration Road Labor and Settling Dues." Soon after coming to Sherman, he enlisted in Co. H., 30th Me. Volunteers. He saw active service in the Civil War and received wounds which eventually were the cause of his death. After being discharged he returned to Sherman to his farm, which he cleared, and where he built a house and two barns. He continued farming as long as his health permitted. He served as constable many years and was famous for his size and strength. He was six feet four inches tall with very broad shoulders and enormous hands. A few years after he died his widow sold the farm and had a house built near the village, where she spent the rest of her days. He had died in Sherman 27 Nov. 1894 and she had died there 25 Oct. 1914. Both were buried in Sherman. No children, but they brought up their nephew, Brainard Aroscoe Merry.

202. iii. James W., b. 24 Feb. 1832.

203. iv. David Alonzo, b. about 1835.

204. v. Francis Israel, b. June 1837.

205. vi. Rosalinda Harlow, b. 2 June 1839.

197. SAMUEL[6] MERRY, 1805- , (Jonathan[5] Merry, alias Merrow, Joseph[4] Merry, alias Merrow, Joseph[3] Merrow, Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Edgecomb, Me., 10 Sept. 1805. Married Frances Barter, called Fanny, probably in Edgecomb, 26 Feb. 1826. She was then of Wiscasset, born in Maine about 1806. Greene in his History of Boothbay said they settled in Edgecomb. In 1850 they were living in Woolwich, Me., where he was then a blacksmith. This census record had their name as Merrey. That they lived in Woolwich much after this date seems probable from a report from Nellie E. Lord of Bath, Me., which said, "My uncle, who was born in 1861, tells me that when he was a very young boy his father, George Shaw, had a blacksmith shop near the old mill in the Nequasset section of Woolwich and that a Sam Merry worked with him. They lived in a yellow house on the hill above the mill. He thinks they must have moved away soon afterwards as he has always lived in that section and remembers nothing more about them. But I did trail them from the yellow house, which is no longer standing, to a white house a short distance from there and friends of mine who live across the road tell me their father often spoke of the Merry family.... I can find no record of them in the cemetery." Samuel Merry was living in September 1863 when he sold land and buildings in Woolwich to his son, Samuel B. Merry. No one named Merry was living in Woolwich by 1870.

Children:

i. Samuel B.[7], b. about 1826 either in Edgecomb or Woolwich. He was Samuel B. Merry, sergeant in Co. B., 2nd Maine Cavalry, in a return dated 1 Nov 1864 and was stationed at Barrancas, Fla. Later he was 2nd lieutenant in 2nd Maine Cavalry. "Mr. Samuel Merry of Woolwich and Miss Eveline V. Haggett of Edgecomb were married at her father's residence Nov 11, 1852 by E.G. Carpenter of Newcastle, minister." (Woolwich Town record.) She died 20 March 1875 perhaps. In 1860 Samuel Merry was a carpenter in Bath and they had no children. As a possible clue to his later history an Essex County, Mass., court record may have been connected with him. In this a Samuel B. Merry "now of West Joplin in the County of Jasper in the State of Missouri" and formerly of Lynnfield, Mass., was sued by Amos S. Haggett of Nobleboro, Me., for an unpaid note 21 Nov. 1878.

198. DEPENDENT[6] MERRY, 1808-1889, (Jonathan[5] Merry, alias Merrow, Joseph[4] Merry, alias Merrow, Joseph[3] Merrow, Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Edgecomb, Me., 2 Feb. 1808. Record of his birth in Edgecomb read Merrow, while that of his marriage there read Merry. He married Mary Dunton in Edgecomb 28 Dec. 1830. She was born there about 14 July 1807, daughter of Benjamin and Polly (Alley) Dunton. He was then of Edgecomb and she was of Boothbay, Me. They were married by his cousin Joseph Merry, who was a justice of peace. They lived in Edgecomb, where he was a farmer. He was a tall thin man with a kindly disposition and a dry wit. He was called Penny Merry. He died, probably in Edgecomb, 4 Aug. 1889, age 81y 6mo. She died in Newcastle, Me., 14 Oct. 1894, age 87y 3mo.

Children:

i. Dexter W.[7], b. about 1832; m. Rosilla R. (Allen) Smalledge, who was born in Farmington, Me., 2 July 1839, daughter of Rufus and Abigail (Fairbanks) Allen. She was probably the Hannah Merry of Edgecomb who married Samuel Richards in Bristol, Me., 13 Sept. 1833. He was born in Maine and was then probably of Bristol. They were living there in 1850 and he was a laborer.

Children:

i. Caroline Richards, b. about 1835.
ii. Helen Richards, b. about 1846.

200. ROSALINDA[6] (MERRY) HARLOW, 1815-1900, (Jonathan[5] Merry, alias Merrow, Joseph[4] Merry, alias Merrow, Joseph[3] Merrow, Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Edgecomb, or Wiscasset, Me., about 14 Dec. 1815. She was not been positively identified as a daughter of Jonathan, but this relationship is probable. From her death record comes the evidence she was born in Wiscasset, but this may not have been accurate. She was identified in this record as a daughter of Mary Merry, the name of her father being unknown. Note that Hiram Merry, son of Jonathan, had a daughter Rosalinda Harlow Merry, obviously named for this Rosalinda. This would mean a child named for her aunt, a quite natural event. On the other hand, Rosalinda was not mentioned in the list of Jonathan's children in Edgecomb Town Book. However, this entry could have well been made before her birth.

She married William Harlow in Boston, Mass., 20 Sept. 1837, the marriage notice in Columbian Sentinal saying "She was formerly of Wiscasset". He was born in Lunenberg, Mass., about 30 Oct. 1814, son of William and Elizabeth (Jackson) Harlow. He was a marble cutter and they lived in Malden, Mass. She died there 19 Dec. 1891, age 76y 5da. He died there 6 Aug. 1900, age 85y 9mo 6da. Both were buried in Malden.

Children:
i. William Henry Harlow, b. 27 May 1843.
ii. Mary E. Harlow, b. 23 Nov. 1844.
iii. Charles F. Harlow, b. 23 Feb. 1846; d. in Malden 3 May 1847.

201. CAPTAIN BRADFORD[7] MERRY, 1834-1883, (William[6], Jonathan[5] Merry, alias Merrow, Joseph[4] Merry, alias Merrow, Joseph[3] Merrow, Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Newcastle, Me., in 1834. Married Helen Frances Shortwell in Newcastle. She was born on Shortwell's Island, South Newcastle, 5 Nov. 1841, daughter of Capt. James S. and Ellen H. (Bryant) Shortwell. Capt. Bradford and Helen Merry lived in South Newcastle. He was a sea captain and commanded the schooners Coquette and Niger, both sailing many years from Wiscasset, Me. The usual cargo was hay and bricks to southern ports. Capt. Bradford Merry was lost overboard 17 Sept. 1883 from the schooner Niger while bound from Boston to Wiscasset. A squall hit the vessel and tore away the sails and rigging. Helen Merry died in South Newcastle 15 Oct. 1915 and was buried there.

Children:
211. i. James Shortwell[8], b. 17 Sept 1860.
ii. Josephine, b. 10 Dec 1862; d. 22 Mar. 1863; age 3mo 12da.
iii. Norman, b. 12 Feb 1864; married Mary Augusta Lewis in Boothbay, Me., 20 Dec. 1887. She was b. there 29 Sept. 1865, daughter of Capt. Alonzo and Angeline Adams (Mathews) Lewis. It was aboard her father's vessel that she met Norman Merry, later to become her husband and Captain Merry.
Capt. Merry had gone to sea early in life. To augment his meagre schooling he usually attended the village school in the Winter months. By the age of sixteen he had gone to sea permanently, his earlier voyages being up the Maine rivers. Bath was the port he usually sailed from at a time when Bath was world famous for its shipping. Schooners were then being built at many yards along the Maine coast and Maine ports were humming with activity, their wharves filled with cargoes for distant places.
He started as a common sailor, working his way through the grades of second and first mate to be master. He surmounted his meagre education to master Bowditch's "Practical Navigator", the text adopted by U.S. government when masters had to pass an examination every five years to be qualified to sail vessels. He sailed every size of schooner from two to six-masted. While his trips were mostly coastwise, he did go to ports in South America and the West Indies. Cargoes were usually lumber, brick, and hay. Crews were usually of eight to ten men. Cooks worked as members of the regular crew, only stopping their crew duties shortly before meal time to fry some meat or prepare a hasty dish.
During World War I he was sailing vessels in war service, such vessels having been pressed into service because there were not enough steamships available to carry supplies for the Allies. His cargoes were mostly oil and he made two trips to France and return, escaping submarines. From New York to France took his vessel twenty-nine days. The Carl F. Cressey, a four masted schooner which he then sailed, was later torpedoed by a German submarine while under another master.
Norman Merry was a sailing man and never interested in steam. When no more schooners were left in service he retired from the sea to live at Back Narrows in Boothbay. This was about fifteen years before his death in Boothbay Harbor 23 Dec 1937. Three days earlier he and his wife had celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. He was buried in Ocean View Cemetery in Boothbay.
She lived in 1945 at Back River when she wrote "I went to sea with my husband making the trips to Africa and Panama with him. I passed Cape Hatteras more than twenty times. I liked the sea life." They had no children.

Married Sarah Jane Whitney in Wiscasset, Me., 18 July 1853. She was born in Newcastle, Me., 21 Dec. 1830, daughter of Eliab T. and Lydia (Williams) Whitney. Sarah Jane was a 7th generation descendent of John Whitney who came from London, England, to Watertown, Mass., in 1635. (Sarah Jane[7], Eliab T.[6], Josiah[5], Nathaniel[4], Nathaniel[3], Benjamin[2], John[1]). She was a sister of the Emeline Whitney who married his brother, Jonathan Chandler Merry, and of Williams Whitney, who married David's sister, Rosalinda Harlow Merry.

Capt. David and Sarah Merry lived in Edgecomb and he was a fisherman sailing out of Gloucester, Mass. In 1859 he and his brother went on different vessels to the Grand Banks fishing grounds, south and east of Newfoundland. Late in the afternoon of 5 April the vessels of the two brothers were within hailing distance of each other and they talked together. During a severe gale in the night three of the vessels of the fleet were lost, including the schooner "Grace

T. Powers". On this ship was David Alonzo Merry, age 24 by family tradition, age 25 by Massachusetts death records, which also is authority for the date of this catastrophe.

Descendents identified Francis born to these parents on this date. Census of 1850 identified Israel born to these parents at this time. The conclusion is they were one and the same. Married Mary A. Osgood in Boston, Mass., 20 July 1859. She was born there 26 Feb. 1837, daughter of James H. and Charlotte (Cannell) Osgood. 210. EDWIN[7] MERRY, 1846-1925, (Dependent[6], Jonathan[5] Merry, alias Merrow, Joseph[4] Merry, alias Merrow, Joseph[3] Merrow, Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Edgecomb, Me., 23 April 1846. Married, first, Adeline Patterson in Damariscotta, Me., 13 July 1870. She was born in Edgecomb 31 Jan. 1841, daughter of William and Sally (Trask) Patterson. "On Feb. 20, 1864, Edwin Merry of Edgecomb at the age of seventeen enlisted in the Fifth Maine Battery of Light Artillery, commanded by Capt. Stevens of Belgrade, for the duration of the War. July 5, 1865, he received an honorable discharge. He saw the slaughter at Cold Harbor, endured the horrors of the Wilderness, was in the scraps at Petersburg, was a good and intelligent soldier all the time... But although his military service was only a year and a half he had some stirring experiences. Oct. 19, 1864, Gen. Phil Sheridan, in command of the Army of the Potomac, was in Washington to talk things over with the administration..."

"But that night Jubal A. Early sneaked around and at daylight made a vicious attack, driving the 19th Corps out of their tents and chasing them like rabbits. General Sheridan was at Winchester when he sniffed trouble and then began that famous ride. Comrade Merry says General Wright had formed his lines and was ready for business before Sheridan got there. But he was present when the general arrived on his big black stallion and the moment was just as dramatic as the poem puts it".

"After the war Mr. Merry went to Arizona and was employed first in grading a railroad and afterwards as foreman in the Longfellow copper mine. Clifton, Arizona, was a tough place in those days, topographically and morally. Till the railroad was completed, murder, robbery, and gambling were the order of the day... no law and no justice. Men arrested for murder came into court with two six-shooters at their belts. No convictions under those circumstances. But this changed later."

"Mr. Merry was on the first grand jury that ever sat in that section. He helped indict a number of Mexican horse thieves and three Chinese murderers. One of these Chinese killed a popular Chinese cook and hid in the mine. Mr. Merry located him where he had crawled into a hole and 'hauled the hole in after him'. He had backed into a crevice and scooped dirt in front of him to conceal his head. The other two had lost money gambling and slew the winners to get the money back. Execution followed conviction very closely... Consequently even bloody Arizona got the better of its scoundrels. 216. BRAINARD AROSCOE[8] MERRY, 1855-1941, (Capt. David Alonzo[7], Hiram[6], Jonathan[5] Merry, alias Merrow, Joseph[4] Merry, alias Merrow, Joseph[3] Merrow, Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Edgecomb, Me., 12 Jan. 1855. He was brought up by his uncle, Jonathan Chandler Merry, from the age of seven years. He came to Sherman, Me., with this uncle to the farm now owned by Charles Stevens Merry. There was then no road--only a trail--from the village. Their few furnishings were brought from the village on a "jumper" drawn by oxen. The nearest railroad was at Mattawamkeag. From there the stage went through to Fort Kent, over what is known as the "Aroostook Road", leaving route #2 at Molunkus and going through Benedicta. At that time there were only seven houses in Sherman village and two of those were of logs.

He attended school until he was thirteen years old in a building now owned by George Lane and situated on what is now the park. For seats they had planks set on blocks of wood. One teacher taught all classes. Brainard Merry told many times that when he was twelve years old he carried a half bushel of grain to Sherman Corner to be sent to the grist mill at Lincoln. They also had to go to the Corner, four miles, for mail. After leaving school he worked with his uncle clearing land and doing other farm work. The land was covered with hardwood trees which had to be felled and then "junked" into logs. These were hauled together and burned. Then the land was harrowed with a spike-toothed harrow and sowed to grain, or potatoes were "spudded in". All hay and grain had to be cut by a hand scythe and the grain threshed by hand. In the pasture on the Charles Merry farm there are still traces of the old pits where charcoal was burned, later to be sold to blacksmiths. He helped to clear roads, which most of the settlers did to pay for their land, and also helped to clear the right of way for the Bangor & Aroostook Railroad.

He married Isadora Joan Scudder in Sherman 5 Oct. 1884. She was born in Sherman 18 Jan. 1866, daughter of James Polk and Elizabeth T. (Adams) Scudder. After his marriage Brainard Merry bought twenty-five acres of land from Elisha Heath, which he cleared and on which he built a small house. Here their four oldest children were born. It was later moved to the village and in 1952 was owned by Donald Bragdon. Brainard Merry also worked in the woods winters for various lumbermen. One spring while river-driving on the Wissataquoik Stream he narrowly escaped drowning. He was caught between logs in front of a landing, knocked into the stream unconscious, carried across to the opposite bank, where he was rescued. He was injured internally and brought over rough spring roads thirty five miles to his own home. From these injuries he never fully recovered.

Late in 1899, he bought the family farm from the aunt who brought him up, Emeline (Whitney) Merry, and began raising patotoes. He had the first potato planter and the first sprayer in town and one of the first sulky plows. In 1925 he sold the twenty-five acres he first bought, but continued raising potatoes on the family-farm until he had a slight shock in 1935. The following year he deeded his farm to his son, Charles Stevens Merry, and he and his wife lived with his son until their deaths. He was holder of the Boston Post cane for being the town's oldest citizen. He was then well known for his ability in mental arithmetic and for his capacity to remember dates. Often he was consulted regarding dates and early events in town. He died in Sherman 3 Oct. 1941, age 86y 8mo 21da. Isadora Merry died there 2 Sept. 1940. Both were buried in Sherman.

JOHN MERRY OF BOOTHBAY, ME.

194. JOHN[6] MERRY, 1796-1870, (Jonathan[5] Merry, alias Merrow, Joseph[4] Merry, alias Merrow, Joseph[3] Merrow, Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Edgecomb, Me., 5 Dec. 1796. His name in Edgecomb birth records reads Merrow. By the time he grew to maturity there were in this vicinity of Maine two John Merrys, who were probably one and the same man. There was the John Merry of Washington, Me., and the John Merry of Boothbay. About the latter, Greene in his History of Boothbay said he had married three times.

JOHN MERRY OF WASHINGTON

John Merry of Washington, Me., was living there 9 Mar. 1827 and was a "yeoman" when he sold 65 acres of land in Washington to Jonathan Merry of Edgecomb. Jonathan deeded this land back to John 17 Jan. 1828. (Lincoln County deeds.) This suggests a close relationship between the two men. Possibly, the double transfer may have been to protect John against some unexplained process of law. This would have been a natural thing for a father to have done, if indeed John was the son of Jonathan.

John Merry must have married by or before 1825 and was in that year living in Washington, for a son, Allen Merry, was born to him there and then. This information was found in the Massachusetts death record of that son. However, that record reported Allen's mother to have been named Sarah, which would not check with the name of the first wife of John Merry of Boothbay. However, death records are the least accurate of the three vital records--births, marriages, and deaths--in matters of parents' names, for the person with the best information, the deceased, cannot impart that information. Thus, too great dependence should not be placed on Allen Merry's mother's name as given.

That John Merry of Washington had two children is proven by a Lincoln County probate record. In this, town not given, John Merry was appointed administrator of the estate of Louisa Merry. "Allen Merry & Nancy Merry children and heirs at law of John Merry...." The relationship of John to Louisa and of Louisa to the children is not apparent.

Fred Cecil Merry, a grandson of this Allen Merry and thus a great grandson of John of Washington, said "As a child I can remember visiting in Boothbay Harbor and Edgecomb. We would visit a man my father called Uncle Newell." Edith Mabel (Boyman) Greene, a great granddaughter of John Merry of Boothbay Harbor, said "George Allen Merry, son of Allen Merry, was a cousin of my grandfather. They visited and thought a great deal of each other." While the two accounts do not agree with precise exactitude in relationships, nevertheless they show such relationship to have been close. The two reports are strong evidence in support of the conclusion that John Merry of Washington and John Merry of Boothbay were one and the same.

PUZZLING RECORDS IN WASHINGTON

John Merry married Elizabeth Gowing in Washington 6 Feb. 1828. In their marriage intentions 16 Nov. 1827 she was called Mrs. Betsy Gowing. Both were of Washington. (Washington marriage record.) As Miss Betsy Butterfield she had married John Gowing, "Marriner", in Washington 31 Aug. 1824. (Maine D.A.R. record.)

John Merry and Miss Hannah Clark "both of this town" filed marriage intentions in Washington 2 Feb. 1846. (Washington marriage record.)

Newell Keen Merry joined the Congregational Church in Edgecomb, Me., in 1866. He was then livery stable proprietor in Boothbay Harbor. He drove the stage carrying mail and passengers from Boothbay Harbor to Wiscasset and, later, from Boothbay Harbor to East Boothbay and Linekin. He was sheriff or constable about 1888.

Miss Elizabeth Freeman Reed said of him, "Physically, he was a fine figure of a man, very tall, well built, brown hair, beard cut square, rather florid face. He used to sit up front in the Congregational Church and I remember how he looked marching into church on Memorial Day with the rest of the G.A.R.'s in their blue uniforms. He owned a large double house on the East Side which was fitted up for roller skating about 1889. I learned to skate on rollers there. Later, this was the Masonic Hall." He belonged to this latter organization for over half a century and was Master of his lodge.

Chapter XIII

BENJAMIN MERROW OF ROCHESTER, N. H.

134. BENJAMIN[3] MERROW, 1700-1764, (Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Reading, Mass., 9 May 1700. There is mention of him as a small boy in Suffolk County, Mass., court records, but nothing else is known of his history until evidence appears that he had been living in Marblehead, Mass., but for how long is not known. The time of this Marblehead residence was thirty years after his birth. At that time he bought land in Rochester from his father and moved there.

"Sam[ll] Merry of y[e] Town of Dover in y[e] Pro[c] of N Hams[r] ...Doctor...for... ten pounds...pd by Benj Merry of Marblehead in ye County of Essex in N Engl[d] Yeoman...hath sold...unto him ye sd Ben:[n] Merry...a third part of a whole Right in ye Town of Rochester ye first division being ye 73rd Lott Laid out In partnership w[th] Edw[d] Whitehouse & Sam[ll] Willey...I ye sd Sam[ll] as also Mary Merry my wife In token of Surrendering up her Right of Dowry of thirds have hereunto set our hands...this 3rd day of feb[ry] 1731-2." (N.H. deed.)

Another bit of evidence corroborating Benjamin's residence in Rochester is a writ of attachment served on him 26 Dec. 1732 on behalf of Andrew Tucker, gentleman, of Marblehead for £40. Andrew Tucker again attached for this same sum 5 Jan. 1735. Again 5 June 1735, Benjamin Tucker attached Benjamin Merrow, husbandman, for £22 9s. In all these writs the name was spelled Merrow. However, the property of Benjamin Merry was attached by Joseph Hanson of Dover for £3 on 29 Apr. 1738.

Benjamin was a signer in 1735 of a petition to the General Assembly for a minister at Rochester. Again, in 1736-7, he was a signer of a like petition. "Benjamin Merry entered the covenant and was baptized" 8 May 1739. That he had some military history in the frontier campaigns is evidenced by several references to him. "In 1741 the Province of New Hampshire was separated from Massachusetts... Early in 1744 the French and Indians opened the war upon the English in Nova Scotia and it soon extended to New England. Scouts were kept out in New Hampshire... As early as May 24 of this year he (Governor Wentworth) ordered Capt. Tibbetts out upon a scout with forty-one men. His roll was as follows: 'Muster-Roll of the Company of Volunteers in His Majesty's service under the command of Ichabod Tibbetts, by His Excellency's special Order, 24 May 1744'...." Benjamin Merrow, Sentinel, Time of Entry May 25.' "(Potter's Military History of the State of New Hampshire.) He was Corporal in 1745 in Captain John Huckins' Scouts in the French and Indian Wars. "John Huckins and nineteen men under his command Scouting 14 days from Rochester to Winipisokee Pond and from thence Guarding the People at Rochester...begun the 18th September 45." In September 1746 he served as clerk 10 days in Capt. Guppy's Company at Rochester. (MacDuffie's History of Rochester.) Benjamin Merrow, Sentinel, served in Capt. Wm. Simes Company, Col. Joseph Blanchard's Regiment, from May 15 to July 21, 1755, in the Crown Point expedition. (Potter's Military History of New Hampshire.)

The name of Benjamin's wife has not been learned. Presumably, he married somewhat late in life for their first child seems to have been born in 1741. In 1755 on May 8 there was a mortgage in which there was no mention of a wife. "Benjamin Merrow of Rochester...husbandman...for eighty two pounds six shillings & six pence old tenor...paid by John Downing of Newington...sold... land situate in Rochester...being one third part of ye Lott No 66 in ye second division in sd Rochester & originally granted to Sam[ll] Willey Edward Whitehouse & John Norway & which I purchased of my hon[d] Father Sam[l] Merrow late of Rochester Physician dec^{d}...that if ye sd Benj^{n} Merrow...shall pay...unto ye sd John Downing...the sum of Eighty Pounds two shillings & six pence... on or before ye Eighth day of May next ensuing...then ye foregoing deed be void." (Strafford County deeds.) It would appear that this second division land had come to Dr. Samuel Merrow as a right coincident to his purchase of a third of lot No. 73 in the first division and had passed automatically to Benjamin.

Benjamin Merrow died, probably in January 1764, for there is record of administration of "the estate of Benjamin Merrow, yeoman, of Rochester being granted 31 Jan. 1764 to Jonathan Merrow, probably his brother Jonathan of Somersworth.

Children:

300. i. David[4], b. Aug. 1741. (See chapter, David Merrow of Eaton, N.H.)
ii. Benjamin, bp. 20 Mar. 1748. "March 20, 1748 Baptized Benja Merrey son of Benj^{a} Merrey at Rochester." (Rochester Church Book of Records). There was no mention of him in Rochester at the time of the Declaration of Allegiance there 15 Oct. 1777.
iii. John. "June 1750 Baptized John Merry son of Benj^{a} Merry." (Rochester Church Book of Records). There was also no mention of him in the Declaration of Allegiance.
iv. Hannah, bp. 11 Oct. 1752. "Oct. 11 (1752) Baptized Hannah Merry." (Rochester Church Book of Records.)
v. Daniel. "Sept. 8 (1754) Baptized Daniel y^{e} son of Benj^{a} Merry." He was not mentioned in Rochester at time of Declaration of Allegiance there 15 Oct. 1777.
301. vi. Moses, bp. 24 Apr. 1757.

301. MOSES[4] MERROW, 1757- , (Benjamin[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), "April 24, 1757. Baptized Moses Merry. "--Rochester, N.H., Church Book of Records. Married Lucy Marston in Wakefield, N.H., 29 June 1794. Both were then of Middletown, N.H. She was born there about 1776, daughter of Josiah and Hannah (Moulton) Marston. She was a descendent of the William Marston, Sr., a Quaker, who came from England to Salem, Mass., in 1634 and settled in Hampton, N.H., in 1638. Lucy Marston's brother James married Rachel Merrow, probably a sister of Moses.

Moses Merrow seems to have been in Shapleigh, Me., 26 Nov. 1788 when he was the highest bidder at a sale of land there. Moses and Lucy Merrow were living in Wakefield in 1794, 5, and 6, since he was taxed there for a half-acre, a cow, two calves, but no horse. Moses Merrow "of Wakefield, yeoman," bought from John Gage of Dover, gentleman, fifty acres in Wakefield "and all appurtenances" 8 Jan. 1796. Moses Merrow sold to Josiah Marston of Middletown, husbandman, five acres of land in Wakefield, it "being part of lot numbered one in the first division of said town". Sold 16 Jan. 1796; recorded 24 Jan. 1806. James Marston of Rochester bought from him for $125. twenty-five acres of Wakefield land, "being the quarter-part of Lot numbered one in the first division in said town and being half of the Northwesterly half of said Lot."

The first record of Moses Merrow in Eaton, N.H., was in 1805 when "Thomas Merrill Ju^{r} of Conway...New Hampshire...Yeoman...for one hundred dollars... paid by Moses Merrow of Eaton ...yeoman...do sell...unto him the said Merrow fifty acres of land in Eaton & on what is called Nathaniel Martin's Location being the South End of lot Number twenty seven by Hershey's Survey...this twenty third day of September 1805." Recorded 22 Jan. 1807. His brother, David Merrow, owned the north half of the same lot.

Moses Merrow sold his south half to his nephew, Elijah Merrow, son of David, 23 Dec. 1806, recorded 22 Jan. 1807, repurchasing it from Elijah 17 Dec. 1807. Then he sold it to Hubbard Colby of Eaton, yeoman, for $100. 27 Dec. 1813.

George Merrow witnessed the deed from Moses to Elijah and Ezekiel Merrow witnessed the other two.

Moses Merrow died, probably in Eaton, and probably after 1813. Lucy Merrow died, probably in Bowdoinham, Me., 25 June 1861, age 85y, and was buried there.

Children:

303. i. Josiah[5], b. 17 Aug. 1794. (See chapter, Col. Josiah Merrow of Bowdoinham, Me.)
304. ii. Nancy, b. 1797.
iii. Isaiah, b. 1800. His identity as a son of Moses is highly probable but not proven. It rests largely on the fact he is buried in the same lot as his probable sister Nancy above. He probably never married; was grantor in Eaton 1824, John Merrow of Eaton being a witness. He d. 20 Apr. 1826, age 26y, and was buried in Madison, N.H.

302. RACHEL[4] (MERROW) MARSTON, - , (Benjamin[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Rochester, N.H. The presumption that she was a daughter of Benjamin is strong, but not proven. It seems most probable that a Marston brother and sister, James and Lucy, married a Merrow sister and brother, Rachel and Moses. Rachel married James Marston, their marriage certificate having been issued in Shapleigh, Me., 24 Aug. 1789. Marston Genealogy said they were married in Wakefield, N.H., in 1788. More likely it is that they were married in Shapleigh, probably in that part now Acton, which is adjacent to Wakefield. James Marston was born in Hampton, N.H., 19 June 1766, son of Josiah and Hannah (Moulton) Marston. He was a sixth generation descendent of William Marston, Sr., who came from England to Salem, Mass., in 1634 and settled in Hampton, N.H. (James[6], Josiah[5], Samuel[4], Samuel[3], William[2], William[1]).

James and Rachel Marston lived awhile in Rochester, a deed naming his residence there in 1796 being on record in Strafford County. Another Strafford County deed placed them in Wakefield in 1801. James Marston, husbandman, of Wakefield was a grantor of land there 5 Sept. 1809. Other records placed them in Shapleigh. He was a lieutenant in the War of 1812 and died in the service in Burlington, Vt., in 1813, age 47y.

Children:

i. Samuel Marston, b. 1789; never married; went to sea and is supposed to have died of yellow fever in Havana, Cuba.
ii. Elijah Marston, b. 9 Dec. 1790; m. Lydia Adsit of Sands Lake, N.Y., 1 Oct. 1822. He settled there and d. there 28 Feb. 1865, age 74y 3mo; farmer; served in the War of 1812.

304. NANCY[5] (MERROW) MASON, 1797-1822, (Moses[4], Benjamin[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born, probably in Wakefield, N.H., in 1797. "and Nancy the daughter of Moses Merrow shall have the privilege of one room of the house till (her) marriage day". This clause was in the life lease of Elijah Merrow 3 Nov. 1813 to his father, David Merrow, in Eaton, N.H. David was an uncle to Nancy. (Strafford County deed). Nancy Merrow married Jonathan Mason, who was born in Eaton 15 Feb. 1784. They lived in that part of Eaton which is now Madison, their home being on the road from Madison to Eaton over Gline's Mountain. In a mortgage deed which Jonathan Mason gave to his brother-in-law, Isaiah Forrest, in 1816, this land was described as "beginning at the southwest corner of Jacob Merrow's land". Nancy died in Eaton 12 May 1822, and was buried in Madison.

DAVID MERROW OF EATON, N.H.

300. DAVID[4] MERROW, 1741-1829, (Benjamin[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born, probably in Rochester, N.H., in Aug. 1741. Identity of David as a son of Benjamin rests on three bits of evidence: first, the genealogical research of Rev. Alonzo Hall Quint, noted historian of Dover, N.H., placed George Merrow of Madison, N.H., as a grandson of Benjamin Merrow. For details see Scale's History of Dover. Secondly, Merrill in his History of Carroll County said, "George, Jacob, and Elijah Merrow were brothers and settled on Gline's Mountain in Eaton." Thirdly, N.H. death record of Elijah, as well as Elijah's Family Bible and memory of his descendents, established Elijah as son of "David and Ester". Therefore, since the three men were brothers, and since Elijah was a son of David and George a grandson of Benjamin, David must have been a son of Benjamin.

David Merrow was a soldier against the French. "In 1760, a regiment of eight men was raised in the Province (of New Hampshire) for the expedition of an invasion of Canada. The regiment...marched by way of Monson (now Milford), Peterborough, and Keene to Number Four (now Charlestown, N.H.), and then cut a road through the wilderness twenty-six miles, to the Green Mountains, and from thence to Crown Point... They were forty-six days in cutting the road to the foot of the Green Mountains, which they crossed, packing or hauling their stores over the mountain on horse barrows. A large drove of cattle followed them for the army at Crown Point." In Capt. Gerrish's Company was David Merrow, 10 March 1760 to 13 Nov. 1760 at Number Four. (Potter's Military History of the State of New Hampshire.)

David's wife was Esther, who was born in Aug. 1742 and whom he married in Portsmouth, N.H., in the Fall of 1763. That they were living in Berwick, Me., in 1774 is shown by a York County deed. "David Merrow of Berwick in the County of York in the Province of Massachusetts Bay yeoman in consideration of the sum of three Pounds Eight Shillings lawful money paid by Joseph Prime of said Berwick Gent...do...sell...Five Acres and an half and thirty four Rods and an half of hand of Land situate in that part of Berwick called Kittery Commons, and is part of an hundred acre Lot No Three in the second Check Laid out to the Right of Lemuel Gowen late of Boston in the County of Suffolk Marchant...which said five acres...I purchased of John Morrell of Kittery...In witness whereof I have hereunto set my Hand & Seal...Anno Dom 1774 June 14th ...David Merry." The notary recorded his name as David Merro.

That David Merrow may have moved after the sale of this land to nearby Shapleigh, Me., seems evident from the following from Baxter Papers, Collections of Maine Historical Society, Vol. XXII; "We the Subscribers being inhabitants of the Town of Shapleigh...humbly Sheweth that in the year 1774 and in the first year of the Late war a number of us was obliged by necessity to go upon the land belonging to this Commonwealth in order to Clear and Cultivate the same for the Suport of our Selves and families and have been to Great Expence to Clear and make Roads to the same and have suffered much and undergone many hardships and have Spent our Strength in Clearing the Same. Some of us have got thirty Some forty and Some fifty acres fit for moing and Paster and since our first Improvement the Proprietors of Shapleigh have purchased the Said Town of Shapleigh of the Commonwealth and now they bring Suits against us and are trying to turn us off our Inheritance which we Dread to be turn'd out of our houses with Great families and very poor and not able to buy Lands and make new Farms...Jan. 16th 1790." This was signed by David Merrow.

David Merrow served in the Revolution. "David Merry, Private, Capt. Jonathan Nowell's Co., Col. James Scammon's (30th) regt.; muster roll dated Aug. 1, 1775; enlisted May 3, 1775; service 3 mos. 6 das.; order for bounty coat or its equivalent in money dated Cambridge Nov. 16, 1775." (Mass. Soldiers and Sailors of Revolution.) He was also recruited for the Continental Army 1 June 1778. His age was then given as 36; height, 5 ft. 8 in.; complexion, dark; residence, Berwick. He was assigned to Capt. Staples (12th) Company, 2nd York (Mass.) Regiment. Record shows him to have been assigned to the Continental Army at Fishkill, N.Y. Another reference to this service in Mass. Soldiers and Sailors of Revolution under the name of David Merry shows him to have served at Fishkill 9 months and to have arrived there 4 June 1778.

That he was living in Berwick as late as 1779 is shown by a York County deed, recorded 26 Dec. 1782. He sold 9 Nov. 1779 for £60 to Peter Stillings "eleven acres and a half of land in Berwick it being the land where I now Dwell." That he was living in Shapleigh in 1782 is shown by the birth of his son Ezekiel there. That David and Esther lived in Lebanon, Me., about 1784 may be inferred from the New Hampshire death record of Elijah, his son, which reads "Elijah Merrow of Lebanon, Me., died 10 Nov. 1858. He was son of David and Ester, birthplace unknown." Since Elijah was a resident of Eaton, the phrase "of Lebanon" undoubtedly referred to his birthplace. By 1790 David was living in Wakefield, N.H., the census of that year including in his family two females and one male under sixteen. Thus, notwithstanding the inference in the petition of 1790 to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts that David Merrow had been a resident of Shapleigh from 1774 to that date, he seems to have lived around in the towns in that vicinity with fairly frequent changes of residence.

Several deeds support these deductions. "David Merrow of Shapleigh...yeoman ...for...twelve pounds...paid by Aaron Downs of Shapleigh...sold...lot No eight Range seventh in the first Division one hundred acres." This deed, signed 29 Oct. 1793, was witnessed by Jacob Merrow and George Merrow. "David Merrow of Wakefield, yeoman" for seven pounds four shillings purchased from John Quimby of Shapleigh 16 Jan. 1793 the latter's interest in the estate of Quimby's father. In 1795 he purchased from other heirs the balance of this property, it being the real estate of "Eliphalet Quimby late of Wakefield Deceased which lies in Wakefield". This property, thirty nine acres of land and buildings, he sold to Ebenezer Garvin of Somersworth, N.H., 24 Feb. 1795. "And _____ wife of said David relinquishes her right of dower." To this deed David placed his signature but there was no signature of his wife in the place provided therefor.

That David moved to Eaton, N.H., on or before 1802 is apparent from a Strafford County deed. "Colman Colby of Eaton...gentleman...for...fifty dollars... paid by David Merrow of Eaton...Yeoman...sold and quitted claim...unto the said David Merrow...a certain piece of land lying in Eaton aforesaid being one half of lot number twenty-seven on Nathaniel Martin's Location to contain fifty acres to be run or taken off the north of said Lot...this fourth day of December in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and two." Recorded 27 Feb. 1805. The south fifty acres of this lot was purchased by David's brother, Moses Merrow, from Thomas Merrill, Jr., of Conway, N.H., 23 Sept. 1805; recorded 22 Jan. 1807. Moses sold this land 23 Dec. 1806; recorded 22 Jan. 1807, to David's son Elijah.

That David was living on this Eaton farm in 1810 appears from other land transactions. He purchased eleven acres from his son George 1 Jan. 1810 "on what is called Nathaniel Martin's Location...being the northeast corner of the lot where the said David Merrow now liveth." This deed was witnessed by Moses Merrow and Elijah Merrow; recorded 3 Nov. 1813. To Elijah Merrow, "yeoman of Eaton", David sold all this land in Nathaniel Martin's Location 10 Jan. 1810 for $500.; recorded 22 Aug. 1810.

In connection with this transfer from David to son Elijah there is recorded in Strafford County records a genealogically important life lease, as follows:- "This indenture made and concluded this tenth day of January in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and ten by and between Elijah Merrow of Eaton...and David Merrow of Eaton...the said Elijah Merrow...for five hundred dollars...paid by the said David Merrow...hath demised granted and to farm let unto the said David Merrow all the messuage or tenement with their appurtenances...situate in the Town of Eaton and on Nathaniel Martin's Location ... it being Lot number twenty-seven and taken off the north end of said lot and now in the tenure or occupation of said David Merrow...to have and to hold the said messuage or tenement and all and singular other the premises...for and during the term of his natural life and also to have for and during the natural life of my* wife, then to revert to me the subscriber...this tenth day of January 1810...and that Esther the Daughter of said David Merrow and Nancy the daughter of Moses Merrow shall have the privilege of one room of the house till their marriage day." Recorded 3 Nov. 1813.
In the census of 1810 David Merrow was then age 45 or over. In his family were one female, also over 45, one female 10 to 16, one male 16 to 26, and one male 10 to 16. All lived in Eaton.

Perhaps the real estate involved in the sale to Elijah was not all his property, or perhaps all his Nathaniel Martin Location farm was not meant to have been included for 23 April 1821 he sold seven acres on this location to Ezekiel Merrow, it "being where I the said David now live." He again transferred property to Ezekiel, as evidenced by another Strafford County deed.

Two Carroll County probate records give valuable evidence about their deaths. "I, James Merrow of Madison...depose and say that I well knew in lifetime Esther Merrow now deceased the late Widow of David Merrow. Said Esther was a Revolutionary Pensioner of the United States and she died at Eaton as I remember in the year 1838. I find on examination of the old family Bible in my father's possession that her death is there recorded..."
"Deaths
David Merrow Decembr 3 1829 age 88
Esther Merrow June 16 1838 age 96"
"Said Esther left a son now surviving & is her only child now living his name is Elijah Merrow of sd Madison." 29 June 1857. "Joseph R. Hunt of Madison ...depose and say that I well knew Esther Merrow...I find in my books a charge under date of June 16, 1838 to Ezekiel Merrow for Dr to coffin' & I recollect the event of said Esther's death. She was living with said Ezekiel & this charge was for her coffin" 29 June 1851. Ezekiel had been appointed administrator of the estate of Esther Merrow "late of Eaton deceased" the appointment having been dated 13 Sept. 1838.

That they had more children than are listed below is certain on the sworn statements to be found in the National Archives in Washington, which statements had to do with applications for Revolutionary pensions by both David and Esther. On 6 Jan 1827, he testified that he was by occupation a farmer, now unable to work; whole family residing with him consisted of his wife, Esther Merrow, age 83y, also infirm. Esther Merrow, age 94y, of Eaton, N.H., testified 27 Jan. 1837 that she was widow of David Merrow and declared that she married him before the Revolutionary War and had four or five children before her husband entered the service. She could not recollect the year she was married but she did recollect it was in Portsmouth, N.H. John Merrow testified that he lived neighbor to David and Esther Merrow and was present when they were married in the Fall of 1763 to the best of his recollection; that Esther was left alone with children while David went to war. Moses Weymouth of Berwick testified that he knew David Merrow, formerly of Berwick, now of Eaton. Jacob Merrow of Eaton testified 7 Feb. 1837 that he knew David and Esther Merrow for sixty four years and well recollects they had four or five children when David entered the service. Jacob was their son.

Children:

305. i. Jacob[5], b. 26 Feb. 1772. (See chapter, "Jacob Merrow of Eaton".)
306. ii. Hulda.
307. iii. George, b. 1778. (See chapter, "George Merrow of Eaton".)
308. iv. Polly, b. 1780.
309. v. Ezekiel, b. June 1782.
310. vi. Elijah, b. 8 June 1784.
vii. Esther. "Esther, the daughter of said David Merrow...shall have the privilege of one room of the house till her wedding day." The house was in Eaton and Esther was not living in 1851. No more of her history has been discovered.

306. HULDA[5] (MERROW) DOWNS, (David[4], Benjamin[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]). There exists no documentary evidence that has been found to place her as a daughter of David and no evidence either to prove she was the mother of Benjamin G. Downs, as named below. However, circumstantial evidence points strongly to both conclusions. "Miss Hulda Merrow of Shapleigh married Mr. Aaron Downs of Rochester, published 20 July 1793, certificate granted 8 Aug. 1793." (Maine D.A.R. records of Shapleigh, Vol 1, p85.) David Merrow of Shapleigh sold land in Shapleigh to Aaron Downs of Shapleigh 29 Oct. 1793. Hulda was of the right time and place to have been a daughter of David. That David knew Aaron Downs is proven by the deed a few months after the marriage. It would have been quite natural for the father to have sold his son-in-law land to help establish the new family.

From two branches of the descendents of David have come the same story--that "Benjamin Downs' mother was a sister of Ezekiel Merrow". No living persons remember what the name of this mother was, nor who was the father of Benjamin Downs. Of course, a sister of Ezekiel would have been a daughter of David. Charles Edwin Hayes reported this relationship when he was about ninety years old. Edith Knowles Taylor reported that she was told the same information by Frank Otis Downs. The latter also stated he never knew of any brothers or sisters of Benjamin Downs.

No information as to dates of birth or deaths of Aaron and Hulda have been discovered, nor have any exact locations been found where they lived. There was an Aaron Downs in Milton, N.H., in 1811 and he sold land there in 1816, not being later mentioned in Strafford County deeds. An Aaron Downs died about 1817, probably in Tamworth, N.H. Parker Plumer, the administrator of his estate, petitioned the court to sell land in Aprl 1818. From the records it would appear that Aaron Downs left a widow, though neither of the two earlier deeds mentioned a wife.

Only child:

i. Benjamin George Downs, b. 1806. Frank Otis Downs reported he thought the known middle initial "G" to have been for the middle name George, but he was not positive. If so, then Benjamin Downs would have perhaps been name for an uncle, George Merrow. Benjamin Downs married Sarah Calley in Effingham, N.H., 26 Apr. 1833. They lived in Parsonsfield, Me., near Province Lake and he died in 1874 and she in 1892. Frank Otis Downs said Benjamin Downs had been brought up in Effingham by John Ames from Benjamin's age of nine.

308. POLLY[5] (MERROW) WEED, 1780-1846, (David[4], Benjamin[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born about 1780. That she was a daughter of David Merrow is probable, but not proven. Probability rests largely on the fact that Tamworth, where she lived, was adjacent to that part of Eaton in which David Merrow lived. She married John Weed and they lived in Tamworth where their eldest child was born and where perhaps all their children were born. They moved to Baldwin, Me., where he died in 1843, age 73y 8mo, and where she died in 1846, age 65y 10mo. They were buried in North Baldwin village cemetery.

309. EZEKIEL[5] MERROW, 1782-1847, (David[4], Benjamin[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Shapleigh, Me., in June 1782. His great granddaughter, Edith Knowles Taylor, said, "It was from my grandmother's death notice that I found Ezekiel was from Shapleigh." He married Polly Kenerson, who was born in Eaton, N.H., daughter of John and Lydia Kenerson. He was a farmer and they lived in Eaton in that part now Madison until 1847, when they moved to Effingham, N.H. The first record of Ezekiel in Eaton was 1 Feb. 1806 when "Thomas Whitman of Tamworth...New Hampshire yeoman for...one hundred & fifty dollars...paid by Ezekiel Merrow of Eaton...yeoman...do sell ...one hundred acres of land in said Eaton and on what is called McNeel's Location beginning at the Southeast corner of said Location line...from thence easterly to the first bounds agreable to Hersey's Survey." He sold fifty acres of this to his brother George Merrow 9 June 1806, these acres being "taken off the West side." The remaining fifty acres he sold to Solomon Clark of Eaton, yeoman, 28 Nov. 1811, the deed being signed also by Polly Merrow.

His next land ownings in Eaton were on Joshua Martin's Location. "Timothy Danforth of Eaton...yeoman...for...one hundred and seven dollars...quitclaim unto...Ezekiel merrow thirty acres of land in Eaton on Joshua Martin's Location, bounded...beginning at the Northeast corner of said location...this third day of June 1815." Recorded 11 June 1817. From Josiah Danforth of Eaton he bought 10 May 1816 fifty acres "on Joshua Martin's Location bounded as follows beginning fifty rods from the Southeast Corner of Daniel Jackson's Lot thence running South...also twenty acres of Land beginning fifty Rods from the Southeast Corner of Daniel Jackson's. These last thirty acres he soon sold to Nathaniel Churchill of Eaton. "Fifty acres in said Eaton beginning fifty rods from the southeast corner of David Jackson's lot that he now lived on" were purchased by Ezekiel 17 Aug. 1818. Another deed of Sept. 1819 pertaining to this same placed it in "Joshua Martines Location". This was a mortgage deed which contained the clause "the fifty acres and the above twenty acres described contains all the farm I now live on." Ezekiel Merrow of Eaton sold 1 Dec. 1846 forty acres in Eaton "meaning to convey all the homestead farm of said Ezekiel Merrow." It was bounded on the north by land of his nephew, Seth Merrow, and on the south by land of his son-in-law, David Knowles. Both Ezekiel and Polly signed the deed.

In Eaton Ezekiel built a house which was standing in 1946 and was then owned by Prof. William E. Hocking of Harvard University. Ezekiel died in Effingham 17 Dec. 1847 and was buried there in the old Morris Leavitt Cemetery there. Polly died in Effingham 26 Dec. 1859 and was buried in the Baptist Cemetery there.

Chapter XV

COL. JOSIAH MERROW OF BOWDOINHAM, ME.

303. COL. JOSIAH[5] MERROW, 1794-1887, (Moses[4], Benjamin[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Wakefield, N.H., 17 Aug. 1794.

"At the age of sixteen years he left the granite hills to seek his fortune, with nothing but his bare hands. At Portsmouth, (N.H.) he shipped on board a vessel and made a trip to Europe, but was captured by an English privateer and laid in jail a short time. This sickened him of a sailor's life and on his return he settled in Salem, Mass., where he married Nancy L. Batten. Shortly after this in 1817 he came to Bowdoinham, Me., where he had since resided." These were excerpts from a newspaper clipping from an unknown newspaper, the clipping being in 1946 in the possession of Julia Emilie (Plummer) Bodge.

Josiah Merrow married Nancy Batten in Salem 9 Nov. 1817. She was born there 12 Feb. 1795, daughter of John and Procinda (Thorp) Batten. A manuscript account of Batten history is of interest to descendents of that family. It came from Annie Lorenzo (Merrow) Sorley who obtained it from Annie Dora (Rennow) Merrow. It reads: "A man of adventure was Richard Batten of Francestown, N.H., great-grandfather of Mrs. Julia Plummer Bodge of Portland, Me. He came to Francestown from Salem in 1780 and in early life was both a seaman and a soldier. His experiences were many and severe. He was in active service in the last French war and was one of the few who survived, and who gave a stirring account of the treachery and brutality which followed the capitulation of Fort William Henry in New York in 1757."

"Although the soldiers had been promised honorable treatment by Montcalm, the French Commander, no sooner had they left their defenses than they were attacked by the savages who were attached to Montcalm's command. Mr. Batten was seized and deprived of most of his clothing and placed in charge of two Indian warriors who led him away. When they had gone but a few miles the captive made a violent effort and succeeded in regaining his liberty. The scant clothing he had left was torn off, leaving him in a deplorable condition. Hoping to fall in with some of his comrades who had escaped he took a course towards the highlands between Lakes George and Champlain. He met a lad of twelve years who had also escaped from the Fort and was as destitute as himself. The two now went in a southerly direction hoping to reach Fort Edward. In order to prevent discovery they remained concealed during the day and continued their journey only at night time."

"One night while traveling they saw at some distance away in the forest a bright fire with men around it. Hoping to find a friendly camp they approached so near their presence was discovered by the dogs of the party. They found they were near a small detachment of French and Indians. Mr. Batten placed the boy behind a tree beyond the range of the firelight and concealed himself in like fashion. For a long time they remained concealed and when the fire was out and early morning had come Mr. Batten looked for his little comrade. He could find no trace of him and the fate of the boy has always remained a mystery. During six days Mr. Batten continued his wretched wanderings, often climbing trees or secreting himself under logs and in the underbrush to elude the Indians who much of the time were hot on his tracks. Several times he swam the Hudson River. During all his wanderings he subsisted mostly on berries and the bark of trees and roots. The best meal he ever had in his life, he told his friends, was the robin that he caught one morning and ate raw."

and patriotism. In spite of all his hardships he had a strong constitution and in his eighty-sixth year he was able to do the work of an ordinary man."

"Mr. Batten was the first settler to clear land on the Rand farm in the southern part of the town and the first home was on the southern slope of Driscoll Hill. The settlement of the Rand place was of more recent date. The site of Mr. Batten's first cabin is on the land now owned by Frank Starrett, where traces of the old home can still be plainly seen. Mr. Batten was of lowland Scotch descent and was born in Salem, Mass., July 13, 1737. He died in Francestown, N.H., Aug. 25, 1822.

From History of the Town of Bowdoinham comes more about Josiah Merrow. "Colonel Merrow...bears the honor of the longest service upon the Board of Selectmen of this town. As he lived to be past ninety years and gave the writer these facts, it may well be recorded here. His home was in Salem, Mass., and at the time the war broke out in 1812 he was at Machias, Maine, on a vessel. He returned to Salem and shipped on a privateer, built at Dorchester, Mass., mounting eight guns, with a crew of eighty men. The Swordfish, the name of the privateer, after being out seventeen days, and off the Western Islands, was overhauled and captured by a British war vessel, the crew carried to Portsmouth, England, and lodged in a prison ship."

"After a long imprisonment he was released and returned home. In 1817 he settled at Bowdoinham and up to 1870 was one of her most prominent men. While living at Bowdoinham he was besides selectman, representative to the legislature several times, state senator, one of the council to the governor, high sheriff, trial justice, and justice of the peace. He was elected captain of militia in 1824, and won his promotion up to the rank of colonel, and a good authority says he was a fine looking and energetic officer."

"He was married in 1817 and built his house in 1820. He served the town twenty-nine years as selectman and his grandson. L.M. Fulton, living in the same house, has served thirteen years. Forty-two years service from this old house!"

"The companies in Col. Merrow's regiment embraced Bowdoinham, a part of Topsham, Bowdoin, Richmond, Lisbon, Litchfield, and Webster."

"Feb. 4, 1826, the town of Bowdoinham was authorized to build....a bridge over the eastern branch of the Cathance River, provided said town shall always keep open sufficient passage ways and sluice ways for gondolas and rafts. After the bridge was made free in 1828, the toll house was taken by Col. Josiah Merrow and used by him as a cobbler's shop." He was a shoemaker.

From the newspaper clipping previously mentioned comes the following: "During the war he was a staunch supporter of the Union, and wss very active in helping to raise troops. Had he been younger in years and his services not needed by his townsmen at home he would undoubtedly been found at the front. He was a man of strong physique and his mind was active and clear all through his long life. As a politician he was shrewd and sagacious for he knew men. As a citizen he was always genial and pleasant with a smile and a kind word for all. As a husband and father he was kind and affectionate, and his home life was ever pleasant.

"On the 9th instant", so said a Brunswick, Me., newspaper of 1881, "Hon. Josiah Merrow and wife celebrated the 64th anniversary of their wedded life at their home in Bowdoinham....Mr. Merrow is in his 88th year and Mrs. Merrow in her 87th. From their family of nine children three are living, Capt. Lewis Merrow of Glasgow, Scotland; Mrs. George Fulton, residing in Bowdoin; and Mrs. Isaac Plummer, residing here."

The names and birthplaces of their children are recorded on a sampler designed and made by Nancy (Batten) Merrow when she was fourteen years old. On it she added the names and birthdates of her children as they came along. It was in 1942 in the possession of her granddaughter, Julia Emilie (Plummer) Bodge. Col. Josiah Merrow died in Bowdoinham in 1887. Nancy died there 1 Dec. 1888, age 93y 9mo, and was buried there.

That they followed the sea is evident from the report that her brother, "Marcellus Merrow went to sea with his sister Aroline and her husband." "In the Spring of 1911 mother broke her hip. The next year she came to live with me in Portland. An active woman, she spent long hours braiding rugs and making patchwork. He was of Scotch descent, the first McLean in New Brunswick, as said Eugene Melvin McLean, having "come from Scotland and having been an early settler, building his house of logs when there was lots of timber there. These early settlers did their trading by boat, due to the absence of roads." Isaac and Ellen McLean lived in Pocologam where he was a farmer. 330. JOSIAH[7] MERROW, 1853-1938, (Capt. Lewis Thorpe[6], Col. Josiah[5], Moses[4], Benjamin[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in New Orleans, La., 16 April 1853. He moved with his parents to Glasgow, Scotland, when he was a few weeks old and was brought up there. In Glasgow he went into the shipping business with his father, who sent him as a young man to New Orleans to learn the business at that end. He was a ship broker there for many years and, later, at Galveston, Texas. In 1923, he retired from business and moved to San Diego, Calif. He married Annie Bartlett Keen in New Orleans 8 Oct. 1874. While she had been brought up there, she was born in Rockland, Me., 13 July 1858, daughter of Alfred and Nancy Jane (Egerton) Keen.

Annie Bartlett (Keen) Merrow wrote from Upper Darby, Pa., 6 Feb. 1942, "It is a very nasty snowy day and I have never lived before where it snowed. I am frightened to death of it and I would not go out in it for a million dollars. I can see where I am in for at least six weeks. I see people walking in it and I wonder how they do it. I think if I should be caught out in it I should die of fright...."

"I was married when I was just sixteen years old and Mr. Merrow was twenty-one. He was my constant companion since I was thirteen. You can imagine how I miss him. He was a wonderful husband and always treated me as if I had never grown a day older. My mother and father hated to let me marry so young but they knew what a fine man I was marrying and they gave their consent. I had a big wedding. All the ships in port that day that his father and my father were interested in had their flags flying and the captains were at the wedding."

"All I ever did was to go to school and study my music, but we had darkey servants so I got along fine. But I must get down to business about the papers. Many thanks for those you said I could keep. I will put them away and take care of them for Major Currie. If this war is ever over he can have them and enjoy them. He is so interested in all of this and takes the best of care of everything. He is what Mammy in New Orleans always called an "Old Maid Man"; she had no idea what a bachelor was. She lived with us seventeen years and nursed all our children. Mr. Merrow and I would go to the Mardi Gras balls and dances until 3 A.M., come home, and old Aunt Bella would be sitting by the fire trotting the babies and singing to them. I miss her to this day."

"I am off the subject again and I must get back to business. My poor boy, Josiah Merrow, Jr., that went into the war...was so proud going as a second lieutenant, but he was so homesick when he got to France. When the war was over and he came back, he said, 'My brothers-in-law can have all the Army they want. If there is another war, there'll be one second lieutenant missing'. He never thought he'd be dead before the next war...."

"The only time I ever saw Mr. Merrow's family was when I visited Scotland. I had my eighteenth birthday there at his father's and my eldest child, Mrs. Sorley, had her first birthday. They were lovely people and I had such a nice summer. Mr. Merrow and I travelled all over Scotland and we left the baby at his father's home. We were so young looking that several hotels we went to gave us the bridal chamber. They thought we were bride and groom."

Josiah Merrow died in Upper Darby 14 May 1938 and Annie Bartlett (Keen) Merrow died there 31 Dec. 1943. Both were buried in Arlington Cemetery, Drexel Hill, Pa.

She had two children by a former marriage. Alfred Keen Merrow was a fruit broker and they lived in Los Angeles, Pasadena, and Berkeley, Calif. No children. He died in Berkeley 21 June 1934 and she married, 3rd, Carl Frederick Lundberg in San Francisco 29 Nov. 1935.

331. FRANK SCRIBNER[7] MERROW, 1863-1929, (Capt. Lewis Thorpe[6], Col. Josiah[5], Moses[4], Benjamin[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Glasgow, Scotland, 19 Oct. 1863. Married Annie Dora Rennow in Christ Church Cathedral, Mexico City, Mexico, 26 Oct. 1898. She was born in Mexico City 31 Dec. 1878, daughter of Herman Louis and Eliza (Phillips) Rennow. Herman Rennow was founder of the first paper factory in Mexico City. Thomas Phillips, father of Eliza Phillips, had been court jeweler to Maximilian, Emperor of Mexico.

This history is indebted to Annie Dora (Rennow) Merrow for biographies of her family written from Mexico City in a letter 10 July 1942. Mrs. Merrow said, "Frank Scribner Merrow went to the west coast of Africa at the age of fifteen. There he stayed until black-water fever compelled him to leave, being carried unconscious to the ship for England. This malady left him prematurely gray. At the age of eighteen he went to Africa again and from there to New York at the age of twenty-five. Here he worked under his uncle, the late Benjamin Flint, father of Senator and financier Charles Flint of New York and of Frank's own cousin, Wallace Flint. Benjamin Flint's second wife was Mr. Merrow's mother's sister and Wallace Flint was a son of this second marriage. My husband, a chemist, left this firm to work for Scott and Bowen--Scott's Emulsion--travelling for them all over the U.S.A., Mexico, and most of the countries of Europe. He made twenty-seven trips to the island of Cuba."

"We met in Mexico City in 1897 and became engaged the 12th of December of that year. Mr. Merrow was in Cuba at the time the Maine was blown up and went through many hardships there. On his return to Mexico City he insisted on hastening our wedding as he had to leave for Cuba at the end of the year. In Cuba, we witnessed the removal of the remains of Christopher Columbus from the old Cathedral to Spain, a most interesting and impressive ceremony. We were there, too, for the arrival of the Americans. Knowing both languages thoroughly we were able to be of use to Americans, Spaniards, and Cubans in many ways during that period. Many times we were guests of honour to the Americans in their different ceremonies. The New York World will, perhaps, have a record that may even mention our names, as their reporter, Mr. Scovall, was sent to report all the ceremonies connected with the American Intervention. I had become acquainted with Mrs. Scovall through translating for her to a Cuban doctor she had called to attend her. After this, during my husband's business hours, the Scovalls called on me to accompany them on their trips over the battlefields, etc., and I received numerous gifts of momentos and curios from the war."

"At the boarding house at which we stayed were many American soldiers for whom I was able to translate. We had first stayed at the old Albiste Hotel, but were then at the large boarding house of Mrs. Manunga Aguirre. When the flag arrived which was destined to fly over Morro Castle, there was a request to get a picture for the cover of a magazine the reporters were then getting up. The soldiers unanimously voted that, not a Cuban girl, but 'little Mrs. Frank Merrow', should be offered the honour as a token of gratitude for favors received. So one morning we stood a lot of old wine kegs on the roof of the boarding house and with the sea and Morro Castle in the background my picture was taken with this tremendous flag draped around me and a soldiers hat on my head. I was 'tickled pink' and excited. When I came down and my husband returned for 'almuerzo' (lunch) I told him, thinking he would be pleased. But it is historical to note his faithful British and Scotch character. He was upset by this act of mine and said, 'Don't you know that George Washington was a renegade. And you a sworn Britisher have dared to drape yourself in that flag? It's none of your business and you should not have done it, etc. etc. Later, I had an inspiration and quieted him completely by telling him his mother had been an American."

"We lived and had our children in Mexico City. Later, we went to Vancouver, B.C., where our children were educated. There our son, Francis Herbert Thorpe Merrow, attended the Crofton School, Aberdeen Public School, and the Dawson School. Mr. Merrow was retired. We returned to Mexico City were my husband took over the management of some business enterprizes that belonged to uncles of mine. Included in these were a large cotton spinning factory and mills and three farms at Miraflores, Chiconguiahuitle, San Jose, District of Chalco, State of Morelos. Ours was a 'home life'.

"In 1913, we were attacked by the Revolutionists (Zapatistas) and they seized our mills and farms which had been in our family for years. We, personally, lost a farm valued at $90,000. and were completely ruined. We had to escape from our home and were in hiding nine days and nights, traveling toward the city at night to escape. We were finally seized and held for ransom at Ameca Meca, District of Chalco, State of Morelos. We were held prisoner for $20,000. (pesos) and ten riding suits (native charro; the hat alone cost $1,000.-pesos), two pairs of shoes, two sets of silk underwear (for men?), and a gold watch for the general of the troop. He was Gen. Banderos, who had worn nothing but white cotton and never shoes. We were finally rescued by some brave Britishers who inaugurated a party from the Consulate and went out with the ransom money and clothes. We were completely ruined, left minus everything, and plus a debt of over $20,000. We had lost everything, even my wedding ring."

"We came to Mexico City and my husband obtained work after a year's time with the Eagle Oil Company there. I worked as teacher of English for nine years in the Mexican Government Schools, till 1920 when we lost our son due to his having hurt his knee on our escape from the Zapatistas, which injury was first considered just 'growing pains'. Our son was, at the age of six, already a fine little musician. After the Zapatistas episode our children attended the American schools of this city, amalgamated with the British colony, under the head of a Mr. Allen, a Canadian. When our son was fourteen the schools were closed due to the fear of American intervention any my son attended Mrs. Coleson Cameron's Academy of Business, studying shorthand, typing, and bookkeeping. At fifteen he was quite a clever little stenographer and was taken as under-secretary to the secretary of the Eagle Oil Company, who was a Mr. Lyttle, secretary to the president, a Mr. Ryder. He earned a vacation to go to England and Scotland and went in one of the tankers. Though we did not know it, these were equipped at the time for finding torpedoes (fortunately none were found). On the trip over the purser was taken sick and a call was made for a typist. Our son offered his services free, 'his offer to his country'. He was made a great deal of and allowed to assume the uniform of 4th mate. He joined in the parade in London on a visit of ceremony and to lay down the offer of their services at sea at John Jellicoe (afterwards 'Sir'). His picture in his uniform is the last I had of him and I have one of him in the group of sailors who went in that parade."

"He returned on the 2nd of October 1919. The next year, having just recovered from an attack of the flu and suffering a good deal with his knee, he was advised to have this operation. His father and I wished him to wait till he was stronger but he was afraid of becoming lame, so the operation was performed. Typhoid followed; he died; a grief we can never recover from and my husband never did. My little daughter completely lost her health and we decided to go and stay in Santa Monica, California. From 1920 to 1922 she and I lived there. We were recalled because President Obregon's car--of this city--had run over my husband, broken his leg, a compound fracture, and left several bad gashes on his leg. We had him in the hospital. On his recovery, he was let out of the Eagle Oil Co., due to the wells having developed salt water and the company cut down all its older employees."

"We returned to Santa Monica where I was able to get work, first as cashier in a meat market, and later established myself better in a dry goods store. I worked for a time as an assistant in a doctor's office. After a serious accident where my daughter cut her arm very badly and I had to stay home and nurse her for over two months, I went to work at the Douglas Airplane Company. I left this as I did not change my nationality when the American government offered Douglas Brothers to become American citizens after the round-the-world flight in their planes. I worked then in Dunlap's department store. Mr. Merrow worked with the Douglas Airplane Co., but later developed cancer of the throat and was unable to do more than light work, which he faithfully did till the last three days of his life. He died at Santa Monica (26 Jan. 1929) but had always expressed a wish to be buried with our children here, so I brought him back and settled here to be near them and my dear mother and other members of the family, who had returned in the hopes of getting back the claim on the Mexican government for damages and losses during the Revolution."

"Our claims were finally pressed by the British Claims Commission and, due to the final success of the American Claims Commission, we were granted, after twenty years of expenses and lawyers, the following calculation: We could not claim what we could not show proof of having had, such as furniture, jewelry (my largest claim owing to many jewels of the time of the empire bought up from court ladies, etc., when the empire was disrupted and Maximilian was shot.) They calculated $90,000 U.S.A. dollars to $90,000. pesos, then discounted twenty years of expenses plus taxes. You'll hardly believe we received, or, I should say, are receiving $3,000. pesos, divided in payments of eleven years. It can hardly be credited, but it is so."

"I came to Mexico City in 1929 and took a position as manager of furnished apartments, 1st, San Juan de Lebran; 2nd, (and present employment) Garden Apartments, Amsterdam 285, both owned by La Nacional Life Insurance Co. I hope this data will be of interest and you can copy or condense it for your records of the Merrow family." Frank Scribner Merrow and his son and daughter were buried "in the old British Cemetery of Mexico City alongside the old American one."

334. ANNIE LORENZA[8] (MERROW) SORLEY, 1875- , (Josiah[7], Capt. Lewis Thorpe[6], Col. Josiah[5], Moses[4], Benjamin[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in New Orleans, La., 23 July 1875. Married Lewis Stone Sorley in Hot Springs, Va., 1 Aug. 1898. He was born in Liverpool, England, of American parents 7 April 1867. His parents were James and Mary Jones (Stone) Sorley. Col. Lewis Stone Sorley, studied two years at the State University in Austin, Texas, and was appointed to U.S. Military Academy at West Point from Galveston in 1887. Upon his graduation four years later he was commissioned a lieutenant in the infantry branch of the army and stationed at Fort Douglas, Utah, with the 16th Infantry. With this regiment he went to Cuba on the outbreak of the Spanish-American War. During the attack on San Juan Hill he was wounded by bullets in the left arm and shoulder, while exposing himself in order to pass along the trenches and encourage his men. For this he was awarded the Order of the Purple Heart and was sent to Hot Springs, Va., to recuperate."

"As Captain, 14th Infantry, he participated in the campaigns in the Philippines which followed our accession of the islands. He was for four years (1907-1911) Commandant of Cadets at Louisianna State University, Baton Rouge, La., where he received the degree of LL.B., and was admitted to the Louisianna bar. As Captain, 14th Infantry, and Major, 12th Infantry, he was stationed at various posts in Montana, Washington, and California. Upon graduating from the Army Service Schools at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, he served with the 1st Infantry...in Hawaii, being selected as Adjutant of Schofield Barracks, the army's largest post. In 1917, he was promoted to the grade of colonel and assigned to command the 13th Infantry of the 8th Division at Camp Fremont, Calif. This organization he organized and trained for service in France, and developed to a high degree of efficiency. It was a great disappointment to the entire regiment that this fine body of troops did not reach France in time to show its value alongside those countrymen serving in other units, for this unit was embarking in New York at the time the armistice was signed."

"In 1918 and 1919 Col. Sorley commanded Camp Merritt, N.J., an embarkation camp with a capacity of 40,000, through which whole divisions were passed with the utmost speed on returning from France for discharge. After a tour of service in France, Col. Sorley was placed at the head of a division of the Adjutant-General's Office in the War Department and was a student at the Army War College. In 1922 he was chosen as the American officer to proceed to Germany to study the German government records of the war. While in Potsdam on this duty for three years, he selected much valuable material for study by American officers at the War College and elsewhere. His selection for this work was made partly because, on his own initiative, he had made a thorough study of the German language before the World War and had, while on leave of absence, familiarized himself with the German Army through attendance at its peace-time maneuvers. In 1925 he was appointed Chief of Staff of the 79th Division, Organized Reserves, with station in Philadelphia which position he filled for six years. In 1931 he had retired from active duty upon reaching the statutory age limit after nearly forty-four years service, and after three times recommended for promotion to the grade of brigadier-general." (Merrow Egerton Sorley in Lewis of Warner Hall.)

Col. Sorley was also awarded the Silver Star Citation for gallantry in action in Cuba in 1898. During World War 88 he was a teacher of military and other subjects at a boy's school near Philadelphia. Chapter XVI

JACOB MERROW OF EATON, N.H.

305. JACOB[5] MERROW, 1772-1849, (David[4], Benjamin[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born, perhaps in Berwick, Me., 26 Sept. 1772. Married Abigail Gannett in Tamworth, N.H., 3 Aug. 1797, their New Hampshire marriage record giving his name as Jacob Merry. From the census of 1850, which gave her age as seventy-four years, it appears she was born about 1776. Massachusetts death records of sons Seth and William placed her birth in East Bridgewater, Mass. These latter records also geve her maiden name as Springer, which seems to have been erroneous. Springer does not seem to have been a Bridgewater family, while the Gannetts definitely were. She was, probably, Nabbe Gannett, born in Bridgewater 16 April 1775, daughter of Seth and Susanna (Allen) Gannett. This Nabbe Gannett was a 5th generation descendent of Mathew Gannett who lived in Scituate, Mass., in 1651. (Seth[4], Joseph[3], Joseph[2], Mathew[1]). Seth and Susanna (Allen) Gannett had a number of children born in Bridgewater, the last appearing in records there in 1778. Nahum Mitchell in his "History of Bridgewater" said they "and most of the family moved to Tamworth, N.H." Seth Gannett in 1790 was living in adjacent Eaton, N.H., and there were three females in his family. Some corroboration of the paternity of Abigail Gannett may lie in the names of two sons, Thomas and Seth. She had two brothers by these names. Further, these two names had not previously appeared in this branch of the Merrow family.

Jacob Merrow was taxed in Wakefield, N.H., in 1794. The first record of him in Eaton was in a Strafford County deed, as follows: "Philip Jackson of Eaton...yeoman for...fifty dollars...paid by Jacob Merrow...have...sold...unto the said Jacob Merrow fifty acres of land lying in said Eaton & on land known by the name of Nathaniel Martin's location being the east side of Lot Number fifty six joining to Joshua Martin's Location...this fourth day of December... 1802." Recorded 5 Feb. 1811. This location was on Gline's Mountain in that part of Eaton which became Madison in 1853. Census records of 1810 and 1840 placed Jacob and his family in Eaton. He died 18 April 1849. Abigail was living in 1850 in Eaton with her son Seth. She died 9 Oct. 1851.

Married Elsy Gannett in Eaton 10 May 1827, the ceremony being performed by Colman Colby, Justice of Peace. She was born in Tamworth, N.H., and was described in Carroll County deeds before 1844 also as "Elsa" and "Alse". From his father, Jacob Merrow, Jr., bought in 1820 seventy acres on Joshua Martin's location. "Jacob Merrow, Jr., of Eaton...yeoman...for one hundred and fifty dollars...paid by William Merrow...of Eaton...yeoman...sold one half of the lot of land I now live on to be run off the East side of said lot parallel with the location line...this 3rd day of December, 1827. John Merrow married, 2nd, Hannah Stickney Gray in Eaton 11 Oct. 1832, ceremony being performed by Ebenezer Wilkins, Esq. She was born in Bridgton, Me., 19 June 1809, daughter of James and Mary (Stickney) Gray. Her parents had either come from or been born in Beverly, Mass. When married, both John and Hannah lived in Eaton. They were living there 25 May 1861 when he purchased from James Ross of Harrison, Me., "all of my homestead farm lying in that part of Harrison which is now Otisfield." About this farm their granddaughter, Florence Geneva Jordan, wrote, "Merrow Landing is the place where many years ago timber was landed on the banks of Crooked River in Winter to lie there until early Spring when the water was at high mark. Then a crew of men rolled the logs into the river and floated them downstream to Sebago Lake and on to Sticky River at Smith and Wescott's and several other mills where boxes and other useful things were made from them. Merrow Landing is famous for miles around for its hunting ground where many deer have met their fate. Swift River rapids below the landing, when water was low, afforded a fine place for deer to cross the river. This landing first got its name from John Merrow, who came from Eaton, N.H. Later it was the property of his son Melvin Merrow, who assisted in driving logs down stream. Years ago wild strawberries grew near the river bank. It being a long distance from home it was great fun to pack a picnic lunch, start out in the early morning, pick berries until noon, and then sit on the river bank and eat lunch. Whether there were four or more of us we always filled our buckets. Sometimes we would have thirty quarts and it would require all next day to hull and can them. All? Oh, no, mother always reserved enough for our supper with plenty of skimmed cream and hot biscuits to add to their goodness. Mother's biscuits were as famous as Merrow's Landing."

"A vast timber land lay between Scribner's Mill and the Landing. A good wood road leads to the Landing and now each year people go there in trucks and automobiles to pick blueberries. A fine spring at the edge of the river has quenched the thirst of many a river man and berry picker. Another piece of nature's work is a boiling spring on the old Merrow farm, where when fishing down the brook we could get a cool drink; also a sprig of peppergrass that always grew in the spring. How I should like to have just one more drink from that spring! Those happy days are all passed and gone. Now I look back and say to myself I was having the best time of my life and did not realize it."

John Merrow had enlisted in the Civil War in Co. D, 15th Me. Infantry in Dec. 1861 when he was nearly sixty years old. He was discharged 27 Mar. 1862. He died in Harrison 25 July 1877, age 74y. Hannah died there 23 May 1896. Both were buried in Harrison.

James Merrow's grandson, Fred Bartlett Merrow, wrote of him, "He was a ship-carpenter in Newburyport, which in those days was a great shipbuilding city. John Currier built over ninety ships. His brother, George Currier, was also a ship-builder and there were several shipyards in various parts of the city. Ship-building was the city's chief industry. My grandfather worked for John Currier. I remember a conversation I had, when I was eighteen or nineteen years old, with a very old man, a Mr. Keniston. The latter must have been close to ninety. He talked to me of my grandfather and of the latter's great memory. He said they used to send my grandfather from the shipyard to town, about a mile and a quarter away, for supplies such as hardware, etc. No matter how many articles were wanted, he never made a list. He always trusted to his memory and Mr. Keniston never knew him to forget anything. I remember my grandfather as a dear old gentleman of nearly six feet in height, sitting in a comfortable rocking chair by the side of a parlor stove with a youngster or six or seven years on his knee...myself. I have a picture of him sitting with eleven other men as a jury, all finely dressed in the style of the day including long-legged boots. Since James Merrow suffered for many years with a severe kidney ailment, he was always at home in those boyhood days of mine." James Merrow died in Newburyport 22 Jan. 1882. His Mass. death record placed his birth in Tamworth, N.H., which is probably incorrect. He married Phebe Loud in Eaton 7 Mar. 1840. She was born in Conway, N.H., 4 Oct. 1819, daughter of Joseph, Jr., and Emelia (Doloff) Loud. She was a granddaughter of the Joseph Loud who was born in Portsmouth, N.H., in 1763 and who settled in the young community of Conway in 1780 when he was seventeen years old. He was one of a family of seven boys and of English descent. The Loud family lived, probably in North Conway.

On 26 Feb. 1840 Jacob Merrow, his father, deeded to Seth "fifty acres of land on Nathaniel Martin's location, it being the same land that the sd. Jacob now lives on, also one other piece of land in Eaton on the Joshua Martin location joining Jacob Merrow, Jr., to contain twenty acres." Seth and Phebe Merrow were living in Eaton in 1850, but by 1853 had moved to Lynnfield, Mass. He was a cordwainer in 1853 and a farmer in 1855 and 1857. In Lynnfield they lived on what is now Merrow Road in the "North School District". Fred Bartlett Merrow said, "I met him one time in Lynn when I called on Jane (Merrow) Trescott, daughter of Samuel Merrow and niece of Seth Merrow. When I called in Lynnfield, she had gone to Barnum's Circus with Seth and I met him on their return. He was, as I remember, a rather short man wearing a tall silk hat of rather ancient date. He was a nice old gentleman and much interested to find out who I was. I finally made it plain to him I was his brother's grandson." Seth died in Lynnfield 26 May 1901, age 87y 13da. This provision read, in part: "Should my brother, the said Seth Merrow, not be living at the decease of my said wife, then that portion of my estate which would otherwise go to the said Seth Merrow, I do give... to Amos Merrow, George Merrow, Lyman Merrow, and Ruel Merrow, sons of the said Seth, to full exclusion of Thomas Merrow, the other son of the said Seth, from any part or benefit of my said estate.

Chapter XVII

GEORGE MERROW OF EATON, N.H.

307. GEORGE[5] MERROW, 1778-1846, (David[4], Benjamin[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born, probably in Berwick, Me., about 1778. His identity as a son of David is circumstantially, but not documentarily, shown. Death record of his brother, Elijah Merrow, named David and Esther as parents of the latter. History of Carroll County named George and Elijah as brothers. The brothers, Jacob, George, and Elijah Merrow, settled on Gline's Mountain in Eaton shortly after 1800. Rev. Alonzo Hall Quint in Dover Enterprize, 1868, said that George Merrow was a grandson of Benjamin Merrow.

George Merrow married Dorothy Colby in Conway, N.H., 27 Jan. 1807. She was born about 1787. He was a farmer and they lived in that part of Eaton now Madison. Their farm was on a now abandoned road leading from Madison Corner to Eaton. He bought from Coleman Colby 30 March 1824 for $100. "Land in Eaton...beginning at the Southeast corner of said Merrow's farm where he now lives...to a stake and stones at the southeast corner of James Jackson's land...to contain thirty acres." On 16 Feb. 1833 he sold to "Lorana Merrow of Eaton...spinster...land in Eaton...being one half of the north end and all of the south end of Lot #27 on Nathaniel Martin's Location to contain seventy-five acres.. being the same where Elijah Merrow formerly lived." This farm "where George Freese now lives", Lorana mortgaged on the same day to Hix Richards of Danvers, Mass., joiner, for $200. Lorana and Elijah both signed this mortgage deed. George Merrow died in Eaton 23 July 1846, age 68y. Dorothy (Colby) Merrow died, probably there, 9 May 1851, age 64y. Both were buried on their now abandoned farm.

The year of his birth, 1806, was obtained from private family records and from his death record. Both are likely incorrect and 1807 is the more probable date. He married Olive Jane Nickerson in Eaton 4 July 1832. She was born there 14 Oct. 1806, daughter of Joshua and Phebe (Jackson) Nickerson. They lived in Eaton in that part of the town which is now Madison. This farm was the one to which his father moved in 1809 and is about two miles south of the one on which George, Jr., was born. It was an abandoned farm in 1946.

Charles Edwin Hayes said, "When George Merrow, Jr., was a young man he went to the British Provinces to hew timber for the British Government. After he came home he built a barn and married. At one time he went to Goergia to hew a mill frame for a man named March. He won the confidence and respect of all knew him. He held town offices and was sent to the legislature for two terms." George Merrow was on a committee of three authorized to call the first town meeting in Madison 8 Feb. 1853. He was also justice of the peace, marrying two of his daughters in 1853 and 1862. Olive Jane (Nickerson) Merrow died in Madison 19 Jan. 1884. George Merrow moved to Rollinsford,

When he was a small boy there had been an epidemic of measles and his mother had sent him to where they were, but he failed to catch them. At Greensborough there were measles, which disease he contracted and died of them there 29 May 1865." He had enlisted in Co. A., 9th N.J. Volunteer Infantry, 6 Apr. 1875.

Chapter XVIII

JONATHAN MERROW OF SOMERSWORTH, N.H.

135. JONATHAN[3] MERROW, 1702-1776, (Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Reading, Mass., 1 Jan. 1702. "Jonathan Merrow, alias Merry, married Elizabeth Jones, both of Dover", N.H., then called Oyster River, 3 Nov. 1725, so said New England Historical & Genealogical Register, Vol. 23. Elizabeth Jones was born at Oyster River, daughter of Joseph Jones. Her mother was probably Mary (Spencer) Moses whom Joseph Jones had married 7 Feb. 1706/7. Joseph Jones married, 2nd, Ann (Roberts?). Elizabeth (Jones) Merrow had died before her father and, consequently, was not mentioned in the distribution of his estate. Since she is known to have inherited property from her mother, it would follow that she was a daughter of the first marriage. A great grandfather of Elizabeth Jones was Darby Field, who came to Boston from either Ireland or from Boston, England. He owned land in Oyster River in 1640. He was the first white man to climb Mt. Washington.

Jonathan and Elizabeth Merrow lived in Somersworth, which was a part of Dover until 1729. In that year it became a separate parish and in 1754 a separate township. He was of Somersworth Parish when on 15 Dec. 1729 he with others signed a petition to Gov. Wentworth regarding forged land titles in Dover. Jonathan Merrow was described as "husbandman, of Dover" when his property was attached by William Horne, husbandman and also of Dover, for £12. This document read, in part: whereas on the twentieth day of November Anno Domini 1732 at Dover by one instrument in writing...(Jonathan Merrow) did then and there acknowledge himself to be holden and to stand finally bound unto the per. in the full and just sum of six ewes or two thousand feet of white pine boards, to be paid the pet. at or upon the first day of June, the next ensuing the date of said Instrument in writing to the which payment, well and truly to be made, the defendent did than and there bind himself. Yet the defendent, though the first day of June is long since elapsed hath not paid to the pet. the six ewes nor two thousand of white pine boards, though often requested but refuseth to do it."

Either Jonathan was negligent in meeting his obligations or was unable to do so, for frequent attachments are recorded against him in the court records now to be found in Concord, N.H. In August 1733 Richard Hussey attached for £10. Henry Keefe and Mary Follingsby, both of Portsmouth, N.H., attached 6 June 1734 and were awarded judgement of £25. Jethro Pearson attached 15 June 1735 £17 6s and Gershom Wentworth attached Nov. 1735. Another attachment for £3 "money" arose out a "promissory note which was to have been paid on ye 3rd day of Sept. 1736, this amount being due Peter Greley." Isaac Libbey of Dover attached for £15 7 June 1737 and on Oct. 1737 along came John Vicker of Dover for £18 11s. Peter Greley of Portsmouth was awarded judgement of £10 7 Sept. 1738. John Wood sought £34 12 May 1739 and William Hall of Boston, Mass., attached for £23 18s 10d on 7 June 1739. Peter Greley again sought £10 on 7 Oct. 1739 and John Wood, Innholder, attached for £36 17s on 6 Dec. 1739. "Jonathan Merry of Summersworth" was attached by Joseph Hanson of Dover 20 Nov. 1742.

Jonathan Merrow was a signer of a petition for the incorporation of Somersworth, date of petition being 19 May 1743. He was in a list of "Train Souldiers in the Parish of Sumersworth, under command of Tho[s] Wallingford, Capt." 23 July 1746. (New Hampshire Town Papers, Vol. 9.)

He sold for £30 to William Wentworth of Sumersworth "one Messuage or Tract of Land Scituate Lying and Being in Sumersworth Parish afores[d] Containing by Estimation five acres be it more or less Butt[d] & Bound[d] as follows: Begining at y[e] Corner Opposit to James Heards Dweling House & from thence as y[e] fence now stands, Northerly towards y[e] land of Benj: Wentworth thirty Rods & from thence Westerly twenty Seven rods or until five acres be fully Compleat[d]...this 30th day of Oct[r] 1734..."

He sold to Joseph Wentworth of Sumersworth Parish, husbandman, for £26 "a Certain Comon Right Containing ten Acres or one third part of a whole share as y[e] same was Grant[d] or Allow[d] to me by y[e] Town of Dover in y[e] Comon or undivid[d] Lands In s[d] Dover & in y[e] 195[th] Lott in N[o] as wil more Largely Appear by Dover Town Book Reference...this 10th day of June....1736."

He was grantor in two deeds in 1740/41. "We Jonathan Merrow of Sumersworth Parish in Ye Town of Dover...husbandman...& Eliz[a] Merrow ye wife of ye sd Jon[a] Merrow...for...eighty pounds...pd by Wil[m] Wentworth of Sumersworth... husbandman...have sold...unto him ye sd Wm Wentworth...eight acres of land scituate...in Sumerworth Parish aforsd Butt[d] & Boun[d] as follows Begining at ye southwesterly corner of ye sd Jon[a] Merrows land lying by ye road yt leads from Cocheco to fresh Creek & so running by Eph[m] Wentworth's land & Adjoining to ye same sixty-six rod & an half from thence easterly by ye land of Benjamin Wentworth twenty rods then by ye sd Jon[a] Merrow[s] own land sixty four rods & half to ye first Bounds...this 6th day of March 1740/41. Jonathan signed; Elizabeth made her mark.

"We Jonathan Merrow of ye Parish of Sumersworth...& Elizabeth Merrow y[e] wife of sd Jon[a] Merrow...for...twenty Pounds Cur[t] money of New Engl... pd...by William Chaddick...marrin[r]...one acre of land scituate...in Sumersworth Parish...Bound[d]: as followeth Begining at ye highway leading from Cocheco to fresh Creek at ye southeasterly corner of sd Jon[a] Merrows land adjoining to James Herds land as ye fence now stands fifteen rods & thence southwesterly on a strait line...this 13th day of March 1740/1 An[o] R[n] R[ig] Georgis secundi Decimo Quarto." This mortgage was discharged 4 May 1742.

A bill from Sam. Walton of Sumersworth to Jonathan Merrow with entries beginning Jan. 1750 is interesting for the indication of the kind of merchandise offered and the buying habits of the times in general, and of Jonathan in particular:

"In the winter of 1755 expeditions were sent out against the French forts DuQuesne, Niagara, and Crown Point. New Hampshire furnished a regiment of six hundred men for service against Crown Point, in readiness the first of April and commanded by Col. Joseph Blanchard. Col. Blanchard's regiment was ordered by Gov. Wentworth to rendezvous at the fort in Stevenstown, subsequently Salisbury, and in the part of the town next to the Merrimack, now constituting a part of Franklin...It was located on the well-known farm of Daniel Webster." In Capt. John Tasker's Company was "Jonathan Merrow, Sentinel, May 1 to Oct. 15." (Potter's Military History of State of New Hampshire.)

Elizabeth Merrow died in Somersworth perhaps about 1760 and Jonathan married again, the name of his second wife perhaps being Deborah. He "dy'd on Saturday May ye 18th 1776" in Somersworth. (Master Tate's Diary in New England Historical & Genealogical Register, Vol. 74.)

Children:

383. i. Jonathan[4].
384. ii. Abigail, b. 1727 or 1728.
385. iii. Dorcas.
iv. Lydia. She was living in Somersworth in 1760 and was not then married. Rev. Alonzo Hall Quint said she never married. "I Lydia Merrow of Somersworth in the Prov[e] of New Hampshire single woman & spinster... for Thirty Pounds money paid by Nicholas Canady of Dover...husbandman...have...sold...all my right Title and interest...in...whole real estate of my late Honoured mother Elizabeth Merrow Daughter of Joseph Jones of Dover...be the same more or less or wheresoever the said Real Estate may be found now in the Tenure of my Hon[d] Father Jon[a] Merrow of sd Somersworth which Land in his Tenure with any others that I ought to have after my Father's Death as one of the heirs of my said Mother (to) Nicholas Canady...the nineteenth Day of April...One Thousand seven hundred and sixty." To this deed now in the care of the N.H. Historical Society Lydia made her mark.
There is a possibility, but no proof, that she may have married after all. Could she have married a Mr. Canicum and lived, probably, in Shapleigh, Me.? "Arthur Canicum of Shapley in the County of York & Commonwealth of Massachusetts yeoman...sold...to...Daniel Wentworth...land situated in Somersworth being part of the farm owned by my grandfather Jonathan Merrow." To this York County deed he made his mark 2 Feb. 1795.
386. v. Deborah, b. about 7 Jan. 1744.
387. vi. Esther.
vii. Mary. Her identity as a probable daughter of Jonathan rests entirely on the following deed: "Jotham Nute of Dover...yeoman...and Mary his wife for ...twelve pounds...(have sold to) John Ham of Dover yeoman...all...claim ...which we now have...in...the Estate Real & Personal left by Jonathan Merrow late of Somersworth Deceased whether it be that which came to him by his wife or otherwise." To this Strafford County deed both Jotham and Mary Nute made their marks 7 April 1777.
The belief that she was a daughter of Jonathan comes from the deed quitting rights in his intestate estate, as did the other heirs, namely his other children. The only other possibility is that she was a sister of Jonathan, and not a daughter. Rev. Alonzo Hall Quint said this sister married Jonathan Nute. Their history has not been found. Jonathan and Jotham are easily confused and in fact Strafford County indexes have so confused these two names. On the other hand, it seems unlikely that a sister would have a considerable claim on the estate of a brother.
The absence of vital records of this time in New Hampshire has made it particularly difficult to develop their history, especially so since there were several Jotham Nutes. Several deeds which may have been those of this Jotham Nute were: William Nute and Jotham Nute of Dover sold 6 April 1801 to David Tuttle of Dover "part of the farm whereon we now live" in Dover. To this Jotham and his wife Mary made their marks. A Jotham Nute of Rochester, N.H., was spoken of in this deed as quitting his claim, but he did not sign. The same grantors on the same day sold another portion of the same farm to Daniel Twombley of Dover. Jotham and Mary again made their marks. Again a Jotham Nute of Rochester was said to have quitted his claim, but this time he was called "Jotham Nute, Jr."

383. JONATHAN[4] MERROW, (Jonathan[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Somersworth, N.H. Married, 1st, Phebe Heard, probably in Somersworth. Phebe Heard, "dafter of James Heard and his wife Deborah, born 12 Dec. 1722" in Dover, N.H., probably in Somersworth parish for James Heard owned the land adjoining that of Jonathan Merrow, Sr. The record of Phebe's birth came from Dover Historical Collections, Vol. 1, p12, while her record of baptism came from Rev. Jonathan Cushing's Records of Baptisms in Dover, N.H. Phebe was baptized in Dover 15 Dec. 1723. Deborah Heard was born Deborah Downs.

Phebe Heard was a descendent of John Heard who "seems to have dwelt in early years at Sturgeon Creek, otherwise called Kittery (Maine)...He was in Dover in 1643", so says New England Historical & Genealogical Register, Vol. 7, "His house in Dover was a garrison house and was located on top of Garrison Hill. It figured in the Indian attack and slaughter of Thursday 27 June 1689 in which twenty-three whites were killed and twenty-nine others taken captive. Garrison Hill was in that part of the town which lies about the first falls of the Cocheco River."

"A plan was laid by the Indians to surprize the settlement at Dover... Approaching (the garrison houses) with professions of peace, the Indians sent two of their squaws to each house to ask lodgings for the night with the intention of opening the doors after the inmates were asleep and giving the signal by a whistle to the savages to rush in. The stratagem succeeded. In unsuspecting confidence the families retired to rest. When all was quiet, the gates were opened and the signal was given. From the Otis Garrison House 29 in all were carried captive to Canada, where they were sold to the French,--the first English prisoners ever carried to that country."

"Heard's garrison was saved through the instrumentality of Elder William Wentworth, the ancestor of every Wentworth now in this country.... He was awakened by the noise of the barking of a dog just as the Indians were entering, pushed them out and, falling on his back, set his feet against the gate and held it till he had alarmed the people; two balls were fired through it but both missed him." (New England Historical & Genealogical Register, Vol V.)

Jonathan Merrow, Jr., and his wife Phebe lived in Somersworth. "After the engagement of Lake George, Sept. 8, 1755, reinforcements were called for, and this Province (New Hampshire) furnished a second regiment of three hundred men, under command of Col. Peter Gilman." In Capt. Paul Gerrish's Company was Jonathan Merry, Jr., from 19 Sept. to Jan. 4. "In 1758 New Hampshire raised still another regiment for the Crown Point expedition." In Capt. Thomas Task's Co. was Jonathan Merrow. Whether father Jonathan or son is not certain, but it was probably Jonathan, Jr. (Potter's Military History of the State of New Hampshire.)

Jonathan, Jr., was a farmer. Both Jonathan "Jun^{r}" and Phebe made their marks to a deed quitclaiming for £15 to Thomas Downs of Berwick "land that was part of...the estate of Thomas Downs late of Somersworth...lying in Berwick...as it ...fell to the said Phebe as a Grandchild and one of the heirs to the estate of said Thomas Downs." The date of this deed was 4 Mar. 1776 (which may have been a copying error, as 1766 would seem more likely.) Recorded 15 April 1815.

Phebe Merrow died, probably in Somersworth, perhaps about the time of the birth of her youngest child in 1765. That she died before 1766 is on the authority of the research of Willis J. Hurd in his development of a history of the Heard-Hurd Family. That she died before 1768 is certain, for in that year Jonathan Merrow had a son born by his second wife.

Children:

388. i. Thomas[5]. See chapter, "Thomas Merrow of Dover & Minot."

ii. Anna, b. about 14 April 1763; m. Gershom Wentworth, who was b. in Somersworth 26 May 1761, son of Gershom and Deborah (Wentworth) Wentworth. They lived in that part of Shapleigh now Acton "on the road from the home of Thomas Millett Wentworth in Lebanon, Me., to Milton Mills, N.H." He died there 25 Aug. 1851. She d. 14 Oct. 1846, age 83y 6mo. They had no children, but had "adopted a child who took the name of Nathaniel Wentworth. He always lived with them and inherited the homestead." (Wentworth Genealogy.)

389. iii. John. See chapter, "John Merrow of Eaton, N.H."
390. iv. James, b. 1765. See chapter, "James Merrow of Milton Mills, N.H."

Jonathan Merrow married, second, Hannah Wentworth, probably in Somersworth. She was born there 24 April 1740, daughter of Capt. William and Abra (Evans) Wentworth. She was a great granddaughter of the Elder William Wentworth mentioned above. Elder Wentworth was an associate of Rev. John Wheelright and Mrs. Anne Hutchinson, all of whom were banished from Boston to the wilderness for religious activities not approved by the established church. Rev. John Wheelright was a founder of Exeter, N.H., in 1639 and Elder Wentworth was there in that year.

Hannah Wentworth was a sister of the Daniel Wentworth who had married Dorcas Merrow, sister of Jonathan Merrow, Jr. The latter may have been the original owner of Lot No. 45 in the second division in Middletown, N.H. It was a Jonathan Merrow, either this Jonathan or his father, who purchased this lot. It was sold at auction 25 June 1770 to Thomas Martin of Portsmouth, N.H., for non-payment of taxes.

Jonathan and Hannah were living in Somersworth 23 Nov. 1814 for then they made their marks to a deed to Jacob Wentworth for the four acres which had been quitclaimed to Jonathan in the Daniel Wentworth-John Ham deed of 16 April 1892. These four acres, from the estate of Jonathan, Sr., were "by the road that leads from Varney's Hill to French Creek" in Somersworth. The census of 1800 showed Jonathan to have been living in Somersworth, age 45y or older. In his family were one female, age 26-45y; one female, 15-26y; and one male under 10y. This would leave wife Hannah unaccounted for. It would also suggest there may have been a son by this second marriage, born after 1790, whose name has not been discovered. Jonathan Merrow died after 1814 and Hannah died in Berwick, Me., 30 Mar. 1816. In this latter year son Isaac was living in Berwick. It seems likely that after Jonathan's death Hannah was living with Isaac.

Children:

391. v. Isaac, b. 15 Sept. 1768.
392. vi. Phebe.
vii. Sally. She may have been the Sally Merrow who m. Samuel Clark 13 Feb. 1803, both being then of Shapleigh, Me. (Maine D.A.R. Records of Shapleigh, Vol. II, pps. 31 and 47.)

And perhaps others.

384. ABIGAIL[4] (MERROW) CANADA, 1728-1761, (Jonathan[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Somersworth Parish in Dover, N.H., in 1727 or 1728. "Nicholas Canada & Abigail Merrow y[e] Daughter of Jonathan Merrow & Elizabeth his wife were Joyned together in Marriage by the Rev[d] Jonathan Cushing the 12th Day of March 1754." That Nicholas and Abigail Canada were living in Dover in 1760 is evident from the fact that Abigail and three children were baptized there 2 March 1760. Nicholas bought land from his sister-in-law, Lydia Merrow, in Somersworth 19 April 1760 and was then described as a husbandman and of Dover. Nicholas Candy was bateauman in an expedition against Crown Point with troops from Dover. Abigail (Merrow) Canada died, probably in Dover, 12 July 1761 "in the 34th year of her age".

Children:

i. Sarah Canada, b. 27 May 1755 in Dover. "Sarah Kennedy of Edgecomb... spinster...(sold)...to Joseph Merrow of Edgecomb...the whole of the Real Estate left to me by my Father Nicholas Kennedy being three sevenths part of a Lot lying in Edgecomb on Damariscotta River...being Lot No 19 bounded as follows...southerly on Joseph Merrows Land." She made her mark 26 Oct. 1784.

"Sarah Canada of Somersworth single woman & spinster...sold...unto ...Daniel Wentworth...two acres & a half of land...situate in Somersworth ...being part of the farm owned by my grandfather Jonathan Merrow...and the same on which he lived on...and is the whole that fell to me of his Estate as an heir thereto the same two and a half acres now lying in Common & undivided with the heirs or owners." 11 April 1787.

ii. Mary Canada. "Mary Kennedy of Bristol in the County of Lincoln (Maine) ...singlewoman & Abigail Kennady of Falmouth (Maine) in the County of Cumberland singlewoman...(sold) to Joseph Merrow of Edgecomb...land situated in said Edgecomb containing about one hundred acres...and is the same lot of land which lately belonged to our honered Father Nicholas Kennedy." 13 Nov. 1785; recorded 3 Dec. 1794.

iii. John Canada, b. 18 Feb. 1857 in Dover. "John Canady of Damariscotta in the County of Lincoln & State of Massachusetts Bay yeoman...sold...unto ...Daniel Wentworth...five acres of land situated in Somersworth...being part of the farm on which he lived & is the whole that fell to me of his estate as an heir thereto." He made his mark 16 March 1778.

iv. George Canada, b. 8 Jan. 1759 in Dover. Since he was not among the children baptized in 1760, he probably had died before then.

Nicholas Kennedy married Cattern Pearl in 1762, ceremony by Jonathan Bowman, J.P. Both were then of Townsend, now Boothbay, Me., and since this was a Lincoln County marriage record it demonstrates that Nicholas Canada was in that part of Maine as early as 1762. That he had moved to Edgecomb, Me., before 4 March 1766 is evident for his name was signed to a petition of that date in Freetown, later Edgecomb, which petition concerned change of the shire-town of Lincoln County. That his wife survived him is apparent from deeds of his land after his death which said "the widows third still remains to be divided after her decease". In Edgecomb this lot was numbered 19 and was immediately north of that owned by Joseph Merrow. (See chapter, "Joseph Merry of Edgecomb, Me.) Nicholas Kennedy (Lincoln County records called him Kennedy and Kennady) died, probably in Edgecomb, sometime immediately prior to 27 April 1785 for on that date Joseph Merry, alias Merrow, of Edgecomb was appointed administrator of his estate.

Children or Nicholas Kennedy and Cattern Pearl:

v. Abigail Canada; m. John Jeshnal Morse. "John Jeshnal Morse of Windham in the County of Cumberland yeoman with Abigail may wife...sold to Joseph Merrow of Edgecomb yeoman...all the...claim...I & my wife have in...land lying in Edgecombe...the same being all her share & part which fell to her by heirship from her father Nicholas Kennady...the same being one fifth part of the two-thirds of said Estate the widows third still remains to be divided after her decease." To this John and Abigail Morse made their marks 19 March 1792; recorded 3 Dec. 1794. Samuel Merrow (undoubtedly of Edgecomb) was a witness.

vi. Hannah Canada; m. Michael Butler in Edgecomb 1 May 1784. "Michael Butler and Hannah my wife" of Edgecomb sold to Joseph Merrow of Edgecomb "real Estate of Inheritance left to the said Hannah...by her Father Nicholas Kennady...being one seventh part. Michael Butler signed 21 Feb. 1785 and Hannah made her mark. Elizabeth Merrow, probably of Edgecomb but her relationship uknown, was a witness.

385. DORCAS[4] (MERROW) WENTWORTH,(Jonathan[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Somersworth Parish in Dover, N.H. Married Daniel Wentworth at Dover 21 July 1767. In a record of marriages by Jeremy Belknap, D.D., she was called Dorcas Merry. Daniel Wentworth was born in Somersworth 14 Nov. 1745, son of Capt. William and Abra (Evans) Wentworth and great grandson of Elder William Wentworth. He was a brother of Hannah Wentworth, who was the second wife of Jonathan Merrow, Jr., brother of Dorcas.

Daniel and Dorcas Wentworth lived in Somersworth and from a study of Strafford County deeds involving Daniel Wentworth it is probable that they lived on a portion of the original farm there of Jonathan Merrow, Sr. Daniel Wentworth was heir to half that land which Jonathan Merrow, Sr., had sold to William Wentworth in 1740/41 and he purchased the other half from his brother, Evans Wentworth of Somersworth, 19 Feb. 1779.

Children:
i. Abra Wentworth, b. 25 July 1768; m. Ellis Aspinwall 6 May 1800; three children. She d. 4 Feb. 1853.
ii. Daniel Wentworth; went to sea; d. of yellow fever at Wilmington, N.C.; age over 21y.

386. DEBORAH[4] (MERROW) WENTWORTH, 1744-1827, (Jonathan[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Somersworth Parish of Dover, N. H., about 7 Jan. 1744. Married Ephriam Wentworth at Somersworth 20 Dec. 1770. He was born in Dover 11July 1846, son of Ezekiel and Dorothy (Wentworth) Wentworth. He was a great grandson of Elder William Wentworth. Ephriam and Deborah Wentworth lived in Rochester, N.H. He died 1 Aug. 1819, age 76y 10mo, and she died 7 Oct. 1827, age 83y 9mo.

Children:
i. Dorothy Wentworth, b. 10 Sept. 1771; m. Samuel Tibbetts about 1798; d. at Rochester 17 June 1856. Their children:
I. Isaac Tibbetts, b. 2 Nov. 1800.

387. ESTHER[4] (MERROW) HAM, (Jonathan[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Somersworth, N.H. Married John Ham in Rochester, N. H., 3 Aug. 1786, both being of Dover, N.H. He was born, probably, in Dover and was undoubtedly a descendent of William Ham, an English emigrant who was settled in Exeter, N.H., in 1646 and removed to Portsmouth, N.H., in 1652. A son, or grandson, or nephew, of this William Ham was John Ham, who settled at Cocheco (Dover) in 1665. This John had a number of descendents named John, but which of these married Esther Merrow is not known.

John and Esther Ham lived in Dover and he was a farmer. "Evans Wentworth of Somersworth, yeoman...in consideration of thirty shillings paid me by Jonathan Merrow & Daniel Wentworth both of Somersworth aforesaid, and John Ham of Dover...yeomen...have quitclaimed...all my right...to the homestead of Jonathan Merrow late of Somersworth deceased containing forty acres...this twelfth day of April 1792." "Daniel Wentworth of Somersworth...and Dorcas wife of aforesaid Daniel and John Ham of Dover...& Esther wife of said John in consideration of ten pounds...forever quitclaim to Jonathan Merrow (of Somersworth) all right which we have in...a certain lot of land situate in Somersworth containing four acres and forty six rods, bounded as follows: beginning by the road that leads from Varney's Hill to French creek...this sixteenth of April 1792." To this deed Daniel Wentworth and John Ham signed, Dorcas made her mark, and the place for Esther's signature is blank.

John Ham died, probably in Dover, perhaps in 1834, for his will, made 20 Nov. 1800, was proved 8 Oct. 1834. In this will he bequeathed one third of his Dover homestead to his wife Esther for her natural life. His son John was named executor. This will also mentioned a granddaughter, Mary Ham.

Children, as identified in the above will:
i. John Ham; not married in 1834.
ii. James Ham.
iii. George Ham.

iv. Elizabeth Ham; not married in 1834.
v. A daughter,who had married a Mr. Paul, for John Ham's will mentioned grandchildren Eliza Paul and John Paul.

391. ISAAC[5] MERROW, 1768- , (Jonathan[4], Jonathan[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Somersworth, N. H., 15 Sept. 1768. The above birth-date is on the authority of Master Tate's Diary in New England Historical & Genealogical Register, Vol. 74. "Isaac Merry of Somersworth & Hannah Smith of Berwick" married "Dec[r] 29th 1791." so said the marriage records of Rev[d] Mathew Meriam, pastor of 2nd Church in Berwick as published in New England Historical & Genealogical Register, Vol. 63. Hannah Smith was born in Berwick 26 April 1773.

Isaac and Hannah Merrow lived in Berwick and he was a farmer. From the death record of a grandchild it would seem certain they lived in the section now South Berwick. Berwick town records show the names and birthplaces of nine children. This family were attendants of Berwick's Second Church for 12 April 1818 wife Hannah, daughters Olive, Abigail, Elizabeth, Nancy, Susan, and sons Charles and James were baptized there. (Master Tate's Diary.) Isaac Merrow bought 18 Jan. 1804 (recorded 26 Jan. 1807) from Aaron Abbit (Abbott) of Berwick "a certain piece of land with the Buildings thereon bounded...Beginning on the north side of the post road leading from Quampheagon Landing to Doultis Falls" in Berwick.

Isaac Merrow was of Berwick when he was appointed 6 Jan.1829administrator of the estate of James S. Merrow, late of Berwick and probably his son. A few years later, 2 Feb. 1832, Isaac Merrow gave a deed to his daughter, "Olive Merrow of Somersworth...singlewoman", to the property he had bought of Aaron Abbott, describing it as "one quarter of an acre situate in Berwick ...on the westerly side of the road leading from South Berwick village to Dowtis Falls...and is where I formerly dwelt." This deed did not mention wife Hannah. That Isaac may have been then living in Somersworth seems probable from the report of his great grandson, A. Ray Kennard, who said Isaac lived in Somersworth. He said "where my grandmother lived the house is not now standing. It was used in the last of its existence as a pest house. The barn may be still standing (1942). It stood on the cross road leaving Dover via Broadway. This road passes by the Elm stock farm of James K. Dodge."

Hannah (Smith) Merrow died in 1837, age 64y.

Children:
i. Sally[6], b. 12 Feb. 1792.
ii. Olive, b. 14 July 1794. Not married in 1832.
iii. Abigail, b. 15 July 1796; never married; apparently lived in Boston, Mass., for her will made 30 April 1869 was later proved in Suffolk County in Mass. To this will she signed Abigail, tho she was known to her family as Abba and her gravestone so reads. She d. 31 Dec. 1871 and was buried in the Kennard lot in Pine Hill Cemetery in Dover, N.H.
iv. James, b. 16 July 1798. James S. Merrow was recorded in Berwick town records as having died 2 Sept. 1827.
v. Charles, b. 1 Sept. 1801. Was he the Charles Merrow who filed marriage intentions in Berwick in 1827 to marry Phebe Williams of Wells, Me.?
394. vi. Lydia, b. 9 April 1806.
vii. Elizabeth, b. 6 Apr. 1809.
viii. Nancy, b. 4 Jan. 1812; never married; d. in Berwick 7 Sept. 1832.
ix. Susanna, b. 1 Nov. 1815. She was baptized as Susan and was so known in the family. A. Ray Kennard reported one of Isaac's daughters married a Mr. Robinson or Robertson. Could it have been Susan?

Isaac Merrow probably married again for a Somersworth marriage record states "Isaac Merrow of Somersworth was married to Nancy Tewksbury May 1838 by Rev. Theodore Stevens, Jr." Isaac Merrow was buried in Somersworth but no clue has been found as to the date of his death unless there is some significance in the fact that daughter Olive did not record her deed from her father until 1854.

392. PHEBE[5] (MERROW) APPLEBEE, (Jonathan[4], Jonathan[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]). "Miss Phebe Merrow of Shapleigh (Maine) and Mr. William Applebee of Rochester (married) 20 March 1800. (D.A.R. records of Shapleigh.) They lived in Milton and perhaps in the Milton Mills section. He died, probably in Milton, between 6 May 1825 and 24 May 1825. She died, probably in Milton, between 28 Oct. 1840 and 7 Aug. 1849. In both cases the date of death lies between the dates when their wills were made and when they were proven.

There is no certain evidence that she was a daughter of Jonathan, Jr., but there is considerable liklihood. He did have a daughter of this name whose history is otherwise unaccounted for. This Phebe above was of the right age to have been Jonathan's daughter. Jonathan had a son James who lived in Milton Mills as did probably Phebe Applebee.

Children, as shown by the above wills:

i. Simeon Applebee; lived in Milton; d. May 1850. On 5 Aug. 1851 Francis D. Horne was appointed guardian for his children. His wife, Joanna, d. in Milton Dec. 1849, age 42y. She was b. in Maine.

SALLY[6] (MERROW) ANNIS, 1792-1874, (Isaac[5], Jonathan[4], Jonathan[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Berwick, Me., 12 Feb. 1792. Massachusetts death record of daughter Olive placed birth of her mother, Sally (Merrow) Annis, in Dover, N.H., and of her father, John Annis, in Kennebunk, Me. The death record of their son William placed the birth of his father in Sanford, Me.

Sally married John Annis, Jr., in Berwick 2 July 1815, both being then listed as residents of Sanford. He was a farmer and lived in Sanford on Mt. Hope, which earlier had been known as Annis's Hill. John Annis, Jr., bought land in Sanford 31 Oct. 1820 from Abner Hill of Sanford. John Annis and his wife, Sally, quitclaimed Sanford land to Mark Prime of Sanford 20 March 1835, giving a right of way through John Annis own land. John Annis of Sanford, yeoman, deeded a "part of the farm on which I now live" to Sally Annis, "single-woman", 17 April 1844, there being no reference to a wife in this deed. He died in Sanford before 1874 and she died there after 1874. Both were buried in Sanford.

Chapter XIX

THOMAS MERROW OF DOVER, N.H., & MINOT, ME.

388. THOMAS[5] MERROW, (Jonathan[4], Jonathan[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Somersworth, N.H., before 1765. He married Hannah Woodbury. That he was born before 1765 was determined from the 1810 census, which listed both Thomas and Hannah as being over forty-five years old. According to census records they were living in Dover in 1790, 1800, and 1810. About 1812 they moved to Minot, now Auburn, Me. He was a farmer. That they were in Minot by 1815 is shown by a Cumberland County deed of 29 June 1818 in which their son, "Major Merrow of Somersworth, N.H., lease to Thomas Merrow of Minot to use during the life of said Thomas Merrow and Hannah Merrow wife of said Thomas during her natural life, being the farm where he has lived for the three years last past." This farm may have been the land which Reuben Merrow sold to his brother Major W. Merrow 21 Jan. 1815.

"Thomas Merrow of Dover in the County of Strafford and State of New Hampshire yeoman in Consideration of the sum of one hundred and ten dollars paid to me by Martha Rollings of Somersworth in said county...widow...have quitclaimed unto the said Martha Rollings all my right title and interest...in and to...A Certain Lot of Land in somersworth aforesaid it being two shares or ten acres more or less in the Land which fell to my mother Phebe Merrow deceased in her mothers Estate and where my Father Jonathan Merrow now resides...this Sixteenth day of September One Thousand Seven hundred and ninety seven and hannah wife of said Thomas relinquishes her right of dower to the said premises." Jacob and Sophia Saunders lived in Poland. He deeded land there in 1845 and 1849, Sophia signing both deeds. He purchased a small piece of land there, perhaps adjoining their homestead, in 1850. That they moved from Poland to Denmark, Me., in 1873 or 1874 is apparent from two Androscoggin County deeds. In the first, 31 Mar. 1873, Jacob N. Saunders of Poland, "yeoman", sold to Franklin Emery of Poland "two and a half acres with the buildings thereon where the said Saunders now lives." Sophia signed the deed and David Dunn was a witness. In the other, 12 Dec. 1874, Jacob N. Saunders of Denmark sold to Rowena R. Plant of Denmark land in Poland. Sophia M. Sanders signed this deed and Sally M. Saunders was a witness.

It is very likely that the year of her birth as given above is not correct. She married James Lord of Lebanon Me., probably in Lebanon, 1 Dec. 1808. He was born there 2 Jan. 1786, son of Ebenezer Lord, either by the latter's first wife, who was Sarah Hersom, or by his second wife, who was Sarah Hodgdon. James Lord was a sixth generation descendent of Nathan Lord, who received a grant of land in 1652 in Kittery, Me., which land is now is Eliot Center. James and Sally Lord lived in Lebanon where she died 11 Feb. 1811 "at the age of 24" years, according to Lebanon death records. This would place her birth after 1784, if her age at death was correctly given. She was buried in South Berwick, Me.

X. Emma Saunders, b. 13 June 1853; d. Mar. 1856.

398. MAJOR WOODBURY[6] MERROW, 1789-1864, (Thomas[5], Jonathan[4], Jonathan[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Dover, N.H., 14 Nov. 1789. "Major" was a first name, not a military title. Married Dorothea A. Rogers, who was born in Kittery, Me., 6 Mar. 1796, daughter of John and Dorothy Rogers. On Capt. William Henry Merrow's genealogical chart she was called "Dolly". In several York County deeds and in her Boston death record she was called "Dorothy". In the Boston marriage record of their daughter, Horatia Ann, the birthplace of Major Woodbury Merrow was given as Kittery, which seems incorrect, probably being confused with the birthplace of his wife.

Major W. Merrow was a lieutenant in Capt. Horace Parmalee's Company, Fourth Regiment of Detached Militia, in service in 1814 for the defense of Portsmouth, N.H He served from 11 Sept to 28 Sept. That he may have had the title of captain would seem likely for in the old cemetery on Merrow Road in Auburn there is a gravestone for his son, Charles W. This stone reads "son of Capt. Major and Dorothy Merrow". That he was married in 1823 is evident from a deed dated 5 Sept. 1823. "John Rogers of Eliot...and Dorothy wife of said John...in consideration of the good will we bear to....our daughter Dorothy Merrow one acre in Eliot." Major W. Merrow of Berwick, Me., "gentleman", and his wife Dorothy sold this acre to James Jones of Eliot, yeoman, for $25.00 the same day, although the deed was not recorded until 23 May 1828.

Where they lived has been reconstructed from various deeds and the birthplaces of their children. He was of Dover in 1815; of Somersworth, N.H., in 1818. They lived in Berwick, Me., from 1823 through 1832. The burial of a son in Auburn, Me., in 1840 suggests they may have lived there just before that date. By 1840 they were living in New Gloucester, Me.; Auburn in 1846; Gray, Me., in 1850; and New Gloucester in 1859. He died in New Gloucester 19 Dec. 1864, age 75y. She died in Boston, Mass., at the home of her son, Major Merrow, Jr., 6 Dec. 1880, age 84y 9mo. They were buried in New Gloucester.

Children:

i. A son who d. in Berwick 15 Mar. 1829.

401. ii. John R.[7], b. 31 Dec. 1824.

iii. Sarah H., b. 1830; m. Rev. Elbridge G. Dunn between 25 Oct. 1848 and 1 Feb. 1849, as his second wife. His first wife, also Sarah, had died in Poland, Me., 14 June 1848, age 33y. Elbridge Dunn was b. 2 June 1814, entered the ministry in 1853 and was a minister in Poland until his death there 24 Jan. 1858, age 43y 7mo 22da. Sarah H. d. 22 June 1866. Elbridge Dunn and his two wives were buried in the same lot in Poland.

iv. Major Woodbury, b. 2 Dec. 1832 in Berwick; mechanic, never married, lived in Boston 1869-1878, his occupation in the latter year being a frame-maker. He d. in Harrison, Me., 16 Apr. 1914, age 62y 3mo 3da, and was buried in Pond Cemetery, New Gloucester.

v. Charles W., b. 6 Dec. 1835; d. 16 May 1840, age 4y 5mo. That he may have been a second son named Charles is possible for a Charles Merrow, who was b. in New Gloucester, d. 18 Oct. (yr?) Information about this latter Charles is too meagre to be certain he was son of Major and Dorothea.

vi. Horatia Ann, b. 4 Apr. 1844 in New Gloucester; m. Daniel C. Wheeler in Boston 19 Feb. 1865 as his second wife. He was a cabinet maker, b. in Wells, Me., 3 Dec. 1827, son of Job and Lucinda Wheeler. Horatia d. in New Gloucester 4 Apr. 1891 and was buried there in Pond Cemetery.

399. THOMAS[6] MERROW, 1796-1874, (Thomas[5], Jonathan[4], Jonathan[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Dover, N.H., 7 Dec. 1796. A Thomas Merrow was in Horace Parmalee's Company in the Fourth Regiment of Detached Militia in service for the defense of Portsmouth, N.H., with service from 11 Sept. to 28 Sept. 1814. While it could have been the father of Thomas[6], it seems more likely it was the younger Thomas, then age 18 years. A brother of this younger Thomas, Major W. Merrow, was at the time a lieutenant of this company.

Thomas Merrow married, first, Sophia Pulsifer, who was born in Minot, now Auburn, Me. They were living in Milton, probably Milton Mills, N.H., in 1818 and 1826. He was there in 1831. "Thomas Merrow of Milton...Joiner...for One Hundred and eighty Dollars and forty eight cents...have sold...to Thomas Chapman (of Milton) trader...Land situate in Milton...it being the same Land I bot of Asa Swazey, with the Buildings thereon..." 3 May 1831. He had purchased this land in 1822 and was also a joiner then. Sophia died after 1825 for her son Hiram was born in that year and before 1828. Thomas had a son by his second wife in the latter year.

Children:

402. i. Lorenzo Dow[7], b. about 11 Dec. 1818.

ii. Hiram, b. 7 May 1825 in Milton; m. Mary S. Neal in Lowell, Mass., 14 Sept. 1846.

She was b. in Parsonsfield, Me., 15 June 1824 and was a "mill operative" when married. She d. in Lowell of typhus fever 17 Nov. 1847, age 25y 5mo 2da; no children.
Hiram lived either in Berwick or South Berwick, Me., and d. in Lawrence, Mass., 1 Apr. 1865, age 39y 10mo 24da; "death caused as a result of starvation in a Rebel prison".

The name of Thomas' second wife was Clarrissa, the only authority for the record being gravestones in Rollinsford, N.H., for two sons which read "son of Thomas and Clarrissa". That he was living in Berwick in October 1845 is apparent for then he sued Ruth Tebbetts of Lowell, Mass., for $14.97. "Thomas Merrow, yeoman", recovered damages and was awarded thirty acres of her land on the road from Sanford Corner to Kennebunk. He was not listed in Berwick, however, in the census of 1850. He died in Lawrence, Mass., 1 April 1874. That she died after this date is likely for the Massachusetts death record of Thomas described him as "married".

Children: (of the following, all known children of Thomas, only two, Thomas and Granville, are known to have been sons of Clarrissa. Their gravestones so stated.)

iii. Thomas, b. 1 Aug. 1828; d. 14 Aug. 1846, age 18y 13da; buried in Rollinsford.
iv. Granville C. W., b. 4 Oct. 1830; d. 27 Oct. 1841; buried in Rollinsford.
v. Hannah,; m. Henry S. Holt in So. Berwick 6 Oct. 1845.
403. vi. Irene P.
vii. Mary Jane; m. 1st, a man named Hayes and lived, perhaps, in Poland, Me. She m., 2nd, Melville Byron Cummings as his 2nd wife 22 Oct. 1863, being then of Poland. He was b. there 15 Oct. 1837, son of Amos and Louisa (Chipman) Cummings. His first wife was Olive E. Cummings, who d. 23 Sept. 1862 and was buried in Poland. Melville and Mary Jane Cummings were divorced and he m. a third time and lived in Pine Hill, N.Y. Cummings Memorial mentioned no children by his second marriage.

400. JONATHAN[6] MERROW, 1802- , (Thomas[5], Jonathan[4], Jonathan[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Dover, N.H., in 1802. Married Nancy N. Saunders in New Gloucester, Me., 4 March 1839 or 1829. The date of 1839 appears in marriage record of State of Maine in Augusta. It seems as if a copying error must have been made as the date of 1829 is much more likely. Jonathan Merrow was at time of his marriage of Norway, Me., and Nancy was of Poland, Me. In 1840 he was listed as a new resident of Norway in the town records there. She was born in Poland 8 Apr. 1812, daughter of Joshua and Patience Saunders, her birth record calling her Nancy N. Sanders. She was a sister of the Jacob N. Saunders, who married Sophia Merrow, Jonathan's sister.

By 1850 Jonathan and Nancy Saunders were living in Conway, N.H., where he was a farmer. He was then age 48y. It is probable that she died before 1860 for in that year the census recorded him alone in Eaton, N.H., and a farm laborer.

Children:

i. Laura[7], b. about 1833; 1850 census gave her age as 17y. Nothing further discovered about her.
404. ii. Clementine Sophia, b. 12 Dec. 1839.

Jonathan married, 2nd, Mrs. Judith Kennison in Tamworth, N.H., 8 Feb. 1877. He then resided in Conway, age 73y, and she was a resident of adjoining Albany, N.H., age 64y, born in Machias, Me. She died 11 Mar. 1885, perhaps in Albany for in her death record she was described as of that town. He died in Conway and was buried there, but his grave has not been found.

401. JOHN R.[7] MERROW, 1824-1873, (Major Woodbury[6], Thomas[5], Jonathan[4], Jonathan[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in New Hampshire 31 Dec. 1824. That he was born in New Hampshire is on the authority of the census of 1870 and also on the Mass. death record of daughter Barbara. If these reports are accurate, the probability is that he was born in Somersworth or Dover. There is a possibility he was born in Berwick, Me.

"John R. Merrow of Poland County of Cumberland...yeoman (for) two hundred and fifty dollars" mortgaged "to John Colcord and John B. Neally of South Berwick...traders...land situated in Aubon...bounded easterly by the road leading from Paines Mills in Minot to Masens Mills in Aubom...containing thirty acres...with the buildings...intending to convey all the land on the westerly side of the road that belonged to what is called the Major W. Merrow farm." 3 Feb. 1846. John R. Merrow signed this York County deed and Major W. Merrow was a witness. He married Elizabeth Ellen Knight, who was born in Poland, Me., 31 July 1831, daughter of Isaac and Sarah (Morrill) Knight. Cumberland County deeds placed them in Gray, Me., in 1859 while they would seem to have been in Poland in 1852, the death record of their daughter Etta Barbara placed her birth there then. From 1853 through 1870 they seem to have been living in New Gloucester, Me. He was a farmer and died there 14 Jan. 1873, age 48y 1mo 14da. Buried in Pond Cemetery, New Gloucester. She died in Portland 3 Sept. 1921, widow, age 90y, and was buried there in Old Western Cemetery. Their grandson, Silas Weston Burbank, reported that after the death of John R. Merrow his children were separated and brought up by relatives and friends.

Children:

i. Etta Barbara[8], b. 4 May 1851; d. in Boston, Mass., 14 Dec. 1892; single, tailoress; age 40y.

ii. Charles William, b. 9 Aug. 1853. There is a possibility that he was the Charles Merrow who d. in New Haven, Conn., widower, 19 Oct. 1912, age 59y, b. in 1853 in "New Glaston, Me." There being no New Glaston it is assumed New Gloucester was intended. This Charles Merrow was listed in the New Haven directory as Charles T. Merrow, lineman, in New Haven 1884-1898. His wife, Imogene Merrow, d. in New Haven 5 Oct. 1899, age 49y, b. in Providence, R.I. Charles T. Merrow, age 29y, b. in Maine, had married 15 Jan. 1883, Emma G. Newhall, then age 32y, b. in Providence. It was her second marriage for she was a widow.

405. iii. Sarah Maria, b. 17 Aug. 1856.

iv. Dora Ellen, b. 31 Oct. 1858; called Dora Leen. She was brought up by a family named Loring and seems to have taken that name. Attended Yarmouth, Me., Academy. She went to New York and was active in the theatrical world, writing plays and books, the most notable of which was a play called "The Dairy Maid". Her stage name was Elinor Merron (Not Merrow). Her husband was Archibald Cowper, an English actor. He d. before she did and at the time of her death she lived in Middletown, N.Y.

v. George B., b. 24 Feb. 1861 in New Gloucester; m. Florence Paine in Standish, Me., 3 Jan. 1892. She was b. there about 1861, dau. of James I. Paine. When they married, she was a tailoress and he was a foreman for the Cumberland Electric Light Co. of Portland. In 1888 he was a patrolman there. No other records pertaining to them found.

vi. Winthrop M., b. 11 July 1863 in New Gloucester. He was listed as age 7y in the census of 1870. No other record pertaining to him found.

402. LORENZO DOW[7] MERROW, 1818-1898, (Thomas[6], Thomas[5], Jonathan[4], Jonathan[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Milton, N.H., 11 Dec. 1818. Married, 1st, Theodate Cole in South Berwick, Me., 10 Oct. 1837. She was born there 2 Nov. 1818, daughter of William and Elizabeth (Spencer) Cole. From the birthplaces of their children it is apparent they lived, first, in Rollinsford, N.H., then in Somersworth, and later in Springvale and South Berwick, Me. In 1851, they were living in Sanford, Me., for Lorenzo D. Merrow and his wife, Theodate Merrow, deeded to James Scott of Berwick 26 May 1851 "pew numbered eighteen in the meeting house of the first Free Will Baptist Society in South Berwick and is the same I purchased of Hulda Estes". By the time of the outbreak of the Civil War they were in Lawrence, Mass., for two of their sons enlisted from there. Just after the war he was overseer in the Washington Mills there. Buried where he died, somewhere just beyond Spotsylvania."

They were evidently divorced because she had remarried before his death in Lawrence 23 April 1923. He was a carpenter when married. She m., 2nd, Augustus A. Caswell of Lawrence there 28 Nov. 1872. He was then a shoemaker, age 37y, b. in Camden, Me., about 1835, son of Amos P. and Love L. Caswell. He d. in Methuen 4 Sept. 1905, age 79y 4mo 2da. No children by either marriage. She and her second husband were buried in Bellevue Cemetery, Lawrence.

Emery of Milton, N.H., 2 Dec. 1855. He was born, probably in Dover, N.H., in June 1827, son of Timothy and Olive (Wentworth) Emery. Irene Merrow was then of Milton Mills. She was the second wife of Timothy Emery, he having married, 1st, Hannah E. Pinkham of Milton 18 Nov. 1849. By this first marriage he had one child, Lizzie E. Emery, who was b. 7 May 1851. Hannah E. Heavy Artillery, Co. K, which went out from Lawrence. He served four years and one month and held various positions, private, corporal, sergeant, quartermaster sergeant, second and first lieutenants, captain, and also quartermaster of the regiment. When he entered the Washington Mills on his return from the war, he was second hand of the No. 3 cotton mill under his father, who was then overseer. In 1872 he succeeded Daniel Floyd as janitor of the City Hall. This position was unsolicited by him. At this time two Republicans worked hard for the place. They had to give way, however, to the 'dark horse', genial William. His fitness was already demonstrated for while many have departed and others have arrived to fill municipal offices at the City Hall, he has remained there still.....If William could get time he would go to the Baptist Church, but each Sunday morning he is engaged on the bell rope at the City Hall, and performs the good work of calling the sinners to repentance."

Chapter XX

JOHN MERROW OF EATON, N.H.

389. JOHN[5] MERROW, -1839, (Jonathan[4], Jonathan[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Somersworth, N.H., probably before 1765. Had he used the name "Jonathan", rather than change to John, he would have been Jonathan 3rd. He was called Jonathan by Master Tate in his diary of Somersworth. He was also called Jonathan by Rev. Alonzo Hall Quint. That he himself was using the Jonathan form, at least on occasions, was shown in two Eaton deeds in Strafford County records. He appeared as a witness to grantor deeds from Isaiah Merrow in 1824 and from Jacob Merrow in 1827 and he signed both deeds as "Jonathan, Jr."

A John Merrow, probably this one, was living in Rochester in 1790 and in his family there was, besides his wife, one male under sixteen. John Merrow and his wife may have been living in Lebanon, Me., two years earlier, for the New Hampshire death record of their grandson, William Alfred Merrow, placed the birth of the latter's father, James, in Lebanon. The census of 1800 found them living in Berwick, Me., with a family of one female over forty-five and one male from ten to sixteen. "John Merrow of Berwick...husbandman...have sold...unto...Samuel Hale one fifth part of about twenty eight acres of land... situate in Somersworth bounded partly on land belonging to the heirs of the late Ichabod Rollins...& partly by land of Joseph Varney & is the same Land which fell to me and my co-heirs as heirs of my late mother Phebe Merrow wife of Jonathan Merrow...and is the one-fifth part of said farm after deducting out of the same the life Estate therein of my Father...this ninth day of June 1803." To this John made his mark. "and I Lydia wife of the within named John do hereby release...& quitclaim...all my right of dower & power of thirds." Lydia also made her mark. Lydia was born about 1764.

That same year he may have been moving to Lebanon for 26 April 1803 "Mary Keay of Lebanon, widow, for...one hundred and twenty five dollars...paid by John Merrow of Berwick...husbandman...sold...land, with the buildings thereon, situate in Lebanon...consisting of three following lots, viz. Number two and number three in range thirteen in the third division, and lot lettered C in the fourth division, in said Town, containing one hundred and twenty acres." He was assessed on $905.40 and taxed $2.10 in 1813 "for the expense and support of the war" of 1812 and he was then in Lebanon.

In Eaton his farm was in the limits of present Madison and was about a mile south of that of George Merrow. (See chapter, George Merrow of Eaton, N.H.) In Eaton all the others of the family had descended from Benjamin Merrow and as late as 1929 this fact brought some confusion to the mind of descendents. Carroll County Pioneer 1 Feb. 1929 said. "We have received complaint of an error in the recently published obituary of Mrs. Rose Merrow (See Hannah Rose Merrow in chapter, Jacob Merrow of Eaton.) a near relative asking us to correct the statement that deceased and her husband were cousins. We have mislaid our copy of the Independent containing the notice so can not verify her statement, but if such a statement has been made we are sorry, as it has been brought to our notice that Mrs. Merrow was of English lineage while Mr. Merrow's ancestors came from Scotland." The "Mr. Merrow" indicated was William Gardner Merrow, great grandson of John and Lydia Merrow. Both William and Hannah Merrow were, of course, descendents of Henry Merrow and of Dr. Samuel Merrow.

Lydia in her old age was called "Aunt John". Said Charles Edwin Hayes, "She was badly crippled with what I think was Locataxia. She could only scuff one foot by the other. The next farm north was owned by James Allard and one could see anyone starting from either house. The Allards would at times see Aunt John come out of her house and start towards them. After a long time she would arrive, when she would say, 'I just stepped out to break a broom and I thought I would RUN over for a few minutes.' It pleased the Allard children to hear her tell of 'running'. People then used hemlock or sweet fern for brooms."

John Merrow died, probably on his Eaton farm, 24 Sept. 1839. Lydia died, probably on the same farm, 27 Mar. 1846, age 82y. They were buried in the family lot on this farm, there being nine graves in this cemetery that are marked and five indicated only by field stones. The farm had been abandoned and had grown to woods by 1941.

Only child:
411. i. James[6], b. 7 July 1788.

411. JAMES[6] MERROW, 1788-1868, (John[5], Jonathan[4], Jonathan[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Lebanon, Me., 7 July 1788. Married Lucy Bedell 6 Oct. 1816, perhaps in Lebanon for this information is from Lebanon records. She was then of Alfred, Me., and she was, perhaps, born there for as late as 1816 her father lived in Alfred. She was born 28 April 1794. She was age 55y in the 1850 census, daughter of John and Sarah Bedell. She was bequeathed a cow in her father's will in 1816, the cow to be delivered by his executor son John Bedell three years after his death. James Merrow "received of John Bedell a cow this twenty fourth day of January 1820, executor of the last will ....of John Bedell, late of Alfred...in full of legacy bequeathed to me by said John Bedell...."

That they were living in Lebanon 18 June 1817 is evident from a Strafford County mortgage record of that date. "James Merrow of Lebanon...husbandman"...mortgaged to Richard Lary of Eaton "one hundred acres of land in Eaton and on Joshua Martin's Location it being the same land I bought of Richard Lary" the same day. By 14 Feb. 1821 they were living in Eaton for another Strafford deed showed James Merrow of Eaton, yeoman, buying from Richard Lary "land in Eaton on Joshua Martin's Location...it being the Eastern half of the lot where Nathaniel Davis now lives."

James Merrow was a private in the war of 1812, serving as a gunner in Perry's engagement on Lake Erie. The Eaton and Conway Free Baptist Church was organized 8 March 1847. Lucy Merrow was a speaker. "One of the members, sister Merrow, gave a powerful exhortation admonishing the brethren to be humble and follow Christ through evil as well as good."

James Merrow died, probably in Madison, N.H., since Madison was formed from the part of Eaton in which they settled. Lucy's place and date of death has not been discovered. Both were probably buried in Madison, their graves marked only by field stones. Date of his death was 29 Dec. 1868.

This Lovina was age 25y which would have been correct for this daughter of James Merrow. Joseph Allen was born in Maine, age 31y, merchant, son of Joel Allen.

There was no death of a Lovina Allen in Mass., in 1886. Of course, they may not have resided in Mass.

shire about 1830. He was a farmer and shoemaker and they lived in Madison, where he probably died 30 Aug. 1860. Carroll County probate records 7 Nov. 1871 called Mary Emeline "widow of James Merrow, Jr., late of Madison" and confirmed sale of land in Madison on petition of Mary E. Merrow, this "being her homestead farm" of one hundred and thirty rods. The record further said "that the husband of your petitioner is deceased and that she has minor children." James Merrow was living in Shapleigh, Me., in 1789 as shown by a Strafford County, N.H., deed that was recorded 19 Aug. 1790. "James Mearow of Shapleigh in the County of York & Commonwealth of Massachusetts Bay husbandman for...ten pounds ten shillings...do hereby sell...all the right...to Daniel Rollins of Somersworth...I have of & unto a certain tract or parcel of land containing five acres...it being the whole that fell to me by my late mother Phebey Mearow the late wife of Jonathan now lives on in common and undivided with my brethren Thomas Mearow John Mearow & the wife of Gershom Wentworth...this seventh day of April 1789."

James Merrow of Shapleigh and Sally Rogers of Shapleigh filed marriage intentions 3 April 1790 and were married there 10 Feb. 1791 by Elder Tozier Lord. This part of Shapleigh is now Acton and lies immediately across the narrow Salmon Falls River from Milton Mills, N.H. Sarah Rogers was born about 1774 and it is probable that her sister was the Nancy Rogers who married Nathaniel Jewett. Nancy was born in 1773 and died in Jan. 1781 (?). She was buried in Milton Mills.

In 1801 James and Sally were living in Milton Mills where he was a farmer. "Stephen Watson of Rochester...for six hundred Dollars paid by James Merrow of Rochester...husbandman...have sold...one hundred eleven acres of land of & in the one hundred and forty acre lot of Land in Rochester numbered forty three in the third Division in said Rochester...this twenty first day of March 1801." This Strafford County deed was recorded 21 July 1804. Milton was set apart from Rochester and incorporated in 1802. "This third division comprised a narrow strip of land at the head of the present towns of Milton and Farmington. The drawing was completed 1 Aug. 1854." So wrote McDuffie in his History of Rochester, who also said the original grantee of this lot was Henry Tebbitts.

Further evidence of this land being in Milton is found in another deed, recorded in Strafford County 24 Aug. 1815. "James Merrow of Milton...husbandman... for...one hundred and twenty dollars...paid by Solomon Lowd of Shapleigh... blacksmith...have sold...twenty five acres of land lying...in Milton...which Lott is known by being in the third division of Rochester...this eighteenth day of June 1804." To this deed both James and Sally signed their names, she signing in the form of Sally Merrow.

He died in Milton Mills 28 Mar. 1861, age 86 years, and she died there 9 Jan. 1864, age 90 years. Both were buried in unmarked graves on the now abandoned farm in Acton which belonged to their son Noah.

"Ezekiel Merrow of Milton Mills, N.H., and Miss Clarissa Roberts of Shapleigh, Me., were married 22 Aug. 1825 by John Bodwell, Justice of the Peace." --Maine marriage record. This reference to Shapleigh undoubtedly would mean present Acton, then a part of Shapleigh, across the narrow Salmon Falls River from Milton Mills. She was born in Abington, Me., May 1806, daughter of Jedediah and Elizabeth (Goodwin) Roberts. Ezekiel and Clarissa Merrow lived in Milton Mills where he was a farmer and miller. Ezekiel and his brother-in-law, James Madison Brock, took over the Jedediah Roberts grist mill and saw mill on the Salmon Falls River. James Brock also had the Roberts farm in Acton. Clarissa Merrow died in Brighton, Mass., 3 July 1849, age 43y 2mo. Ezekiel died 7 Oct. 1857, age 53y. Both were buried with their two daughters on the Roberts farm in Acton.

Married Salome Jones in Alton, N.H., 24 Feb. 1833. She was born there 30 March 1810, daughter of Jonathan and Mary (Watson) Jones. Salome may have been Offin Merrow's second wife. That he was born in Milton Mills was established from his death record. That he was a son of these parents rests upon the memories of Ida S. (Ricker) Merrow and Edna (Wiggin) Lord, who both affirmed independently, that there was an "Uncle Nat". They had heard of him but had never met him.

Nathaniel Merrow married Nancy P. Vennard of Newcastle, N.H., in Newcastle 8 Sept. 1839, their marriage record calling him Nathaniel "J." He was then of Charlestown, Mass. She was born in Newcastle in 1817. In other records, notably those of the birth of her children, she was described as having been born in Portsmouth, N.H. Nathaniel and Nancy Merrow lived in Charlestown from 1841 to 1853 and he was then a blacksmith. While living there three children were born to them. In the Massachusetts birth records of these children he was called Nathaniel except once when he was called "J. Merrow". In all these birth records she was Nancy B.

They had perhaps been divorced before 1861. The Boston Directory of that year called him a carriage maker and showed him to have been boarding at Hope House. From 1863 to 1865 he was a machinist and boarded at 2 Portland St. In 1869-78 he lived at 19 Norman St. He died at the Boston City Hospital 9 Jan. 1884, age 72 years, being described in Mass. records as a janitor and a widower. She, however, was then living and died in Taunton, Mass., 23 Oct. 1888, age 71y. Her death record described her as divorced and a house keeper in Boston. This record gave her maiden name as Vinniard. Married, 1st, Mary Louisa Bragdon in Boston 26 Nov. 1857. She was then age 20y, born in Portland, Me., daughter of Henry and Mary Bragdon. John and Mary Merrow lived in Boston. In 1858 he was in business on Fulton St. there, curing hides and producing tallow. In 1859 they were living at 54 Revere Street. Later, he was a partner of George Swift, who was still later of the Chicago packing house of that name. They were in the meat business in Faneuil Hall Market in Boston. Mary Louisa Merrow died at Coolidge House in Boston 13 Nov. 1883, age 43y 7mo, and was buried in Forest Hills Cemetery in Boston.

Only child:
i. Wallace Dexter, b. 16 July 1859; grad. from New Hampton Institute in New Hampton, N.H.; first worked in his father's hide and tallow business in Boston. An expert accountant, he was for over twenty years at the Revere House in Boston, at one time owned by his father. Later, and for many years, he was clerk at Hotel Lenox in Boston. Treasurer of Tennis and Racquet Club in Boston. He died in Boston 11 Jan. 1927; buried in Forest Hills Cemetery; never married.

John Francis Merrow married, 2nd, Mary A (Whittier) Sargent in Boston 1 Oct. 1886. She was born in Augusta, Me., 5 May 1842, daughter of Trueman and Maria (Douglas) Whittier. From the hide and tallow business and from the meat business John Merrow had gathered a sizeable fortune. From where he lived at Coolidge House in Bowdoin Square he had watched the declining fortunes of Boston's once famous Revere House. With the intention of restoring it to its former pre-eminence he became proprietor in 1886. He furnished it in excellent taste and some degree of sumptuousness. The kitchens were noted for sporlessness. The cuisine was notable. While his energies and efforts gave the Revere House a new lease of life, changing habits of the public and the rise of newer hotels elsewhere in the city proved too great an obstacle and much of his fortune was dissipated in this venture. Besides the Revere House, he operated the Winter Palace Hotel and the Hotel Trafalgar, near Symphony Hall, both in Boston. While he was proprietor of the Revere House, an incident occurred which revealed his independence of thinking and his moral courage. Booker T. Washington, the famous negro educator, was in Boston and the other leading hotels declined to accept him. The Revere House welcomed him.

He had other interests. Fine race horses were a love and in the 80's he owned many famous ones. One called Camoes he sold for $60,000. About John Francis Merrow the History of Bristol, N.H., said, "John F. Merrow in 1904 owned in Bristol a farm of 300 acres that was 'under the highest state of cultivation' of any farm in town. His farm was especially valuable for its grass and fruit. He cut nearly 100 tons of hay and sometimes shipped 400 barrels of apples to market... He kept a large number of high grade Jerseys. Mr. Merrow, who resides in Boston, spent his Summers on this farm." He was also owner of the locally famous Locke-Ober restaurant in Boston from 1898 to 1901.

Chapter XXII

REUBEN MERROW OF MINOT, ME.

395. REUBEN[6] MERROW, 1776-1864, (Thomas[5], Jonathan[4], Jonathan[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Dover, N.H., 24 May 1776. His first wife was Allice Downing. "Thursday, May ye 9, 1799. This day, after lawful punishment, Mr. Reuben Merrow and Miss Alice Downing both of the town of Poland (Maine) were solemnly married by me, Jonathan Scott." (Rev. Jonathan Scott's Record of Marriages in Vol. X, May flower Descendent) Allice Downing was born in Andover, Mass., 8 July 1778, daughter of Samuel and Abigail (Barnard) Downing. Town records of Andover spelled her first name as "Allize", church records read "Alice", family records read "Allice". Reuben and Allice Merrow lived in Minot, Me., now Auburn, where he was a farmer. She died there 4 Sept. 1820, age 42y 1mo 26da.

Children:

446. i. Reuben[7], b. 26 Aug. 1800.
447. ii. Alice, b. 9 Oct. 1802.
448. iii. Hannah N., b. 8 Oct. 1804.

450. vi. Samuel D., b. 4 Dec. 1810.
451. vii. Abigail B., b. 2 Jan. 1813.
452. viii. Eliphalet Woodman, b. 19 Jan. 1815.
ix. Betsy R., b. 3 April 1818; m., 1st Joshua Small; no children. She m., 2nd, Rev. Larkin-Lassell Jordan in 1869. He was b. in Thomaston, Me., 4 Oct. 1798, son of Tristram and Rebecca (Hayden) Jordan. He was a widower and this was his second marriage. They lived in Denmark, Me., where he was a Baptist minister. He died, probably before 1883, and she d. in Denmark 10 June 1890, age 72y 2mo 7da. No children.

Reuben Merrow married, second, Hannah Chase in April 1824, probably in Danville, Me., now a part of Auburn. She was born 30 Jan. 1785 in Newbury, Mass., daughter of Jonathan and Hannah (Merrill) Chase. She died in Danville 8 Mar. 1825. This record is from Maine records as compiled by Daughters of American Colonists. The record did not say "Reuben Merrow, Jr." so it seems possible that it was the elder Reuben who married Hannah Chase. However, both father and son Reuben were without wives in 1824 and either could have been the groom. Hannah seems not to have been buried in the old Merrow Cemetery in Auburn, where both father and son and their families were buried, for there is no gravestone for her there.

Reuben Merrow married, 3rd, Catherine Maria Verrill (or Variel), who was born in 1795. He died in Auburn 8 Jan. 1864, age 87y 7mo 15da, and she died 27 Sept. 1848, age 53y. Reuben and his first and last wives were buried on Merrow Road in Auburn.

446. REUBEN[7] MERROW, 1800-1885, (Reuben[6], Thomas[5], Jonathan[4], Jonathan[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Minot, now Auburn, Me., 26 Aug. 1800. He was a farmer and a very large man of over six feet. From 1818 to 1829 he worked in Minot for Capt. William Ladd, who "added" to his original farm "farm after farm until he became owner of more than six hundred acres. Six large barns were needed to hold his immense crops of hay and grain and his numerous herds of cattle, horses, and sheep, which were all of the choicest breeds. His extensive operations required a large employment of labor over which, as overseer, was....Reuben Merrow". (Vol. X, Series ii, p. 120, Collections of Maine Historical Society.)

Reuben Merrow married Pamelia T. Wiswell, who was born 4 Aug. 1800. She may have been born in Harpswell, Me., as indicated in death record of their daughter Julia Ann, or in Bath, Me., as suggested by Nellie Florence (Hodgkin) Young. The latter reported Pamelia to have been a native of Bath. Reuben Merrow lived on the road from Littlefield's Corner to Haskell's Corner in Auburn. His grandson, William Heath Hodgkin, reported that Reuben Merrow made it a life habit to read a chapter in his Bible every night with his wife. He also reported having been told by a Mr. Freeman, one time liquor agent at Littlefield's Corner, how Reuben Merrow used to buy two quarts of brandy for fifty cents. Reuben's reappearance for more could be accurately guaged because it was his habit to take exactly four tablespoons of this brandy daily, never more nor less, and never to give any away. He died in Auburn 23 April 1885, age 84y 8mo, and his wife died there 14 May 1885, age 84y 7mo. Both were buried in the old cemetery on Merrow Road in Auburn.

Children:

453. i. Harriet Newell[8], b. 15 July 1828.
454. ii. Julia Ann, b. 22 Mar. 1831.
455. iii. George Franklin, b. 17 Oct. 1833.

457. vi. Catherine Verrill, b. 27 Apr. 1842.

447. ALICE[7] (MERROW) LANE, 1802-1874, (Reuben[6], Thomas[5], Jonathan[4], Jonathan[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Minot, now Auburn, Me., 9 Oct. 1802. Married Jacob Lane, probably in Minot, now Auburn, in 1826. He was born, perhaps in Bridgton, Me., 3 April 1800, son of Benjamin and Hannah (Downing) Lane. Jacob Lane was a 7th generation descendent of James Lane, who with his brothers Job and Edward Lane, came from England and settled, first, in Malden, Mass., in 1656. James Lane had settled in Casco Bay, Me., by 1658. Much of the foregoing is on the authority of the Lane Family, Vol. III, by Rev. James Hill Fitts, which said further: "(Jacob Lane) was a tall muscular man, standing six feet, three inches in his stocking feet, straight as an arrow, and challenging, up to past four score years of age, his sons and the younger men of their generation to lay him on his back. He was at one time captain of a military company remarked for its good discipline and very fine appearance on 'muster days'. He was many times urged but always declined town office. He was also a successful school teacher."

"Jacob Lane bought land in Minot of his father, Benjamin Lane, 30 acres of Lot No. 80, Feb. 21, 1828...and of Leonard Woodbury, 8 acres, 64 rods, of Lot 78, Oct. 17, 1828. Capt. Lane married in 1826 his cousin, Alice Merrow of Minot. When Alice was seventeen years of age her mother died leaving eight children to this daughters care." Jacob Lane died 12 July 1882, age 82y 3mo 9da, and Alice (Merrow) Lane died in Auburn 3 June 1874, age 71y 2mo 25da.

"Dear Father and Mother it is with feelings of pleasure I now take my pen hand to inform you of my health which is good at presant and I sincerely hope this will find you all the same. Uncle's family are well. I like here very much indeed. I went into the mill a fortnight ago last Wednesday. I like very much. I learned to reel first. It took me 9 days to learn and then I took a reel of my own and reeled a week. I got so I could reel 700 skeins in one day. I could reel 50 skeins at once. I had four and six a week. I could reel fourteen doffs in one day, 50 skeins to a doff. A doff is what we reel at one time. I have learned to reel by heart and now I will tell you a little about spining. I began to learn to spin last Wednesday and I got along very fast indeed. I have a verry good girl to learn with. I think in the course of a few weeks I shall make 9 shilings a week. I think that will be better than 50 cents and I shall not have to work so hard. Either I work in the uper spining room. It is in the fourth story on the same floor that Cornelia works (her cousin)... We go in the mill at six o'clock and at seven we come out for breakfast. We are alowed a half an hour to eat in. At half past twelve we come out to dinner and at one the bell rings for us to be in the mill again. I shall now write you a little about our journey. We had a very bad time a-coming up here. We had to stay in Boston one day and two nights...good bye from your Afectionate daughter.

Harriet N. Merrow."

Chapter XXIII

HIRAM MERROW OF MINOT, MAINE

397. HIRAM[6] MERROW, 1784-1823, (Thomas[5], Jonathan[4], Jonathan[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Dover, N.H., 18 Feb. 1784. He purchased land in Minot, Me., now Auburn, 16 June 1804 from James Harley, or Hershey, "it being Lot #35 on a plan dated 25 Oct. 1798". This was the homestead site at Haskell's Corner on which he lived and where his great granddaughter lived in 1949. "Thursday April ye 5, 1808. This day (after lawful punishment) Mr. Hiram Merrow and Miss Eunice Variel, both of the Town of Minot, were solemnly married by me, Jonathan Scott", so wrote Rev. Jno. Scott in his Record of Marriages, which now appears in Vol. X, The Mayflower Descendent. Though Eunice's name was spelled "Vervill" in the Maine death record of their son Thomas, the modern spelling seems to be Verrill. Eunice was born in Poland, Me., 19 April 1784, daughter of Davis and Elizabeth Verrill, or Variel. Hiram Merrow was a farmer. He was drowned while running logs on the Little Androscoggin River in Minot 5 Sept. 1823, age 39y 6mo 17da. Eunice died in Auburn 22 Nov. 1848, age 64y 7mo 3da. Both were buried in Center Hill Cemetery in Minot.

Children:

i. Elizabeth V.[7], b. 8 April 1811; d. 18 Nov. 1830, age 19y 7mo 10da.
492. ii. Hiram, b. 1815.
493. iii. Lucretia Verrill.
iv. Eunice, b. 21 Dec. 1816; lived in Boston in 1902, when she d. there 1 May, age 85y 4mo 11da; never married.

vii. Sophronia, b. 1 Nov. 1820; twin; d. 7 Aug. 1871, age 50y 9mo 6da; never married; g.s. in Center Hill Cemetery reads, "Twin children of Hiram and Eunice Merrow; Sophia A., d. 19 May 1823, age 2y 6mo 18da; Sophronia V., d. 7 Aug. 1871, age 50y 9mo 6da."
495. viii. Sarah Woodbury, b. about 1821.
496. ix. Sophia, b. 8 Apr. 1823.

492. HIRAM[7] MERROW, 1815-1845, (Hiram[6], Thomas[5], Jonathan[4], Jonathan[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Minot, now Auburn, Me., in 1815. Married Mary Jane Royall, who was born in Minot 6 April 1819. She was a daughter of Jason and Rebecca (Chase) Royall and a descendent of William Royall (or Ryal) who settled in Salem, Mass., probably in 1621 and who was living in Casco Bay, Me., as early as 1635-6. Hiram and Mary Jane lived in Auburn, where he was a farmer. Hiram and his sister, Lucretia V. Merrow, sold 4 May 1837 two undivided seventh parts "of the homestead of our late father Hiram Merrow late of Minot". He also sold parts of this Lot #35 1 Sept. 1837 and 21 Oct. 1841. Since no wife was mentioned in any of these deeds, he married Mary Jane Royall probably sometime after Oct. 1841. Hiram died, probably in Auburn, in 1845. His early death, leaving a young child, was the subject of an agreement 6 Dec. 1845 in which his brother, Thomas Merrow, engaged himself "for payment of debts and support of said Hiram his wife and child as mentioned in the bond". Hiram Merrow was of Auburn and made his mark to this agreement, while "Mary Jane wife of said Hiram" signed her name. Mary Jane died in Auburn 28 June 1899, age 80y 2mo 22da. Both were buried in Auburn.

Child:

i. Emily B.[8], b. 11 June 1843. Since no living member of this branch ever heard of her, the probability is she died early.

493. LUCRETIA VERRILL[7] (MERROW) TRACY, -1887, (Hiram[6], Thomas[5], Jonathan[4], Jonathan[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Minot, now Auburn, Me. Married David Tracy, probably in Minot. He was born there 5 Mar. 1809, son of Rev. Jonathan and Esther (Stevens) Tracy. Esther Stevens was the first of Rev. Jonathan's four wives. David Tracy was a half-brother of the Rebecca Tracy who married Lucretia's cousin, Samuel Merrow. (See chapter, Reuben Merrow of Minot, Maine.) That David and Lucretia had married between 1837 and 1840 is apparent for 4 May 1837 she deeded land in Auburn with her brother Hiram, signing Lucretia V. Merrow. She and her husband, David Tracy, gave a deed 16 April 1840 on part of her father's homestead, she being an heir. They lived, first, in Auburn and, last, in Lewiston, Me., where he managed the town farm. He died 26 April 1879 and she died 23 Jan. 1887. Both were buried in Riverside Cemetery in Lewiston.

494. THOMAS[7] MERROW, 1818-1897, (Hiram[6], Thomas[5], Jonathan[4], Jonathan[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Minot, now Auburn, Me., 31 Aug. 1818. Married Lucetta Knowlton Conant, probably in Auburn, 29 Nov. 1849; married by John Dodd. She was born in Turner, Me., 23 Dec. 1823, daughter of Hooper and Anne (Keene) Conant. She was an 8th generation descendent of Roger Conant who came from England to the Plymouth Colony in 1623 and who was a leading citizen at the settlement of Naumkeag, now Salem, Mass., in 1626. Thomas and Lucetta Merrow lived in Auburn where he was a farmer. Here they lived at Haskell's Corner in the house that was built by his father. Later, they moved to Lewiston, Me., where they lived with their daughter, Eunice Anne. He died in Lewiston 30 Oct. 1897, age 79y. She died there 6 Feb. 1900. That there is some doubt of her birth date rests on the fact that she signed a deed in 1837, there being nothing in this deed to suggest she was a minor. Married John Littlefield, probably in Auburn. That they were married after 1837 is evident from a Cumberland County deed of 1 Sept. 1837, which read "I Sally Woodbury Merrow of Minot single woman sold to Hiram Merrow of Minot parts of the homestead farm of our late father Hiram Merrow". That she was married before 1843 is apparent from the fact their first child was born in that year. John Littlefield was born in that part of Minot now Auburn 19 June 1807. He was a farmer and lived in Auburn. He died, probably there, 11 Oct. 1886, age 79y 3mo 22da, and was buried in Mountainview Cemetery at Marston's Corner in Auburn. She died there 17 May 1881, age 59y 11mo 6da, and was buried at Stevens Mills in Auburn.

496. SOPHIA[7] (MERROW) RAY, 1823-1874, (Hiram[6], Thomas[5], Jonathan[4], Jonathan[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Auburn, Me., 8 April 1823. Note she was named with the same name as an older sister who died nearly six weeks after she was born. It would seem probable that she was unnamed until after this sister, perhaps gravely ill at the time of this youngest child's birth, had died. That there is no mistake about the younger Sophia being a daughter of Hiram is evident from a Cumberland County deed of 7 Sept. 1847, which said: "We Sophronia V. Merrow and Sophia Merrow both of Auburn" sell to

"Thomas Merrow of Auburn our undivided portion of the homestead of our father Hiram." This Sophia married Charles H. Ray of Auburn in Auburn 13 May 1852 as his first wife. EDWARD LEITH[9] MERROW, 1917- , (Edward Rufus[8], Charles Scott[7], John[6], James[5], Jonathan[4], Jonathan[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Lancaster, N.H., 12 Dec. 1917. He "was born...at the farmhouse on the North Road...now belonging to Ursel Manseau. It was 63° below zero. Soon afterward Edward's father became yard master for the Maine Central Railroad and the family moved into town... Edward attended the public schools and Lancaster Academy from which he graduated in 1935. In the meantime the family had moved back to the North Road and lived on the farm next door to Manseau's, which Edward's father farmed most successfully."

In high school Edward was outstanding in both music and football. He was All-State tackle his junior year and had football scholarships offered him at both Dartmouth and Bowdoin. However, he was equally adept in music, playing first trumpet in Gardner Wentworth's band, and also singing. With the Wentworth's encouragement he obtained a scholarship to the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston." Now he had "to choose between these three schools. His father preferred that he go to Dartmouth and become a lawyer, but Edward decided on New England Conservatory to become a singer...."

He "became a voice major" there "and studied with Sullivan Amoury Sergeant." He "studied" as well all the related music subjects. Faced with the job of eating as well as singing--he now was completely on his own--- Edward had all sorts of jobs ranging from singing in Boston's churches to playing trumpet on various 'boites' around town. At one time he was a regular member of a male quartet appearing in the stage shows of the Metropolitan Theater and also was disc jockey for WCOP. After two years of conservatory life Edward decided to seek the more stable reward of a degree from Syracuse University...." There "he held the position of bass soloist in the Chapel Choir,.....sang in an N.Y.A. chorus, and did such various jobs as carrying out his landlady's ashes and washing dishes at Fisher's Restaurant." He was a voice major at the University. "It was here that he met Helen Spence, who later became his wife, and who also was a voice major and member of his class....."

In May of 1942 Edward was inducted into the army as a private. He went first to Fort Dix, N.J., and then was sent to Camp Gordon, Ga., where he received his basic training and was attached to a tank destroyer battalion. He was disqualified from this by reason of poor vision and applied for officer's candidate school in the Quartermaster Corps. He was transferred to Camp Lee, Va., in March of 1943 and entered the school there." He was graduated "in May and was voted the outstanding member of his class. He was assigned back to Camp Lee as a basic training officer...."

"There was just being formed at Camp Lee at that time a Band Training Unit set up for the purpose of taking professional musicians who entered the army and giving them the specialized training needed for a marching army band. Captain Lynn Thayer, looking for an executive officer, found Ed Merrow and pressed him into service. After Captain Thayer's retirement a year or so later, Edward became commandant of the school and continued so until his discharge in June of 1946 with the rank of captain..."

After his discharge he "decided to become a postulant for Holy Orders in the Episcopal Church and entered the Virginia Seminary at Alexandria, Va., in the Fall of 1948, and served as curate at St. John's, Lafayette Square, Washington, D.C., at the Church of the Ascension, Silver Spring, Md., and at St. Thomas' Church, Washington, D.C..... In the Fall of 1948 Edward along with many others attended the dedication...of the new church building of Grace Church" in Alexandria, "a small, perfect example of a Tudor Gothic English country church made "inside and out of native fieldstone. Milton Gregg, the restorer of Williamsburg, was the architect, and the edifice cost nearly a quarter of a million dollars..." In March of 1949 Edward Merrow became the rector of this church. Helen Merrow was in 1952 the soprano soloist of the fine choir.

Edward Merrow did graduate studying at Columbia University, In 1952 he was also an instructor in Virginia Theological Seminary in Alexandria and lecturer at the College of Preachers, Washington Cathedral, Washington, D.C. Chapter XXV

DEACON DANIEL MERROW OF OSSIPEE, N.H.

424. DEACON DANIEL[6] MERROW, 1793-1873, (James[5], Jonathan[4], Jonathan[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Milton Mills, N.H., 8 Jan. 1793. Married Sarah Blaisdell Garland in South Wakefield, N.H., 17 Nov. 1816. She was born there at the Capt. John Garland farm a short distance south of Lovell Lake 27 April 1797, daughter of Capt. John and Sarah (Blaisdell) Garland. Capt. John Garland was an officer in the New Hampshire militia with service in the Revolution beginning at Bunker Hill. Sarah Garland was a descendent of Peter Garland, "marriner", who lived at Charlestown, Mass., in 1639. (Capt. John[6], Daniel[5], John[4], Jabez[3], Peter[2], Peter[1]).

Daniel Merrow pioneered the Merrow family in Ossipee, N.H., which has been ever since a considerable center of the family. He was living in the vicinity of Danhole Pond by 1822. "Edmund Roberts and Catherine M. Roberts wife of said Edmund both of Portsmouth...New Hampshire...for Two Hundred Dollars...paid by Daniel Merrow of Ossipee...Husbandman...sold...unto the said Daniel Merrow...land situate in Ossipee...containing One Hundred acres... being lot numbered seventeen...this tenth day of July...1822." Here they were living in 1824 when he sold a common and undivided half of this land to his brother, Robert Merrow. Presumably, they later returned to Wakefield for 9 June 1828 he sold his entire interest in this farm to brother Robert, being described in this Strafford County deed as "Daniel Merrow of Wakefield ...husbandman". In the Wakefield town records there was in 1941 an old voting list of the year 1828. Daniel Merrow's name appeared thereon in ink, but had been lightly crossed out in pencil.

Concerning the odd name of Danhole Pond, the Carroll County Independent described its origin as follows: "Down in Massachusetts lived a trapper named Daniel Hole. He used to come in the Fall and trap around these ponds. When he was ready to go home he hid his traps in a secret cave where they were safe until he came back the next year. When he traded with the Indians he treated them right and they liked him. So after awhile, the ponds were spoken of as 'Dan Hole's ponds'. As years went on this became Danhole Ponds, for short, after the man himself was no longer known."

Daniel and Sarah Merrow returned to Ossipee to live. When Deacon Daniel's daughter, Lovina, was three years old--in 1838--they moved to Moultonville, a section of Ossipee not far from their original home there. Here they first lived near where the church is now located. Daniel Merrow sold to Nathaniel Grant of Ossipee 24 July 1843 land and buildings, "meaning the farm on which I have lived". Daniel and "Sally" Merrow both signed this deed. He bought land in present Moultonville 3 Oct. 1843.

When the original church building in Moultonville was moved there from Center Ossipee, Deacon Daniel and his son James gave the land for its site and for the parsonage. In return, they were accorded a private pew, which was used by Deacon Daniel, who with his brother Robert were the first deacons. Later, this pew was used by his son James, by his grandson James Dana, and by his great grandson Howard Westfield Merrow. This pew ended with the burning of the original structure. Deacon Daniel's Moultonville home he exchanged for a farm on the outskirts of the village, which farm was in 1953 in the possession of his great grandson. Deacon Daniel was a farmer and teamster. He drove oxen from Moultonville to Union, N.H., taking there the products of the bedstead mill of the Moulton's and returning with manufactured goods and supplies for the village store run by them. He died in Moultonville 1 Sept.

Authority for placing his birth in Wakefield rests on the death record of his daughter, Sarah Mehitable, as given in Ossipee town report of 1911. His daughter-in-law, Annie Elizabeth (Williams) Merrow, remembered he claimed Acton, Me., as his birthplace. The two towns adjoin, or are close. He married Caroline Wingate in Wakefield 16 Sept. 1849. She was born there, probably 16 Sept. 1824, daughter of John and Anne (Wiggin) Wingate. James and Caroline Merrow lived on a farm at the edge of the village of Moultonville in Ossipee and this farm was the one that had been his father's. It was in 1952 the home of James Merrow's grandson, Howard Westfield Merrow. James Merrow tore down the original buildings and erected new ones, which were standing in 1952. He was a farmer and he also drove team for the bedstead mill as did his father and his brother, Daniel Garland Merrow. He died in Moultonville 8 Sept. 1905. Caroline died there 23 Mar. 1889. Married Sarah Moody in Center Ossipee, N.H., in 1848. She was born on the Moody farm near Danhole Pond in Ossipee 30 Jan. 1830, daughter of Amasa and Mary Ann (Cooley) Moody. Daniel Garland and Sarah Merrow lived, first, on her father's farm which was later known as the Tibbetts farm. Here their four oldest children were born. Then Daniel Garland Merrow bought from Rev. Frank Locke the house in Moultonville which was owned and occupied as late as 1942 by his granddaughter, the late Sarah Bertha Welch. It was then the oldest house in Moultonville. Daniel Merrow was a teamster, driving as his father had done teams hauling products of the bedstead mill to Union and returning with goods for the village store. Unlike his father, however, he drove horses where his father had driven oxen. The trip to Union was made, southbound, the return trip being made the following day. Much later in life he worked for a time in the car repair shops of the Boston & Maine Railroad in Salem, Mass., living there on Skerry Street. He died in Moultonville 5 Sept. 1890, age 63y. ABIGAIL CHAPMAN WALLACE[7] (MERROW) (MOULTON) CLARK, 1831-1923, (Deacon Daniel[6], James[5], Jonathan[4], Jonathan[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Ossipee, N.H., 12 June 1831. Married Lorenzo Dow Moulton in Moultonville. He was born there, probably, on 18 April 1828, son of John and Susan (Davis) Moulton. Lorenzo and Abigail Moulton lived in Moultonville in the house which he built and which in 1952 was owned and occupied by Charles Wiggin. Moultonville in the time of Lorenzo Moulton was the manufacturing center of Ossipee, the principal business being the bedstead factory established there by John Moulton. In this factory were made cottage bedsteads, the so-called spool beds, now valued by collectors of antiques. To get their merchandise to market meant freighting overland to Union Village, N.H., the terminus of the railroad at the time. "L. D." Moulton for this purpose kept an extensive stable of horses and much carting equipment. This industry was the means of livlihood of a considerable portion of the village, including a number of the Merrow men who then lived there.

L. D. Moulton also had a general store located in a building adjoining his house. Payments of accounts was by annual settlement and stories have been handed down of customers, who, being unable to settle in full, were gently admonished to "do better next year", and at the same time having their unpaid balances forgiven. The same stories also tell of the many who were perpared at the next year-end to have their balances forgiven again,--which they were. L. D. Moulton was a substantial man in his community, upright, and a devout Christian. Realizing the need for a place of worship in Moultonville he bought the closed Free Wili Baptist Church in Center Ossipee and moved it to the village. He built a parsonage and gave it, together with the church and $1,000., to the Methodist Episcopal Society of which he was a member. This was in 1866.

DEACON ROBERT MERROW OF OSSIPEE, N.H.

426. DEACON ROBERT[6] MERROW, 1797-1878, (James[5], Jonathan[4], Jonathan[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Milton Mills, N.H., Sept. 1797. Married, 1st, Lovina Garland in Ossipee, N.H., 18 Feb. 1820, their New Hampshire marriage record describing them both as of Ossipee. She was born in South Wakefield about 1795, daughter of Capt. John and Sarah (Blaisdell) Garland, She was a sister of the Sarah Garland who had married his older brother, Deacon Daniel Merrow. Though no records found have shown the residence of Robert and Lovina for the next four years, they probably lived in Ossipee. He bought 30 Sept. 1824 from his brother Daniel "one half of the lot of land No. seventeen...bounded as follows, viz. westerly by Tuftonborough line, northerly by a remnant of eighteen acres Easterly by lot numbered eighteen Southerly by lot No. sixteen adjoining Dan Hole pond and by a remnant of thirty seven acres...and is the same land that we now occupy & live on & improve meaning to convey unto him the said Robert one half of said lot in common and undivided." This deed substantiates the report in this branch of the family that the two brothers and their sister wives lived with their families in a double house on one farm.

Four years later, 9 June 1828, his brother, "Daniel Merrow of Wakefield... husbandman...sold to Robert Merrow...all my right title and interest in" the above said land "being the same now improved by the said Robert Merrow and one other piece of land from off the southerly part of lot No. fifteen, which lot is bounded as follows: viz. westerly by lot No. 16, northerly by the remaining part of this same lot No. 15, Easterly by land owned and occupied by one David Nock, Southerly by land owned and occupied by Joseph N. Quenley (?) and land of Tobias Fernald, it being fifty acres which the said Daniel and Robert Merrow purchased of Thomas Thorey, in common and undivided, deed bearing date of 11th July 1825." Deacon Robert was described as "husbandman" in these deeds.

Lovina died, probably in Ossipee, 26 April 1832 and was buried in Moultonville Church cemetery.

Children:

583. i. John William[7], b. 30 Oct. 1820. The Garland Genealogy records the first child of Robert and Lovina as John and lists another as William, Their first child is known to have been John William. Since no further record of a separate William has been found, the conclusion is reached that the Garland Genealogy is in error in reporting two children with these names.
584. ii. Daniel, b. 17 Dec. 1823.
585. iii. Emily, b. 8 Dec. 1824.

Robert Merrow married, 2nd, Hannah B. Graves in Tuftonborough 21 Feb. 1833. She was of Tuftonborough, born 14 Jan. 1808, daughter of Abraham and Phebe (Dennet) Graves. Robert and Hannah lived in the Canaan section of Tuftonborough. This was a section that looked to Moultonville in Ossipee for its community activities. When the Moultonville church was established in 1866, Robert and his brother were the first deacons. Hannah (Graves) Merrow died, probably in Canaan, 18 July 1869, age 61y 7mo 4da. Deacon Robert died, probably in Canaan, 17 April 1878. Both were buried in Moultonville.

Children:

iv. Edwin B., b. 31 Oct. 1833; d. in Canaan 22 Dec. 1858, age 25y 1mo 28da; buried in Moultonville.
v. Albert, b. about 1849. Though no one in any Ossipee branch of the family had ever heard of him, the census record of 1860 gave his age as 11y.

That of 1870 gave his age as 20y. Both records showed him living with Robert Merrow in Canaan.

583. JOHN WILLIAM[7] MERROW, 1820-1887, (Deacon Robert[6], James[5], Jonathan[4], Jonathan[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Ossipee, N.H., probably 20 Oct. 1820. Married Lydia A. Moulton in Chelsea, Mass., 28 Feb. 1844. She was born, probably in Moultonville, Ossipee, 21 Mar. 1823, daughter of John and Susan (Davis) Moulton. She was a sister of the Lorenzo Dow Moulton who married John William Merrow's cousin, Abigail Chapman Wallace Merrow. (See chapter, "Deacon Daniel Merrow of Ossipee".) John William and Lydia lived in Moultonville, where he built a house on a hill overlooking the mill pond and site of the former mill. This house burned in later years and was replaced by one owned in 1941 by Plummer Nichols. John W. Merrow was a general store keeper. He built his store near his house, the building, later known as the G. W. Bent store, now standing on the northerly side of the highway and close to the mill pond bridge. Found in 1942 was an old account book of his, marked "J. W. Merrow, Journal". It recorded the transactions of his customers from 9 Oct. 1877 to 14 June 1878. Excerpts from this journal which have interest to this history are quoted below. They reveal the buying habits of the times and the various prices charged.

In 1865 John William Merrow was master of the newly formed Ossipee Lodge of Masons. This organization, then in temporarily straightened circumstances, met in the attic over his store. While this was not considered a fitting place, it was the best that could be had at the time. Rent was $10. per year. He was selectman of Ossipee in 1861, 1862, chairman in 1863, and selectman again in 1879. He died in Moultonville 25 June 1888, age 65y 2mo 21da. Both were buried in Moultonville.

Children:

586. i. Georgiana A.[8], b. about 1844. She may have been adopted.
ii. Charles A., b. about 27 Aug. 1845; d. 27 Sept. 1851, age 6y 1mo; buried in Hodsdon Cemetery, Center Ossipee.

584. DANIEL[7] MERROW, 1823-1866, (Deacon Robert[6], James[5], Jonathan[4], Jonathan[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Ossipee, N.H., probably, about 17 Dec. 1823. He was called "Daniel Junior" to distinguish him from his uncle, Deacon Daniel Merrow, and from his cousin, Daniel Garland Merrow, both of whom lived in Ossipee contemporaneously. He was called also "Schoolmaster Daniel" because of his early occupation as a school teacher. From an interview in the Carroll County Pioneer of 22 Feb. 1935 comes this anecdote, "The first school Charles L. Connor attended he called the Welch School. His first teacher was Daniel Merrow, Jr....Charles L. Connor was in 1935 Ossipee's oldest inhabitant."

Daniel Merrow married Maria Elizabeth Brewster in Dover, N.H. She was born in Ossipee about 24 May 1833, daughter of John and Elizabeth (Colby) Brewster. Daniel and Maria Merrow lived in Center Ossipee on the River Road in a house occupied in 1945 by Mrs. Annie Nichols. Here their three children were born and from here he walked to his general store in Center Ossipee. This store was then located nearly opposite the house later occupied by his daughter, Josephine Merrow. It was later moved and converted into a dwelling. He was also postmaster, operator of a cooper shop, and was tax collector in 1859. He was a tall man and wore a shawl of the type shown in pictures of Abraham Lincoln. He died in Center Ossipee 28 June 1866, age 42y 6mo 11da, and was buried there.

Widow Maria, left with three small children, continued the store and was postmistress in 1885. She bought a house nearer her store and kept overnight lodgers, mostly traveling salesmen. To further eke out her income she kept horses and her son, Charles Appleton Merrow, drove these salesmen on their calls to adjacent towns. This house purchased by Maria Merrow was the one later owned by her daughter, Josephine, and was owned in 1945 by Carl Geiler. Maria Merrow died in Malden, Mass., 30 May 1913, and was buried in Center Ossipee.

Children:

i. Josephine Edna[8], b. 6 Oct. 1856; lived in Center Ossipee; never married; d. there 23 July 1937; buried there.

James[5], Jonathan[4], Jonathan[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Ossipee, N.H., 8 Dec. 1824. (Census of 1850 gave her age as 21, which if correct would place her birth in 1829.) Married, 1st, Joseph Frank Palmer who was born in Tuftonborough, N.H., about June 1828, son of Joseph and Lydia E. Palmer. Joseph and Emily Palmer lived at Dore's Corner in Ossipee, where he was a saw mill worker. He died there 11 Dec. 1861, age 33y 6mo, and was buried at Tuftonborough Corner.

Children:

i. Everett Palmer, b. 25 June 1853; d. 27 Nov. 1853, age 5mo 2da; buried at Tuftonborough Corner.

iii. Emma Josephine Palmer, b. 16 Feb. 1859; m. Charles Allen White; lived in Center Ossipee where he had a general store under the style of O.L. & C.A. White. He was b. in Ossipee 1 Sept. 1854, son of Allen and Elizabeth (Lougee) White. He d. in Center Ossipee 15 Feb. 1932 and she d. there 18 Feb. 1937. Only child:

Emily (Merrow) Palmer married, 2nd, Simeon Parker Wallace in Moultonville in 1867 or 1868. He was called Parker Wallace and was born in Ossipee 14 Feb. 1831, son of Samuel and Dolly (French) Wallace. This was his second marriage, his first wife having been Mehitable Welch. Parker and Emily Wallace lived at Dore's Corner, where he had a general store and was a manufacturer of pants. She died in Dore's Corner 7 Oct. 1894, age 69y 9mo 29da, and was buried in Chickville Cemetery in Ossipee. He married, 3rd, Josephine L. Hurd, it being her second marriage. He died in Ossipee 30 Nov. 1905, age 74y 9mo 16da, and was buried in Chickville.

Harry and Susan (Brooks) Wallace lived in Center Ossipee, where he was a grain merchant for 46 years. She d. there 12 Oct. 1939 and he d. in Moultonville 9 June 1943. No children.

586. GEORGIANA A.[8] (MERROW) HAMMOND, 1844-1880, (John William[7], Deacon Robert[6], James[5], Jonathan[4], Jonathan[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born, probably in Moultonville, Ossipee, N.H., about 1844. Married Alonzo L. Hammond in Ossipee on 4 Jan. 1863, according to N.H. marriage records. This date may be wrong when birth date of their oldest child is considered. Alonzo Hammond was born in Ossipee 12 Oct. 1838, son of Daniel B. and Eliza M. (Blake) Hammond. Alonzo and Georgiana Hammond were reported to have separated before 1880 and the census of that year showed their children to be living in the family of John William Merrow. The latter in his will said, " I give...to my adopted daughter, Bertha E. Hammond..." Residuary legatees were "Charles M. Hammond and Bertha E. Hammond, children that we have brought up from infancy and educated and provided for as for our own." Georgiana is thought to have died about 1880. Alonzo Hammond married again. His name first appeared in the Boston, Mass., directory of 1881, his occupation being given as packer. Death record of his son said he was "in the canning business". Alonzo Hammond died in Boston 19 Dec. 1923 and was buried in Evergreen Cemetery, Kingston, Mass. His second wife survived him.

Children, by 1st marriage:

i. Charles Merrow Hammond, b. 29 Dec. 1862. See chapter, "George Merrow of Eaton".

She was of Gray, Me., born in Scarboro, Me., about 29 June 1851, daughter of Albion King Parris and Mary D. (Perley) Larrabee. Charles Merrow was, first, a salesman for enlargement of daguerotype pictures, securing his business by soliciting from house to house in the outlying towns in the vicinity of Rochester, N.H. Later, he was an art dealer in Boston, Mass., first on Clarendon Street and still later on Columbus Avenue. He was a collector of paintings by the masters; was much of a wit; a tireless raconteur, and a poet. He died of heart disease in his studio 13 Feb. 1929 and was buried in Center Ossipee. She kept house for her then bachelor son, Ernest, and died at his summer home on Thorp's Island, Boothbay Harbor, Me., 21 Aug. 1929, age 88y 1mo 23da.

588. COLONEL LYFORD AMBROSE[8] MERROW, 1865-1925, (Daniel[7], Deacon Robert[6], James[5], Jonathan[4], Jonathan[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Center Ossipee, N.H., 8 Sept. 1865; born Thomas Lyford Ambrose, but he dropped the name Thomas. Married Elizabeth Rena McLauthlin in Malden, Mass., 17 Dec. 1902. She was born in East Bridgewater, Mass., 9 June 1867, daughter of Martin Parris and Elizabeth (Vincent) McLauthlin. She was a sister of the Sara Louise McLauthlin who married his nephew, Harold Kay Merrow. Elizabeth McLauthlin was a graduate of the Massachusetts School of Art.

Lyford Merrow attended the public schools in Ossipee and also studied at the New Hampton, N.H., Literary Institute. He came of Colonial and Revolutionary stock, his maternal ancestors having fought at Bunker Hill and with General Washington at Valley Forge. Though he maintained a residence in Malden, he was a life long legal resident of Center Ossipee, where he took a lively interest in business, financial, political, social, and philanthropic affairs and filled a position of leadership throughout his useful career. He was a business man and public official. The Encyclopedia of American Biology said of him, "After his formal schooling he received an excellent business training with the William A. Wood Company in Boston. For a quarter of a century he was with the Underhay Oil Company of Boston, a subsidiary of The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, of which he was during the last ten years of that period, the president. He also founded the New England Oil, Paint, and Varnish Company, being its president and treasurer; the Ossipee Water and Electric Company; and the Carroll County Land and Lumber Company. He was a director of the George T. McLauthlin Company of Boston."

"Colonel Merrow's State interests were practically unbounded. He was a member of the council of Gov. Henry B. Quinby in 1909 and 1910, and served as colonel of the staff of Gov. Chas. A. Buzzell. He was delegate-at-large to the Republican National Convention in Chicago in 1912; chairman of the committee on transportation for New Hampshire's economic survey; and a trustee of all State institutions by appointment of Gov. Roland H. Spaulding, with special work on State prisons and prison reform. He was a delegate in 1908 to the Republican National Convention. He was also a director of the Rochester (N.H.) Trust Company; member of the New Hampshire Committee of One Hundred on Public Safety; member of the New Hampshire Historical Society and the State Committee of the national organization to celebrate peace among the English-speaking peoples; member of the New Hampshire committee on the Pilgrim Memorial Fund"; and life member of the New England Genealogical and Historical Society. "He belonged, too, to the State committee on European children's funds, and the committee on dependent children for the New Hampshire Conference of Charities and Corrections in 1918."

"For six years, Colonel Merrow was chairman of the executive committee of the Young Men's Christian Association of New Hampshire, and he served also as district chairman of the United War Campaign of the State and as a member of the board of trustees of the Anti-Saloon League of America, associated with the New Hampshire department. He was moderator of the 121st annual Congregational convention in 1922, president of the New Hampshire Students' and Teachers' Association, and chairman of the New Hampshire committee to attend the Atlantic Deeper Waterways Association's convention in New York in 1912 and 1914, as well as delegate in 1915. He represented his State, too, in the National Economy League."

"As vice-president of the Ossipee Water and Electric Company, and as its treasurer, he served well his community. Here he served, too, as president of the Carroll County Independent, a local newspaper, and in 1921 built the excelsior mill. He was instrumental in securing the Historical Society Building and gave the Community House; was a trustee of the Public Library; was active in obtaining the Ossipee High School building; and was a leader in fraternal and social groups of widely varying types. He belonged to the Ossipee Lodge of Masons and the Ossipee Tribe of Red Men. He belonged to the Men's Club of the Ossipee Congregational Church, and was a deacon of his parish, and in 1917 and 1918 served as a member of the town war savings committee."

"Associated with many humanitarian enterprizes, he was at one time chairman of the finance committee of the Boston Morgan Memorial. He was executive committeman of the International Young Men's Christian Association and the International Council of Religious Education. A trustee of Bangor Seminary, he figured prominently in theological school work, and he was a trustee of Boston University, of which he was also treasurer at the time of his death. He was a member of the corporation and a trustee of the American Youth Foundation. Colonel Merrow won the esteem and respect of his associates and attracted a host of friends. He was kindly, generous, sympathetic, possessed a breadth of understanding and vision; lived in accordance with the loftiest of principles."

He died in Center Ossipee 4 July 1925. After his death his widow continued to live in Center Ossipee, where she was active in the social and community affairs of the locality. She died in Wolfeboro, N.H., 11 April 1947. Both were buried in Center Ossipee.

Chapter XXVII

SAMUEL MERROW, JUNIOR.

137. SAMUEL[3] MERROW, 1710-1786, (Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Reading, Mass., 9 May 1710. His first wife was named Abigail. No clue as to her maiden name, place or date of birth, or names of her parents has been found. Samuel and Abigail lived in Rochester, N.H., on a sixty acre farm he acquired by deed from his father. There, undoubtedly, he passed his life. This farm was deeded to him 15 July 1731, though it was not recorded until 2 July 1737. "I Samuel Merow of Dover...for...twenty pounds...pd by my son Samuel Merow of ye afors[d] Town...labour[r]...have sold unto him...a Certain Tract of Land Scituate & Lying & Being In y[e] Town of Rochester...Containing sixty acres...it Being y[e] Right to y[e] 83[d] Lott In y[e] first Division of s[d] Rochester."

Samuel Jr., together with his father and his brother Benjamin, was interested in the church affairs of this frontier town. In 1736/7 he joined with them and others in a petition to the General Assembly for a minister. On 6 May 1739 "Sam[ll] Merry Jun[r] entered into the covenant and was baptized... At y[e] same time Abigail y[e] wife of Sam[ll] Merry...renewed her Baptismal Cov[t]." "Samuel Marrow Juner of Rochester" made his mark 19 July 1737 on a note to Dudley Watson of Dover. "Samuel Merrow Jun[r]" was sued for non-payment 17 Aug. 1739. Samuel Merrow, husbandman, was sued 20 Nov. 1759 by Stephen Evans of Dover.

His 83rd lot in the first division figured several times in Strafford County deeds. Samuel Merrow mortgaged it 11 May 1744 for two hundred pounds a year. While no discharge appears on record, the obligation must have been paid because he sold this land to Stephen Starbird of Rochester, tailor, 15 April 1780. The consideration was thirty pounds and "also a Bond given by the said Starbird to me for the future support of myself and wife". The property sold was "the whole of my farm in Rochester...where I now live Containing Sixty Acres...together with all the Buildings thereon the said Farm is Bounded as follows viz. Easterly on the road (being the middle road so called) Northerly by lands of Joseph Pearl Westerly by the road & Southerly part by Lands of Solomon Perkins Together with twenty Acres...of land at Norway Plain so called in Rochester...which I purchased of my son Joseph." Two thirds of this farm was deeded back to Samuel, Jr., by Stephen Starbird and the latter's wife, Lydia, 28 April 1784. The consideration was only ten shillings and the property was "Forty acres & is the full two thirds of the Lot... Number Eighty three being the lot of Land on which I now live...& Joins on the Southwest on the other third which I before sold to Benjamin Dame." This indicates that Stephen Starbird had been living on this farm and, presumably, had been fulfilling his bond to maintain Samuel, Jr., and his wife while doing so. On May 3 1784 Samuel deeded half his farm to Richard Dame and the remainder to Joseph Pearl, mason and his adjoining neighbor. These deeds were recorded in 1786.

Abigail Merrow had died before 1771 for on 23 May 1771 he had married Sarah Starbird at Dover, N.H. Sarah was living as late as 3 May 1784 when both she and Samuel made their marks to the above deed of that date.

Samuel Merrow had evidently been a firm sympathizer with the cause of the Revolution as, indeed, had been most, but not all, of his neighbors. Three of his sons saw service in the Colonial militia. One of them, Joshua, later gained distinction in the Continental Army. After the Declaration of Independence 4 July 1776 the Continental Congress feared the danger to the American cause from the influence of the Tories, a numerous and powerful party from which more was to be feared than from open armed enemies. Congress, therefore, recommended that measures be taken "immediately to disarm all persons who were notoriously disaffected to the American cause, or should refuse to associate to defend by ARMS, the Colonies against the British". The New Hampshire Committee of Safety ordered every town to have all males over twenty-one years of age (lunatics, idiots, and negroes excepted) to sign a declaration of allegiance. This read, "we, the subscribers, do hereby solemnly engage and promise that we will do the utmost of our power, at the risk of our lives and fortunes, with arms (to) oppose the hostile proceedings of the British fleets and armies, against the American Colonies". To this Samuel Merrow and Samuel Merrow, Jr., were signers. Since Dr. Samuel was no longer living these signatures are interpreted to mean Samuel, Jr., as above known, and his son Samuel. In other words, the two men who signed were the son and and grandson of Dr. Samuel, both also named Samuel. Joshua Merrow was not a signer, probably being away on military duty. No other Merrow either signed or dissented.

Samuel Merrow, Jr., died, probably in Rochester, about 1786. He and Abigail had seven children, all probably born in Rochester. They are listed below, not necessarily in correct order of birth.

Children:

592. i. Joseph[4], bp. 6 May 1739. See chapter, "Joseph Merrow of Hubbardston Plantations".
ii. Mary, bp. 6 May 1739; mentioned in Rochester Church Book of Records as "Mary Merrey, daughter of Samuel Merry, Jr."; never married.
iii. Jonathan; not a signer of Rochester "Declaration of Allegiance" 15 Oct. 1776; never married.
iv. Ruth; never married.
593. v. Samuel, b. 1751.
594. vi. Joshua, b. 1753.
594a.vii. William, b. 1754; see chapter "William Merrow of Hollis and Standish, Me.

593. SAMUEL[4] MERROW, 1751- , (Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Rochester, N.H., in 1751. He was Corp. Samuel Merrow in Capt. Jonathan Wentworth's Company, Col. Poor's Regiment. This company was in camp at Winter Hill, Somerville, Mass., at the time of the Battle of Bunker Hill. Samuel enlisted 29 May 1775 and was then twenty four years old. (N.H. State Papers, Vol. 7, p10.) He was probably the Samuel Merrow who was a signer of the "Declaration of Allegiance" in Rochester 15 Oct. 1776.

Only one deed concerning him has been found in Strafford County records, as follows: "We, Solomon Perkins, Jun[r] & Samuel Merrow Jun[r] Both of the Town of Rochester...Yeomans for...Twenty Two Pounds ten shillings...Paid by Peter Stillings of the Town of Middleton so called...do sell...unto the said Peter Stillings...two whole Second Division lot of Land in Middletown Number Sixty originally granted to James Clements...also one half of Second Division Lot Number five granted Job Hussey By the purchasers of the Right of John Tufton Mason Esq[r]...& the said Perkins & Merrow Purchased the whole of said Land at a Public Vendue of Charles Baker in his Capacity as a collector for Middletown Proprietors...this thirty day of May...1774."

Samuel's wife's name in unknown. That he was living in Rochester in 1777 is apparent from the census of 1850 in which his son Joshua, then in Canaan, Me., gave his birthplace as New Hampshire. That Samuel might have been in nearby Shapleigh, Me., as early as 1786 is probable for in that year thirty four Shapleigh men sent a petition to the General Court of Massachusetts, complaining that Lebanon was inclined to tax them, as an adjacent plantation over which it felt it had some jurisdiction for taxing purposes. Sam Merry was a signer. That he had moved to Acton, which was then a part of Shapleigh, as early as 1788 is shown by a York County deed. In this Samuel Merrow of Shapleigh, yeoman, conveyed to Jethro Heard of the same town for a consideration of £42 "fifty acres of land in said Shapleigh and it lyeth in Range Eight and Number Seven in the first Division and it begins at the Northeast Corner of Moses Corsons Land." This was signed 14 June 1788 and recorded 31 Mar. 1790. Samuel Merrow signed his name. Of significance is the fact that his older brother, Joseph, owned the adjoining lot in Range Eight. That Samuel was living in Shapleigh as late as 1821 is demonstrated by another York County deed. In this Samuel Merrow of Shapleigh, husbandman, for $300. paid by Joseph Cowell of Lebanon, Me., yeoman, sold a "certain farm situate in Shapleigh aforesaid it being the same land I purchased of Elihu Hammond...excepting about thirteen acres I sold to Stephen Merrow and one acre I sold to William Tebbetts, also about two and half acres sold to Nath[1] Gerrish." 23 Feb. 1821; recorded 12 Apr. 1822. To this deed Samuel Merrow signed his name and Joshua Merrow, a witness, made his mark. In the above mentioned deed to William Tebbetts, dated 5 Nov. 1801 and recorded 21 Jan. 1809, the land was described as "beginning at the foot of the mountain called Tebbetses Mountain on the west side and lies on the south side of the aforesaid Tibbetts dwelling house." In the deed to Nathaniel Gerrish, dated 22 May 1816 and recorded 8 Sept. 1823, the land was described as "lays on the east side of the crossroads leading from Shapleigh corner to Jewett's mill, so called.

Date of Samuel's death has not been found, nor has his wife's. Of their children the names of six appeared in the genealogical work of Rev. Alonzo Hall Quint, Names of three others have been added as a result of years of search in the development of this history. Rev. Quint listed an Edward. This name had not at that time appeared in the family anywhere in New Hampshire or Maine, while the name of Edmund had been known. No trace of an Edward has been found that anyone in this branch, or time, would have heard of, but the history of an Edmund in close association with the children of this Samuel is known. Therefore, the conclusion is reached that Edward was an incorrect name in Rev. Quint's list and Edmund would have been correct. Rev. Quint did not list an Asa, but a man of this name lived in such close relationship with others of this family that it seems highly probable he was also a son of this Samuel. Likewise, Rev. Quint did not list an Isaac in this family. Yet an Isaac lived in Dearborn, Me., contemporaneously with other sons of Samuel. Isaac had come from Shapleigh, as had the others. He was of the right age to have been a son of Samuel, accordingly he is so placed as a matter of probability.

594. LIEUT. JOSHUA[4] MERROW, 1753-1808, (Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Rochester, N.H., in 1753. (William Trufant in affidavit to Society of Cincinnati placed this date as 1752.) Enlisted 30 May 1775 in Capt. Jonathan Wentworth's Company, Col. Poor's Regiment of New Hampshire Militia. He was then age 22 and a private. The Revolutionary War period is justly regarded as one of the most interesting periods of our nation's history. Its great principles of equal rights and free government and the blessings flowing from the Declaration of Independence are prized as of inestimable value, today no less than in other critical periods of our history. The Battle of Lexington was the signal for the yeomanry of New England to participate in a general uprising. Excitement was intense. Men instinctively sprang to arms. The militia of New Hampshire immediately poured in to join the patriot army around Boston, two regiments of New Hampshire troops being in this service. Immediately after the Battle of Bunker Hill a third regiment of militia, that of Col. Poor, moved into camp at Winter Hill, then Charlestown, but now Somerville, Mass. Here stood a fort during the siege of Boston, the location chosen because of its height, its proximity to Bunker Hill and its command of the Mystic River which flowed just at its foot. This fort held the river against an invading army.

After the Declaration of Independence 4 July 1776 the emphasis of army organization was on regular Continental troops, not to be confounded with the militia companies which were called into the field in times of emergency only. One of the regiments of New Hampshire troops in the Continental Army was commanded by Col. Nathan Hale. In Capt. Benjamin Titcomb's Company in this regiment was Ensign Joshua Merrow, appointed to this rank 30 May 1777 after an enlistment dating from 2 April 1777. This regiment was stationed at Fort Independence, near Ticonderoga, which was the rendezvous of New Hampshire troops.

In mid-July 1777 a strong English flotilla advanced to cooperate with Gen. Burgoyne's grand army. The Americans abandoned Fort Independence and Ticonderoga and retreated by boat through the lakes and also by land toward Saratoga. Great loss was suffered by both the retreating columns, that by land fareing the worse. Col. Hale's regiment formed a part of the rear guard. By reason of the great number of invalids and stragglers it was unable to keep up with the main body. It fell back six or seven miles, and, contrary to Gen. St. Clair's express orders, stopped short at Hubbardton. It was overtaken by the enemy on the morning of 6 July and sharply attacked. The regiment fled panic-stricken, leaving its colonel, adjutant, three captains, and two other officers, with one or two hundred men, prisoners of the enemy. Ensign Joshua Merrow was probably one of the "two other officers" because 24 Oct. 1777 his name appeared on a list of prisoners, dated at Albany, taken by Gen. J. Burgoyne and exchanged for prisoners taken by Maj. Gen. Gates. Ensign Merrow was exchanged for Ensign Johnson.

The Officers captured at Ticonderoga, when released, appealed to the State for clothing, e.g., "That at the sudden evacuation and precipitate retreat at Ticonderoga they lost all their Baggage & cloathing to a considerable amount, except what they had on, that afterward they were taken by the enemy & carried into Captivity, in which they suffered incredible hardships and must have perished but for the kindness of Capt. Freeman formerly of Boston now in Canada whose humanity prompted him to lend them One Hundred & Eighty Dollars, whereby they were able to procure themselves a scanty subsistence ....that after a long and tedious confinement they were exchanged & transported to New York where they were dismissed almost naked and destitute of every means of supporting themselves on the way home, which they could not have reached but for the Charitable assistance of the People by the way...."

"Wherefore they pray your honours to....replace their Loss....enable them to honourable discharge their Obligation to Capt. Freeman, & to equip themselves that they may speedily return to their Duty in their Respective Regiments." This was signed by, among others, Joshua Merrow. They received £100 each and the $180. for Capt. Freeman. (New Hampshire State Papers.)

In August and September 1779 New Hampshire troops were in Gen. Sullivan's expedition against the Seneca Indians with the mission of capturing Niagara, which mission failed. Several engagements took place against the Indian enemy led by the celebrated chief, Joseph Brant. New Hampshire troops under Poor sustained the brunt of this battle and behaved with great intrepidity. Col. Reid's regiment, formerly that of Col. Nathan Hale, was part of this force. Ensign Merrow was promoted 12 July 1780 to the rank of lieutenant. His regiment was stationed in that year at West Point and in New Jersey. In 1781 it marched to Virginia and was present at the surrender of the British Army under Cornwallis at Yorktown.

Lieut. Joshua Merrow had the distinction of being one of the thirty-one original members ofthe Society of the Cincinnati in New Hampshire. This organization says of itself: "The Society of the Cincinnati is the oldest organization of its kind in the United States and the precursor of the many hereditary military patriotic bodies now existing... With its roots bedded in the great struggle for independence, the Society can boast of carrying on with unbroken continuity an organization formed by the actual participants in the war of the Revolution..."

"Credit for organizing the Society has been ascribed to General Washington and others, but its inception belongs to Major Henry Knox, Chief of the Continental Artillery. Jefferson thus writes in his Diary under date of 16 March 1788: 'Baron Steuben has generally been suspected of having first suggested the idea of the self-styled Order of the Cincinnati. Mr. Adams tells me that in the year 1776 he had called at a tavern in New York to dine just at the moment when the British was landing at Frog's (Throg's) Neck. Washington, Lee, Knox, and Parsons came to the same tavern. He got into conversation with Knox. They talked of ancient history, of Fabius, who used to raise the Romans from dust; of the present contest &c; and Knox, in the course of the conversation, said he would wish for some ribbon to wear in his hat or in his button hole, to be transmitted to his descendents as a badge and a proof that he had fought in defence of their liberties. He spoke of it in such precise terms as showed he had resolved it in his mind before."

"After eight years of an unremitting and bloody struggle, the war of the Revolution was drawing to a close, and what was left of the army stationed in the cantonments on the banks of the Hudson would shortly be disbanded and depart for home... General Knox circulated among the officers in cantonment the draft of his articles of association... The following preamble presents clearly the reasons for the formation of the society: 'To perpetuate, therefore, as well the remembrance of this vast event as the mutual friendships which have been formed under the pressure of common danger, and, in some instances, cemented by the blood of the parties, the officers of the American Army do...constitute...themselves into one Society of Friends to endure as long as they shall endure, or any of their oldest male posterity, and in failure thereof the collateral branches who may be judged worthy of becoming its supporters and members... The officers of the American Army, having been generally taken from the citizens of America, possess high veneration for the character of that illustrious Roman, Lucius Quintius Cincinnattus; and being resolved to follow his example by returning to their citizenship, they think they may with propriety denominate themselves the Society of the Cincinnati.' "

"Societies were formed in the thirteen original States... The badge of membership, generally known as the Eagle, consists of a bald eagle in gold, with the head and tail enameled white, holding in its talons laurel branches, enameled green...bearing in its breast a medallion, enameled deep blue and bordered with white, showing three Roman senators presenting Cincinnatus with a sword and other military ensigns, while his wife stands at the door of their cottage, near which are a plow and other instruments of husbandry... The Eagle is suspended by a blue ribbon edged with white, emblematical of the union of the United States and France... The Eagle is permitted to be worn on the uniform of the United States and French army and navy."

William Sturgis Thompson in his book, "The Society of the Cincinnati", 1935, wrote: "That the Order of Tammany was established in order to offset the aristocratic or patrician tendencies of the Society of the Cincinnati is a statement that has gained widespread credence. It appears to be not founded on fact."

That Joshua Merrow lived in Lebanon, Me., is likely. Lebanon, though in Maine, is adjacent to Rochester. During the Revolution and even now Lebanon is a part of the group of towns for which Rochester is the trading center. This group includes towns on both sides of the State border. "A Joshua Merrow, supposed to be the same person (as Lieut. Joshua) was living on a lot that (in 1896 was) owned by the heirs of Charles B. Chamberlain. He sold this lot to Ralph Plaisdell in 1780 when he removed from town. His name is perpetuated in 'Merrow Bridge' and 'Merrow's Corner' near where his house once stood." (Soldiers of the Revolution of Lebanon, Me., by Geo. W. Chamberlain, p36.)

Lieut. Joshua Merrow married Margaret Garland, also called Peggy Garland, in Rochester 28 Oct. 1788. After the war they lived in Rochester and he was a farmer. According to the census of 1790 he was living there and in his family were two males under sixteen years of age. In 1800 he was living there and the census listed no other members of his family. He died, probably in Rochester, 20 May 1808.

601. i. Joshua[5], b. 1789.

601. JOSHUA[5] MERROW, 1789-1852, (Lieut. Joshua[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Rochester, N.H., in 1789. Married Nancy Hodgdon about 1806/7. She was born in Dover, N.H., about 1795, daughter of Moses Hodgdon. Her mother was, perhaps, Elizabeth Ham. Joshua Merrow was a goldsmith and lived in Farmington, N.H. The census of 1850 placed him there, age 60, with occupation farmer. Nancy was age 55 by the same census record. He died in Farmington in 1851, widow Nancy being appointed administratrix 16 June 1852. She died there 17 Feb. 1858, age 61y, cause of her death being stated in N.H. death records as "God killed her".

Married William Trufant, probably in Litchfield, Me., 22 Oct. 1842. (or in 1845, as stated in History of Litchfield.) He was born in Bowdoin, Me. about 1817, son of Stephen and Mary (Harmon) Trufant. 598 A. ADELINE BATCHELDER[6] (MERROW) CANNEY, 1816-1896, (Joshua[5] Lieut. Joshua[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Stratham, N.H., 3 July 1816. Her name, place of death, and date of death, are as given in her N.H. death record. Dover directories also used her name as Adeline B. Her grandson, Christopher Columbus Canney, confirmed her name as above given. She was called "Sarah Adeline" by Frederick Bacon Philbrook in his Lieut. Joshua Merrow genealogical chart.

She married Benjamin Rush Canney 16 July 1836. He was born in Farmington, N.H., 28 July 1815, son of Benjamin and Sarah (Roberts) Canney. Benjamin Rush Canney went to the Pacific Coast, Territory of Oregon, following the gold rush of 1849. When he returned, he and his wife separated. He went to Somersworth, N.H., to live with his sister, Susan W. (Canney) Hubbard. In Somersworth he was for a short time connected with the sash, door, and blind business of G.W. Hubbard & Co. In this business was his uncle, John Canney Nutter. After the business moved to Berwick, Me., Benjamin Rush Canney worked in Bagley's express office in Somersworth. He died there 18 Jan. 1888, age 72y 6mo, and was buried in Friends Cemetery in Meaderboro, Rochester, N.H.

Adeline Batchelder (Merrow) Canney went to Dover, N.H., to live. Her grandnephew, Oscar E. Nutter, in 1946 remembered her as a quiet home-loving person who seldom went out. He remembered going to the store for her to buy snuff when he was five years old. She died in Dover 31 Jan. 1896, age 79y 6mo 28da, and was buried in Meaderboro.

Of their children, the first four were listed in Census of 1850, b. in N.H. The next five were listed from gravestones in Meaderboro. There may have been one other child for Christopher Columbus Canney in 1946 remembered that he had been told his grandmother had two sets of twins. Two gravestones were confusing, one reading J.J.C., the other J.R.C. Quite obviously one was for daughter Josephine, while the other might have been for a possible twin to Josephine.

Merrow of Somersworth, N.H., she bought land in Litchfield, Me., 2 May 1839. Her brother was then living there (Kennebec County deed.) She married John W. Haggett in 1850. They lived in the last house at the top of Bear Mountain in North Turner, Me. At one time they lived in Farmington, N.H. John Haggett was a horse trader. That they were living in North Turner in 1873 is determined by a letter which in 1951 was in the possession of Mrs. Alice Etta (Patch) Mansur. This letter was written by Mary Jane Haggett 6 June 1873, then in Turner, to her husband, then in Bretton's Mills at Livermore, Me. John Haggett was killed by a horse in Maine about 1880. Mary Jane Haggett died in Farmington 25 June 1893, "widow", age 73y 15da, and was buried there.

600 A. MARY FRANCES[7] (MERROW) CHASE, 1842-1924, (Joshua Colwell[6], Joshua[5], Lieut. Joshua[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Litchfield, Me., 1 Dec. 1842; called "Fannie". Married Francis A. Chase in Boston, Mass., 6 March 1866. He was born in Vandalia, Ill., about 1841, son of Richard H. Chase. Francis and Fannie Chase lived in East Boston where he was a watchman. After his death she was a dressmaker and she died in Newton Center, Mass., 5 Dec. 1924. She was buried in Hampstead, N.H.

Only child:
i. Fannie May Southard Chase, b. 20 Mar. 1867; d. in infancy.

601 A. FRANK EDWIN[7] MERROW, 1862-1887, (Joshua Colwell[6], Joshua[5], Lieut. Joshua[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born, perhaps in Maine, in 1862. Both in his Lawrence, Mass., marriage record and in the Methuen, Mass., birth record of his son, his birthplace was given as Lawrence. However, there is no record of his birth there, or elsewhere in Mass. There is a possibility he was born in Maine.

He married Abby Ann Doloff in Lawrence 25 Feb. 1882. She was born there 7 April 1863, daughter of David Copp and Abby (Cummings) Doloff, who were both born in New Hampton or Meredith, N.H. Frank Edwin Merrow was a laundryman when married. He died in Danforth, Me., June 1887 and was buried in Bellevue Cemetery, Lawrence.

Child:

i. Frank[8], b. 19 April 1882 in Methuen. He was brought up under a different name, not Doloff. Since he was unaware that his name was ever Merrow, no further record of his history is entered here.

Chapter XXVIII

JOSEPH MERROW OF HUBBARDSTON PLATATIONS.

592. JOSEPH[4] MERROW, 1739-1799, (Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Rochester, N.H., and baptized there 6 May 1739, the baptismal record reading Joseph Merrey. Where he was living in early manhood can be deduced from two New Hampshire court records. Joseph Marrow, husbandman, was sued by Dodifer Garland "of Sumersworth" for 1500 feet of white pine boards to to be delivered at Garland's mill in Rochester, 19 Aug. 1760. Joseph Marrow of Lebanon, County of York, then Massachusetts, now Maine, sued Dodifer Garland 12 Aug. 1768 for failure to deliver "Five Pound Lawfull money worth in good merchantable Boards and Staves". Joseph had sold Garland, among other items, "116 lbs. of Beef at 5d per pound; 2 Bushels Corn at 4/6^{dn}; 4/^{lbs} of Pork at 7^{d}".

Joseph Merrow married Mary Dore, who was baptized in Rochester 3 March 1745/6, daughter of Philip and Lydia (Mason) Dore and a descendent of Richard Dore (or Door), who was a pew holder in the Church in Portsmouth in 1681. The first deed pertaining to Joseph Merrow is in York County records. "Ichabod Goodwin of Berwick...Gen...for...twenty pounds...Paid by Joseph Merro of a place called Labanon at the head of Berwick in said county husbandman...have...sold...a certain Lott of Land in the Newtownship at the head of Berwick called Lebnon...containing twenty acres being known by the name of the House Lot...number 26 in the Eastermost Range Laid out to the Original Right of Zebedie Chanler." 27 Oct. 1765. Joseph Marrow and Mary Marrow were members ofthe First Baptist Church in Sanford 20 July 1773.

Not until fifteen years later can Joseph be placed in Shapleigh by other York County deeds. "Benjamin Conner of a place called Shapleigh...yeoman for ...thirty thousand Dollars...paid by Joseph Merrow ofthe same place...yeoman ...have...sold One hundred and fifty acres of Land situate in the aforesaid Shapleigh...it is to be the one half of the southerly two thirds of the Lot No six and Range seven & also the one half of one third Part of the Lot No six in Range eight it being the Southerly part of said Lot..." 3 April 1780. A study of much later transactions involving these lots in which his sons and daughters figured definitely placed this land in the present town of Acton.

Rev. Amasa Loring in his "History of Shapleigh" said, "the white man first penetrated this howling wilderness in pursuit of game and timber,-nature's spontaneous production... The virgin soil bore a noble growth of pine and oak (with) lofty, straight, sound, and giant trunks. The finest lumber of every description (and) ship timber...could be found there in rich abundance. As it was not far from navigable waters its valleys, plains, and timber tracts were early threaded with logging roads over which the long pine and sturdy oak were hauled to Berwick and Portsmouth... The officers of the Crown explored these regions, and set the 'Broad Arrow' upon its largest pines, by which 'sign-royal' all persons were forbid to cut them, save for his Majesty's Navy."

"The title to its soil (for settlement) begun to be agitated about the time the first settlers 'lifted up the ax upon its thick trees'... The Crown of England had conferred York County...to Sir Fernando Gorges in 1639. In 1676, the Gorges heirs conveyed their right to the Colony of Massachusetts, except those tracts which had been deeded to individuals by the native (Indian) Sagamores. In 1661 Captain Sundra, an Indian Chief ofthe Ossipee tribe, deeded to Francis Small....the Ossipee tract." Francis Small deeded to Major Nicholas Shapleigh of Kittery an undivided half of all the lands conveyed by Sundra's deed. A long period of Indian wars suspended all new settlements.

"In 1770, the original 'Deed' from Captain Sundra was found by Nicholas Shapleigh's family among his papers, having been unrecorded for more than one hundred years. The heirs of Nicholas Shapleigh...took...measures 'to go up and possess' the land... They appointed Joshua Hubbard and Dependent Shapleigh a committee, which (in 1773)...cleared a small opening, enclosed it with a fence and planted it with corn, as a formal act of possession." By 1778 forty families were settled there.

"The proprietors on their records had usually called the place 'Shapleigh town'. By the settlers and in neighboring places it was called 'Hubbard's-town'. On March 5, 1785 it was incorporated as Shapleigh by an act of the General Court of Massachusetts." Recall that Maine was not set apart from Massachusetts as a separate state until 1820. The West Parish of Shapleigh was incorporated as a separate town under the name of Acton 6 Mar. 1830. In June 1844 some 600 or 800 acres joining the little Ossipee River and including Picket Mountain and Poverty Road were annexed to the town of Newfield.

It seems probable that Joseph Merrow and his family represented one of the first forty families, though we have no record of the exact time of his settlement there. There is documentary proof that he was there in 1783, for in that year Joseph Marrow of Hubbardston was sued by Stephen Evans of Dover, N.H., for non-payment of a note of 23 Nov. 1772 for £6:10s:3d. This note had been given at Dover. 2 July 1783 Joseph Merrow of Shapleigh, yeoman, was sued by Jonathan Gilman, Jr., of Shapleigh, yeoman, for non-payment of a note of 22 June 1781. This note promised to pay, for value received, fifteen bushels of rye. Joseph lost. 3 Oct. 1793, Joseph Merrow of Shapleigh, husbandman, gave a note to Jabez Jenkins of Sanford, York County, a sadler, for £9:16s. Jenkins sued for non-payment and was awarded judgement 24 June 1795. All these records were from the Mass. Suffolk County Court of Assistants.

In York County deeds in 1784 he was called "Joseph Merrow of Shapleightown, so-called...not incorporated", the non-incorporation refering to the town. From Philip Door of Shapleigh, yeoman, Joseph bought eight and one quarter acres of land in Shapleigh "by said Road two Rods below the burying place" 23 Feb. 1790. Philip Door, his wife's father, made his mark. James Door of Shapleigh, yeoman, sold to "Joseph Marrow of the same place...ten acres and a half" in the lot that Philip Door had sold to Joseph. This was dated 10 Feb. 1789 and recorded 30 May 1791. To this deed his daughter, Lydia Merrow, signed and Jonathan Merrow, presumable his son, made his mark. Both were witnesses. Joseph Merrow sold this land 30 May 1791 to James Carr of Somersworth. He sold to Jonathan Merrow and Benjamin Guptail, both of Shapleigh and both yeomen, Shapleigh land "containing Thirty eight Acres & one Quarter It being the same land which I the sd Joseph Merrow Purchased of Joseph Door", 14 Oct. 1790. (York County deed). Benjamin Guptail was probably Benjamin Guptail, husband of his daughter Abigail.

A more exact location of Joseph Merrow's homestead is contained in a York County deed of 28 Sept. 1790. "Joseph Merrow of Shapleigh...husbandman... for Two Hundred and Thirty five pounds...paid by Ichabod Rollins of Somersworth...Esq...have...sold...land in Shapleigh...it being my homestead where I now Dwell Begining at my SW corner Running Easterly by Elisha James crossing the Road heading from Lebanon to Shapleigh by land improved by Charles Grant from thence Northerly by James Hubbirt and Westerly & Northerly by Ichabod Goodwin from thence Westerly by Daniel Brackett crossing the above Road Westerly by Moses Cousson to my N.W. Corner...containing one hundred and ninety two acres...together with my house and all the buildings standing thereon." This he repurchased from Ichabod Rollins 10 Feb. 1798 "it being the homestead where he (Joseph) now dwells."

Joseph Marrow of Shapleigh was defendent in a suit for debt brought by William Duning Jr., of Harpswell, Me., 1 July 1795..."that Said Joseph at Shapleigh...on the seventeenth of February...seventeen hundred and ninety two...promised...to pay...the sum of twelve pounds...to be paid in neat stock...said stock or english goods...to be paid at Kennebunk: yet the said Joseph...has never paid neat stock or west india goods or english goods or the value thereof in money." Less than a year later, 26 April 1798, Joseph Merrow of Shapleigh was defendent in court against John Goodridge of Lebanon for failure to deliver merchantable lumber at "Quamphegon landing place". (York County Court of Common Pleas).

To his son, Joseph Merrow, Jr., he conveyed "the full third part of all my land in Shapleigh...the same to be Divided...being the same land...that I now dwell on the whole containing one hundred and sixty acres...and is bounded ...on the parsonage lot so called...and in part on Moses Nasson and Benjamin Guptail and being part of the same land I purchased of Conner and Jewett." Dated 13 April 1796.

Rev. Alonzo Hall Quint placed the time of Joseph's death about 1799. Nathan Goodwin in his "Book of Remarks", a manuscript of Maine Historical Society, placed his death 13 Dec. 1798. Widow Mary Merrow deeded to daughter Molly and Phebe Merrow, both of Shapleigh and both spinsters, forty acres and buildings in lot number six range seven. To this deed Mary made her mark 18 Dec. 1811. Simultaneously, Molly and Phebe gave a life lease "to our Honered mother...she to have the full enjoyment of the same, not making a strip or waste of the same, with the full liberty to cut as much fine wood as she shall have occasion for." Both Molly and Phebe made their marks. Both deed and lease were recorded 31 Oct. 1820. Widow Mary Merrow died 19 May 1822, according to Nathan Goodwin's "Book of Remarks".

Children:

602. i. Lydia[5], b. 1764.
603. ii. Abigail, b. 1768.
iii. Jonathan, b. 27 May 1770; never married; living in Shapleigh with his father in 1790; d. 27 Feb. 1837 and was buried in West Newfield. As to his date of birth there is conflict of authority. Rev. Quint said born in 1762. His gravestone in West Newfield said died at 86y 9mo. This would have placed his birth in 1750, a highly improbable date when viewed against the birth dates of his parents. Examination of the stone revealed that while the figures "86" are most likely they could have been intended for "66". This latter age year would have placed his birth at a much more probable time.
iv. Molly, or Mary, b. 15 Sept. 1772; called Mary Merry in deed of 1802 above. In 1811 she deeded land to her brother Abel. She m. Zachariah Nock (or Knox) of Newfield in Shapleigh 25 Oct. 1814 (int.) He was b. 24 Jan. 1750 and d. 1828. Molly was his second wife, for his first wife, named Margaret, was b. 24 July 1750. By his first wife Zachariah had had ten or more children, born between 1773 and 1798. In view of the late marriage of Zachariah and Molly it is probable they had no children. She d. 15 Dec. 1836 and was buried in West Newfield in the same lot with her brother Jonathan. Again there is perplexity concerning the age given on the stone. She was age 84y 3mo. If the stone cutter's "84" can be correctly interpreted as "64", then her date of birth would be plausible. On 19 Oct. 1824 Zachariah Nock and Molly, his wife, together with Amos and Phebe Merrow, sold to John Brackett of Shapleigh the 40 acres and buildings which Molly and Phebe had leased to their mother, Mary Merrow. All were then of Newfield.
604. v. Joseph, b. 4 Jan. 1778.
605. vi. Abel, b. Sept. 1780.
vii. Phebe, b. 23 May 1782; m. her cousin, Amos Merrow. See chapter, "William Merrow of Hollis and Standish".

602. LYDIA[5] (MERROW) (BRACKETT) TASKER, 1764- , (Joseph[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born, probably in Rochester, N.H., in 1764. She was a schoolteacher and had a withered arm. Married, 1st, Daniel Brackett in Shapleigh, Me., 1 Jan. 1789. Daniel Brackett was born in Berwick, Me., 2 Mar. 1750, son of John and Miriam (Thompson) Brackett. He was a 6th generation descendent of Anthony Brackett, who was a settler in Portsmouth, N.H., before 1640. (John[5], Samuel[4], Samuel[3], Thomas[2], Anthony[1]). In the marriage records kept by Elder Tozier Lord, who married them, her name was spelled Marrow. Elder Tozier Lord was an uncle of Lydia Merrow by marriage, he having married her mother's sister, Phoebe Dore.

Daniel Brackett had married, 1st, Mary Andrews in Berwick 3 Nov. 1774 and there had been five children by his first marriage. Daniel Brackett was living in that part of Shapleigh now Acton by 1790 and there he died between 1800 and 1810.

Children:

i. Ivory Brackett, b. 25 Nov. 1788 in Shapleigh. This date is on the authority of Brackett Genealogy by Herbert I. Brackett, as is the information on all other children. It is probable the year is inaccurate considering the marriage date of 1789. Ivory Brackett m. Sally Willey in Wolfeboro, N.H., 13 Mar. 1814. She was b. Sept. 1790, dau. of Nathaniel and Dorothy (Quimby) Willey of Wolfeboro. After the birth of their second child, Ivory Brackett and his wife moved to Bingham, then to Blanchard, and last to Waterville, all in Maine. He d. in Waterville 23 Aug. 1869. He was a farmer and drayman. She d. 22 Apr. 1867.

  VI. Irena Brackett, b. 25 June 1824; m. Leonard Holley; d. June 1873.
  VII. Betsy Crockett Brackett, b. 5 Aug. 1828; m. Charles Warren; d. Sept. 1905.

iv. Lucinda Brackett; m. Ebenezer Bickford.

Children:

III. Elizabeth Bickford; m. Willard Morse; one child.

Lydia (Merrow) Brackett married, 2nd, Samuel Tasker of Ossipee, N.H., 3 July 1910. Her birth date was given in the Ossipee Year Book of 1810 as 1776. Samuel Tasker was undoubtedly a descendent of the pioneer William Tasker, born in England and rated in Dover, N.H., in 1675. William Tasker lived in that part of Dover now Madbury. Samuel Tasker was an early settler of Ossipee, having been highway surveyor there in 1791. He had come from New Durham and his Ossipee farm was in the Leighton's Corner section. That he died before 1821 is evident for Lydia was described as a widow in the Ossipee Inventory book of that year. He may have died in 1812. She was living in 1860 in Ossipee and census records gave her age as 84y. No record of any children. They were probably buried on their Ossipee farm.

603. ABIGAIL[5] (MERROW) GUPTILL, 1768- , (Joseph[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Rochester, N.H., probably, in 1768. Married Benjamin Guptill in Shapleigh, Me., 25 Nov. 1790. They lived in Shapleigh in 1796 on the basis of a York County deed which placed them there at that time. Later, they lived in Newfield, Me.

Children:
i. Mary Guptill, b. 5 Feb. 1801; "1801 February 5 then was born Polly Guptill daughter of Benjamin Guptel and wife". (Newfield birth record in N.E. Historical and Genealogical Register", Oct. 1943.) She married James Garvin as his second wife 11 Jan. 1827. His first wife, whom he had married about 1817, was Nancy Philbrick, dau. of Eliphalet Philbrick of Wakefield, N.H. James and Nancy Garvin had one child who died young. Col. James Garvin was born 29 Sept. 1794, son of Ebenezer and Lydia (Wentworth) Garvin. He lived in Wakefield where he was selectman four years; representative to the Legislature in 1835, 1836, and 1837; sheriff of Carroll County 1840 to 1845. He d. 5 Feb. 1875 and Mary (Guptill) Garvin d. 3 June 1877. Both were buried in the Garvin Cemetery in Wakefield. Children:
   I. Nancy Garvin, b. June 1829; d. 6 Dec. 1832, age 3y 6mo; buried in Wakefield.
   II. John Wentworth Garvin, b. 20 Aug. 1832; lived in N.Y. City.
      Children:
      (1) Charles Parker Garvin.
      (2) Florence Garvin; m. a Mr. Jones.
      (3) Hattie Caroline Garvin.
ii. Phebe Guptill; m. Capt. Thomas Bond in Newfield 10 Mar. 1821 (pub.).. (Newfield vital record, which spelled her name Gubtell.) Capt. Thomas Bond was a son of William and Hannah C. Bond, and a brother of the distinguished Harvard astronomer, William Cranch Bond. Thomas Bond may have been born in England as was his sister, Thomasine Elizabeth (Bond) (Minot) Wilkins. He probably was brought up in Portland, Me., for history of his brother recounted how the latter early worked there in his father's watch store.
iii. James Guptill, b. 10 Apr. 1804; "1804 April ye 10th then was born James Gupteil a son of Benjamin and Abigail Gupteil". He was probably the child who died in infancy. (Newfield birth record in N.E. Historical & Genealogical Register, Oct. 1943.)
iv. Nancy Guptill, b. about 1805. There is no proof she was a daughter of these parents. In the Garvin Cemetery in Wakefield, where Mary (Guptill) Garvin above was buried, there is a gravestone which reads: "Nancy Guptill, wife of John N. Nutter, died March 1855, age 50 yrs." This Nancy Guptill would have been of the right age to have been a daughter of these parents.

604. LIEUT. JOSEPH[5] MERROW, 1778-1856, (Joseph[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Shapleigh, Me., in that part now Acton, 4 Jan. 1778. Married Mehitable Dore in Newfield, Me., 24 Oct. 1798. She was his first cousin, daughter of Benjamin and Sarah (Locke) Dore. She was born in Lebanon, Me., 2 May 1778. That this Joseph Merrow lived, first, in Shapleigh is apparent from two York County deeds. He purchased 3 Oct. 1798 one hundred and twenty eight acres in Shapleigh from Benjamin Guptill, husbandman. The latter was, presumably, his brother-in-law. Joseph was described as a yeoman. Joseph Merrow, "Labourer", deeded seventeen acres 10 Dec. 1798 in Lot six Range 7, 1st Division in Shapleigh, to Moses Nasson of Shapleigh, husbandman. This deed was signed by Joseph Merrow and his wife, "Maheta Bell Merrow". He was still there 6 Dec. 1801 when "Ichabod Goodwin of Berwick...Esquire...for...four dollars...sold...to Joseph Merrow of Shapleigh ...husbandman...all that parcel or tract of land lying on the west side of the road and bounded on the south by land of Ebenezer Parsons on the west end by John James land and on the north by land of Moses Cosens together with about forty acres on the east side of the road where the dwelling house now stands running by the road from Moses Nasons land and the last mentioned land which is part of a tract the aforesaid Joseph conveyed to me by his deed bearing date of the twelfth of March 1799." Recorded 3 Feb. 1803.

Early in the next year they still lived in Shapleigh for 28 June 1802 "Joseph Merrow of Shapleigh...yeoman...for...forty dollars...paid by Mary Merry of Shapleigh...spinster...sold...land being in lot number six and range seven and first division...begining at the southeast comer of the land owned by Moses Nason in said lot...to the land owned by Ichabod Goodwin...so...as...to make forty acres...I the said Joseph Merrow...do agree...I am the lawful owner."

Joseph and Mehitable moved to nearby West Newfield, Me., where they were the pioneer Merrows in this new town. He was a farmer there. Lieut. Joseph ran true to the form set by four generations of his ancestors. Each had in turn pioneered in a new community. About the incorporation of Newfield, C. W. Tuttle in Maine Genealogist and Biographer, Vol. III, 1877/8, told of a petition to the General Court of Massachusetts, 26 Dec. 1793, which read "The inhabitants of the Plantation of Washington...pray that your honours would be pleased to incorporate the said plantation into a town by the name of Washington, or any other name your honors shall think proper." The petition was granted but the name given was Newfield. No Merrow signed this petition, probably for the reason none then lived there. However, "according to the historical sketch of Newfield by Charles L. Clifford there were many persons living in Newfield in 1793 whose names were not on this petition... Many years ago an intelligent correspondent living in Newfield sent me the names of a number of persons, heads of families, and the dates of their settling there..." In this list was "1802, Joseph Merrow, from Rochester, N.H." This date is supported by a deed 21 July 1803 to Joseph Merrow, yeoman, of Newfield, from Thomas Davis of Newfield, gentleman, for fifty acres in Newfield "reserving to the proprietors of Washington mines company all the metalick oars of all kinds on the said land and privilege of digging & carrying to work of said oars." This land Joseph Merrow mortgaged 12 Aug. 1803 to Boston Bank, he signed and Mehitable made her mark.

That he had the military title of lieutenant is on the authority of Rev. Alonzo Hall Quint and Joseph Merrow is reported to have served in the War of 1812, but no military record has been found. In several York County deeds he was called "Deacon Joseph Merrow". The census of 1810 showed him to have been living in Newfield with his wife and two children, both males, one age 10 to 16, and the other under ten. A study of York County deeds places his farm on Lot 10, Range G, as is shown under the names of his sons James, Charles, and Joseph. Lieut. Joseph Merrow died in West Newfield 15 May 1856. Mehitable died there 4 Sept. 1865.

Children:

605. i. Joseph[6], b. 6 May 1799.
ii. Sally, b. 11 Oct. 1801; "1801 October ye 11th then was born Sally Merrow". (Newfield vital records in N.E. Historical & Genealogical Register, Oct.

1943.) Since Sally never again appeared in any record or in the remembrance of those in this branch of the family, it is presumed she died young.

iii. Mehitable, b. 23 Dec. 1803; m. Samuel Perkins of Wakefield, N.H., in Newfield 17 Oct. 1841. They lived in West Newfield on a farm across the road from that of her brother, Joseph[6] Merrow. Her nephew, Joseph[7] Merrow later lived there. Only the barn was standing in 1941, but this burned in a forest fire in 1947.

606. iv. Mary, b. 7 Feb. 1806.

v. Patience; never married; lived in West Newfield and kept house for herself and her brother Ezekiel.

Adams of Wolfeborough, N.H., quitclaimed to Ezekiel Merrow "all that part of the estate of the late Samuel Gile...containing nineteen acres ...also sixty acres in Newfield and being part of lot numbered eleven on Range E and the same conveyed by said Ezekiel Merrow to Eben Boothby and Samuel C. Adams, deceased, by his deed of January 28, 1847."

608. ix. Charles, b. 3 Mar. 1816.

605. JOSEPH[6] MERROW, 1799-1862, (Lieut. Joseph[5], Joseph[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in West Newfield, Me., 6 May 1799. Married Lucy Davis in Newfield 10 July 1823. She was born in West Newfield 3 Oct. 1803, daughter of Joseph D. and Mehitable (Nason) Davis. She was a half-sister of the Hannah Davis who married Joseph Merrow's brother Charles. Joseph and Lucy Merrow lived in West Newfield where he was a farmer. Their granddaughter, Marion Jane (Ricker) Sargent, who supplied much information for this chapter, said in speaking of their doctor sons, "I cannot refrain from saying these doctors were illustrious men, sons of an unusual woman---Lucy Davis."

"I, Joseph B. Davis of Newfield, County of York...in consideration of ten hundred and fifty dollars paid by Augustus D. Davis and James M. Merrow of said Newfield...physicians...do...sell...unto (them) a certain parcel of land situate in Newfield...and bounded as follows: viz. on the East by road leading to Davis & Nutters Mills to North Shapleigh, on the south by lands of Stephen Gile and Nathan Clifford, on the West by land of A.D. Merrow & on the North by land formerly owned by Captain Thomas Bond with the building thereon standing meaning...that part of the premises known as the 'Old Neally farm' which lies east of the road mentioned and formerly occupied by Joseph Merrow, Jun[r], also two other parcels of land lying west of the above named Neally farm & connected with it...." 12 Dec. 1862. Dr. James M. Merrow sold his part to Dr. Augustus Davis Merrow 23 March 1867.

Joseph Merrow died in West Newfield 6 April 1862, age 62y. Lucy Merrow died, probably there, 11 Nov. 1887, age 84y. Both were buried in West Newfield.

Children:

609. i. Elizabeth[7], b. 23 Feb. 1824.

Regiment and rose to be medical director in the army. At the close of the war resumed his profession in Jacksonville, Fla. He had been home (West Newfield) but a few months when he died. Dr. Merrow held a high rank in his profession and was widely esteemed." (New England Historic & Genealogical Register, Vol. 24, p442.) "He was from Rollinsford (N.H.) and the original Assistant-Surgeon; appointed Surgeon...and was mustered out...June 21, 1864."

(History of 2nd N.H. Vol. Inf. in War of the Rebellion, Martin A. Haynes, 1896, p151.) James Munroe Merrow never married; d. 19 Jan. 1870; buried in West Newfield.

x. Frances A., b. 8 May 1837; b. and d. on her father's farm; m. Adelbert Oliver Thurston in Wakefield, N.H., 5 Feb. 1885. He was b. in Freedom, N.H., 29 Sept. 1856, son of Oliver and Martha Ann (Hurd) Thurston. He was an 8th generation descendent of Daniel Thurston who lived in Newbury, Mass., in 1655. Adelbert Thurston was a farmer. Frances d. in West Newfield 16 April 1922. Adelbert Thurston d. there 21 Mar. 1936. Both were buried in Merrow cemetery on this farm. In 1944 the farm was owned and occupied by Nelson Peters, whose wife was a niece of Adelbert Thurston. No children.

606. MARY[6] (MERROW) TUTTLE, 1806-1845, (Lieut. Joseph[5], Joseph[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in West Newfield, Me., 7 Feb. 1806. Married Moses Tuttle, who was born 26 July 1803, son of James and Joanna (Roberts) Tuttle. He was a 6th generation descendent of John Tuttle, the immigrant ancestor of the New England Tuttles who came from Bristol, England, in the "Angel Gabriel" in 1635 and was among the first settlers of Dover, N.H. (James[5], John[4], Ensign John[3], Judge John[2], John[1]). Moses and Mary Tuttle lived in West Newfield where she died 24 Aug. 1845. Moses Tuttle married, 2nd, Lydia P., daughter of John and Judith Brock. Moses Tuttle died in Cambridge, Mass., 28 Oct. 1859. Lydia Tuttle died there 30 Nov. 1884, age 74y 4mo 27da. 607. JAMES[6] MERROW, 1810-1875, (Lieut. Joseph[5], Joseph[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in West Newfield, Me., in 1810. Married Betsy Marr, who was probably the daughter and only child of James and Lydia (Hobson) Marr. They had a daughter of this name according to the Genealogy of the Hobson Family of Buxton, Me., by J. M. Bailey. Some descendents of James and Betsy Merrow reported her maiden name to have been Hobson, but death records of two of their sons gave her maiden name as Marr. The record of Almon Hobson Merrow said she was of Buxton, Me., while that of Daniel Fuller Merrow said she was of Steep Falls, Me. Betsy Marr was a seventh generation descendent of William Hobson who came from England and settled in Rowley, Mass. about 1650. (Lydia[6], Joseph[5], William[4], Jeremiah[3], William[2], William[1]).

That James and Betsy Merrow lived in West Newfield on the farm that had been his father's or on a portion of it, is evidenced by York County deeds. In 1833 he bought for $160. from William P. Langley of Newfield 16 acres, part of Lot 10, Range G, "being the northeast corner of land sold by Joseph Merrow to Daniel Nealey"; recorded 1837. From John Adams, Jr., of Newfield, James Merrow purchased 40 acres more for $250. on Lot 10, Range G. This was more of the land Joseph Merrow had sold to Daniel Nealey. In this deed, dated 12 Nov. 1836, James was identified as "husbandman".

He sold to his brother Charles 18 Oct. 1839 sixty acres in Newfield in Lot 11, Range F. James Merrow and Charles Merrow, both of Newfield, together bought one acre and a half from Andrew Drew, Jr., 5 Nov. 1846. James Merrow mortgaged to Phebe A. Holt of Newfield, single-woman, for $150, Newfield property being "the premises I now occupy and which James McClaren, Jr., conveyed to me...Nov. 10, 1850." This deed was signed 31 Mar. 1856. Ten years later he bought land in Newfield bounded "to land of Charles Merrow". That James Merrow and his brother Charles lived adjacent to each other in West Newfield is shown by a deed from James to Samuel C. Adams in 1870. In this deed the property was described as a "portion of the farm of the late Dea. Joseph Merrow held in Common and undivided"..."and we Charles Merrow and Hannah Merrow wife of said Charles who are occupants of the premises agree to the division." Charles and Hannah were left in possession of a half and Samuel C. Adams had the other half, James reserving a lane to reach the land he had purchased of Joseph Towne. This deed to Adams may have been a mortgage. (York County deeds.)

And now for the history of the silver mine! James Merrow gave his bond 20 Aug. 1875 "to Thomas M. Davis and his associates of Newfield in the sum of One hundred thousand dollars...The condition of this obligation is that if the said James Merrow upon payment of seventy five dollars per acre within 34 months...shall convey to said Thomas M. Davis...to be held in common and undivided with him...land...in said Newfield...as follows:

"My homestead farm whereon I now live, including the Town's lot...containing sixty acres...or as much thereof as T.M. Davis wants for mining purposes...shall permit them, the said Thomas M. Davis and his associates, in the meantime to dig, blow, and blast the rocks thereon...and dig excavate and mine in said land to any depths...for silver, lead, iron, or other metals or minerals...allowing...James Merrow...one eight part of...benefit and profits." (York County deed.)

James Merrow died 9 Sept. 1875. Betsy died 10 Jan. 1879. Both were buried at North Shapleigh, Me.

Children:

i. Daniel W., b. 15 Apr. 1837; d. 15 Feb. 1850, age 12y 9mo; buried in No. Shapleigh.

615. ii. Almon Hobson, b. 22 Apr. 1841.

iii. Mary Abbie, b. 1 Feb. 1849; d. 1 Oct. 1864, age 15y 9mo; buried in No. Shapleigh.

616. iv. Daniel Fuller, b. 5 Mar. 1851.

608. CHARLES[6] MERROW, 1816-1899, (Lieut. Joseph[5], Joseph[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in West Newfield, Me., 3 March 1816. Married Hannah Davis in Newfield 16 Oct. 1842. She was born in West Newfield 16 Jan. 1816, daughter of Joseph D. and Mercy (Bullock) Davis. She was a half sister of the Lucy Davis who had married his older brother Joseph. They lived for many years in West Newfield on the farm which had been his father's, or at least on part of it. This conclusion is based on various York County deeds, excerpts from which are quoted below. Charles Merrow purchased 18 Oct. 1839 from his brother James for one dollar "land lying in said town containing sixty acres". This land he sold 29 April 1841 to his brother Exekiel. Charles Merrow bought 17 Mar. 1840 from John Ham, Jr., of Newfield for $255.

a "certain farm situated in Newfield bounded as follows: viz. North by land of David S. Ham, West by land of William Gowen, South and East by the land of Samuel Huse & Co." He bought 26 April 1841 from Nathan Clifford for $1. one acre in Newfield "on which is situated the Moses Tuttle House." Moses Tuttle was his brother-in-law, husband of his sister Mary. That Charles owned more of his father's original farm is shown by a mortgage given by him for five years for "$834.22 on 3 Oct. 1842:" "That whereas the farm on which Charles Merrow now lives, called the Deacon Joseph Merrow Farm, is in my hands, except the piece called the Moses Tuttle piece, being one acre..."

Further land transactions in Newfield were in the name of his wife Hannah. Samuel C. Adams of Newfield sold to Hannah Merrow "wife of Charles Merrow of Newfield...real estate in Newfield...being one-half the farm formerly owned by Deacon Joseph Merrow." Olive Anne Towne of Newfield sold 12 April 1875 to Hannah Merrow of Newfield land in Newfield bounded "on the east by land of James Merrow containing 58 acres with all buildings thereon." Lucy H. Davis sold to Hannah Merrow 30 Mar. 1876 fifty acres in Range N, Newfield, together with the land and buildings thereon.

Charles and Hannah Merrow moved to East Wakefield probably about 1882 for on 2 May 1882 there was "reference made this day of said premises (in East Wakefield) from Charles and Hannah Merrow to Herman O. Reed." Hannah held Reed's mortgage. Charles Merrow was always a farmer. He died in East Wakefield 30 May 1899, age 83y 5mos. Hannah died in West Newfield 30 Dec. 1903. Both were buried in West Newfield.

Children:

i. Francis E.[7], b. about 16 Oct. 1844; never married; d. of phthisis at Cony Hospital, Augusta, Me., 16 Jan. 1865; buried in West Newfield; age 20y 3mo. He had enlisted in Co. I, 1st Me. Cav., 27 Aug. 1862, in which enlistment he was described as a farmer, age 18, born and residing in Newfield. His will, made 3 Jan. 1865 and proved 7 Mar. 1865, read "I Francis E. Chapter XXIX

WILLIAM MERROW OF HOLLIS AND STANDISH, ME.

595. WILLIAM[4] MERROW, 1754-1836, (Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Rochester, N.H., in 1754. "May 14, 1774. William Merry of Pepperrellborough & Margaret Haley of Biddeford" were married, probably in Biddeford, Me., as the foregoing notation was taken from Marriages by Moses Merrill as recorded in First Congregational Church in Biddeford. Margaret Haley was born 10 March 1755, probably in Biddeford. She was a twin sister of Charity Haley and was a daughter of William and Rachel (Edgecomb) Haley. She was a fifth generation descendent of Thomas Haley who had come from England and was a juryman at "Saco in the Province of Mayne". Rev. Alonzo Hall Quint said she was "daughter of Benjamin Haley of Winter Harbor". Winter Harbor is now Biddeford and the house her grandfather, William Haley, built there was standing as late as 1916.

William Merrow was a soldier of the Revolution. The Essex Gazette of Salem, Mass., in 1775 has the first record of him:

> "MERRY. Deserted from Capt. Theodore Bliss' Company, in Col. Patterson's Regiment in Charlestown Camp, William Merry of Biddeford in Saco, about 5 feet 3 inches high, of a thick stature, very large legs, had on a fustion coat, striped gingham waistcoat, and a pair of velvet breeches."
> "Whoever takes up said Merry shall be rewarded and all necessary charges paid by Capt. Bliss, Capt."

That he had other Revolutionary history is shown by records from Mass. Soldiers and Sailors of the Revolution: "William Merry of Biddeford. Private, Capt. Theodore Bliss's Co., Col. John Patterson's regt.; company return probably dated Oct. 1775. Also list of men raised in York County for the term of 9 months from the time of their arrival at Fishkill, agreable to resolve of April 20, 1778; residence, Biddeford; engaged for town of Bedford; arrived at Fishkill, June 4, 1778." His name appeared as William Merrow in a list of "Soldiers of the American Revolution who applied for Maine State Bounty". In this list William Merrow was shown as having served from Biddeford and his residence was then given as Standish, Me., and his wife was named as Margaret Merrow of Standish.

William Merrow of Littlefalls in the County of York yeoman bought from Josiah Waters of Boston "land situated in Littlefalls aforesaid---being part of the land set off to me by order of the Supreme Judicial Court of the Commonwealth (of Mass.) bounded as follows begining at an alder bush...four rods Southeast from a pitch pine tree...marked on four sides, near a large spring on Cooks line; thence North West fifty rods to a pitch pine tree marked on four sides; thence South twenty five and one half degrees East sixty rods to the brook... containing fifty acres excepting one half the Clay pit contained within the above premises to be used and improved as I the s[d] Waters may direct with the free and uninterrupted Cart and passage way thereunto forever." 6 Nov. 1789; recorded 30 Aug. 1792.

"William Merrow of the Plantation of Littlefalls in the County of York yeoman Plat. against John Hill of said Littlefalls yeoman in a plea of trespass for...the said John at Littlefalls...on the first day of September 1790 & on divers other days...with force & arms broke & entered the Plat. Close & with force destroyed took and carried the Plat. grass."

Ten years later, 3 Nov. 1800, William Merrow sold this property to Timothy Barker of North Yarmouth, Maine, for $430. In this deed he was called William Merry but signed William Merrow. Margaret Merrow made her mark. In this deed William was described as a cordwainer of Phillipsburg and the property was described as being in that place. The confusion of names is clarified by the knowledge that this portion of Littlefalls became Phillipsburg and later Hollis. Hollis is on the South bank of the Saco River. About this time they moved to Standish, Me., the next town upstream and on the north bank of the Saco, for the Standish record of marriages show four marriages of their daughters between 1805 and 1814. They were living there in 1807 is shown by a York County Court of Common Pleas record in which William Merrow of Standish, cordwainer, was plaintiff in an action of debt against James Cockran of Buxton, physician, 20 Sept. 1806.

William Merrow died in Standish 12 March 1836. Widow Margaret Merrow, age 86y, was living there 1 June 1840 in the home of her son-in-law, Samuel Fowler Boulter. She died, probably in Standish, 13 Feb. 1841, age 87y, and was buried on the Boulter farm there. Very likely William Merrow is also buried there and in an unmarked grave.

635. MARY[5] (MERROW) YORK, 1775- , (William[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Hollis, or Standish, Me., in 1775. Married Isaac York in Standish 20 Oct. 1805, the marriage being by John Dean, Esq. Both were then of Standish. (mss. vital records of Standish in library of New England Historic Genealogical Society.) That they lived in Standish is evidenced by the following from Libby Family by C.T. Libby, p507:

Charity York, dau. of Isaac and Mary (Maro) York of STANDISH, married Jacob Bradbury Libby 31 July 1837. He was born in Buxton, Me. They lived on farms in Buxton, where he d. 1 Mar. 1862 and she d. 16 Oct. 1872.

636. CHARITY[5] (MERROW) BOULTER, 1777-1869, (William[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born, probably, in Pepperrellborough, now Biddeford, Me., though she may have been born in Hollis, Me., in March 1777. "Samuel Fowler Boulter of Standish to Charity Merrow of Phillipsburg 7 Dec. 1799" reads Standish marriage records. He was born in Scarborough or Standish, Me., in 1775, son of Capt. Nathaniel and Ruth Boulter. Samuel Boulter bought from his brother-in-law, Joseph Merrow, and from his wife's father the family farm in Standish 18 Aug. 1821. G.T. Ridlon in Saco Valley Settlements and Families said he lived on his father's homestead in Standish. He died, probably in Standish, 31 July 1857, age 82y 7mo. She died, probably there, 17 July 1869, age 92y 4mo. They were buried in the Boulter graveyard in the pasture near their farmhouse.

Children: (G.T. Ridlon in Saco Valley Families gave their eldest child as Deacon John Boulter. It seems doubtful if this report is accurate for, from the age at death given by Mr. Ridlon, Deacon John Boulter was born six years before Samuel Boulter married Charity Merrow. Deacon John Boulter m., 1st, Mary Whitney in Standish 29 Oct. 1816. She d. 22 Jan. 1835, age 26y 8mo, and he m., 2nd, Eunice Merrill of Limington, Me., Aug. 1835. They lived in the Boulter neighborhood in Standish and he was a farmer.)

i. Isaac Boulter, b. about 1803; m. Hannah Rackliff of Standish 30 Mar. 1831. He d. 13 June 1833, age 30y, and she m., 2nd, John A. Eaton of Buxton, Me., 19 Nov. 1837.

ii. Grace T. Boulter, b. about 1806; m. Eli Thomas of Buxton, Me., 24 Feb. 1839. She d. 3 May 1853, age 47y.

iii. James Boulter; m. Ruth H. Hancock of Hiram, Me., 16 Jan. 1830. She d. Jan. 1835, age 26y.
Children:
I. Martha F. Boulter; d. 27 Dec. 1849, age 19y.
II. Almeda Boulter; d. 22 Aug. 1834, age 2y.
James Boulter m., 2nd, Abigail Merrill of Cornish, Me.
Child:
III. James G. Boulter; d. 14 Oct. 1840, age 12mo 25da. James Boulter James Boulter also had a child, Albanus K.M. Boulter, who d. 22 Apr. 1845. It is not known to which marriage this child was born.

iv. Jane Boulter, b. about 1809; m. William A. Dresser of Buxton in Standish 10 Sept. 1829. She d. in Bangor, Me., 6 Sept. 1847, age 38y. Another Standish marriage record seems to indicate a second marriage for William Dresser. "William A. Dresser of Bangor married Charity Ann Boulter in Standish 15 Sept. 1848." Etta Edna (Black) Riley had an unconfirmed report that William Dresser's wives were sisters. If so, then Charity Ann was a daughter of Samuel and Charity Boulter.

v. Amos Boulter, b. about 1814; m., 1st, Emily C. Usher of Hollis 29 Dec. 1851 (int.) She was b. 22 Feb. 1824, dau. of Col. Abijah and Susan (Nason) Usher. She d. 19 Mar. 1852, age 28y, and he m., 2nd, Mary Davis of Standish 24 Feb. 1867 (int.) They were living on the homestead in Standish about 1894 and his age wasthen "rising 80y". He was a farmer and lumber man.
Child, by 2nd wife:
I. Amos W. Boulter; d. 16 May 1878, age 5y.

637. AMOS[5] MERROW, 1780-1867, (William[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Hollis, Me., 16 May 1780. Married his first cousin, Phebe Merrow, probably in Shapleigh, Me., 26 March 1818, marriage being performed by William Goding, Justice of the Peace. They were then both of Shapleigh. She was born 23 May 1782, daughter of Joseph and Mary (Dore) Merrow. (See chapter: "Joseph Merrow of Hubbardston Plantations".) Amos and Phebe Merrow were living as late as Aug. 1823 in Shapleigh, now Acton, on the farm which had been his father's and which they shared in common with her brother, Abel Merrow. (See chapter: "Abel Merrow of Acton".) This is attested by a York County deed, "Whereas Peter Wallingford & Moses Hemingway, both of Shapleigh...traders...recovered judgement against Amos Merrow of said Shapleigh, yeoman, for the sum of thirty-two dollars and sixty nine cents, damage"... the appraisers awarded land "Lying in Shapleigh, containing forty acres, more or less, with the buildings thereon, and is bounded as follows: viz. begining at the southeast corner of land owned by Andrew Lois at the road, then southerly by the town road forty three rods to land of Ichabod Goodwin"..."being in and a part of lot number six in the seventh range and first division of lands in Shapleigh, and the same on which the debtor now lives, which said tract & its appurtenances the debtor within named owns one-half in common and undivided ...we have set off and assigned to the within named creditor two fifths of the debtors half part, in common and undivided...this first day of August 1823."

Amos Merrow was a farmer and lived with his wife later in West Newfield, Me., where he died 23 May 1867, age 87y 7da. She died there 8 Dec. 1865, age 83y 6mo 15da. Both were buried in West Newfield. These dates were taken from gravestones. They disagree with those in New England Historical & Genealogical Register, vol. 22, p358, which gave his death at Newfield 23 May 1866 and her death there 8 Dec. 1866.

Children:

i. Mary[6], b. 12 June 1817. This date is from her gravestone by subtraction from date of death. Considering marriage date of parents, it is probably incorrect, perhaps 1818 being more nearly accurate. She married Benjamin Murray as his second or third wife 13 April 1871. Grace Lillian (Wentworth) Wood remembered that "they lived, first, at Limerick, Me., at a little settlement called Stimpson's Mills. There were a few houses and a grist mill there and Uncle Ben tended the mill. The old mill and the house they lived in have been gone many years. From there they moved to Davis' Mills in Newfield. Here were two grist mills and he tended one of them. I remember just how he looked with flour dust on his broad-brimmed hat." Mary died 15 Nov. 1890, age 73y 5mo 3da and was buried in West Newfield. No children.

640. ii. William, b. 5 Nov. 1819.

638. JOSEPH[5] MERROW, 1787- , (William[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Hollis, Me., in 1787. Married Isabella Hutchinson. Intentions were filed in Standish 26 June 1814 and her name was given as Isabel Hutchins. They were married 9 Oct. 1814 by Rev. Caleb Bradley of Westbrook, Me. She was then of Falmouth, Me., born in the north of Ireland about 6 Dec. 1793. Joseph Merrow served as ensign in Capt. James Ayers Co., 1st Mass. Regiment, in the War of 1812 and was discharged at Kittery, Me. Joseph and Isabella Merrow lived in Standish, Me. A Cumberland County deed 13 Aug. 1818 showed him to have been the purchaser of a piece of property owned by "William Marrow" of Standish at a public sale for unpaid U.S. direct tax of $2.57. On 18 Aug. 1821 "William Merrow and Joseph Merrow, both of Standish, sold to Samuel Boulter, Joseph's brother-in-law, the "same farm on which we have lived in Standish for fifteen years. Date of Joseph's death has not been found. Isabella died in Cambridge, Mass., 31 Dec. 1857. Mrs. Maud (Merrow) O'Reilly reported he was known as Joseph Merry. She also reported Isabella to have died in Portland, which suggests she may have been buried there.

Children (perhaps an incomplete list):

i. Mary Jane[6], b. 10 Jan. 1816; name of parents and date of birth from Standish birth records. Nothing more known of her.

641. ii. William Henry, b. 15 Feb. 1819.

642. iii. Sarah H., b. 16 July 1821.

iv. Isabella, b. about 1826; d. in Cambridge, single, 31 Dec. 1857; Mass. death record said "b. in Portland".

643. v. Julia Ann, b. 12 Jan. 1827.

639. ABIGAIL[5] (MERROW) DYER, 1791-1882, (William[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Hollis or Standish, Me., 20 Sept. 1791. That she was of Standish in 1814 was attested by Standish marriage reocrds. No documentary evidence has placed her as daughter of William, but there was no other Standish family named Merrow at that time. She married Watson Dyer in Standish 13 Jan. 1814. He was of Limington, Me., born at Cape Elizabeth, Me., 6 June 1786, son of Isaac and Mary (Watson) Dyer. Abigail was probably a sister of the Olive Merrow who had married Watson Dyer's brother, White Dyer. Watson and Abigail Dyer lived in Limington where he was a farmer. Their farm was about a half mile from Steep Falls village. Lora Altine Woodbury Underhill in her "Descendents of Edward Small and Allied Families" said "Watson Dyer, a fine old-fashioned man, was the family historian. In his methodical way he treasured the family traditions to which many others turned a deaf ear." He died in Limington 22 Apr. 1879, age 92y 10mo 16da. She died there 27 June 1882, age 90y 9mo 7da. Both were buried on their farm in Limington.

640. OLIVE[5] (MERROW) DYER, 1794-1874, (William[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Hollis or Standish, Me., in 1794. Married White Dyer in Standish 6 Feb. 1812. He was then of Limington, Me., born at Cape Elizabeth, Me., in Oct. 1788, son of Isaac and Mary (Watson) Dyer. He was a grandson of the Isaac Dyer who had served four years in the Revolution and who had moved to Limington from Cape Elizabeth before 1790. The junior Isaac was a founder of Limington and a large landowner there. White Dyer was a brother of the Watson Dyer who had married Olive Merrow's probable sister Abigail. White and Olive Dyer lived first in Limington, moving from there to Baldwin. He was a farmer and their farm was owned in 1946 by Fred Robins. White Dyer died there in July 1873, age 85y. Olive (Merrow) Dyer died there in 1874. They were buried first on their farm and were later moved to the North Baldwin village cemetery.

vi. Gardner Dyerk, b. 1831; d. 1851.

The following may have been children of White and Olive Dyer, but is does seem as if to have been their grandchildren would have been more likely. Etta Edna (Black) Riley reported she was unable to obtain clarifying. information, but was certain they were not children of either Moses or Charles Dyer.

vii. Willie Dyer, b. 1850; d. 1851.

ix. Cora F. Dyer, b. 1862; d. 1865.

x. Orinda Dyer.

Note: There is some doubt about the accuracy of the birthdate of Olive Merrow. The date of 1794 was reported by Mrs. Riley. It would seem as if the years 1783 or 1784 would be more likely and an unconfirmed report did have 1783.

With this latter crew left U.S. for combat 1 Feb. 1944; with 15th Army Air Force, 49th Bomb Wing; 461st Bomber Group; 764th Bomber Squadron; stationed in Italy; flew 41 combat missions before being sent home, arriving in U.S. 4 Aug. 1944; awarded the European Theatre of Operations ribbon with two battle stars; Air Medal with three Oak Leaf Clusters; Presidential Citation with one Oak Leaf Cluster. Reassigned, first, to Westover Field, Mass.; then to Fort Dix, N.J., as flying instructor for ground crew training.

Of the second combat crew of ten, three were killed on a non-operational flight one week after reaching Italy. One survived the crash with a broken leg, the others went into combat with new crew members. Of this first ten, one more died in combat, two were prisoners of war, and only three came back to the States safely. Ralph Merrow missed these mishaps, twice by not being on the flights, and missed the third catastrophe by being in a replacement depot bound for home when the plane and crew were shot down during a raid. His squadron bombed four places in Yugoslavia, nine or more in Italy, two in Rumania, four in Austria, six in France and one in Germany.

In 1952 Ralph and Bertha Merrow lived in Providence, R.I., where he was a foreman dyer.

Child:
i. Ralph Leon[10], b. 15 Dec. 1941.

Chapter XXX

JOSHUA MERROW OF WEST POND PLANTATION

595. JOSHUA[5] MERROW, 1777- , (Samuel[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Rochester, N.H., in 1777. His birthplace is deduced from the 1850 census which said he was born in New Hampshire. He married Eunice James in Shapleigh, Me., 23 Oct. 1797, ceremony being by Minister Lord, probably Elder Tozier Lord. Eunice was born in Shapleigh about 14 Jan. 1776. The identification of the paternity of Joshua lacks documentary proof. It rests on the genealogical work of Rev. Alonzo Hall Quint, whose most reliable work is the foundation of much of the local history of the communities in the general vicinity of Dover, N.H. His Merrow genealogy was published in the Dover Enquirer in 1868. In this he listed a Joshua as a son of this Samuel and named other sons of Samuel whose names coincide with the names of Merrow men who settled contemporaneously with Joshua in the West Waterville area of Maine. Continued studies of the Merrow family history tended to confirm the accuracy of Rev. Quint's work.

That Joshua and his wife, Eunice, settled in West Pond Plantation in Maine between 1800 and 1810 is apparent from a study of census records. He was first reported there in 1810, age 26 to 45, and Eunice was the same age. Their children were then as follows: one son 10 to 16, two sons under 10, and two daughters under 10. Family tradition as reported by Grace Belle Graffam had it that he came from New Hampshire. More probably he came from Acton, Me., then a part of Shapleigh. Present Acton is on the New Hampshire border and confusion as to which side of the border many of the family came from has been noted many times among the descendents of those who settled farther east.

West Pond Plantation was established as the Town of Dearborn 22 Feb. 1812. Dearborn was dissolved 20 April 1841 and annexed to Waterville, being known as West Waterville. Subsequently, it became the town of Oakland. A portion of Dearborn had been annexed to Waterville in 1815. Names of the early settlers in West Pond Plantation and Dearborn are frequently the same or similar to those of the period in Acton, suggesting a migration of many families from there. An instance is that of John James, known both in Shapleigh and Dearborn.

It is highly probable that West Pond Plantation was the site of the first Merrow homestead in this part of Maine and it is also probable that Joshua Merrow was the pioneer of the family there. In the census of 1810 he was called Joshua Merry, but all subsequent census records show his name as Merrow. He is reported to have served in the War of 1812, but detail of this record has not been found. He was described as "Joshua Merry of Dearborn" in a mortgage which he gave 9 April 1821 to land in Dearborn. To this he made his mark. By 1820 they had two sons age 18 to 26, one son 16 to 18, four sons under 10, two daughters age 10 to 16, and one daughter under ten. In 1850 they were living in Canaan, Me., with son Edmund. This latter census record is also the authority for his birth place and date, the record reading 73 years, born in New Hampshire. He was a farmer. He died, probably, in Canaan, after 1850. She died there 14 Mar. 1851, age 75y 2mo, and was buried there in a marked grave. If he was buried there in this same cemetery, there is no stone to so indicate.

Children:

655. i. James[6], b. 24 April 1799.
656. ii. Abel, b. about 1800.
657. iii. John, b. Nov. 1802.

660. vi. Eunice, b. 1 June 1807.
661. vii. Edmund, b. 1810 or 1811.
662. viii. Charles, b. 1812. See chapter, "Charles Merrow of North Belgrade, Me.
ix. Rosette.
663. x. Harford, b. 1818.
xi. Heber; c. in Mexican War.
xii. Montgomery. Grace Belle Graffam had a report he married Nancy Merrow, "a distant relative".
664. xiii. Lydia.

655. JAMES[6] MERROW, 1799-1843, (Joshua[5], Samuel[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born, probably in that part of Shapleigh, Me., which is now Acton, 24 April 1799. Married Nancy Brooks in West Waterville, Me., in 1818. She was born there 17 Feb. 1799, daughter of William and Catherine (Shannon) Brooks. James and Nancy Merrow lived in Dearborn, which was later West Waterville and still later Oakland, Me. He died in Oakland 6 Feb. 1843 and was buried in Oakland probably. His widow, described in a Kennebec County deed as "Huldah An. Merrow of Kennebec Forks, widow of James Merrow" sold with others land of her late husband in Waterville, "bounded by farm of Joshua Merrow".

Children:
i. Huldah[7], b. 21 Feb. 1820; d. 23 Sept. 1880; never married; buried in Smithfield, Me., in same cemetery as her mother.
665. ii. Catherine, b. 20 March 1824.
iii. Orena, b. 1822; d. 1826; bur. in W. Waterville.
iv. Denis Harford, b. 1827; d. 1830; bur. in W. Waterville.

Widow Nancy Merrow married, 2nd, Benjamin Goodrich. She died in Oakland 22 June 1880, age 81y 4mo, and was buried at Gould Schoolhouse in Smithfield on the Norridgewock Road. Her gravestone reads "Nancy, wife of Benjamin Goodrich, formerly wife of James Merrow."

656. ABEL[6] MERROW, 1800- , (Joshua[5], Samuel[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in either Shapleigh, Me., or West Pond Plantation, Me., about 1800. A Pittsfield record placed his birth at Oakland, then West Pond Plantation, but the place of his birth and the place of his early residence may have been confused. He married, 1st, Emily McGrath, who was born 1790 to 1800. A Maine record of their son, Orrin, said she was "Emma McGrath, born Exeter". Abel and Emily Merrow lived in Dearborn, Me., which was later West Waterville and still later Oakland. He was a farmer. She died perhaps before 1840 and certainly before 1850.

Children:
666. i. Orrin Theodore[7], b. 1 Nov. 1834.
667. ii. Emma N., b. about 12 Feb. 1839.

Abel Merrow married, 2nd, Abigail Shorey, a widow, who was born Abigail Gleason. They were married by 1850, or earlier. She was born about 1796. Abel and Abigail Merrow lived in West Waterville. Family memories have failed to indicate any children of theirs. Living with them in 1850 were three younger persons named Shorey, presumably children of Abigail. They were Augustus Shorey, age 24y; Francis P. Shorey, age 18y; and Maria Shorey, age 14y. In 1840, census records showed Abel to be living in Dearborn and his family comprised one female 40 to 50, two females 10 to 15, two females under 5, one male 10 to 15, one male five to ten. This record suggests that he had married Abigail Shorey before 1840 and that the children represented the combined families of Abel and Abigail.

657. JOHN[6] MERROW, 1802-1852, (Joshua[5], Samuel[5], Samuel[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in that part of Shapleigh, Me., which is now Acton, in Nov. 1802. Married Polly Otis, probably in Fairfield, Me. She was born in Strafford, N.H., then a part of Barrington, 7 May 1805, daughter of Hezekiah and Abigail (Pearl) Otis. Her parents moved to Fairfield from Barrington about 1810. Mr. Selden Howe recalled that he had heard Polly (Otis) Merrow talk about coming to Fairfield from New Hampshire in an ox cart. Polly Otis was a sixth generation of Richard Otis who was a blacksmith in Dover, N.H., then Cocheco, in 1855. (Otis Family). When John Merrow married Polly Otis he was described as of Fairfield, so he had presumably been living there or working there, or both. John and Polly Merrow lived in the west part of Fairfield where he was a farmer. He died 7 May 1852 and was buried, first, in a family lot on Otis Hill with his sons Hezekiah, Timothy and Elwell. His body and those of the three sons were moved by his youngest son, William Riley Merrow, in 1905 to Maplewood Cemetery in Fairfield.

Children:
668. i. Otis[7], b. 1825 to 1828.
669. ii. Elwell, b. about 28 Feb. 1829.
670. iii. John, b. 23 Feb. 1832.
671. iv. Joshua, b. 3 Feb. 1835.
v. Hezekiah, b. about 18 Sept. 1837; in Co. I, 19th Maine Volunteers; killed at Petersburg, Va., 18 June 1864, age 26y 9mo; never married.
vi. Timothy, b. about 1843; served in Civil War in First N.Y. Independent Battery; wounded at Cedar Creek, Va.; d. 22 Nov. 1864 at McClellan Hospital in Philadelphia, Pa.; age 21y at enlistment.
672. vii. William Riley, b. 11 Nov. 1848.

Polly Otis Merrow married, 2nd, John Bates and they lived in Fairfield, where he died in 1875. She died there 20 Jan. 1905, age 99y 9mo 13da, and was buried in Maplewood Cemetery, Fairfield, with her first husband and sons. Her marriage to John Bates was noted in "Otis Family" and confirmed in her obituary in Boston Sunday Herald 21 Jan. 1905. Selden Howe said of her. "She was my wife's grandmother and made us many fine visits. She would have been one hundred years old May 7, but fell and broke her hip and couldn't make it." The Boston Sunday Herald said: " 'Aunt Polly' Bates died yesterday. Had she lived until next May she would have been 100. She was born in Barrington, N.H., and was the last of a family of eleven children. Her long life was all passed here, and her home was within a few miles of where her father settled. She was twice married. By her first husband, John Merrow, she had ten children. After his death she married John Bates, who died 30 years ago. Although living for 50 years within sound of the locomotive whistle, Mrs. Bates was never on a railroad train."

658. SALLY[6] (MERROW) LIBBY, -1872, (Joshua[5], Samuel[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in that part of Shapleigh, Me., now Acton; called Sarah in both "Libby Family" and "Newcomb Family". Married John Y. Libby, probably in East Pond Plantation, now Smithfield, Me. He was born in Shapleigh 25 Nov. 1802, son of Zebulon and Dorcas (Holmes) Libby. In 1829 he was probably living with his father in Palmyra, Me., the latter having just moved there from Smithfield. John Y. Libby was a sixth generation descendent of fisherman John Libby who came from England, perhaps as early as 1635, and settled in what is now Scarborough, Me. John Y. and Sally Libby lived in Pittsfield, Me. She died 6 Oct. 1872 and he died in Pittsfield 8 June 1881.

Children:
i. Jane Libby, b. in West Waterville, Me.; d. 21 Nov. 1839.
ii. Lovina Libby; d. at age 16y.
iii. Eveline Libby; m. Lebbeus Burse of Pittsfield.

Children:
I. Augustine B. Libby, b. 5 Dec. 1855 in Pittsfield; m. Carrie Eva Gerrish in Milford, Me., 7 Dec. 1879. She was b. 24 July 1856 and d. 10 July 1889; lived in Milford, Me.; two daughters.

He himself added the middle name Willard. About his birthplace he seems to have given widely different information during his life-time, but the best evidence seems to place his birth in a house in Monson, or Abbot, Maine, near a cross roads marked by moose horns. On his first marriage record his birthplace was given as Williamsport, Pa., an insurance application said Norridgewock, Me., while a later marriage record showed him as "of Guilford, Me." He married, first, Nellie M. Whitney in Manchester, N.H., 20 March 1884. She was born about 1857, daughter of Isaac and Mary A. Whitney. They were reported to have lived in Holyoke, Mass. His sister was married there in 1889. Divorce records later said they had lived in Lynn and Lowell, Mass., and that he was living in Connecticutt in 1890. His second wife said they had lived in Bridgeport, Conn. Search of the directories of Holyoke, Bridgeport, and New Haven, Conn., from 1883 to 1890 failed to produce record of him, however. They had no children and were divorced 7 Oct. 1890. Nellie M. Merrow lived in Lynn and did not remarry. A Nellie M. Merrow died there 24 Feb. 1925, being described in the death record as widow of George Merrow. She was born in Standish, Me., daughter of parents unknown to this record, and was buried in Lynn where she had lived for the previous twenty-five years. She had been living up to the time of her death at 8 South Street in Lynn, which address was identified by Mrs. Almeda Merrow as the known address of the first wife of Dr. George.

Dr. Merrow's son, Harold John Merrow, believed his father had been practising medicine in the East before going to Cincinnati where he studied at the Eclectic Medical College. Mrs. Almeda Merrow, his second wife, said, "I was a very demure girl and, if I must say it, a very pretty girl. I guess that is why Dr. Merrow married me. I met him in Louisville, Ky. I was studying to be a nurse. Dr. and I attended Eclectic Medical College after our marriage and he took a course and graduated, but from where he had previously graduated I do not know..." His second marriage was to Almeda Marguerite Righthouse in Dayton, O., 20 Sept. 1893. She was born in Madison, Ind., 18 Dec. 1867, daughter of Jacob and Mary Jane (Cole) Righthouse. Dr. and Mrs. Merrow lived, first, in Rutland, Vt. Of Dr. Merrow, his second wife wrote in 1942, "He was six feet one inch tall and weighed 265 pounds; very good looking; very charming and a good dresser. His hobbies were fishing, hunting, and he had race horses (gentlemen's racers), pacers, and trotters. He had five horses, a pony and pony cart, and eleven dogs at one time. He was a sporting man, but not a gambler. In his practise he had a certain amount of magnetism. It seems a patient would soon respond to his treatment and touch. As you will notice in his picture he had soft and beautiful hands. He was a very impetuous man." They were divorced in Burlington and she returned to Cincinnati where she lived until about 1947. Then she and her younger son moved to Los Angeles, Calif., and in 1948 they were living in Pasadena, Calif.

Dr. John Merrow married, 3rd, Grace Margaret Richards in Manchester, N.H., 29 Feb. 1908. She had been his stenographer. She was born in Underhill, Vt., and was age 26 years when married. His excellent practice in Burlington began to diminish and they moved to North Bennington, Vt., where he had a sanitarium for three or more years. Last they moved to Utica, N.Y., where he died 16 Sept. 1916. He was buried there. No children by this marriage.

Up to early 1942 he was engaged in business in Cincinnati under the name of Merrow Radio and Electric Service, but was forced to abandon this because of an accident. He wrote, "My brother and I were fishing at Indian Lake, Ohio, sitting close together in our motor boat. In casting a June Bug spinner, the lead on the shank of the hook struck me. I was confined to a dark room the best part of three months and the center of the retina of the eye was destroyed. I will never regain perfect eyesight. My brother worked with me in my business when it was possible for him to do so. Due to my eye injury and to war priorities I closed my business--to be resumed when the war is over. ...Years ago I made three trips to California and then to Florida where I met my wife. My hobby, and that of my brother, is hunting and fishing. Between us we have many fine guns and much fishing tackle. I have never lived away from my mother who is a wonderful mother to us."

Mass. birth records reveal no children born. Dr. Bramley developed tuberculosis and the family moved to Colorado for his health. Chapter XXXI

SAMUEL MERROW OF DEARBORN AND MARIETTA

596. SAMUEL[5] MERROW, -1844, (Samuel[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Rochester, N.H., or in that part of Shapleigh, Me., now Acton, between 1780 and 1790. Documentary proof of his paternity has not been found. His identity is placed by circumstantial evidence, which is sufficiently indicative to warrant the belief his connection with his forebears has been correctly placed. This evidence rests on the Merrow genealogical work done by Rev. Alonzo Hall Quint and published in the Dover, N.H., Enquirer in 1868. In that work the family line had been traced through Samuel[4] with a list of the children of the latter. These children were name Edward (probably Edmund), Joshua, Stephen, Samuel, and Joseph. Census of 1790 placed a Samuel Merrow in Shapleigh with a family of four males under sixteen and five females. This closely resembles the family of Samuel[4].

An Edmund Merrow married in Shapleigh in 1789 and Joshua married there in 1797. Family tradition of this branch, recalled by Abbie Elvena (Merrow) Perry, had it that Samuel[5] and his wife came from New Hampshire. Beulah Evelyn (Merrow) Richardson said Samuel[5] came from Lebanon, N.H., meaning probably Lebanon, Me. Both Acton and Lebanon are adjacent towns on opposite sides of the N.H.-Maine border and both are near, or adjacent to, Rochester. There was considerable migration of members of the Merrow family across this border at this point from New Hampshire into Maine in the late 1700's.

Joshua Merrow, a brother of Samuel[5], settled in West Pond Plantation, Me., before 1800. West Pond Plantation, later West Waterville, and now Oakland, became Dearborn in 1812. In 1820 Samuel[5] was identifiable in Dearborn census records. The fact that he married in 1801 indicates he had migrated there by the turn of the century. Contemporaneously an Edmund Merrow lived in nearby Skowhegan, Me.

Samuel Merrow married Elizabeth Ellis in Sidney, Me., 18 June 1801, ceremony being performed by Rev. Asa Wilbur. Maine D.A.R. Historical and Genealogical Data, Vol. II, which reported this record, gave her last name as Ellice and said both were from Winslow, Me. Winslow is across the Kennebec River from Waterville and Sidney is a little south of Waterville. He was called Samuel Merry in this record. Elizabeth Ellis was born, probably in New Hampshire, in 1781. They were living in Dearborn in 1815 as appears from the following military record: "Samuel Merry, Corporal" served in Capt. W. Pullen's Company, Lt. Col. Sherwin's Regiment, from 14 Sept. 1815 to 25 Sept. 1815 having "been raised at Waterville for service at Augusta". They lived on a farm in Dearborn and Samuel was undoubtedly a farmer. The census of 1820 placed them there with two sons age ten to sixteen, two sons under ten, one daughter sixteen to twenty six, one daughter ten to sixteen and two daughters under ten. They were still there in 1830 when the census taker came. At this time Samuel and Betsy, as their descendents and the census takers called her, were between forty and fifty years old. In their family were two sons twenty to thirty, one son fifteen to twenty, one son ten to fifteen, one son five to ten, and one son under five.

Samuel Merrow of Dearborn sold land there to Joshua Merrow of Dearborn, his brother, 23 Aug. 1821, Samuel making his mark to this deed. His granddaughter, Abbie Elvena Perry, remembered they moved to a farm in Smithfield, formed from a part of Dearborn and a part of Mercer. It was her recollection that Samuel and Betsy and all their children, except the oldest son John, moved to Ohio in 1832.

They were reported to have followed their son McDial there, but since he was in Dearborn to give a deed in 1837 it would seem as if this migration was later, perhaps in that year of 1837. The family report was that Samuel and Betsy went to Zanesville, but the history of some of their children having been so early associated with Washington County there, it seems more likely that Marietta was the correct destination.

The only record found of their life in Ohio was an informative application for a widow's war pension, which was disallowed. On 22 April 1856, Elizabeth Merry, age 75y, made a declaration in Washington County that she was widow of Samuel Merry, that he was a private in Capt. Pullen's 1st Mass. (or Maine) Regiment, that he enlisted at Waterville 1 Sept. 1814 and was discharged at Augusta Sept. 1814. She also deposed that she married him in Waterville 17 June 1800, the ceremony performed by Asey Wilber and that there was no public or private record of this marriage. She declared that Samuel Merry died in Aurelius township 9 Jan. 1844. Witnesses were Samuel Grant and Samuel Bigford, both of Adams township.

Betsy Merrow lived after the death of Samuel with her son, Isaiah, moving with him and his family to Ross County, Ohio. There she died in 1875, probably in June, age 94y or 95y. She was buried in a cemetery in Marietta, probably with her husband Samuel.

Children:

717. i. John[6], b. 8 Feb. 1806.

ii. McDial. He was reported to be the pioneer of the family in the migration to the west. He was reported to have gone to Zanesville, O., in 1830. This is on the authority of the memory of Abbie Elvena Perry, who also said that McDial's father and others of the family followed west perhaps two years later. McDial was a cripple and taught school. Nothing further of his history has been found in the west.
McDial and William Merrow, both yeoman of Dearborn, sold 26 July 1837, 70 acres of land in Dearborn that they had acquired from Samuel Merrow to Ichabod and Peter Norton of Norridgewock. This land was on the shore of East Pond. No wives were mentioned in this Kennebec County deed. William was a brother of McDial and Samuel was their father. This deed would indicate they were both of Dearborn at that time and they had not then gone to Ohio. Both were apparently single at that time.

718. iii. Eben.

iv. William, b. about 1813; m. Elizabeth Carmichael in Aurelius Township, Washington County, O., 20 March 1845, ceremony by Rev. John S. Carp. Both were then of Aurelius and she was born in Virginia about 1827. He was then a farmer. They lived in Jefferson Township in Noble County, O., in 1860 according to census record. Leroy Merrow reported his grandfather, Isaiah Merrow, said his brother William and family started between 1880 and 1886 to return to Maine, but that he was taken sick in New York State. Abbie Elvena Perry thought he may have returned to Maine, but no record of him or of his family was found in that State.
Children:
I. Sarah[7], b. about 1846.
II. Ellwin, b. about 1847.
III. Sady (?) J., b. about 1848.
IV. Maria, b. about 1859.

719. v. Roseanna, b. about 1815.

vi. Lovina; went west with her parents. Charles Merrow said: "Lovina seemed to be the favorite of my grandfather Isaiah. She died and, consequently, much of the conversation seemed to be about her when Loren Bickford came to visit my grandfather in 1880-1886. I don't remember anything to indicate if she were married." This would seem to place Lovina's death between 1880 and 1886. Charles Merrow said his aunts spoke of Loren Bickford as "cousin". He also said that Loren Bickford had relatives named Ogen living in or near Chillicothe, O., and whom he visited regularly. "I never knew this Ogen family, but they were related to the Raypole family, too, in some way. When he visited the Ogens, Oren called on grandfather at the same time. He made regular visits around 1880-1886. He seemed in close touch with all of grandfather's relatives, meaning his brothers and sisters who were left in that part of Ohio when grandfather came over to Ross County. He mentioned Samuel and William many times. I believe Samuel was grandfather's youngest brother. William was quite an athlete in running and jumping and Samuel was not far behind him. At that time, I believe, William and Samuel had decided to return to Maine where they had originally come from. Mr. Bickford told grandfather he had heard William (I believe it was) was sick at some point in New York State. After that grandfather never heard from either William or Samuel again. He never corresponded with any of his relatives by letter." Loren Bickford was thought to live near Zanesville.

vii. Losanna; went west with her parents. Charles Merrow said, "I remember my grandfather Isaiah speaking of Losanna. I am of the opinion she was living in 1880-1886."

720viii. Samuel, b. 2 Mar. 1821.

x. Vianna; went west with her parents. Charles Merrow said, "My grandfather spoke of Vianna and I believe she was living in 1880-1886."

717. JOHN[6] MERROW, 1806-1887, (Samuel[5], Samuel[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in West Waterville, now Oakland, Me., 8 Feb. 1806. Married Abigail Ellis in Rome, Me., 2 Dec. 1833. She was born in Rochester, N.H., 25 July 1811, daughter of Jonathan and Jane (Hartford) Ellis. She had moved to West Waterville with her parents at the age of seven. John Merrow was a farmer and he and his family lived in Dearborn, now Smithfield, Me. Smithfield was formed from a part of Dearborn and a part of Mercer. It was called East Pond Plantation until it was incorporated as Smithfield in 1840. About 1850 John Merrow built the farm buildings owned and occupied in 1943 by Ernest Mosher. John Merrow died in Smithfield 20 Sept. 1887 and Abigail died there 9 Mar. 1903. Both were buried there.

Children:

i. Lorenzo[7], b. 22 Jan. 1835; never married; went to California and worked in mines; d. in Sidney, Me., 14 Nov. 1917, age 82y 9mo 22da; buried in Smithfield.

722. ii. Llewellyn, b. 16 Feb. 1837.

723. iii. John Hartwell, b. 28 Nov. 1839.

724. iv. Arvander, b. 19 July 1845.

v. Samuel Elwin, b. 17 Mar. 1847; d. 18 July 1847.

725. vi. Roscoe Laforest, b. 2 Apr. 1849.

726. vii. George Frederick, b. 5 Aug. 1852.

viii. Abbie Elvena, b. 11 Mar. 1854; m., 1st, Samuel Theodore Ellis in Springfield, (Me.?), son of Sumner Ellis. They lived in Auburn, Me., where he was a stone cutter. He d. in No. Auburn 11 Nov. 1893 and was buried in Mt. Auburn Cemetery in Auburn. She m., 2nd, David Buker Perry in Auburn 26 Jan. 1895. He was b. in Minot, Me., 20 April 1845, son of David B. and Betsy S. (Curtis) Perry. He d. in No. Auburn 14 Feb. 1928 and was buried there. No children by either marriage. She was living in Skowhegan, Me., on her 90th birthday. She was living in Gardiner, Me., when she died there in March 1949.

718. EBEN[6] MERROW, 1812- , (Samuel[5], Samuel[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Dearborn, now Smithfield, Me., about 1812. Married Louisa Folsom in Rome, Me., in 1835, ceremony being performed by Rev. John Farnham. In 1884, the town clerk of Rome deposed that his records showed them to have been married 31 Nov. 1835, obviously not quite correctly since November has but thirty days. They were then of Rome. In this record he was called Ebenezer Merrow and she was called Lois, as she was also called in the census records of 1850. She was born in New Sharon, Me., about 1803 (?), daughter of John and Sarah (Hutchins) Folsom. She was a sixth generation descendent of the John Folsom who came from Hampton, England, to Hingham, Mass., in 1638. (John[5], John[4], Peter[2], John[1]).

Eben Merrow was a farmer and lived with his wife, first, in New Sharon. His granddaughter, Julia Ann, told of her father recounting how he went to Ohio as a small boy with his father and mother. That he went to Ohio is certain, but that he went as a small boy appears incorrect. In Ohio they probably lived in or near Marietta where others of the family were located. After their return from Ohio they lived in Chesterville and New Sharon. Their ages as given here, and those of their children, is either on the authority of the 1850 census or of the pension record of their son Otis. Eben died after 1883, for he was 72 years old in a record of 20 Nov. 1883. Lois died in New Sharon 27 Aug. 1883. Both were buried in Chesterville.

Children:

i. Ann M.[7], b. 1836. In 1884 her father said in a pension application that "she was Mrs. Ann Turner and has been dead some years". He said further she had not lived in Maine for some years before that. If she had ever lived there, Julia Ann Knox and Annie May Dunning, her nieces, never saw her. Folsom Genealogy by Elizabeth Knowles Folsom, 1938, Vol. I., p231, said she married a man named Quimby. Julia Ann Knox said she never heard of her having been married twice. She also said Ann Turner had some children. Her father also deposed that "she was of Wisconsin".

727. ii. William Henry, b. 18 Mar. 1839.

iii. John, b. about 1842; served in the Civil War. His father deposed in 1884, "John is of very intemperate habits and is supposed to be dead. He has not been heard of for ten or fifteen years. He went West."

iv. Otis, b. 10 March 1844 in Rome. He enlisted first in the Civil War 7 Sept. 1861. Reenlisted 31 Dec. 1863 in Co. A., 8th Maine Volunteers; private; disch. for disability 25 Aug. 1865 either at Beaufort, S.C., or U.S. General Hospital, Fort Munroe, Va. He died of disease contracted in service at New Sharon 21 April 1866. Never married.

v. Jennie; was probably the child who Julia Ann Knox remembered being told had died on the way home from Ohio.

719. ROSEANNA[6] (MERROW) WARD, 1815- , (Samuel[5], Samuel[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Maine, (probably in Dearborn) about 1815. She was called "Aunt Sana" by her grandniece, Jennie Laurel (Merrow) Dauber. Married David Ward in Ohio. He was born there about 1815. They lived in Liberty Township in Washington County, Ohio, where he was a house carpenter. He died, perhaps at Coal Run, O., probably before 1884. She died in Mt. Olive, Munroe County, O., sometime after 1900. Both were buried in Mt. Olive Cemetery in Caldwell, O.

Children, b. in Liberty Township:

i. Isaac Ward, b. 1842; in Civil War in Cos. H & D, 77th Ohio Volunteer Infantry; m. Mary Mullen, called Polly. She was b. 1844 and d. 1896. They lived, perhaps, in Wood County, W. Va. After his wife's death he returned to Marietta where he died 1923 and was buried in Oak Grove Cemetery there. They had a large family.

ii. John Ward; m. Rebecca Ann Barnhart, a sister of Phebe (Barnhart) Merrow, who was his aunt. They lived in Marietta and had children.

iii. Isaiah Ward, b. about 1843; a blind cripple; never married; lived in Marietta.

iv. Martha Ward; m. Oron Noice and lived at Mt. Olive in Munroe County, where she died. She had children.

v. Mary Ward; m. Joseph Jordon and they lived in Arkansas. They had four sons and one daughter.

vi. William Ward, b. about 1857; lived at Fifteen, Washington County, O.; never married; killed there in a coal mine accident.

721. SAMUEL[6] MERROW, 1821-1896, (Samuel[5], Samuel[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Maine 2 March 1821. He was probably born in Dearborn, now Smithfield. His date of birth has been reconstructed from several bits of evidence. First, his gravestone gave the year 1821, which seems to fit well in the sequence of his father's children. Secondly, the month is derived from the cemetery record. In his enlistment record in the Adjutant General's Office his age was given as 23 in 1862, which would place his birth in 1828. He himself in several pension affidavits placed his birth in varying years from 1826 to 1828. H.H. Hardesty in his Presidents, Soldiers and Statesmen, Vol. II, 1892, p613, gave dates which are quite unreliable.

Samuel Merrow married Phebe Barnhart in Macksburg, Aurelius Township, Washington County, O., 15 Mar. 1849, ceremony being performed by J.H. DeLong, J.P. This marriage described him as being of Aurelius. Copy of this record was filed in the pension office. Phebe was born in Noble County, O., 15 Mar. 1832, daughter of Stephen and Ann (Rouse) Barnhart. Her gravestone indicates she was born in 1830.

Samuel Merrow was a farmer and lived before the Civil War in Sharon, Noble County, O. He enlisted 21 Oct. 1862 at Marietta, O., as a private in Co. D, 8th Ohio Cavalry, Col. Hamilton commanding. He then gave his age as 34. He took part in the battles of Knoxville, Cumberland Gap, Hickman Bridge, Strawberry Plains, Pine Mt., and in many minor engagements and skirmishes. He was injured at Camp Dennison, O., by being thrown from his horse, his shoulder being broken and his left cheek cut. In later years he said of the results of his injuries that his right leg was "badly bruised and paralyzed". In 1864 he was in the field hospital in Indiana two months from rheumatism. He was discharged 20 June 1865 in Cincinnati, O. After the Civil War he lived, so he declared, in Concord, perhaps New Concord in Muskingum County, O., until the Spring of 1866, when he was in Masterton, Munroe County. From 1872 to 1885 he lived in Dalzall and Heslop in Washington County. In 1885 he moved to Marietta, where he died 6 Aug. 1896, age 73y 5mo. Phebe was living in Marietta in 1896 and died there 4 Oct. 1909, age 77y 6mo 19da. Both were buried in Oak Grove Cemetery in Marietta.

Children:

728. i. George Washington[7], b. 21 Oct. 1850.

ii. John Hempwell, b. 13 Aug. 1852; m., 1st, Roseanna Gray about 1869, when he was 17. She left him and he m., 2nd, Hannah Eliza Groves in Liberty Township, Fifteen, O. She was b. 14 June 1855, daughter of Isaac and Nancy (Evelsizer) Groves. John and Hannah Merrow lived in Marietta where he was a brickmaker. He died there 13 Feb. 1916, age 63y. She d. there 5 April 1947. They were buried in Oak Grove Cemetery. No children.

iii. Elizabeth Anna; d. age 12y.

721. ISAIAH[6] MERROW, 1823-1895, (Samuel[5], Samuel[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Dearborn, now Smithfield, Me., in 1823. "Isaiah Merrow (was) living with his brother John in 1840" in Smithfield, according to the town record of that year, which fact is also confirmed by the census record. Thus, it seems clear that Isaiah did not migrate to Ohio with his family when they went there a few years earlier. His grandson, Charles Merrow, said of him, "Grandfather's schooling was most limited. He could write his own name and read a little. I have heard grandfather speak many times of his brother John, who I believe was a schoolteacher. Here is grandfather's own story. It appears that grandfather got into a little altercation with another youngster as in only natural for boys to do. Grandfather grabbed the youngster by the ears and shook his head considerably. His school master, as grandfather addressed him, called him up and gave him a licking across the palms of his hands with a large ruler. At noon that day grandfather rushed up to the teacher's desk, grabbed the ruler, broke it in two, rushed home and went to school no more that term. The next term his brother John was in charge and he went to school a short time. Before he came to Ohio, I believe grandfather did some trapping."

Another grandson, Leroy Merrow, said of him, "Isaiah and a brother, whose name I don't know, went to New York and then to Philadelphia, where Isaiah met and married an English orphan named Martha Ellen Temple. She was born in London, England. Her mother died there and her father brought his two daughters, Ellen and Helen, who were then age ten and twelve years old, to Philadelphia. Ellen's father died a few years later and the two girls were brought up by a Philadelphia family. The man of this house, whose name I don't recall, was a button manufacturer. I never knew what happened to my grandmother's sister Helen." This grandson's memory was proved substantially correct as to fact, although incorrect as to place, by marriage records in Marietta. In this record J.H. DeLong, J.P. married Isaiah Merrow and Eleanor Temple 7 June 1846, both being then of Aurelius township. It would seem as if this record was incorrect as to her first name and that Ellen, as her grandson said, was correct. Martha Ellen was born about 1826.

Isaiah owned, first, a farm near Marietta, O., in Washington County. According to his grandson Charles, this farm was valuable and underlaid with coal. Isaiah was induced by trickery to part with this farm in exchange for one not at all productive in Jefferson Township in Noble County, where they were living in 1860. They soon disposed of this and moved to a small farm two miles west. In 1883 they sold this and moved to Harden County, near Kenton, O., where they lived six months. Then they returned to Ross County, living four miles north of Chillicothe. Last they lived on a rented farm at Kinnikinnick in Ross County. There he died 21 Sept. 1895. Ellen had died near Chillicothe 26 Feb. 1885. Both were buried in Mt. Carmel Cemetery in Mooresville, O.

Children:

729. i. Lucinda[7], b. 1 Sept. 1847.
ii. John, b. about 1848 near Marietta; m. Melinda Raypole in Mooresville 18 June 1881. She was dau. of Walter and Elizabeth Raypole. He was a laborer and they lived in Circleville, O. He d. about 1896 and was buried in Mt. Carmel Cemetery. No children.
iii. Martha Jane, b. 23 July 1852 near Marietta; m. James Chester and they lived in Kinnikinnick where he was a farm fence builder. No children. She d. in Adelphia, O., in 1931 and was buried with her husband in Hallesville, O.

viii. Charles Clifton, b. before 1875; d. young of diptheria; bur. in the small cemetery with his sister Lovina.

722. LLEWELLYN[7] MERROW, 1837-1910, (John[6], Samuel[5], Samuel[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Dearborn, now Smithfield, Me., 16 Feb. 1837. Married Lucy Maria Fairfield in Waterville, Me., 6 Sept. 1862. She was born in Smithfield 6 Aug. 1838, daughter of Seth Burnham and Sophia (Mitchell) Fairfield. Llewellyn Merrow was a farmer and drover and lived with his wife, first, in Smithfield, then in Farmington, and last in Norridgewock, all in Maine. Chapter XXXII

STEPHEN MERROW OF DEARBORN, ME.

597. STEPHEN[5] MERROW, 1783-1846, (Samuel[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born either in Rochester, N.H., or in that part of Shapleigh, Me., which in now Acton, in 1783. Married Nancy Pollock in Shapleigh 19 Dec. 1802, she being "of Shapleigh". They lived, first, in Shapleigh as appears from several York County deeds. Stephen Merrow of Shapleigh, yeoman, bought from Levi Merrill of Shapleigh, gentleman, 18 acres in Shapleigh 7 April 1806, "and it lies in lot number six in the ninth range in said town." From Moses Corson of Shapleigh he bought 8 June 1807 four acres adjoining the above. Both these lots he sold 30 Oct. 1812 to Joseph Doere (Dore) of Shapleigh. The location of all this land was in present Acton. To the last deed Stephen and his wife signed their names, an excerpt from this deed reading, "And I, Nancy, the wife of said Stephen, for the consideration of ten cents, do hereby relinquish all my rights of dower". Nancy, however, signed her name "Anne".

Between that year and 1820 he sold in Acton and they had moved to Dearborn, Me., which place later became West Waterville and still later Oakland. That this migration took place near 1812 is probable for surely by that year and perhaps as early as 1807 his brother Joshua had moved to Dearborn. His brother Samuel also had moved there by 1812. Waterville records placed the birth of Stephen's son, Jefferson, in Waterville in 1818. The census of 1820 placed him there as did that of 1830. A judgement for debt against Stephen Merrow of Dearborn was recorded in Kennebec County deeds in 1830. The census of 1840 did not list him there.

Identity of his children is imperfectly known inasmuch as one son is identified inconclusively. According to the census records there were in his family in 1820 one female, age 26 to 45 and probably his wife; five males, probably sons, with ages as follows: one 18 to 26, one 10 to 16, one 16 to 18, and two under 10. In 1830 the makeup of his family had changed, there being then with him two females. The one whose age was 40 to 50 was probably his wife, while the other, 15 to 20, was probably not a daughter for the reason she had not been mentioned ten years earlier.

There must have been a divorce for Nancy Merrow, age 60, was living with Stephen, Jr., in Bangor, Me., in 1850. When Stephen, Jr., lived in Dearborn in 1840 there had been with him one female, age 50 to 60. However, there lived in that same year also in Dearborn another son of Stephen named Edmund, and in whose household was a female, age 60 to 70. It seems likely that it was Nancy Merrow with Stephen, Jr., and Edmund's mother-in-law, surnamed Moody, who was living with the latter. Nancy was living in Waterville in 1845 when she made her mark to a deed selling Waterville land, which deed described her as "wife or widow of Stephen".

Children:

779. i. Franklin D.[6], b. about 1802.
780. ii. Edmund, b. 1802-1804.
781. iii. Asa, b. 27 Sept. 1809.
782. iv. Stephen, b. 1813.
783. v. Jefferson, b. 1 Dec. 1818.

Stephen Merrow, Sr., was called Stephen Merry when he married Polly Davis in Kingston, N.H., 14 Jan. 1834. She was born there about 7 Dec. 1791. Polly Merry, described in a Rockingham County, N.H. deed as the wife of Stephen Merry, purchased at auction at Exeter, N.H., 19 Mar. 1834, from Benjamin

Badger, executor of the estate of Stephen Badger, land "lying in Hawke (later Danville, N.H.) and bounded viz. "Beginning at a stake and stones on the South part of Hawke and runs Southwardly by land improved by Samuel Severance, Jr.....and thence northwardly by land owned by Amos Davis...to the road."

Stephen Mery bought 25 Nov. 1834 from John Wadleigh of Kingston land equaling ten acres one hundred and five rods in Hawke "by the road leading from the house of William Nagley in Hawke to Kingston Meetinghouse." Stephen Merry bought 17 Aug. 1835 from Samuel Huse of Kingston "land situated in Kingston and is known as Tappin meadow...also a privilege to spread Hay on the high land adjoining." Stephen Merry, yeoman, bought 7 April 1835 twenty one rods from Phineas Davis of Kingston and in Kingston "on the southerly side of Hawke to Kingston Plain". He bought 27 July 1837 from the estate of Samuel Spofford "meadow land in said Kingston knwon by the name of Tappan Meadow and Bounded on the South and east by Powow river and on the North by the said Stephen Merry's and others land Containing five acres more or less." He sold 17 July 1837 to John Page of Kingston several parcels of land, one of which was "situated in said Kingston and lies west of the house where I now live." This was "on the road leading from Kingston to Danville". To Joseph Tilton of Exeter he sold Tappan Meadow land and "Polly Davis wife of Stephen Merry do hereby relinquish my right of dower."

Stephen Merry died in Kingston 12 Jan. 1846 and was buried there in the cemetery mentioned below, his gravestone reading "Stephen Merry, d. Jan. 12, 1846, age 62 yrs 4 mos". He died intestate. Widow Polly prayed the court on 16 Jan. 1846 that Isaac Webster be appointed administrator. So did Stephen's son, Jefferson Merrow. "To the Hon. Judge of Probate in and for County of Rockingham. Respectfully represents that he is the son of Stephen Merry late of Kingston deceased intestate and the only living son and child that the said Stephen Merry has in this state and he does not (know) of any more living. As the said Stephen Merry left an estate which should be Administered upon and as it is not convenient for him nor any of said Merry's children to administer upon said estate He pray that your honour would appoint Isaac Webster of said Kingston adminstrator of said estate. Kingston, Jan. 16, 1846. (Signed) Jefferson Merrow."

Polly Merry of Kingston, widow, sold 1 April 1846, to John Page of Kingston land partly in Kingston and partly in Danville. She sold 27 Nov. 1850 to Charles C. Carter of Kingston land and buildings in Kingston on the highway leading from Kingston to Hampstead "bounded...by a piece of land used as a burying ground...excepting and reserving for my use only for and during the term of my natural life the small house on said premises called the shop and the wood shed adjoining it with the land under said house and shed and also a piece of land by said buildings...with a drift way from said buildings and land to the highway." Polly Merry died 7 June 1869 in Kingston and was buried beside her husband. New Hampshire death record carried the notation "burned". Her gravestone reads "Polly Merry died June 7, 1869, age 78 yrs 6 mos."

779. FRANKLIN D.[6] MERROW, 1802-1871, (Stephen[5], Samuel[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in that part of Shapleigh, Me., now Acton, or in adjacent New Hampshire, about 1802. In both the census of 1850 and 1860 his birthplace was given as New Hampshire. In that of 1850 his age was given as 49 and in that of 1860 it was listed as 60, though it seems highly probable that his birth was in 1802. His identity as a son of Stephen is probable, but not proven. In 1850 he was living with his family in Augusta, Me., and they were there in 1860. Others of this part of the family were there in 1860 and had been there at other times. His gravestone record in Augusta is closely associated with those of other descendents of Stephen[5]. There was a Franklin Merrow, whose wife was Harriet, who had a son born in Farmington, Me., in 1829. Others of this branch lived in Farmington. Also the name of Franklin is to be found in later descendents of Stephen[5].

Franklin D. Merrow married Harriet Poole Luce, who was born in Wilton, Me., 12 Sept. 1800, daughter of Benjamin and Prudence (Pease) Luce. She was a 6th generation descendent of Henry Luce, who came from Wales to Scituate, Mass., in 1666 and settled in Martha's Vineyard at Tisbury before 1671. (Harriet[6], Benjamin[5], Beriah[4], Shubael[3], Experience[2], Henry[1]). That Franklin Merrow and Harriet Luce had married before 2 Apr. 1828 is evident from a Kennebec County deed of that date. In this deed Franklin Merrow, yeoman, sold to Ephriam Woodman of Wilton land in Wilton, this deed being signed also by his wife Harriet. They were living in Farmington in 1829. In 1860 they lived in Augusta and the census record called him a doctor. He died in Augusta 12 Oct. 1871 and was buried there in Mt. Pleasant Cemetery. She died there 10 Nov. 1871.

Children:

i. Benjamin F., b. about 1824. His identity as a son of Franklin D. is not proven, but rests solely on the fact he was living with Franklin and Harriet Merrow in Augusta in 1860 and was then age 34y. He was then a laborer. He was probably the B.F. Merrow who filed intentions 7 April 1860 to marry Sophronia C. Porter. These were filed in Augusta. No other record concerning them was found.

784. ii. James Rogers, b. 1 May 1829.

785. iii. Harriet Maria, b. 29 March 1831.

780. EDMUND[6] MERROW, 1802- , (Stephen[5], Samuel[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born, probably in that part of Shapleigh, Me., now Acton, about 1802. Married Hannah Lettice Moody in Webster, Me. She was born in 1805. Her great grandson, Clinton Freemont Merrow, said she was of Lisbon, Me., daughter of Samuel and Apphia Moody. That they were living in Winthrop, Me., in 1853 is evident from the fact that their son, Seth Gage Merrow, was born there. The census of 1840 placed them in Dearborn, Me., and both were between 30 and 40 years old. With them were one female, age 60 to 70, and three children. These children were: one male, age five to ten; one male under five; and one female, five to ten. Edmund Merrow was a farmer and bricklayer. He was called "Edmund Merrow, 2nd", when he made his mark in 1840 to a deed selling "land in Waterville which was Dearborn Plantation". Since his mother and brother Stephen also signed this deed it is probable that this land had been his father's. The census of 1850 did not locate Edmund and his family in Augusta, Farmington or Waterville.

His granddaughter, Viola Lettice (Merrow) Gay, said: "My mother used to write to Wakefield, N.H., for my father to Uncle Jefferson...I have heard them speak of Uncle Jefferson and my brother was named for him... My grandfather spoke of his cousins and was on his way to visit them when he died. They lived in Smithfield and Belgrade and he was to ride part way from Farmington." About his death she said "My father was away at work at the time. My brother Roscoe made arrangements and took grandfather to Augusta to be buried beside his wife. Father met them there. Grandfather had lived with his son, Seth Gage Merrow, wherever he lived. My grandmother was always 'not well' and I remember her that way. After she died my grandfather did not marry again. He was very good to us children and we missed him. He was strictly temperate. He did not use tobacco and was never sick to see a doctor. He had two slight shocks and then a third, in which he died." About their children, Mrs. Gay said she never heard of but one.

Hannah Lettice (Moody) Merrow died in Augusta, Me., 10 Nov. 1871, age 66y. Edmund was a laborer in 1870 and the census placed him in Augusta, age 68 years. He died in Farmington some time after his wife died and was buried with her in Mt. Pleasant Cemetery in Augusta.

Children:

786. i. Seth Gage[7], b. 18 Oct. 1833.
ii. Daughter, b. 1830-1835; prob. d. after 1840 inasmuch as Mrs. Gay never heard of her.
iii. Son, b. 1835-1840; prob. d. early after 1840 inasmuch as Mrs. Gay had no knowledge of him.
Note: Did Edmund Merrow have a son George who was born in Eustis, Me., in 1870?

781. ASA[6] MERROW, 1809-1880, (Stephen[5], Samuel[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in that part of Shapleigh, Me., now Acton, 27 Sept. 1809. His granddaughter, Lucile Merrow, reported family records which indicated his birthplace in Champlain, N.H. There being no such place in that state and the name sounding so much like Shapleigh, which is in Maine but on the New Hampshire border, it is likely the correct place of birth was Shapleigh. Especially is this true when consideration is given to the known fact his parents lived there about this time.

He married Mary C. Norton, who was born in Farmington, Me., 14 Mar. 1810, daughter of Isaac Norton. Isaac Norton was said by descendents of Mary (Norton) Merrow to have been a merchant and native of New Vineyard, Me. He was said to have moved from that place to Industry, Me., and thence to Starks, Me.

Asa Merrow was a farmer and he and his wife Mary lived in Bangor, Me., in 1850. They were living there in 1854 when he purchased land in Augusta, where they later lived. In 1869 they moved to Amboy, Ill., and in 1870 to Santiago, Minn. Lucile Merrow reported they moved to Clear Lake, Minn., in 1872. Charles Freeport Merrow said of them, "My grandparents moved to Elk River, Minn., and my grandmother had there a well-established weaving and tailoring business in 1875. She was a tailoress and cut and made men's suits. My mother helped her with the carding of fleeces of wool and spinning threads. I remember I used to go to grandmas and watch her spin and weave." Asa Merrow was also a lay preacher--Baptist. It was his custom to hold Sunday services in various schoolhouses, he doing the preaching. He died in Clear Lake, Minn., 26 June 1880 and Mary died in Santiago, Minn., 20 Mar. 1882. He was buried in Monticello, Minn., and she in River Cemetery, St. Francis, Minn.

Children:

i. Melinda A.[7], b. about 1834. She was living with Asa and Mary Merrow in Bangor in 1850 and was age 16y according to census report. When Stephen Merrow died in Augusta in 1855, Melinda's father Asa (brother of this Stephen) was administrator. Records in Kennebec County probate court revealed the signature of widow Hannah E. Merrow and also of Melinda E. Merrow. It thus appears Melinda was than age 21y and was living. However, Frank Jefferson Merrow did not list her among his brothers and sisters. Lucile Merrow and Charles Freeport Merrow, grandchildren of Asa, had never heard of Melinda.
ii. Mary A., b. about 1838; age 12y in 1850 census. No further record of her found and no descendent of Asa had ever heard of her.
iii. Mahale, b. 29 Oct. 1843; d. 29 Feb. 1849.
787. iv. Laura Ann, b. 1 Mar. 1845.
788. v. Asa J., b. 17 Oct. 1846.
789. vi. Shepherd Henry, b. 1 Aug. 1848.
vii. John, b. about 1850; mentioned in census of that year. Since no one in this branch ever heard of him, it seems likely he died young.
790viii. Frank Jefferson, b. 16 Apr. 1852.
791. ix. Eva, b. 22 Apr. 1857.

782. STEPHEN[6] MERROW, 1813-1855, (Stephen[5], Samuel[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born, probably in Dearborn, Me., in that part later Waterville and now Oakland, in 1813. By the census of 1840 it is known he was living in Dearborn and the census of 1850 placed him in Bangor, Me. His mother Nancy was living with him in 1850 and it was probably she who was the female, age 50 to 60, who was with him in 1840. In neither year was there anyone with him who could be identified as a wife. He was a painter and he was living in Bangor in 1854 when he purchased land in Augusta, Me. As a positive identification of Stephen Merrow there is the statement of Viola Lettice (Merrow) Gay, who said: "My father Seth Gage Merrow, bought a lot in Mt. Pleasant Cemetery from his Uncle Stephen's family. Uncle Stephen and his daughter were buried there."

Stephen Merrow's wife was Hannah E., whom he probably married in or before 1848. He died in Augusta 24 Sept. 1855, age 42y. Hannah was found by the census of 1860 living in Augusta in the home of Walter Mathews. With her was her daughter. Hannah died in 1894, age 69y 1mo. The census of 1860 gave her age as 33 years, which would place her birth in 1827. She was born in Maine.

Children:

i. Irene, b. about 1848; d. in Augusta Dec. 1855, age 6y; buried there.

ii. Hannah Jennie, b. about 1855. Census of 1860 called her "Hannah J." It was probably she who, as Jennie Merrow, married Clarence L. Phillips in Augusta (int.) 12 Nov. 1877. He was then of Glenburn, Me., b. perhaps there about 1857, son of Ruel and Rebecca (Libby) Phillips.

783. JEFFERSON[6] MERROW, 1818-1902, (Stephen[5], Samuel[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Dearborn, later Waterville and now Oakland, Me., about 1 Dec. 1818. Married Mary Ann Nason in Dover, N.H., 21 Sept. 1842 (int.) She was born there about 26 March 1820 on the basis of her age at death. May (Tibbetts) Jarvis in Henry Tibbetts Genealogy said Jefferson Merrow of Bangor, Me., married Mary Ann Nason of Portland, she having been born 15 April 1823, daughter of Joseph and Mehepsabah (Tibbetts) Nason. They lived in Portland, Me., where he was a painter. About 1880 or 1882, they moved to North Wakefield, N.H., and their home there was in 1944 owned by their grandson, Victor Merrow Kimball. Mary Merrow died in Wakefield 12 Aug. 1887, age 67y 4mo 16da. Jefferson Merrow died in North Wakefield 28 Dec. 1902, age 84y 28da. Both were buried in North Wakefield.

Children:

792. i. Jefferson Franklin[7], b. 5 Jan. 1843.

784. JAMES ROGERS[7] MERROW, 1829-1904, (Franklin D.[6], Stephen[5], Samuel[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Farmington, Me., 1 May 1829. Married, 1st, Susan Maria Reynolds in Augusta, Me., 16 Nov. 1848, both being then of Augusta. He married, 2nd, Eliza Ann (Cotton) Allen in Camden, Me., 23 Oct. 1852. (Eastern Times of Bath 18 Nov. 1852). She was born in Freeport, Me., 4 May 1824, daughter of Jeremiah and Saloma Cotton. James and Eliza Merrow lived, first, in Rockland, Me., where he was a baker and shopkeeper. Soon after 1865 they separated, for he was in the Boston directory as of the firm of Merrow and Seyter, liquors. By 1890 he was living in Medford, Mass., where he had a billiard hall. He died in Medford 2 Sept. 1904, age 74y 4mo 1da. Eliza Merrow lived with her older daughter in Avon, Mass., where she died 23 Dec. 1901, age 77y 7mo 19da. 788. ASA J.[7] MERROW, 1846-1920, (Asa[6], Stephen[5], Samuel[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Bangor, Me., 17 Oct. 1846. His brother, Frank Jefferson Merrow, had noted his birthdate as 29 Sept. His niece, Lucile Merrow, suggested his middle name might have been Jefferson. He enlisted as a private in Co. A, Capt. Deane's Co., 31st Maine Volunteers, 29 Feb. 1864; discharged 15 July 1865. He married, 1st, Leona Evelyn Rand in Oldtown, Me., in 1866. She was born there 8 May 1846, daughter of Joseph and Lucella (DeLano) Rand. Asa and Leona Merrow lived in Maine until 1868. There they lived in Bangor according to their son, Charles Freeport Merrow. In a pension application Asa Merrow said they lived at this time in Onvil, Me., perhaps meaning Oldtown. They moved in 1868, so said son Charles Freeport Merrow, to Elk River, Minn., moving to Wildwood, Wis., seventeen or eighteen years later. There he built and operated a hotel. He was a lumberman in Minnesota for several years and later bought a farm in Monticello, Minn. He sold this farm and moved to St. Cloud, Minn., the year of the big cyclone. According to the memory of son Joseph Henry Merrow, Asa lived in Bradford, Me., before moving West, lived for a time in Anoka, Wis., and farmed in Boardman, Wis. Otherwise his memory was quite close to that of his brother. Clues as to his places of residence may be obtained from Asa Merrow's pension application. In that he stated he lived in Onvil, Me., 1865-1868; Wildwood, Wis., 1868-1870; Osakis, Minn., 1870-1894; Boulder, Colo., from 1894. In 1889 he applied for a pension from Menomonee, Dunn County, Wis.; in 1891, from Hammond, St. Croix County, Wis.; and in 1897 from Sauk Center, Minn. Leona Evelyn (Rand) Merrow died in Boulder 6 Feb. 1903, age 56y, and was buried there.

Children:

This child, though never legally adopted, always used the name of Merrow.

789. SHEPHERD HENRY[7] MERROW, 1848-1927, (Asa[6], Stephen[5], Samuel[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Bangor, Me., 1 Aug. 1848; called Henry S. Merrow. While his army discharge said he was born in Clinton, Me., his daughter Lucile reported she had heard him say many times he was born "on a farm near Bangor". He enlisted in the army in the Civil War 15 Sept. 1864, having run away from home for the purpose at the age of sixteen. He was wounded and captured at the Battle of Hatcher's Run, Va., but was retaken by Union forces the same day. He participated in all the battles of his regiment up to the surrender of Lee and was on guard duty at the execution of Lincoln's assassin.

He moved from Maine to Amboy, Ill., early in 1868 and there he married Phoebe Marie Maine 21 May 1869. She was born in Conklin Forks, N.Y., 1 Sept. 1852, daughter of Perry Jackson and Lucy Marie (Maine) Maine. Henry and Phoebe Merrow lived in Amboy for a short time, then moved to Ashton, Ill., returning to Amboy in 1877. At that time he and his brother Frank established the Amboy Marble Works. After a few years he sold his interest to his brother and worked for the train service division of the Illinois Central R.R., which work he continued for thirty eight years until his retirement in June 1923. He died in Amboy 7 Nov. 1927. She had died there 14 Mar. 1921. Both were buried in Amboy.

Chapter XXXIII

ISAAC MERROW OF LEBANON, ME.

598. ISAAC[5] MERROW, 1787-1856, (Samuel[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born, probably in Rochester, N.H., or in that part of Shapleigh, Me., now Acton, about 1787. His identity as a son of Samuel[4] has not been proven, but seems probable. First, it seems likely he was a brother of the other Merrow men who went from Acton to East Pond and West Pond Plantations. Since these men, Joshua, Samuel, Stephen, etc., were brothers, if Isaac was a brother to them, then he must have been a son of their father, Samuel[4]. Isaac, having been born about 1787, was of the right age to have been a son of this Samuel. When he married he was of the right place to have been a son. That it was probably he who was the Isaac Merrow living in Dearborn, Me., in 1820, also indicates he had migrated at the time and place as did several sons of this Samuel. What is more likely than he migrated there because his brothers did? Leander Holmes Merrow, Isaac's grandson, remembered his father spoke of having family connections "farther east" in Maine.

Isaac Merrow married, 1st, Mary Kenney in Shapleigh, Me., 20 Aug. 1810, he being of Shapleigh and she of Lebanon, Me. She was born about 1780. Her maiden name of Mary Kenney was established by Samuel B. Shackford's "Wallingford Family". She was, perhaps, a daughter of Samuel Kenney, a conclusion which came from the known fact she was buried on the Samuel Kenney farm on the southern slope of Great Hill in Lebanon. It seems likely she was a descendent of Lebanon's pioneer settler. "The first settler in the New Township is said to have been Samuel Kenney who came from Dover, N.H. His deed is dated 28 March 1738 and he agreed to dwell in person on his lot for the full term of five years. As a matter of fact he dwelt in the town fifty-two years." (The Beginning of Lebanon by George Walter Chamberlain.)

Isaac and Mary Merrow may have lived in Acton, then Shapleigh, for Shackford reported the birth there of their daughter Abigail. That they were living in Lebanon in 1819 was established by the reported birth of their son James there at that time. Mary (Kenney) Merrow died in Lebanon . "Mary Merrow, wife of Isaac Merrow, died in Lebanon 22 Feb. 1837, age 57 years" (Lebanon death record.)

Identification of their known children was made largely from the memories of Mrs. Jennie Ridley of Alfred, Me., and Leander Holmes Merrow of Harpswell, Me., both grandchildren of Isaac. Mrs. Ridley said: "My mother, Ellen Frances, had a half-sister Sarah in Kingston, N.H., and a half-brother James in Harpswell, Me." Leander Holmes Merrow identified Charles Merrow of North Andover, Mass., as a nephew of his father James Merrow, thus aiding in the identification of Maria Merrow as a daughter of Isaac. He also remembered his father had a sister, Abby or Abigail, thus identifying Isaac's daughter Abigail. He felt sure, also, that Isaac had other children, perhaps sons, but was unable to give further clues.

Children:

832. i. Abigail[6], b. about 13 June 1810.
833. ii. Sarah, b. about 12 Aug. 1813.
iii. Maria, b. 1816; see chapter, "Abel Merrow of Acton". She married Elisha Merrow.
834. iv. James, b. 6 April 1819.

From a study of Lebanon vital records it seems probable he was married three times. Certain it is from information given by descendents that he was married twice and it is known there were half-brothers and half-sisters among his children. About his second marriage, Lebanon records said "Isaac Merrow was married to Mary (Ricker) Wentworth at Lebanon 14 Jan. 1849 by Oliver Hanson, Justice of the Peace". She was either the widow of Benjamin Wentworth, as stated in Wentworth Genealogy, or the divorced wife of Benjamin Wentworth, Jr., as stated in Maine vital records. That she had had children by her former marriage is indicated by a report from Mrs. Ridley that "brothers David and Noah Wentworth called my grandmother 'mother', and my grandmother boarded with David for awhile." That Mary Ricker was a daughter of Nathaniel Ricker is suggested by a York County deed of 25 Dec. 1855. In this Mary Merrow, wife of Isaac Merrow of Lebanon, quitted claim to Eli Janes of Lebanon to her share in the estate of the late Nathaniel Ricker of Lebanon. She made her mark to this deed.

That Isaac and Mary (Ricker) Merrow lived in Lebanon is also evident from the fact their three children were born there. Wentworth Genealogy placed their residence in East Lebanon. While this genealogy said Isaac died in 1857, no place was named. Strong circumstantial evidence is presented by a death record and gravestone in West Kingston, N.H. This stone is in the same lot as is buried his daughter Sarah. It reads "Isaac Merrow died 11 Dec. 1856, age 69years." Kingston records also gave his death on the same date and identified him as a "transient". It would appear that he died, probably, at the home of his daughter Sarah in Kingston.

v. Mary, b. about 1849; d. in Lebanon March 1850, age 6mo; buried on farm on Great Hill in Lebanon.

835. vi. Ellen Frances, b. 15 July 1849.

836. vii. Charles Henry, b. 4 May 1855.

That Isaac did not leave his family in comfortable circumstances appears from two York County Probate records. On 2 Oct. 1866, Ellen Merrow, being then over 14 years, chose Isaac Hanscom of Lebanon to be her guardian. In this appointment the court described her as daughter of "Isaac Merrow, late of Lebanon". She was also described as an heir of "Benjamin Wentworth, late of Lebanon". The Town of Acton 2 Jan. 1866 initiated guardianship proceedings for Henry Merrow, naming Richard H. Goding as guardian. This application said, in part, "Isaac Merrow, late of Acton in said County (York), deceased, left one child, to wit: Henry Merrow alias Butler and one of the heirs of Benjamin Wentworth late of Lebanon the child being a minor under the age of fourteen years ..... said Merrow being a pauper and supported by the town of Acton." This seems to have been Charles Henry Merrow, then ten years old. Evidently, the town knew nothing of sister Ellen. Why Charles was living in Acton is not apparent.

Widow Mary Merrow bought land and buildings 11 Oct. 1875 in Lebanon "by the road leading from Milton (N.H.) to Lebanon Corner" from Moses D. Brackett. She sold this the same day to her daughter, Ellen Frances (Merrow) Otis, "reserving to myself the use and occupancy of said premises during...my natural life." She died in Lebanon 9 Feb. 1877 (grave record) or 23 Feb. 1877 (private record) and was buried in Lebanon on the George R. Varney farm on South Center road. Noah Wentworth sold to Charles Henry Merrow of Lebanon "land and Buildings standing situate in said Lebanon & known as the Mary Merrow place and lying between the City Road so-called and the new road leading from Little River Falls to Emery Mills" 19 Nov. 1877.

832. ABIGAIL[6] (MERROW) WALLINGFORD, 1810-1887, (Isaac[5], Samuel[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born, perhaps in that part of Shapleigh, Me., now Acton, about 13 June 1810. Married Lewis Wallingford in Dover, N.H., 22 Jan. 1844, their marriage record describing them both as of Dover. However, in their intentions, filed in Lebanon, Me., she was described as of

Somersworth, N.H. Lewis Wallingford was born, probably in Lebanon, about 17 Nov. 1814, son of Joshua and Sally (Peavey) Wallingford. He was a 6th generation descendent of Nicholas Wallingford who came to Newbury, Mass., in 1638 at the age of nine. (Wallingford Family, a mss. by Samuel B. Shackford in New England Genealogical Society library.)

Lewis and Abigail Wallingford lived in Lebanon where he was, probably a farmer. He died there 17 Mar. 1878, age 63y 4mo. This date was a gravestone record. Bible in possession of John Everett Averill placed his death 18 Mar. 1878, age 64y 3mo 17da. Abigail died there 13 Jan. 1888, age 77y 7mo. Both were buried in the Jenness lot in Rochester, N.H.

In addition to the preceding children of Lewis and Abigail Wallingford, Shackford, on the authority of Mrs. Laura Wallingford, listed two others.
Charles Wallingford, b. about 1851.
Eleanor F. Wallingford, b. about 1852.

Lewis and Abigail Wallingford also brought up their niece, Luella Frances Wales, daughter of Tracy P. and Ellen (Wallingford) Wales of Beverly, Mass. Ellen Wallingford, sister of Lewis Wallingford, had married Tracy Wales in Lebanon 26 Sept. 1847. Luella Wales married Joseph B. Averill 24 Oct. 1871. She died in Dover, N.H., 1 Jan. 1883 and was buried there. Their children were: Frederick Benjamin Averill, b. 31 May 1872, d. 30 Jan. 1911; John Everett Averill, b. 5 April 1874. The latter lived 1943 in Portsmouth, N.H. A daughter of Frederick Benjamin Averill was Ida Frances (Averill) Pineo, who lived 1953 in Wolfeboro, N.H. (See also chapter "Joseph Merrow of Hubbardston Plantations").

833. SARAH[6] (MERROW) DAVIS, 1813-1895, (Isaac[5], Samuel[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born, probably in Lebanon, Me., about 12 Aug. 1813. Married Benjamin Davis, Jr., in Somersworth, N.H., 25 Feb. 1845. He was born about 27 Sept. 1816, son of Benjamin and Eliza Davis. He was a farmer in West Kingston, where they lived. He died there 27 April 1864 and she died there 12 Aug. 1895, age 82y. Both were buried there. "Aunt Sarah Merrow", as she was known to relatives in Kingston, must have been a haven in her family. First, her father died in Kingston, secondly, when James Elisha Merrow, her nephew, died as a young man with a family, he seems to have been connected with West Kingston although that had not been his home. Thirdly, there was a close intimacy between "Aunt Sarah" and Julia Ellen (Merrow) Winslow, her niece and a sister of James Elisha. "Aunt Sarah" deeded her home in West Kingston to Julia Ellen on condition the latter would maintain her in her declining years, which was faithfully done.

Child:
i. Augustus F. Davis, b. 30 May 1853; d. 2 Nov. 1854, age 17mo 2da; buried in West Kingston.

834. JAMES[6] MERROW, 1819-1905, (Isaac[5], Samuel[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Lebanon, Me., 6 April 1819. His son, Leander Holmes Merrow, said in 1941 that James Merrow married, first, "a woman in Illinois, but nothing is known of this marriage". This wife was thought to have died early, in childbirth. No children survived. James Merrow married, 2nd, Eliza Chamberlain in Somersworth, N.H., 18 Sept. 1845. Marriage license was issued in Berwick, Me., 17 Sept. 1845. Eliza was born, probably in Great Falls, N.H., or near there, 13 Oct. 1818.

Leander Holmes Merrow said also, "My father had two or three stepbrothers. One was located in South Andover, Mass. His name was Charles and he was the only one I knew anything about. My father told me one settled in Auburn, Me., and another farther east, but where I do not know. My father had a sister called Aunt Sarah Merrow. I remember now that my father had another sister, Abigail, but I am not sure where she came from, or if she was married...James and Eliza lived, first, in Great Falls. They moved to Portland, Me., then to Peaks Island in Portland Harbor, then to Hog Island now Diamond Island, then to Maquoit now Brunswick, Me., and last to Harpswell, Me." He was a house joiner and ship builder, his many changes of residence being because of ship-building work in the Casco Bay section of Maine. During the Civil War he worked at the Brooklyn Navy Yard and during his last few years he built boats at Harpswell. He was a tall man with fair complexion and blue eyes. He died in South Harpswell 24 April 1805 and Eliza died there 9 May 1876. Both were buried there.

835. ELLEN FRANCES[6] (MERROW) OTIS, 1849-1923, (Isaac[5], Samuel[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Lebanon, Me., 15 July 1849. The year of birth as stated above was as reported by her daughter, Jennie May (Otis) Ridley. In view of fact she had a sister born in that year, it seems possible Ellen's birth might have been a year earlier. Ellen Merrow married George Preston Otis in Rochester, N.H., 28 Feb. 1870. He was born in Barnstead, N.H., 13 June 1847, son of Horace Calorna and Mary Jane (Langly) Otis. He was a mason and they lived in Milton, N.H., then in Lebanon, and last in Newfield, N.H. Of himself he said in 1941, "I followed the sea all my life until I was sixty-six years old, going Winters and in the Fall as steward on the coast. First, it was in square-riggers and then on the larger coastal vessels. Summers, I was at home at work in the hotel. I have traveled in a great many countries in this way and, when younger, was gone on a voyage for a year and three months."

"I am tall and built very much like my father. I have a fair skin and had very dark eyes. My hair, too, was dark but now white. I am almost eighty-seven years old and as well as I could expect. I am very active and, if it weren't for the rheumatism that I have had all my life, it would be fine. I married a German girl who came to this country when she was seventeen years old. Her brother was mate on the first vessel that I went on the coast here. Through him I met her and was married. She came to South Harpswell and lived with my father during the time I was away. Her brother, Captain Robert Kreger, now passed away with the days of vessels, had the largest fleet of six-masted schooners that was ever built by Percy and Small of Bath, Me."

Chapter XXXIV

EDMUND MERROW OF SKOWHEGAN, ME.

599. EDMUND[5] MERROW, 1794-1869, (Samuel[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Maine about May 1794. That he was born in Maine and in that year was learned from the census of 1850, which gave his age as fifty six and placed his birth in that State. No documentary record of his paternity or relationship such as brother or sister has been discovered. That he was a son of Samuel[4] is highly probable, based on the likelihood he was a brother of the several other Merrow men who came from Acton, Me., about this time and settled in the same general part of Maine as did Edmund. One of these probable brothers, Joshua, had a son Edmund, who was later known as Edmund 3rd and who lived in Canaan, Me., adjacent to Skowhegan. Another probable brother was Stephen Merrow, who also had a son Edmund, later known as Edmund 2nd. This indicates all three Edmunds were living contemporaneously and were all known to each other. The assumption that Edmund was a son of Samuel[4] is based on the premise that Joshua and Stephen each named a son for their brother Edmund.

Edmund Merrow married Polly Young, who was born in Maine about 1800. She was age fifty in 1850 census. She was a daughter of Samuel and Polly Young. Edmund Merrow was a farmer and they lived in Skowhegan, where their children were born. He was taxed in Milburn, Me., in 1823. Milburn was originally a part of Canaan, being set off in 1823. It became a part of Skowhegan in 1836. Edmund died in 1863 or 1869. A family Bible in the possession of his granddaughter, Addie Lillian (Merrow) Lary, having the date undecipherable, but looking like either of these dates. He died in October, age 81y 5mo. This would place his birth in 1782 or 1789, both at variance with the census record. No record of Polly's death has been found. The dates of their children's birth were found in the above Bible.

Children:

i. Nancy E.[6], b. 28 Oct. 1823 in Milburn. When she married Warren G. Pike in Lowell, Mass., 3 Sept. 1866, the Mass., record said "2nd marriage" and her name was listed as Merrow, thus indicating she had been married previously, but had resumed her maiden name. Name of her first husband has not been discovered. They were both of Haverhill, Mass., when married and Warren Pike was born in Salisbury, Mass., about 9 Mar. 1824, son of Caleb and Clarissa Pike. This was Warren Pike's first marriage and he was a farmer. He had been wounded in the Civil War. Later, he had a grocery store in Haverhill where they lived and where he d. 9 Sept. 1888, age 64y 6mo. Chapter XXXV

ASA MERROW OF EAST POND PLANTATION

600. ASA[5] MERROW, 1803-1878, (Samuel[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in that part of Shapleigh, Me., now Acton, 9 June 1803. That he was a son of Samuel[4] has not been proven, but seems highly probable. That he was born in Acton was recalled by his great grandson, Ray Knox Merrow. All the children of Samuel[4] were born there. That he migrated from present Acton to the Waterville, Me., section in the early 1800's is likely for numerous sons of Samuel[4] did just that and he very likely followed his older brothers to new farms. Later, he moved to Farmington, Me., where two sons of Stephen Merrow lived at one time. This Stephen, suspected of being an older brother of Asa, had a son Asa. In view of the many instances in the Merrow family where children were named for uncles and aunts, it seems likely that Stephen's son Asa was named for his uncle. If this is true, then Stephen[5] and Asa[5] were brothers. No other Asa had appeared in the family at this time.

Asa Merrow married Eliza Speer in Winslow, Me., 14 May 1829. She was born 17 Sept. 1801 and at the time of this marriage he was of East Pond Plantation and she was, perhaps, of Winslow. A family Bible in the possession of their great granddaughter, Marion Ascenath (Butterfield) Fletcher, indicated they "were married and moved to East Pond Plantation". Asa bought land there 5 Dec. 1829 from Stephen Merrow, which land Stephen had bought in 1824. The deed described both as of Dearborn. East Pond Plantation is now Smithfield, Me.

Asa was a farmer. They moved to Farmington, Me., somewhere around 1835 on the evidence of the birth of their children there. He was of East Pond Plantation 6 Aug. 1836 when he bought land in Farmington. The census of 1840 placed them there. He died in East Wilton, Me., 9 Mar. 1878 and she died in Farmington 5 Oct. 1872. Both were buried in East Wilton.

Earlier in life he had a drv goods store in Chelsea, Mass. He was also a tailor. After his marriage they lived in Temple about five years and he was a painter there. They were separated, or divorced, and he moved to East Wilton, where he d. 6 Feb. 1910, age 71y 5mo 28da, and was buried there.

846. EMELINE ABIGAIL[6] (MERROW) BUTTERFIELD, 1830-1903, (Asa[5], Samuel[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in that part of Dearborn, Me., now Smithfield, 20 Nov. 1830. Married Edwin Waterman Butterfield in Farmington, Me., 20 Nov. 1850 "in the presence of Asa Merrow and Eliza Speer", according to a record made at the time by Alvira Hatch and preserved now by Edwin Eaton Lothrop. Edwin Butterfield was born in Farmington 25 April 1825, son of Zachariah and Martha (Hiscock) Butterfield. Edwin Butterfield was a shoemaker and had a little shop in East Wilton, Me., where they lived. He was also in charge of the cemetery there for many years. Chapter XXXVI

ABEL MERROW OF ACTON, ME.

605. ABEL[5] MERROW, 1780-1862, (Joseph[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Rochester, N.H., in Sept. 1780. Married Patience James in Shapleigh, Me., 21 April 1801. (int.) She was born about 1785, daughter of John and Lydia (Door) James. The name of her father was established from records of Rev. Alonzo Hall Quint. That a John James had married Lydia Door 26 March 1778 was established by Lebanon, Me., marriage record.

"Joseph Merrow of Shapleigh...yeoman...for...Fifty dollars...paid by Abel Merrow of Shapleigh...Labourer...have sold...land lying in Shapleigh...in range eight and numbered six in the first division bounded...to the land of John James...there being twenty-five acres." 21 April 1802; recorded 15 April 1813. This would seem to have been a deed from his brother, Lieut. Joseph Merrow, and not from his father Joseph, for the latter died probably in 1799. "We Molly and Phebe Merrow of Shapleigh...spinsters...(for) thirty dollars paid by Abel Merrow of Said Town...Husbandman...sell...one acre and a half of land ...being part of the lot numbered sixth in seventh range and first division in said Town." 18 Dec. 1811. To this Molly made her mark, but Phebe signed her name. They were sisters of Abel, then unmarried, but later both married. By this deed Abel had land in both the "seventh range" and "range eight". Abel was living on this land in 1813 for 28 March of that year he mortgaged it to Lord & Cushing of Berwick, Me., saying "it being the same land where I now live and deeded by Joseph Merrow."

His sister Phebe, who had meantime married Amos Merrow, was living there also 1 Aug. 1823; that is on lot numbered six in the seventh range, for an execution of judgement was made against Amos, which read "and the same on which the debtor now lives; which said tract of land...the debtor within named now owns one-half in common and undivided." Abel sold his half of the lot he had from Molly and Phebe 6 May 1825 to John Brackett of Shapleigh, "gentleman", for $30. To this deed he signed his name, but Patience made her mark. In 1838 the town records of Acton, Me., show Abel Merrow to have been assessed there for real estate valued at $350.; 7 acres of orchard; 9 acres of improved land; other land; 2 oxen; 1 horse; 1 cow.

As his years were advancing and immediately after the death of his son Charles, Abel began disposing of his land and provision for his care and for that of Patience was being made. He sold 10 Oct. 1849 three acres of land in Acton "by the road leading from Acton Corner to Little River Falls" and "by the land of Daniel F. Marsh...to Land I this day conveyed to Ambrose Kenney". The three acres above he sold to his daughter, Eliza Bean of "Biddeford County...Married Woman". The other conveyance of this date read "I Abel Merrow of Acton...husbandman...for...eight hundred dollars...paid by Ambrose Kenney of Biddeford...have sold...land and buildings...in Acton...my homestead farm...reserving the above named and discribed property to myself during my natural life... The condition is such that...Ambrose Kenney had good and lawful right to manage and carry on the within described farm in a husbandlike manner and keep one cow and maintain and clothe the within named Abel Merrow and his wife Patience Merrow during their natural life. Also pay or cause to be paid all of the said Abel Merrow's debts and demands". Two years later, Ambrose Kenney sold this farm to John Brackett of Acton, Abel Merrow being a co-signer, again with the condition that Abel might continue to live there the rest of his natural life. Ambrose Kenney was described as a joiner. His wife was named Patience and she also signed this deed. 24

May 1851. The question arises, was Patience Kenney a daughter of Abel and Patience Merrow? She might well have been named for her mother and the substance of the contract in the above named deeds was of a kind more to be expected in the close relationship between parents and daughter and son-in-law than if the relationship were farther removed or none at all. There was an Ambrose Kenney, a son of Ambrose and Polly (Dore) Kenney, who was born in Lebanon in 1825. A Patience Kenney, wife of an Ambrose Kenney, died in 1883, age 56 years.

Significant of these several deeds is the fact they conveyed land in Acton which had originally been land of Abel's father "Joseph Merrow of Hubbardston Plantations". Hubbardston Plantations became Shapleigh and Acton was set off from Shapleigh in 1830. Thus the land of the original Merrow settler in Shapleigh was in that part now Acton. While no documentary proof has been found showing the transfer of land from father Joseph to daughters Molly and Phebe, it is highly probable their title was acquired by inheritance.

Abel Merrow died 3 Feb. 1862, his age being then given as eighty four years. This would place his birth in 1778. Patience died 14 Dec. 1862, age 77y. Both were buried on their homestead farm in Acton. Buried with them was son Charles and a small child or infant whose grave was marked only by a field stone. Abel Merrow's farm was in 1941 the summer home of James Hargreaves of Hyde Park, Mass.

Children: (There is no information to guide with certainty as to the number of children they had, nor to the identification of all of them. The conclusion, based on the 1820 and 1830 census records, is that they had six sons and two daughters. However, they might well have had a third daughter, for it seems very likely that Lydia was their daughter and she was not shown as in their family in 1820).

859. i. Joseph[6], b. 20 Feb. 1806.
860. ii. Lydia, b. 14 Feb. 1808.

862. v. Elisha, b. about 1813.
vi. Orrin, b. about 1824. His Massachusetts death record gave his birthplace as Acton. There is no certainty he was son of Abel and Patience, but he was born in the right place and at the right time to have been such and the census record indicated they had a son of this age, otherwise unidentified. Orrin Merrow m. Dorcas Kenney (or Kanney) in Lebanon, Me., 15 Nov. 1845. She was b. in Lebanon 21 Aug. 1822, dau. of John Kanney. Orrin was then of Somersworth, N.H. Orrin and Dorcas Merrow lived in Lebanon and in Natick, Mass., on the evidence of deeds and vital records in Mass. "I Stephen M. Mathes...Trader...of Rochester... for...one hundred dollars...paid by Orrin Merrow of Somersworth...manufacturer...(have sold)...land situate in Lebanon...containing ...10 acres (on) the road leading from Legro's Corner...to the three Ponds." 19 June 1847, recorded 1 Sept. 1847. "I Samuel Randall of Lebanon...yeoman...for...three hundred dollars...paid by Orrin Merrow of Somersworth ...yeoman...do...quitclaim unto the said Orrin Merrow...land situate in Lebanon to wit the homestead on which John Kenney deceased formerly resided...runing northwesterly by the road leading from Legros Corner to Milton three Ponds village...containing forty acres...with the buildings thereon." 15 Aug. 1850, recorded 16 Sept. 1850. "I Orrin Merrow of Lebanon...for...five hundred dollars...paid by Samuel Kenney of Lebanon...have sold...tracts of land in Lebanon...begining (by) land occupied by Joseph Young...west to Salmon Falls River...also...a part of the Stephen Mathes lot, so called." 28 April 1858.
Orrin and Dorcas Merrow lived in Lebanon when they sold Lebanon property to Micah Hanson of Milton in 1865, but they were of Natick when they conveyed land in Lebanon to Hiram V. Wentworth and to Laura P. Young in 1870. Dorcas died in Natick 29 April 1886, age 63y 8mo 7 da. Orrin died there 28 Feb. 1895, age 71y, and was buried in Lebanon.

859. JOSEPH[6] MERROW, 1806-1883, (Abel[5], Joseph[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in that part of Shapleigh, Me., which is now Acton, 20 Feb. 1806. Identity of Joseph came from Mrs. Eben Sanborn of Acton and Mrs. Abigail Grant, also of Acton. Mrs Sanborn directed the writer to the farm "where Joseph Merrow's folks had lived". This proved to be the homestead of Abel and Patience Merrow. Mrs. Grant confirmed this, although she did not know the names of Joseph's parents.

Joseph Merrow married Ann Nason. She was born 24 Aug. 1807, daughter of John Nason. Her mother's maiden name was Hussey. Ann Nason was a sister of the Clark Nason who had married Jane Merrow, daughter of Joseph and Lucy (Davis) Merrow. (See chapter, Joseph Merrow of Hubbardston Plantations.) The Joseph Merrow who married Ann Nason was a farmer and they lived in Acton near Great East Pond. He died there 8 Feb. 1883, age 76y 11mo 18da, and was buried at Acton Corner. She died in Acton 11 Sept. 1890, age 83y 17da, and was also buried at Acton Corner.

"Ann Merrow of Acton represents that Joseph Merrow...of Acton died 8 Feb. 1883, testate." Horace Bodwell was administrator April 1883 and the estate was appraised at: Real Estate $700., goods and chattels, $375., rights and credits $100. Provisions of this will were: "I Joseph Merrow of Acton...give unto my wife Ann Merrow all my estate both real and personal for and during her natural life and after my decease I give and bequeath unto my daughter Eunice B. Hammond all my estate...except...as below." "I give unto Henryett Merrow widow of my son George G. Merrow this being in full for all I intended to of given the children of my son George if they had lived untill after my decease the sum of one dollar." Made 8 Aug. 1873. Joseph made his mark.

Sarah m., 2nd, Daniel Ivers in Boston 16 Mar. 1865. John Merrow enlisted as a private in Co. D, 12th Mass. Vol. Inf. 11 Aug. 1862, giving his age as 30y, address as Boston and his occupation as farmer. He was wounded 8 May 1864 near Spottsylvania, Va., and died of wounds at Washington, D.C., 25 May 1864.

iii. Thomas Ringe, b. about 1839; enlisted in 12th Mass. Vol. Inf. 26 June 1861, giving his address as Acton, Me., age as 22y, occupation as farmer. He was wounded 8 May 1864 at Petersburg, Va., and d. of wounds 24 June 1864. His identity as son of these parents is probable, but not proven.

iv. George G., b. 24 Oct. 1842. That he was a Civil War veteran is probable because in 1945 there was to be seen on his grave at Acton Corner a flag holder for veterans of that War. His wife was Henryett and they had children who had died before 1872. George Merrow died 12 Oct. 1870, age 28y 28da. His wife was living in 1873.

860. LYDIA[6] (MERROW) HUSSEY, 1808-1882, (Abel[5], Joseph[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Acton, then Shapleigh, Me., 14 Feb. 1808. Her identity as a daughter of Abel Merrow rests on the statement of Abigail Eunice (Hammond) Grant that she was a "sister of the Joseph Merrow who married Ann Nason". Lydia married Isaac Hussey in Shapleigh or Sanford, Me., 18 Mar. 1834. He was born in Berwick, Me., 1 June 1807, son of Batchelder and Sarah (Hanson) Hussey. He was a sixth generation descendent of Christopher Hussey who was in Charlestown, Mass., in 1630 and who was a grantee in Hampton, N.H. (Isaac[6], Batchelder[5], Stephen[4], Bachelor[3], Stephen[2], Christopher[1]). Stearns in his Genealogy of New Hampshire said this Isaac Hussey was born 12 Feb. 1772 and that he died about 1850, age 78y. This gives rise to a speculation that Isaac who married Lydia Merrow, may have been of the 7th Hussey generation and a grandson, instead of a son, of Batchelder Hussey. Isaac and Lydia Hussey lived in Sanford, later moving to Acton where he was a farmer. He died in Acton 18 May 1886, age 78y 11mo 17da. She died there 9 Aug. 1882, age 74y 5mo 25da. 861. JOHN[6] MERROW, 1811-1899, (Abel[5], Joseph[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Acton, then Shapleigh, Me., 29 Mar. 1811. Married Lydia Merrow, his first cousin. She was born in West Newfield, Me., in 1815, daughter of Lieut. Joseph and Mehitable (Dore) Merrow. See chapter "Joseph Merrow of Hubbardston Plantations". Their granddaughter, Adelyn Eugenia (Merrow) Pike was authority for their relationship to each other. His birthplace was established from Maine death record of son Horace. Thus a very strong probability places John Merrow as son of Abel, but documentary proof of such relationship is lacking.

John and Lydia lived in West Newfield in the same section as did Lydia's brothers, Charles and James Merrow, and near where she was born. They were married before 1845 for on March 12 of that year John Merrow of Newfield, yeoman, sold to James Merrow, his wife's brother, "land in Shapleigh bounded... Northerly by Little Ossipee River; West by land of William Lewis; south by Stephen C. Pillsbury and East by land formerly owned by Oliver Wilson commonly called 'Shaker Lot' containing twenty five acres. John made his mark and Lydia relinquished her dower rights. That he was living in Acton in 1840, five years earlier, is shown by a deed of 25 March 1840 in which James Merrow of Newfield...(for) Eight hundred dollars paid by John Merrow of Acton... yeoman...do sell...land in Newfield and is Lot No. Eleven in Range F... containing one hundred acres." Several times there were mentioned bounds "by lands of John Merrow" in West Newfield in a deed from James Merrow to Joseph B. Davis 23 Sept. 1850. John Merrow, a farmer, had, tradition says, the risky ability of smoking a pipe while stowing hay and never setting the hay on fire. He died in West Newfield 3 Oct. 1899, age 88y 6mo 4da. She died there in 1889. Both were buried in North Shapleigh.

Children, b. in West Newfield:

i. John Fairfield[7], b. 29 Dec. 1849; m. Hattie Susan Glidden in Limerick, Me. She was b. in Woodman, N.H., 28 Dec. 1852, dau. of John H. and Abigail (Young) Glidden. She was an 8th generation descendent of the Charles Glidden, blacksmith, who came from England to Boston about 1660 and settled in Portsmouth, N.H., and later in Exeter, N.H. John Fairfield Merrow was a farmer and they lived in West Newfield where in 1942 Fred Kakas had a summer home. John Fairfield Merrow d. in Newfield Village 16 Feb. 1925 and Hattie Merrow d. there 2 July 1925, age 72y 6mo 4da. Both were buried in No. Shapleigh. His identity as son of these parents was established by the record of his second marriage, which also placed his birth in Acton. He married, 1st, Maria Merrow in Dover, N.H., 10 June 1838. She was born in Lebanon, Me., about 1816, probable daughter of Isaac and Mary (Kenney) Merrow. Elisha and Maria lived in Milton, N.H., in the "Three Ponds" section of the town. He was a farmer. She died, probably in Milton, 4 Nov. 1860, age 44y.

Franklin and Eunice Hammond lived, first, in Acton where their eldest child was born. The fact that their next two children were born in Boston indicates they were living there until, perhaps, 1859. Their fourth child was born in Charlestown, Mass., in 1859 and they were living in that place at that time. They were in Boston again when their fifth child was born there in 1863. Sometime after this they moved to Chelsea, Mass., where all their other children were born. Franklin Hammond was a painter. Both died in Chelsea and were buried there in Woodlawn Cemetery. That he was born in Acton was established by the birth record of his son. James Merrow married Sarah Jane (Hanson) Jacobs, who was born in Saco or Hollis, Me., about 15 Jan. 1845. She had married, first, Benjamin Jacobs about 1860 and they had lived in Haverhill, Mass., where Jacobs was a shoemaker. Although his granddaughter, Lela Pearl (Merrow) Emery, on the authority of an old family record in her possession reported his birthplace as above and the date as 6 May 1807, it is more probable the year was 1806. His gravestone in Canaan would indicate that year and he had a sister who was born in 1807. Another granddaughter, Maud Bessie (MacFarland) Chadbourne, said he had a middle initial "E". He married, 1st, Cynthia Corson in Dearborn 16 Mar. 1831. She was born in West Waterville and she may have been the daughter of Isaac Corson by his first wife, Cynthia Mason, or by second wife, Nancy Tuttle. Chapter XXXVIII

CHARLES MERROW OF NORTH BELGRADE, ME.

662. CHARLES[6] MERROW, 1812- , (Joshua[5], Samuel[4], Samuel[3], Dr. Samuel[2], Henry[1]), was born in Dearborn, now Oakland, Me., in 1812. Married Abagel Avery Ellis in North Belgrade. She was born 25 July 1812, daughter of William and Abagel (Avery) Ellis. This Charles Merrow was a cousin of the John Merrow who lived in Smithfield, Me., and this John Merrow married an Abigail Ellis in Smithfield 2 Dec. 1833. Clara Jane (Bigelow) Merrow reported that the Abagel Ellis and the Abigail Ellis were second cousins. (See chapter, "Samuel Merrow of Dearborn and Marietta.")

Charles Merrow was a farmer and was said by descendents to have lived, first, in Palmyra, Me. The census of 1840 placed them in Fairfield, Me., while that of 1850 placed them in Palmyra. However, Abigail Merrow, wife of Charles Merrow and of Belgrade 19 March 1847, sold land in Belgrade where "I and my husband now live", it being land she bought of William Ellis 28 Sept. 1843. Abigail signed this deed and to it Charles made his mark. Charles Merrow of Belgrade, "innkeeper", bought in 1855 land and buildings at Chandler Mills in Belgrade. They lived in Belgrade on Horse Point. He died in North Belgrade or Palmyra 23 Nov. 18__. She died in North Belgrade 1 April 1881 and was buried near Salmon Lake not far from the farm where they lived. Her grave there is marked.

Chapter XXXIX

THOMAS MERROW OF GEORGIA

THOMAS JEFFERSON MERROW, SR., 1817-1883, was born in New Hampshire 21 Sept. 1817. That he was born in that State was established by the census records of 1860, 1870, 1880. He came to Camden County, Ga., as a young man. Tradition among his descendents is that he came from Maine in the company of other young men, perhaps twelve in all, also from Maine. Tradition is also that two of these other young men were named Kenerson and Marr, both of which are established Maine names. Tradition also has it that these young men settled in Camden County and their descendents lived there in 1952. These men from Maine were woodsmen and they came to Camden County to cut live oak, white oak and pine timber. Just west of St. Marys in Camden County they left the name "Yankee Spring" and between St. Marys and Kingsland they left the name "Yankee Camp Island." Both of these names were in use in 1952. That Thomas Jefferson Merrow settled in Camden County in the late 1840's is likely for he married there 2 March 1848 Letitia (McCathrin) (Somerall) Littlefield, the ceremony being performed by W.D. Bowen, Jr. She was twice widowed before marrying Thomas Merrow. Letitia was born in Camden County about 1818, place and date of her birth being established by census records.

Lack of information among his descendents about his relatives in Maine, or in New Hampshire, has prevented an exact connection between him and his forebears, but there is every liklihood that he was among the descendents of Henry Merrow by way of Dr. Samuel Merrow of Rochester, N.H. More exactly he would seem to have been descended from one of three of Dr. Samuel's sons, named Jonathan, Benjamin, or Samuel, Jr. But from which one of the three there is insufficient evidence to suggest a clue. The relationship of Thomas Merrow to one of these three men would be that of grandson or even of great-grandson. The only information about Thomas's family in New England that his descendents knew was that he had a sister named Esther who once visited him in Georgia. Recollection was that she was then not married.

Thomas Jefferson Merrow was a considerable land owner in Camden County and he was prosperous. He was a farmer and timber operator. At one time he had a dry goods store and also sold liquor. He was reported to have had many slaves, who stayed with him after being freed. In fact, there was a colored family named Merrow in the county in 1880, according to the census of that year. In 1952 there were no colored people of that name there. Thomas Merrow and his wife lived near Tarboro. In 1860, the census showed them living in Brown's District, the post office then being Owen's Ferry. In 1870 their post office was Satilla Mills. They lived near the Satilla River and at one time there was a place on this river called Merrow landing.

Thomas Merrow died 30 Oct. 1883 and was buried at Burnt Fort. Date of his death was learned from his tombstone, which was not on his grave but in the yard of his granddaughter, Nora Lee (Merrow) Harrell. Letitia lived then with her son and she died 7 July 1906. She was buried at Bickley Chapel in the county.

Chapter XXXX

TWO BROTHERS OF MARION, ILLINOIS

Whether or not the considerable number of people who now use the name of Merrow and who trace their ancestry to two brothers who lived in Marion, Illinois, at the time of the Civil War are also descended from Henry Merrow of Reading is a matter of speculation. No proof has been found that they are, nor on the other hand has any proof come to light that they are not. No plausible theory exists as to who might have been the father of these two brothers, though it is also true that trace of some Merrow men of the same time has been lost even though diligent effort to find their records has been made. From the proven history of these two brothers it would appear that they were known by different names at different times, or at least by different spellings of a common name. This was undoubtedly caused by poor spelling at that period. Thus it could be possible their names were changed to Merrow from something else by misspelling. In that case they would not, of course, have been descended from the Reading Merrows.

All the records of these two brothers of Marion have been included here together with all that could be learned of their descendents. The author hopes someone interested will be able to discover somewhere in the Middle West more information or record of these two men so that their background may be established. If and when such discovery takes place, the history of these descendents by inclusion herein will have been preserved to augment the full record of the Merrow family, or to establish a new line.

The older of the two brothers was:

GEORGE WASHINGTON MERROW, 1832-1863. That he was born in that year and in Illinois is on the authority of the census of 1860, which called him George W. Maroe, farmer, age 28y. He married Charlotte Louise Washburn in 1855, or earlier. Some descendents have thought they were married in Memphis, Tenn. She was born there in October 1836, daughter of Joseph and Nancy Washburn. According to family tradition she was of Indian descent and was brought up in Iron Ore. Tenn., by a sister. George and Charlotte Merrow lived in Crab Orchard, Ill., where he was a farmer. He was in the Civil War and died of measles 26 Jan. 1863, age 30y. He was buried near Nashville, Tenn. Descendents have placed his death at Bell City, Tenn.

Children:
i. John Dave, b. 25 April 1856.
ii. Joseph Wright, b. 26 April 1857.
iii. James Henry, b. 2 Oct. 1860; m. Gertie Ann Merrow and used name Monroe.
iv. George Washington, Jr., b. 10 Aug. 1862.

Charlotte Louise (Washburn) Merrow married, 2nd, Edward Tune. He was a farmer and they lived in Crab Orchard. She married, 3rd, John Benton Hicks and they had two children, Willie Hicks and Louise Hicks. The latter married J.W. Tyler and lived 1948 in Pittsburg, Ill. Charlotte Louise Hicks died in New Burnside, Johnson County, Ill., 11 June 1904 and was buried in Crab Orchard.

JOSEPH HENRY MERROW, 1840-1862, was the younger of the two brothers. That he was born in Tennessee is on the authority of the census of 1860, which called him Joseph Maroe, laborer, age 20y. He married Telitha Ann Farrow in Williamson County, Ill., 30 Mar. 1856, the county record reading "Munroe". She was born in Tennessee in 1836, both records having been established by the same census notation. They were living Crab Orchard in 1860. In the Civil War he was a private in Co. C, 110th Illinois Volunteer Infantry and he died while in service near Nashville, Tenn., 21 Dec. 1862. He was buried there. Family tradition has it that he died of measles as did his older brother about a month later. National Archives has his name spelled in service records variously as Monroe, Murrow, Merow, Munroe, and Marrow. His granddaughter, Arminta Josephine (Murrow) Shadowens, reported that Telitha Merrow in making application for a Civil War pension signed her name "Merrow". This application was returned with the information that government records were under the name "Murrow". Thereafter she went by the name of Murrow and so did the descendents of one of their sons, George Washington Murrow. Their son, Joseph Henry Leffett Merrow, used the form Merrow and so have all his descendents.

Telitha Merrow, called Lithie, lived in Marion, Ill. She died in Stonefort, Ill., 14 Feb. 1914. (National Archives record 14 Jan. 1914) and was buried in Coalbank Springs Cemetery in Marion.

Children:

i. Mary Jane, b. 12 Feb. 1857; m. William Duke . They lived in Marion. She d. about 1880 and he about 1886, their children being brought up by Telitha Merrow, maternal grandmother of the children. These children were:
   I. Edward Duke; m. Eliza Tromel and had several children.
   II. Daisy Duke; m. Otto Filking and had several children.
   III. Ida Duke.

iii. George Washington, b. 24 Aug. 1860.
iv. Joseph Henry Leffett, b. 17 Sept. 1862.

JOHN DAVE MERROW, 1856-1941, son of George Washington and Charlotte Louise (Washburn) Merrow, was born in Marion, Williamson County, Ill., 25 April 1856. Chapter XXXXI

DETROIT FAMILIES MERROW

In and near Detroit, Michigan there are two families of considerable size, who in all probability are not descended from Henry Merrow of Reading. Such a conclusion was reached after studying the considerable information supplied by descendents of these two families. Rather, the name Merrow seems to have been assumed by adapting and Anglasizing a French name of similar sound. The history of these two Detroit families has been included in this book of the Merrow family - primarily devoted to descendents of Scotchman Henry Merrow - because the number of people in these Detroit families is substantial, because the number may be expected to increase over future years, and because in time to come descendents in delving into their origins would be under a considerable handicap if this study were not preserved.

FIRST DETROIT FAMILY

The immediate ancestor of this family was John Joseph Mereaux, a house carpenter of Sandwich, Ontario, Canada. He was one of twenty-two children, the name of only one other being recalled by his descendents. That was a brother, Israel. One anecdote of this Israel may be of much value to relate. It appears, according to the memory of Hazen Alfonsus Merrow, that this Israel had six toes on one foot. John Joseph Mereaux married Angeline Burdenau, or Burdeno. He was a home-loving man, kind to his family when sober, but given to periodic out-bursts of drunkenness. At such times he was cruel and abusive to his family. According to the report of Florence Virginia (Merrow) Guilford, he died somewhere in Ontario at the age of fifty seven years as a result of a rupture incurred in taking a post out of the ground. According to Lillian Madora (Merrow) (Blow) Empey he died in Detroit, Mich., 8 April 1872. The latter also indicated he was born in Amherstburg, Ont., in 1815. Angeline Burdenau was born in Detroit in 1818. After the death of her husband she was maintained by her son, Joseph Daniel Merrow, in a little home in Delray, Mich., then a cow pasture overlooking Detroit. After a few years she married a local truck farmer and she died in a nursing home in Detroit 26 April 1883. Both were buried in Mt. Eliot Cemetery in Detroit.

A debt of appreciation for the background material of this family is owed to Florence Virginia (Merrow) Guilford and Charlotte Alma Raymo. The latter drew extensively on the "Family History of Nicholas Greusel", a manuscript genealogical compilation made by her mother, Margaret Angeline (Merrow) Raymo. Others of this Detroit family contributed additional or corroborative material.

John and Angeline Merreaux had three children. The two older sons, Alexander Clement and Joseph Daniel, ran away from home at an early age because of the abuse of their father. They never returned home. William, the youngest, died at the age of nineteen. There was a daughter in the family, but she was a half-sister to the three sons above. She was a daughter of Angeline by a former marriage. This daughter was name Emma and she went by the name of Merreaux or Mero. She married Gilbert LaPratt and had two children: (1) a son Gilbert who died in infancy and (2) a daughter Alice, who married Ed Lane and had daughters Rosa and Esther. The Lanes were divorced and Emma died a few years before 1949.

Israel Mereaux infrequently visited his nephew, Joseph Daniel Merrow, in Wayne, Mich., prior to 1905. According to the memory of Florence Guilford he stayed only for a meal or a night. He was always alone. She vaguely recalls mention of his wife, but recollects no mention of children, nor anything to indicate if he were older or younger than John Joseph Mereaux, nor where he was born, nor where he lived, nor where or when he died. Their is no evidence he used the name of Merrow.

ALEXANDER CLEMENT MERROW, 1847-1935, son of John Joseph and Angeline (Burdenau) Mereaux, was born near Sandwich, Ontario, 22 Oct. 1848. His name was originally Mereaux, but he changed this first to Mero and last to Merrow. He married, first, Mary Elizabeth Manchester in Detroit, Mich., 5 Aug. 1869. SECOND DETROIT FAMILY

Like the first Detroit family this second family does not seem to have been descended from Scotchman Henry Merrow. Its history has many similarities to that of the first family. It, too, is a family primarily Canadian French in origin and it came to Detroit by way of neighboring Ontario. Its use of the name Merrow seems to have been by way of adaptation of some name phonetically similar. The two families could well be one with the connection between the two not known to living descendents of either family. Family traditions are too meagre to indicate much.

Part of the reason for thinking the two families to be one rests on traditions mostly in the second family. It hinges around Israel Mereaux. Frederick Napoleon Merrow said, "I remember my mother speaking of this Israel. I think he was an uncle to my father." Hazel Bell (Merrow) Olson also remembered having been told of this relationship, only she seemed to think Israel may have been an uncle to her grandfather.

Rarely is there a physiological oddity to support a genealogical hypothesis. There is one in these two families that is reported here for what it may be worth as a clue. Israel Mereaux, noted in the record of the first Detroit family, was said to have had six toes on one foot. Hazen Alfonsus Merrow siad "I remember my father told of Uncle Israel that he had six toes on one foot." In the second Detroit family there is repeated occurrence of the six-toe phenomenon. Hazel Bell (Merrow) Olson reported that her grandfather, Isaac A., had six toes on one foot, that her uncle Isidore had six toes in his left foot, that her father Nelson had six toes on his right foot, and that Mable, her aunt and the sister of Isidore and Nelson, had twin sons, both of whom were born with six toes on one foot. This oddity seems to have been passed on from generation to generation, thus raising the question wasn't Isaac very close in relationship to these second family members and probably a close ancestor?"

The proven history of this family begins with:

ISAAC MERROW, who was said to have been born in Montreal, P.Q. and who married Angeline Demrau. She was said to have been born in Montreal. He died in Hope, Mich., and she died in Bay City, Mich., about 1889.

Chapter XXXXII

VERMONT FAMILY MERROW

The presumption is that Alexander Merrow, who was the ancestor of this group, was not a descendent of Scotchman Henry Merrow. Family tradition is that he was from Canada, probably meaning the Province of Quebec. Tradition is weak on just where in Canada he came from, the only clue being the very hazy, and perhaps not correct, recollection of a great-granddaughter who recalled the name Pont-au-Traume.

Tradition further has it that his name was not Merrow originally, but may have been Merreault or Merreaux and that it was Anglisized to Merrow in usage in the States. Tradition is also authority for the statement he married in the States and lived there, but deserted his family and returned to Canada. In his later years he lived at one time in Troy, N.Y., with his son Alexander. This was after his wife died. A great-grandson hazily recalls he heard his own grandfather speak of a grandfather Maxim. If this is correct, then the father of the first Alexander, above, was named Maxim.

This Alexander Merrow, Sr., married Sarah Hewitt, who was born in Rochester, N.Y. He died in Mt. Tabor, Vt., in 1910 and was buried there. She died, perhaps in Canada, very much before that year.

Chapter XXXXIII

UNPLACED PERSONS

IN MASSACHUSETTS

DAVID MERROW was listed by Lilley Eaton in his History of Reading among the residents of the North or Third Parish of Reading in the period 1687 to 1689 (p. 137). North Parish is now the town of North Reading. There was no further mention of David Merrow in that history. A careful search of the original records revealed no further trace of him nor anything to prove he ever existed. He was not mentioned in Minutes of Town Meetings, vital records, First Church records, or in any tax record. Likewise, no trace of him was found in the county records of Middlesex County (probate, deeds, Court of Common Pleas), or of Suffolk County.

MARY MERROW married John Peppon in Boston 10 Dec. 1724, ceremony having been performed by Rev. Sam Waldron, Presbyterean.

DANIEL MERROW married Eloner (Eleanor?) Turner 12 Sept. 1725, ceremony by Timo. Cutter, Presbyterean. (records of Christ Church, Boston). She was probably born in Boston and may have been daughter of William and Hannah (Jacklin) Turner or of John and Elizabeth (Tomson) Turner.

DANIEL MERROW, "labourer, of Boston", was sued by John Johnston of Boston, butcher, for a bill of goods amounting to £30, 12 June 1733 (Suffolk Court of Assistants).

ELIZABETH MERROW married Ebenezer Welch in Boston 24 March 1730. An Ebenezer Welch was b. there 27 Jan. 1704, son of John and Eliza Welch. Elizabeth may have died early for when a child was born in 1733 to Ebenezer Welch his wife was named Susanna. (Report of Boston Records Commissioners, Vols. 28 and 30.)

ANN MERROW married George Black 28 Dec. 1730. (Report of Boston Records Commissioners, Vols. 28 and 30.)

JANE MARROW was married to John Daws in Boston 26 April 1739 by Rev. Samuel Checkley. Intentions read Dawes and Murrow. (Report of Boston Records Commissioners, Vols. 28 and 30). Purely as a matter of speculation, could she have been the Jane who was a daughter of Henry Merrow of Reading and whose history has not been learned? If so, this would have been a late marriage for her.

MARTHA MERROW was married to John Fitzgerald in Boston 23 March 1731 by Mr. Sam Checkley, Presbyterean. Marriage record read Fitchgerel. Their daughter, Martha Fitzgerald, b. in Boston 16 Nov. 1732. Birth record read FitzGerrald. (Report of Boston Records Commissioners, Vols. 28 and 30). John Fitzgerald was perhaps the man of that name, nailer, who was from Cork, Ireland, b. about 1703, who was a volunteer against the West Indies in 1740. (Colonial Wars, 1899, by Boston Records Commissioners, Vol. 24, p 207; Vol. 24, p 171.)

ELIZABETH MERROW married John Black in Boston 23 Nov. 1748. (Boston Records Commissioners.) A widow Elizabeth Black of Boston was granted administration of the estate of her husband, John Black. late of Boston, mariner, 9 April 1751. (Suffolk County Probate.) Mrs. Elizabeth Black of Boston "who lay'd very ill" 7 Jan. 1775 made a non-cupative will saying "that her wearing Apparel was to be equally divided between her three Daughters Mary Fullerton, Jane Brewer (?), and...Daughter Elizabeth Black. Her great

Bible to be given to her son Henry Black. A Confession of Faith & her Desk to her son John Black. (Suffolk County Probate.)

ANN MERROW married Andrew Nelson in Boston 25 Nov. 1762. (Report of Boston Records Commissioners, Vols. 28 & 30.) In Mass. Soldiers and Sailors of the Revolution there is a long military record of an Andrew Nelson, 1777-1780. "Residence Boston"; "Family of said Nelson reported as at Boston."

HANNAH MERROW was married to Robert Boyes 8 Sept. 1763 by Rev. Andrew Eliot. (Report of Boston Records Commissioners, Vols. 28 & 30.)

MARGARET MERROW was married to William Mansfield 21 Jan. 1809 by Rev. Charles Lowell. Intentions read Murrow. (Report of Boston Records Commissioners, Vols. 28 & 30).

MARY ANN MERROW was born about 1828 in Windsor, Me., for she was age 22y when she married William Storey in Boston 7 Aug. 1850. He was age 30y, b. in St. John, N.B., son of William Storey. (Mass. marriage record.) Boston directories at the time did not list them. To William and Ann Storey of Boston a son was born there 25 Aug. 1850. William was a glass blower and, according to Mass. birth records of this son, William was born in Maine and Ann in Nova Scotia. There is no certainty that all these records pertain to the same people.

LOVINA MERROW was born about 1827 in Maine, daughter of James Merrow. She m. Joseph Allen in Boston 7 Jan. 1852. He was born in Maine about 1821, son of Joel Allen. (Mass. marriage record.) She may have been a daughter of James[6] Merrow, who lived in Lebanon, Me., and Eaton, N.H. This James Merrow did have a daughter of this name whose history has not been discovered. See chapter "John Merrow of Eaton". Directories of Boston about 1852 revealed there were several men named Joseph Allen there then. No way has been found to distinguish which one married Lovina. While the family Bible of this James Merrow revealed that daughter Lovina died in 1886, there was no Mass. death record of a Lovina Allen in that year. Of course, she may not have continued to live in Massachusetts.

WILLIAM J. MERROW was born in Maine about 1828, for he was age 22y and single when he died in Charlestown 30 Aug. 1850. (Mass. death record.)

JEREMIAH MERROW was a laborer in Boston in 1860, living at 17 Fleet St. He was not listed in directories in 1859 or 1861, but only in 1860. Since Jeremiah is not a Merrow family name and since there were numerous instances of people of other names having been called Merrow in directories and eastern Massachusetts vital records about this time, it well may be that his name was not Merrow.

WILLIAM MERROW. William Merrow, who was born in Boston, was a laborer ELLEN MERROW. there in 1860. His wife was Ellen, who was born in CHARLES MERROW. Ireland. They lived on Third Street and their son Charles was born in that year. (Mass. birth record.)

MRS. CATHERINE MERROW was a widow who lived at Corner of Pearl and Medford Sts., Charlestown, when she died 8 March 1868. She was born in Ireland in 1813, daughter of John and Mary (?). (Mass. death record.)

FLORA MERROW, a dress maker, was listed in Boston directories as Miss Flora Merrow. She lived in 1874 at 867 Washington St. and the following year at 79 Shawmut Avenue.

JESSIE L. MERROW. Jessie was born in 1882 in Winthrop, daughter
JOHN E. MERROW. of John E. and Helen M. (Swift) Merrow. Jessie HELEN M. (SWIFT) MERROW. married Samuel Stewart in Boston 17 Sept. 1918.

He was then age 29y, b. in Scotland, son of Daniel and Jane (Walker) Stewart. He was then a machinist and lived in Boston. She was of Boston, age 36y, a chocolate worker. (Mass. marriage record.) Directories of Boston about 1918 and of Winthrop, Mass., about 1882 failed to reveal any information at all about any of these people.

ELIZABETH L. (EMERY) MERROW died in Boston 18 Jan. 1899, age 60y; married. She was born in Salem and had lived, died, and was buried in Boston. No record of her birth was found in Salem and no mention of her was made in Emery Family by Rufus Emery in 1890. (Mass. death record.)

WILLIAM A. MERROW. ELIZABETH (GRAVES) MERROW. She died at 421 Saratoga St., East Boston, 17 June 1902, of carbolic acid poisoning, following months of melancholia. She was age 48y (?), b. in Annapolis, N.S., daughter of Robert and Harriet (Bishop) Graves. She was the wife of William A. Merrow. (Mass. death record.) They were listed in the Boston directory as living in 1901/2 at the above address, but were not in Boston a year earlier. Nor was he there a year later.

CHARLES A. MERROW. FRED T. MERROW. Both these men lived on Pleasant St., Everett in 1895/7. Charles was a carpenter and Fred a box maker. Neither lived in Everett in 1906 and neither figured in Everett vital records at any time. (Everett directories.)

THOMAS J. MERROW of Lynn was acquitted by a jury in Essex County in 1837 of the charge of keeping his shop open on Sunday. (Essex County court record.)

LLEWELLYN MERROW of Lynn was in court as a plaintiff to a suit in 1877. He had a stable there in 1876 and was not listed there before or after that year. (Essex County court record.)

ELIZABETH MERROW filed intentions in Marblehead 18 Feb. 1769 to marry William Dixey. (Marblehead marriage records.)

WILLIAM MERROW of Salem was in the army from 25 June to 5 Aug. 1814 in regiment of Lt. Col. J. White at Salem.

JAMES MERROW was of Rockport in May 1845; stonecutter. He was defendent in a suit and defaulted. Judgement had been previously rendered against him in the same case at Alfred, Me. (Essex County court record.)

JOHN MARROW was "late of Haverhill" 19 Nov. 1733 when administrator of his estate was appointed. (Essex County probate record.)

ALBERT E. MERROW. EMMA MERROW. ALBERT E. MERROW, JR. Albert's wife was Emma and they lived in Lawrence in 1862, when their son, Albert E. Jr., was born there. (Lawrence birth record). Lawrence directories of the time did not list them.

JOHN C. MERROW was of Lawrence 7 April 1879 when he recovered damages from John Blythe of Lawrence over $200. "The defendent asaulted him and struck him with a whip and otherwise beat, bruised, and wounded the plaintiff" 26 Feb. 1878 in Lawrence. (Essex County court record.) Directories showed John Blyth living in Lawrence but no John Merrow there.

JAMES MERROW. MARY MERROW. She died in Lowell 19 Apr. 1886, age 50y, wife of James Merrow. They resided in Lowell and she was born in Ireland, daughter of Michael and Margaret. Lowell directory of 1885 listed there a physician, Dr. James Merrow, and the following year noted he had moved to Lynn, Mass. There appeared in the Lynn directory a Dr. John G. Merrow, but no James Merrow. This Dr. John is to be found in the chapter, "Joshua Merrow of West Pond Plantation". It is probable that he was the Dr. Merrow in Lowell and that the first name was incorrectly listed. Mary could not have been his wife. However, there was a James Marren in Lowell in 1885 and it may have been that Mary was correctly named Marren, not Merrow. In support of this theory there were other cases in the 1800's in Massachusetts where people named Marren were incorrectly listed in vital records as Merrow. It was possible in these other cases to prove the error.

NEW HAMPSHIRE

ELIZABETH L. (CAMPNELL) MERROW.

Joseph Merrow married Elizabeth Campnell in Wolfeboro, N.H., 27 Feb. 1842, both being then of Wakefield, N.H. (N.H. marriage record.) Joseph Merrow was born about 1823. Soldiers and Sailors of Civil War.*) In a pension claim in 1863 she said she was age 30y, thus placing her birth in 1830. In another pension affidavit in 1866 she said she was age 28y, which would place her birth in 1838. In 1863 she was of Abington, Mass. She bought from Seth Reed of Abington 7 Aug. 1862 "land...in Abington together with the stable thereon." She quitclaimed this property to John M. Silver 20 Feb. 1863. (Plymouth County deed.) On 27 Sept. 1866 she applied for an increase in pension. She applied from Haverhill, Mass., claim being as of Strafford County, N.H. In this claim she listed one child: Carrie J. Merrow, born 3 June 1863 and at that time of Exeter, N.H. Witnesses were Hiram Horn of Somersworth and Eunice Cooper of Berwick, Me. (Civil War pension W.C. 8954.)

JAMES MERROW was a signer, 2 Mar. 1746/7, of a petition to Gov. Wentworth and His Majesty's Council, Province of New Hampshire, for protection against enemies at Rochester. (Vol. 9, N.H. Town Papers.)

ALEXANDER MERROW served in the Revolution in a company from Rochester. (MacDuffie's History of Rochester.) He was probably from Rochester, serving in Capt. Sam McConnell's Co., Col. David Gilman's Regiment, from 5 Dec. 1775 to 11 Mar. 1776, - 3mo 11da. This company traveled six hundred miles and was a Rochester Company. (N.H. State Papers.)

MAINE

TILLY MERROW and Miss Dorothy Heard, both of Shapleigh, married 12 April 1818. (Maine D.A.R. records of Shapleigh, Vol. III, p 114.)

ANNA (MERROW) DOOR. Miss Anna Merrow and Stephen Door, both of Shapleigh were married 4 April 1796. "The said Anna was married in the said Stephen's own clothes." So said Joshua Brackett, Town Clerk. As to the significance of this marriage in "Stephen's own clothes" there is no certain knowledge. There was an old English custom of bridegrooms clearing themselves of any responsibility for debts of their brides by marrying them without raiment. (Maine D.A.R. records of Shapleigh, Vol. I, pps 88 and 89.)

EDMUND MERROW married Anne Copp in Shapleigh 25 April 1789, marriage record reading Marrow and the ceremony being performed by Elder Tozier Lord. (N.E. Historical & Genealogical Register.) Maine D.A.R. records of Shapleigh Vol. I, pps 30 and 50 record same marriage but gave dates as 25 April 1790. PHEBE (WILLIAMS) MERROW.
JAMES MADISON MERROW.
ELIZABETH A. MERROW.

He married Phebe Williams of Wells, Me., intentions being filed in Berwick 16 Dec. 1827. In 1844 he was a laborer and they lived in Dover, N.H., on the evidence of marriage record of daughter born in that year. In 1827 and 1831 they lived in Somersworth, N.H., on the evidence of birth records of children. Their children were: 1. James Madison Merrow, b. 21 Nov. 1827; 2. Ellen Augusta Merrow, b. 29 June 1831; 3. Elizabeth A. Merrow, who m. Moses F. Jackson of Dover, N.H., in Dover 14 Dec. 1867. He was b. in Concord, N.H., in 1842, son of Joseph L. and Cynthia Jackson. Moses and Elizabeth Jackson lived in Dover, where he was a last maker in 1871 and a saloon keeper in 1880. In 1881, he was committed to the State Mental Hospital in Concord, N.H., where he d. 10 May 1902. That his death record indicated he was "married" suggests Elizabeth was then living.

ISAAC MERROW died in Berwick, Me., 5 Feb. 1832, age 6y. (Berwick death record.)

MERRIAM MERROW married Capt. Thomas Benson and they probably lived in Biddeford as their daughter was born there. This daughter, Elizabeth Ann Benson, was born 29 Nov. 1819 and married Robert Jameson Waterhouse, who was born in Scarboro, Me., 26 Jan. 1815. EILEEN MERROW was reported by Jeannette Beulah (Merrow) Morgan to have lived in Sanford in 1942 and to have been from Hartland, Me.

POLLY MERROW died 26 Nov. 1859, age 72y, thus placing her birth in 1787. Since this was a Gorham, Me., record, it is probable she died there.

JOSEPH MERROW of Westbrook mortgaged land in Dearborn, Me., 6 Feb. 1827. He signed as Joseph Merrey and no wife was mentioned. (Kennebec County deed.)

GEORGE MERROW. was the first husband of Flora Berry, who was FLORA (BERRY) MERROW. b. in Standish, Me., 27 Feb. 1857, daughter of Albion King Paris Berry and Phoebe Ann (Pike) Berry. Flora's second husband was Gustavus Sawyer. (Waterhouse Genealogy)

CATHERINE (MERROW) RICHARDS of Falmouth, Me., married Benjamin Richards of Portland 22 Feb. 1822. (Portland marriage record.) They lived in Portland, where he was a hatter, from 1844 to 1853. (Directories.) He d. there 9 Aug. 1854, age 58y. (Portland death record.) He had been born there 12 July 1797. (Portland birth record.) It seems possible, not proven, that Benjamin C. Richards was their son. He was a joiner and his wife was name Eunice. They had five children, b. in Portland. (Portland birth records.)

PAMELIA ANN (MERROW) CUSHING married Ezekiel Cushing in Portland 13 Sept. 1849. (Portland marriage records.) Their names did not appear in Portland directories 1850-1856, nor in Portland death records up to 1873.

MARY JANE (MERROW) PHILLIPS. Mary Jane Merrow married Humphrey Phillips in Portland 17 Oct. 1837, both being then of Portland. (Portland marriage record.) He was a seaman, or mariner, according to directories, which listed him as early as 1841 in Portland and as late there as 1850. Since those of 1852 and 1856 did not list him, they had perhaps moved away. They had three known children: 1. Seth Phillips, b. 28 Sept. 1839; 2. Mary Elizabeth Phillips, b. 7 Oct. 1843; 3. Albus M. Phillips, b. 6 July 1845. (Portland birth records.)

PHEBE D. (JILLSON) MERROW. According to Otisfield marriage records Phebe Merrow married Jasper Hazen Thurston there 4 Oct. 1840. She was born Phebe Jillson in Randolph, Me., 7 June 1806, daughter of Stephen and Phebe (Borden) Jillson. According to the Genealogy of Gilson and Jillson Families by David Jillson, 1876, p 44, she had married Jonathan Morrow in Raymond in 1829. In view of the spelling her name when she married second it seems possible that an error may have been made when preparing that genealogy. The Jillson family lived in Otisfield and Poland. Phebe and Jasper Thurston were living in Poland in 1850 and the census record carried a notation against his name "deaf and dumb".

WILLARD W. MERROW married Margaret Pitts in Otisfield 26 Mar. 1850. She was born about 1831. (Maine marriage record.) He died there 28 March 1852. age 24y. (Maine death record.) She married, 2nd, Lyman Johnson of Albany 25 Sept. 1855, she being then of Otisfield. (Maine marriage record.)

JANE MERROW. About her Clara Newhall Fogg wrote in 1943 in the Lewiston Journal: "About a century ago Jane Merrow and her coffee-cured pigs of Cathance Landing first attracted attention. Almost all country people kept pigs then, but never a soul beside Jane Merrow thought of a part coffee diet for them. Jane took boarders and after three square meals a day often had a lot of left over coffee. What more natural than to feed it to her hungry pigs who relished this appetizing drink."

"When pig-killing time came around, Jane Merrow's porkers were the best flavored of them all. Her coffee-cured hams, fragrant with the rich flavor of genuine Mocha, were so much in demand that she barely had enough for her own use. Her recipe for coffee cured pigs has been handed down from one generation to another."

Clara Newhall Fogg wrote the writer of this history 6 Dec. 1943: "Long before the railroad came to this section of Maine, Jane Merrow, I understand, lived in a square white house with land leading down to the river. It was near the water she kept her pigs. Tradition gives us the story of her coffee cured hams. That was long ago and I borrowed the idea with pigs that my father raised and was quite successful. The coffee flavor seemed to increase their value."

"From the little that a former schoolmate of Jane Merrow, now in her 97th year, told me I should say Jane was a spinster and that she was born there when the village was known as Cathance Landing, after the river of that name. The old house finally became a mill boarding house and, when deserted, was a refuge for tramps for some years. Finally, the town fathers ordered the building taken down as they feared some of the stragglers might set the place on fire and so burn other property."
